BANK CASE TO HIGH COURT

Appeal Slated On Dismissal

by Betty Forrester
Staff Writer

The First Arlington National Bank will take its $2 million law suit against Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Plans to appeal the case were announced this week after the Circuit Court upheld the savings and loan association by dismissing the case last Friday.

Douglas Dodds, executive vice president of the bank, said Tuesday, "We think that maybe, in dismissing the case, the Circuit Court would rather have the Illinois Supreme Court rule on this."

Last Friday's dismissal was issued by Judge Albert Hallet, who ruled that the suit did not state "a cause of action" or breach of the law.

THE SUIT was filed March 30, 1965, following a long legal fight between the village and the bank to obtain a portion of Davis Street between Evergreen and Dunton Avenues which the village had promised to vacate.

In suing, the bank officials had said, "The savings and loan association may have the right to object to a feature of our building, either existing or projected, but they have no right to influence the trustees in the completing the village's part of our contract of May 8, 1963."

The contract of which bank officials spoke at that time was the subject of the suit which was decided by the Illinois Supreme Court last November. In this earlier suit, the First Arlington National Bank had sued the village to force it to comply with the May agreement for vacation of Davis Street. The Illinois Supreme Court ruled in favor of the bank.

AT THE NUCLEUS of the two cases was the fact that the final ordinance issued by the village for the vacation of Davis Street in November imposed restrictions not included in the May agreement. Most notable of these restrictions was a nine-foot height limit over the vacated street to house four drive-in windows. The bank officials said they felt the savings and loan had been instrumental in the imposition of these further restrictions.

The bank-village-savings and loan triangle is further complicated by a third case which was started last September. This case, still pending, is a suit by the association against the village and the bank. The association is attempting to nullify the original May 8, 1963, agreement between the village and the bank.

When asked about the implications of Friday's dismissal of the third suit, Dodds said that it had no bearing.

"THIS IS A piece of foolishness," he said, "The Supreme Court of Illinois ordered the village to vacate the street, and that is the highest law in the state of Illinois. We intend to apply for a building permit Monday."

James Mitchell of the law firm Jurco, Damisch and Sinson, savings and loan counsel, said Monday, "It remains to be seen whether Friday's decision will affect the other case."

Mitchell indicated at that time that the association's case against the bank would remain essentially the same.

Name Change Official

"First Arlington National Bank" is now officially the name of the old Arlington Heights National Bank, 14 E. Campbell St.

After all the paper work and formalities had been taken care of, Douglas Dodds, executive vice president of the bank, commented upon the bank's reasons for changing names.

He said there were two major reasons for the change.

FIRST HE noted that the bank had been receiving anywhere from several to several dozen pieces of mail intended for other financial institutions in the village.

And he added, as far as a number of people were concerned, the Arlington Heights National Bank and the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association across the street from it were one. The new name, he said, would clear up some of the confusion.

For the second reason Dodds cited the bank's founding: "We are the 'first,' and we want that in our name," he said.

Fantastic Results

"Had fantastic results, wish I had two houses of furniture." Thus spoke Mrs. Robert Helfers of Palatine.

'Can't Compete,' Bo-Gi May Give Up

Bo-Gi, a recreation center for Arlington Heights youths, may not reopen next fall unless more support can be drummed up among local teen-agers.

Members of the board of directors this week cited competition from the Cellar, a local teen night spot, as the principal reason for declining support.

William Appleby, park district representative on the board, said "Bo-Gi started to take a general slump since the Cellar opened." The Cellar opened last year.

APPLEBY SAID the center, located at Recreation Park, ran into several problems with the park district, but he did not elaborate.

Appleby indicated the park district was withdrawing its participation from Bo-Gi.

"If anything is going to be done next year, it will be run by the park district," Appleby emphasized.

THOUGH THE center may have folded as far as the park district is concerned, other board members have not yet finished.

Board member Mrs. Norma Johnson said she is hopeful the youth center can reopen in the fall, but expressed no optimism.

Guidelines Set Up, Cellar Back in Swing

The doors of the Cellar reopened last night to Arlington Heights area teenagers who had waited eagerly for more than three weeks while Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson weighed a decision on whether to issue the dance spot an operating license.

Hanson gave Cellar owner Paul Sampson the go-ahead last Friday. Hanson's decision came in the form of a letter in which a set of guidelines for operating the Cellar were spelled out.

IN ADDITION to initiation of a membership system which Sampson had proposed to the youth council a few weeks ago, Hanson said the lighting must

District 25 to Ask 33.5-Cent Tax Boost

Plans to ask for a 33.5-cent tax hike were approved Monday by Elementary District 25 School Board to head off a serious "retrenchment" program.

Approval of the referendum, scheduled for Sept. 24, would increase the educational tax rate by 21 cents and the building tax rate by 12.5 cents for every $100 assessed valuation.

Present tax rates are $1.46 for the educational fund and 25 cents for the building fund.

The tax hike would add a total of about $425,000 to the district's budget when the money became available for the 1967-68 school year. The tax increase would raise this year's tentative $4,217,922 educational fund by about $270,000 and the $471,000 building fund by about $155,000.

SUPT. RALPH E. Clabaugh said, "There are facts revealed in the current financial reports and the tentative budget for 1966-67 which point up the precarious financial condition of the district and the pressing need for a higher tax rate."

He said that unless there is a tax rate increase, a very substantial "retrenchment program" with its undesirable consequences will be forced upon the district.

He pointed out that the amount of tax anticipation warrants issued has been steadily increasing in the past three years. The 1966-67 tentative budget shows a need to borrow $870,000 through tax anticipation warrants to pay for future expenses.

This compares to the actual anticipation in 1965-66 of $775,000. In 1964-65, the proceeds from the sale of warrants and the additional new taxes used totaled $815,672. In 1963-64 only $541,434 of new taxes was used.

ACCORDING TO Clabaugh 75 to 80 per cent of the total educational fund appropriations is being used for salaries. He said that this percentage may go up if the present tax rate is maintained and salary schedules are improved, or the experience and training level of teachers increases, or the schools are staffed more adequately.

"If a district is forced to spend well above 80 per cent of its educational budget for certificated salaries," Clabaugh said, "there is an insufficient amount of funds left for other services and equipment which make it possible to carry on

Utility Tax Opponents Speak Out

Members of the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday got their first taste of public opposition to the proposed five per cent utility tax—but without much indication of how bitter it might be.

Following a special board meeting, the trustees met with a small group of residents to discuss the proposed tax and to explain why it was being considered. Village Pres. John G. Woods made it clear that the matter was still being discussed by the board's finance committee.

VILLAGE MGR. L. A. Hanson explained that the $150,000 damage to village property in the tornado last month made it necessary to seek funds to put this year's budget back on its feet.

Trustee Carl Mees, chairman of the finance committee, agreed, saying, "It's something that has to be done. We had no way of knowing the storm was coming."

No one disagreed that the money would have to be replenished. But how to do it was another story.

"EVERYBODY I've talked to is screaming murder—they don't want to pay any more taxes," remarked John Manneci of 1311 N. Hickory. He asked why the 1966-67 budget's contingency fund didn't cover the storm damage.

Woods explained that in preparing the budget, an attempt is made to keep expenditures down. Only $25,000—far short of the needed $150,000—was set aside in a contingency fund.

Manneci said that $68 of his 1965 tax bill went to the village.

In response, Woods told Manneci the levy represented "your very best tax bargain." But Manneci and others weren't satisfied.

"WE'RE GOING to give you a bad battle," Manneci warned. He said he was starting a club to fight taxes on all levels—federal, state and local. And

Committeewoman June Hunter Dies

MRS. LEO HUNTER

New Wheeling Township Republican Committeewoman Mrs. June Hunter died early Wednesday morning in her home at 940 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights. She was 45.

Mrs. Hunter, appointed to the GOP post only last week by Committeeman Eugene F. Schlickman, was found in bed by her son, Tim, about 6 a.m., according to police. Firemen rushed to the home and administered oxygen.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital. The cause of death was not yet determined.

Her husband, Leo, was out of town at the time of her death.

A RESIDENT of Arlington Heights for the past 15 years, Mrs. Hunter, was an active participant in Republican affairs. She was the first known woman precinct captain in Wheeling Township. Mrs. Hunter also was president of the Women's Republican Club of the 13th Congressional District.

Said Schlickman on hearing of her death, "June Hunter was a wonderful person. She liked people and was universally liked by them.

"She had a conscience and strived to make the world a better place. June was a devoted mother and a loving wife. Our hearts sorrow for her family.

"We sorely will miss her."

The Hunter's 22-year-old son, Tim, is a medical student at Northwestern University. In addition to her husband and son, Mrs. Hunter is survived by an 18-year-old daughter, Tina, who is a sophomore at Northwestern.

A coroner's inquest will be held to determine the cause of death. Funeral arrangements are pending at Haire Funeral Home in Arlington Heights.

New Members Named for Three Boards

T. DARCY SULLIVAN

AL BERG

DR. MELVIN GIBBEL

Four Arlington Heights men were named Monday to positions on the village plan commission, zoning board of appeals and health board.

The village board approved the appointments of T. Darcy Sullivan, 923 S. Evergreen Ave., and J. Burton Thompson, 825 S. Chestnut Ave., to the plan commission.

The trustees also named Al Berg, 2103 N. Burke Drive, to the zoning board of appeals and Dr. Melvin Gibbel, 1430 N. Arlington Heights Road, to the health board.

SULLIVAN, formerly an engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, is assistant director of the Traffic Engineering Division of the Traffic Institute at Northwestern University. He will serve a six-year term, filling a vacancy left by Clifford Johnson, whose term expired last April.

Thompson is an attorney for Jewel Co. His term also is for six years.

Appointed to fill a vacancy left by John D. Mathison, Berg was named for a five-year term on the zoning board of appeals. He is a field manager for IBM in Chicago and currently is president of Ivy Hill Civic Association.

GIBBEL, A SURGEON with offices in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village, was named to a three-year term on the health board. He replaces Dr. Werner Cryns, who resigned last April.

Sullivan and Berg were sworn in by Village Pres. John G. Woods Monday night. Gibbel and Thompson, not in attendance at the special board meeting, will be sworn in later.

Three appointments to the youth council have not yet been made. However, new members are expected to be named in the next few weeks.

Diplomat Home on Leave

Travel Abroad Strengthens Appreciation of America

by BETTY FORRESTER
Staff Writer

"Every time I come back to the United States I am surprised by the progress that has been made and impressed with the affluent society in which we live."

Much the diplomat even off-duty on leave at home in Arlington Heights, Adolph Dubs commented upon his experiences in the Foreign Service in an informal interview last week.

Dubs, who has been in the Foreign Service since 1949, recently returned home from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, where he has been a political counsellor for the past two years. When his home leave ends on September 1, he and his wife, Jane, and daughter, Lindsay, 11, will sail back to the communist country for another two year stay.

DUBS RECOMMENDED that all Americans go abroad for a year, saying, "You don't realize how wonderful all types of freedom are until you get away from them. Americans think in terms of the freedom of speech and the freedom to dissent, but few of them question the right to travel and other freedoms that are taken for granted in the United States."

Speaking specifically of his position in the Foreign Service, Dubs explained that it is his duty to help interpret Yugoslav domestic and foreign relations. The American embassy in Belgrade has about 75 officers and secretaries.

Much of his work is study. He pointed out that he and the men he works with read the speeches of the Yugoslav leaders and try to learn their backgrounds so that they can determine the implications for American foreign policy. In addition they have a great deal of contact with Yugoslav leaders and the Yugoslav people.

YUGOSLAVIA IS what Dubs calls "a communist country with a difference."

Comparing it to Russia, where he was assigned before Belgrade, Dubs pointed out that travel is much freer and that there is an entirely different atmosphere. He said that the Yugoslavs have done a great deal to encourage tourism and that now some three to four million people visit the country annually.

ADOLPH DUBS

The Yugoslavs, he pointed out, accept communism more than they are committed to it. About five per cent of the country's 20 million people are party members.

"There is a great deal of admiration for Pres. Tito," he said.

COMBINED WITH the communistic, one-party structure, there is, Dubs said, "a fund of good will toward the United States."

"The United States gave Yugoslavia $2.5 billion in aid over the 13 year period from 1950-63, and the Yugoslavs remember this."

Also, he noted that the Yugoslavs know that they would have a great deal to lose in terms of trade should they alienate the western nations.

When asked if Foreign Service work were as glamorous as it is often played up to be, Dubs said that the work is "often trying and gruelling."

"The Foregin Service Officer," he said, "is constantly in new situations. The knowledge that he had about a country 10 years ago becomes outdated, and he must constantly re-educate himself."

"It's a great job, though," he added.

REFUTING THE common claim that American Foreign Service officers do not speak the language of the countries to which they are sent, Dubs said that knowing the language is a "necessity" and that the United States Foreign Service officers probably have the best language training of any in the world.

He noted specifically the case of four men who came to the Yugoslav embassy. Three of these men were taught the language, Serbo-Croatian, in Washington, D. C., before coming, and the fourth, who was transferred from Czechoslovakia, was instructed in Belgrade.

DUBS HIMSELF speaks Serbo-Croation, German and Russian.

He said that he admired the families of foreign service officers. Often water and school facilities are bad in the foreign countries, and it hard on both the wives and children to move every two, three or four years.

His daughter attends an international school where classes ar taught in English. She and her classmates from a number of other countries are learning Serbo-Croation.

When asked if he ever felt that his work required him to be insincerely pro-United States, Dubs answered, "It isn't hard for me to advocate American foreign policy, because I believe most of it is right.

"The best way to deal with people I've found is to be as frank with them as possible. You can't say the United States has no racial problems, but you can point out that an awful lot has been done to improve the situation in the past few years."

DUBS FIRST became interested in the Foreign Service when he was a student at Beloit College studying political science and history. After graduating from college he served four and one-half years in the United States Navy and did graduate work at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.

He has been stationed at American diplomatic and consular establishments in Frankfort, Germany; Monrovia, Liberia; Ottawa, Canada; Moscow, U. S. S. R. and Belgrade; Yugoslavia. He has also served at the Department of State in Washington and has had special assignments at Harvard University (1958) and at the National War College (1963).

He and his family are staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Dubs Sr., 614 W. Rockwell St. (A

Chamber to Kick Off Sidewalk Days Effort

Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce Retail Committee will launch its promotional campaign Friday for Sidewalk Days.

Merchants planning to participate in the July 28-30 event will be wearing promotion buttons and furnish shoppers with advertising flyers.

Big sales—outdoors and inside, carnival rides, music and talent will all be featured at Sidewalk Days. There will even be teenage go-go competition.

According to John Bowen, chairman of the retail committee, there will be two new events in this year's program. The first of these, a Vaudeville show, will be put on by Delores Eiler School of Dancing from 7:30-9 p.m. Thursday, July 28.

ALSO NEW IS the fireman show. Fire Chief Harvey Carothers is planning a booth where firemen can demonstrate and give information on mouth to mouth resuscitation. The booth, to be set up alongside the First Arlington National Bank, will be open only on Friday.

Other highlights of the three-day festivities include a watermelon contest which is set for 10:30 a.m. July 28, at the Jewel Tea Co.; a pie-eating contest at the Arlington Cake Box at 2 p.m. July 28; a bike rodeo which will probably be held at the corner of Davis and Dunton at 2:30 p.m. Thursday; an art fair in and around the Countryside Art Center; a teen fashion show at 1 p.m. Saturday in the display windows of Marge's Apparel; a talented teen show at 8 p.m. July 29 at the southeast corner of Dunton and St. James; a dog show at 2 p.m. July 30 at the Northwest Obedience Club; the Paddock Publications' photo exhibit at the First Arlington National Bank and the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Arlington Heights Historical Society will put up a historical exhibit in the window of Sorrentino Tailors, as was done last year. There may be a special fund raising booth set up by the Woman's Club to raise money for the proposed historical museum.

GEORGE KEOHNKE, national director of Talented Teen Foundation, said this week that most of the talented teen program is ready. He said that there will be three teen bands participating — the Renegades from Arlington High, Prospect High and Wheeling High; the Corals from Parkside School, Roselle, and the Night Riders from River Trails Junior High in Mount Prospect.

Members of the Renegades are Gary Kehe, Don Hull, Link Eckard, Greg Tiedmond, John Hart, Jr., and Butch Dicriwson. The Corals' group consists of Jeff Tendick, Carl Schumann, Glen Rygel, Frank Tobolik and Frank Baldwin. The Night Riders are Don Wheeler, Jim Fletcher, Kenney Kennep and Llyod Nuenzer.

Keohnke said that there would be some variety acts and a go-go contest in addition to the three bands in the teen show.

The First Arlington National Bank will be loaning its customer parking area to Sidewalk Days for the bike rodeo, the Vaudeville show and the dog show.

Bowen explained that the profits from the carnival rides will be used to help defray the Chamber of Commerce's expenses. (A

Authorize Sale Of School Bonds

Sale of $500,000 in bonds was authorized Monday by Elementary District 25 School Board to continue the district's building program.

Lower bidder was a syndicate of The First National Bank of Chicago and the Julien Collins & Company which offered an interest rate of 4.17. This compares with the rate of 3.57 on a sale of $750,000 worth of bonds sold in January.

A total of $2,460,000 in bonds was authorized in the referendum of February 20, 1965 and portions of the bonds have been sold as the construction projects progress. The remaining $710,000 in bonds are scheduled to be marketed about January 1, 1967. (A

Stanley John Named Schools' Principal

Stanley John, assistant principal of Miner Junior High School, was appointed principal of Dwyer and Patton elementary Schools in Arlington Heights Monday by the District 25 School Board.

John replaces Robert Bright, who was named director of District 25's diagnostic center last week.

John has been in Arlington Heights since 1957 when he began as a physical education teacher at South Junior High. He taught science for one year and later was appointed assistant principal at Miner Junior High in 1961.

John was named acting principal at Miner when that position was vacated by Chester W. Raasch in April 1965.

HE ATTENDED Wright Junior College from 1949 to 1951 and North Dakota State University in 1951. After four years of military service, he received his bachelor of science degree from Western Illinois University in 1956.

John received his master of arts degree in education in 1957 from Western Illinois University. Currently he is taking advanced studies at Northern Illinois University.

John is presently legislative chairman for the Northwest Suburban Division of the Illinois Education Association.

He begins his principalship August 8.

Appointed to the position of assistant principal of Miner Junior High is Dale Wilke, presently head of the physical education department at Miner Junior High. Wilke lives at 217 N. Elmhurst, Mount Prospect. (A

Planners Postpone Action On 345-Acre Zone Request

A decision on the fate of a multi-million dollar proposed development for 345 acres of land on the village's far north side was delayed by Arlington Heights Plan Commission last Wednesday.

Commissioners will further consider the plan at a hearing July 27.

The tract, owned by Chesterfield Builders of Chicago, is in an unincorporated area between Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove Roads. The bulk of the property lies north of Hinz Road.

The builders want zoning to allow 183 acres of single-family homes, 45 acres of two-family dwellings, 77 acres of multiple-family dwellings, and six acres for general business use.

THE REMAINDER of the property, about 30 acres, would be dedicated for public use. An unusual feature of the plan is a meandering parkway running north to south which creates a buffer between the different zoned areas.

A major consideration by the plan commission was the impact that the estimated 8,000 new residents of the development would have upon three school districts.

According to a study undertaken by the Institute of Urban Life in Chicago, the "blackest picture" painted would add 431 students to Arlington Township High School District 214; 1,262 children to Wheeling Community Consolidated District 21; and 340 children to Prospect Heights District 23.

KENNETH R. Berliant, senior analyst of the institute, estimated that the proposed development would have the following tax impacts:

—District 214 would be able to accommodate the additional 431 students with only a negligible increase in its 1965 property tax rate.

—District 21 would actually benefit by a decrease in the district's over-all tax rate from $2.648 to an estimated $2.568 per $100 of assessed valuation.

—District 23 would not be favorably benefited due to a slight increase in the 1965 tax rate from $2.542 to an estimated $2.564 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The survey did not exclude children who might attend parochial schools and it took the highest ratios of children coming from each housing unit, according to Berliant.

DIST. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill contended that the proposed development would be "a burden" to the district.

He said that two new schools would be required to take care of the additional students, and predicted that most parochial school children in that area would probably be attending public schools.

Gill contended that $910,000 in bonding power would come from the property, but $1.5 million would be needed for two new schools.

"As each development has come in to the district, it has promised to aid the school district. But in my seven years as superintendent our assessed valuation has dropped from about $18,000 per pupil to $13,000 per pupil," Gill said.

HE SUGGESTED that the planners make "better use" of the public land they plan to dedicate so that schools could be built on them.

A spokesman for District 23, Mrs. Robert Koelsch, said that the amount of land set aside for public use was not enough for a school site.

Park Bard president, Charles B. Cronin, frowned on the narrow strip of parkway proposed saying, "I doubt whether the Park Board would accept this kind of plan."

Plan commission members also criticized the amount of duplexes proposed.

Carl L. Gardner & Associates, Inc. of Chicago, planner for the project, gave a five to seven year timetable for completing the project.

According to the Institute's report, the proposed development would have no significant effect upon the village's property tax rate. The development would require a property tax of 53.7 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Total tax valuation is estimated at about $23.4 million upon completion.

THIS RATE is approximately the village's property tax rate of 54 cents per $100 of assessed value in 1964.

Chesterfield Builders plan about 100,000 square feet of commercial business buildings, 1,050 apartment units, half of which would be one-bedroom and half two-bedroom, 577 single family units, and 298 two-family units.

The homes would sell at between $30,000 and $40,000, the duplexes at $23,000 to $25,000 a unit. Apartment rent would range from $145 to $205 a month. (A KIDS' BIKES, some licensed and locked, some not, line one of the bicycle racks at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights. Police have reported an increasing number of bicycle losses and thefts this summer because of the owners' failure to register or lock them. (Staff photo) (A

Bike 'Thefts' Are Plague of Summer

At Pioneer Park, a young boy looks for his own bicycle, finds it missing, and "borrows" another bike to ride the few blocks home. Near his house, he abandons it and hides it behind some bushes.

This case is typical of the many reports of bicycle thefts recorded at the Arlington Heights Police Department.

With the warm summer months, hundreds of bicycles crowd village parks and sidewalks. The unattended bikes are an invitation to trouble, and the number of bike thefts has taken a sharp rise.

IN JUNE, POLICE recorded 94 calls for lot or stolen bikes, one more than the total number of complaints from the previous five months of January through May.

Two problems are involved, said Police Chief L. W. Calderwood. Children do not lock their bikes when they leave them and they do not get them properly licensed, he explained.

"Getting a bicycle licensed," said Calderwood, "helps in identifying it by serial number if it is lost or stolen."

The licensing procedure involves an inspection of the bicycle at the police station. The applicant must also demonstrate a knowledge of hand signals. Fee for the license is 50 cents.

CALDERWOOD pointed out that many parents don't bother getting their children's bicycles registered because they have insurance which covers theft or loss.

Furthermore, many bicycles are not registered because they would fail to pass the safety standards. Police inspect bikes for front and tail lights, warning devices, and brakes.

What about stricter enforcement of bicycle registration?

Presently it is difficult to enforce the rule, police said, because of the average young age of the cyclist, the lack of space at the police department to put impounded bikes, and the limited amount of court facilities to handle the number of violators.

According to police, lost or stolen bicycles do have a high recovery rate—about 8 per cent are found within three days. Many are found by the owners, and some discovered by neighbors.

CHILDREN DO have opportunities at school to get their bicycles licensed. Each spring the safety committee of the Arlington Heights PTA Council in conjunction with the police department conducts safety checks at each of the elementary and junior high schools in the village.

Mrs. J. C. Edwards, chairman of the committee, said that the results of inspections at the junior high schools last spring were "disappointing."

However several hundred bicycles were inspected at the elementary schools.

"Next year we will emphasize that it is the responsibility of parents to see that their children's bicycles are in good condition," she said, Parents wouldn't let their child drive a car without good brakes, she added, and the same should go for their children's bicycles. (A

Tall Grass Mowed; Parks Look Better

65 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Herald, July 20, 1901

The people of Arlington Heights lately have improved the parks by mowing the tall grass. A gravel walk has been built through the park north of the track, so people can "keep off the grass."

50 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Herald, July 21, 1961

The police and license committee reported that dog tags were now ready and in the hands of collector. Applications for five dram shop licenses were presented and same granted. Committee also reported that several dram shop keepers were not living up to the ordinance with regards to lights during closed hours—not closing at the required time and allowing fights and other noisy disturbances in and about their premises.

25 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Herald, July 18, 1941

Arlington Heights is going to go after old aluminum for home defense in a big way. The newly organized Arlington Heights Service Organization is asking this week for volunteers who will participate in a house to house city-wide canvass. Those who will volunteer for such services are asked to meet at the municipal building this Friday evening at 8 o'clock . . .

"At the present time the government needs aluminum badly in the manufacture of airplanes and other defense material," the Mayor (Albert Goedke) said.

10 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Herald, July 19, 1956

Campaign headquarters for the forthcoming appeal of the Northwest Community Hospital center have been opened at 8 Northwest Hwy. in Arlington Heights.

"During the next two months," reported Nicholas Lattof, chairman of the financial development committee, "headquarters will undertake the preparatory work incident to the active campaign which is tentatively scheduled for this fall."

2 Hearings Set by Plan Commission

Arlington Heights Plan Commission will hold two hearings Wednesday.

The first is a request by the Jewel Tea Company for rezoning of a parcel at Golf and Algonquin Roads for a general business classification. The two-acre property, in the northwest corner, is presently zoned single family (R-1).

The second hearing is a request for rezoning a 26-acre tract south of Central Road and west of Ridge Avenue. The petitioners are asking for about 5 acres of institutional, 7 acres of multiple family, and 13 acres of single family. The tract is presently zoned single family (R-1).

4,000 Homes Darken In Sunday's Storm

Lightning and falling branches left about 1,190 Arlington Heights residents without telephone service and about 4,000 without power Monday after Sunday's storm.

Most interruptions in telephone service were caused by damaged poles which had been struck by lightning. Of the 1,190 homes without service about 600 were in Arlington Heights. Extra crews were called in but fallen power lines hampered some repair efforts. Most service was restored by 10 p.m.

FALLING BRANCHES caused power interruptions in about 4,000 area homes. The blackouts occurred in small areas scattered throughout the area due to fallen distribution lines. Of the 4,000 interruptions about 450 to 500 were in Arlington Heights.

Many homes had full power by daybreak and most by 10 a.m. Monday.

Wind damage to trees in Arlington Heights amounted to $3,000 to $5,000. Damage, which was scattered throughout the village, was heaviest in the Scarsdale area. (A

Railway Should Back Blessing with Deeds

by DAVE CRIPPEN
News Editor

After a meeting two weeks ago of Village Manager L. A. Hanson, members of the woman's club and representatives of the Chicago and North Western Railway, it seemed likely that beautification of the railroad tracks in Arlington Heights could be accomplished.

CRIPPEN

The brief conference ended on a promising note with railroad officials extending their blessing and cooperation to the plan. Now, apparently, the village is left with only the blessing.

The first job—that of cleaning up old ties and debris—supposedly was to be done by the railroad. However, latest word indicates the railroad does not intend to pick up the unsightly left-overs of its repair work. The job would be too costly, according to North Western officials.

But they are willing to let the residents of the village take care of it. An agreement reportedly is being prepared allowing the village to remove the old ties and to dispose of them any way it sees fit.

Backers of the beautification effort, like project chairman Mrs. Rex Hart of the woman's club, are determined the job is going to get done with or without the railroad's help.

The argument by the railroad that the cleanup bill would be too high hardly makes the debris and high grass on the right-of-way any more eye-appealing. One must wonder when a large business like the North Western cannot afford to pick up its own mess. And just because that mess is on the railroad's backyard does not further justify the argument—especially when the backyard extends three miles through Arlington Heights.

There also have arisen questions regarding billboard spaces leased by the railroad. Proponents of the beautification program hope the billboards eventually will come down when the leases expire. The railroad, interested in maintaining this source of income, expressed some willingness to investigate a plan whereby the signs would conform with specified size and color.

This and many other questions must be answered before beautification can be started. And they can be more easily answered through cooperation between railroad and village.

THE FACT THAT THE VILLAGE needs the railroad and that the railroad needs the village is only too obvious. It was a fact brought out and agreed upon at the meeting two weeks ago.

But the railroad thus far has not fully demonstrated its cognizance of that fact.

The village's willingness to do all the work and bear all the expense involved in beautification would seem to merit more enthusiasm from the railroad.

The job probably will be done with only the railroad's blessing. But it would be a lot easier if the North Western would give a helping hand.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From E. D. Koontz, Elkins, W. Va.: Do you remember when housewives used "yellow oak bark," walnut hulls, poke berries, and sumac berries for coloring yarn or other wearing apparel?

When mother knitted the stockings and mittens for the entire family?

When gay young men wore handle bar mustaches and sideburns and older men grew full beards?

When a woman was condemned if she rode a horse astride—she was required to ride a "side saddle" and to wear a long "riding skirt".

When "corn huskings", apple cuttings, house raisings and barn stringing, wood choppings, and log rollings were common community gatherings?

When "singing schools" were made up by subscriptions and held in most every community, with the characters noted in square forms?

When an organ in the home was considered a sign of wealth and prosperity?

When butter was churned in an old "up-and-down" churn and sold at the corner store for eight to ten cents a pound?

Church School Registrations To Start Sunday

Registration for vacation church school begins Sunday at the First Methodist Church in Arlington Heights. Registration may be made at the church in room 215 or by calling Mrs. David Johnson at CL 3-7514 after Sunday.

The ten-day session begins August 1 and continues through August 12. Classes will be held for children 6 to 12 years old by December 2. Sessions are from 9:15 to 11:30 a.m.

According to Mrs. William Griffith, director of the school, grades one and two will be taught "The World of Differences;" grades three and four, "The Christian Community Around the World;" and grades five and six, "Living as Christians in a World of Conflict." (A

Telephone Rep Speaks To Rotary

The Arlington Heights Rotary Club recently was given a program by Dorothy O'Malley, public relations representative for Illinois Bell, entitled "Of Light and Lasers."

The presentation included demonstrations showing how a telephone call may be transmitted by a beam of light and a human voice bounced off mirrors. Members of the audience were invited to send their voices along the laser beam. The Rotary Club was told that in theory, a laser beam can carry 900 million conversations simultaneously.

"Of Light and Lasers" is a free, 30 minute program provided by Illinois Bell Telephone.

Youth Hurt In Accident

A Mount Prospect youth was injured in an accident Thursday at Gibbons Avenue and Grove Street in Arlington Heights.

Frederick Brereton, 18, of 217 N. Fairview, was treated for head injuries at Northwest Community Hospital.

POLICE SAID Brereton was westbound on Grove Street when his car was struck by a northbound car on Gibbons driven by Carolyn J. May, 32, of 2005 E. Park St., Arlington Heights.

Mrs. May was cited by police for failure to yield the right of way. (A

St. James Pupils To Utilize Buses

An estimated 100 St. James School children will ride District 25 buses next fall, school board members were told Monday.

The figures were cited in a study made by Raymond OBrien, 1403 E. Kensington, and the Rev. Edward Laramie of St. James School which indicated that there will be about 100 parochial students in the east part of District 25 who are 1.5 miles or more from St. James School and who would like to take advantage of the bus route serving the Prospect Meadows area.

This route would run east on Euclid Avenue to Wedgewood Terrace, south through Wedgewood Terrace and Prospect Meadows to Kensington Road, and west on Kensington Road to the North School.

FOUR BUSES, two more than used last year, will probably be needed to accommodate the additional children, according to Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh.

One of the questions yet to be considered by St. James parishioners is whether to provide shuttle service between St. James and North School public grounds where the District 25 routes terminate. There are four blocks between the two schools.

O'Brien and Mrs. Harry Rood, 613 Bunting, Mount Prospect, are co-chairmen of a St. James parents' group that received school board permission for their children to ride the public school buses.

Their request was backed by State Department of Public Instruction opinion that public school bussing of private school children is legal so long as the children live 1.5 miles from the parochial school and along regular public school bus routes.

BOARD MEMBERS also approved an increase in bus transportation charges—25 cents per month per child for those within 1.5 miles of their school.

"It would appear that $5 ($4.75 has been the monthly charge for bus tickets in past years) is a reasonable charge for students living within 1.5 miles of their school," said Clabaugh. (A

Free Trip For Lucky Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Verton Collignon, 716 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights, will leave Saturday on a prize trip to California.

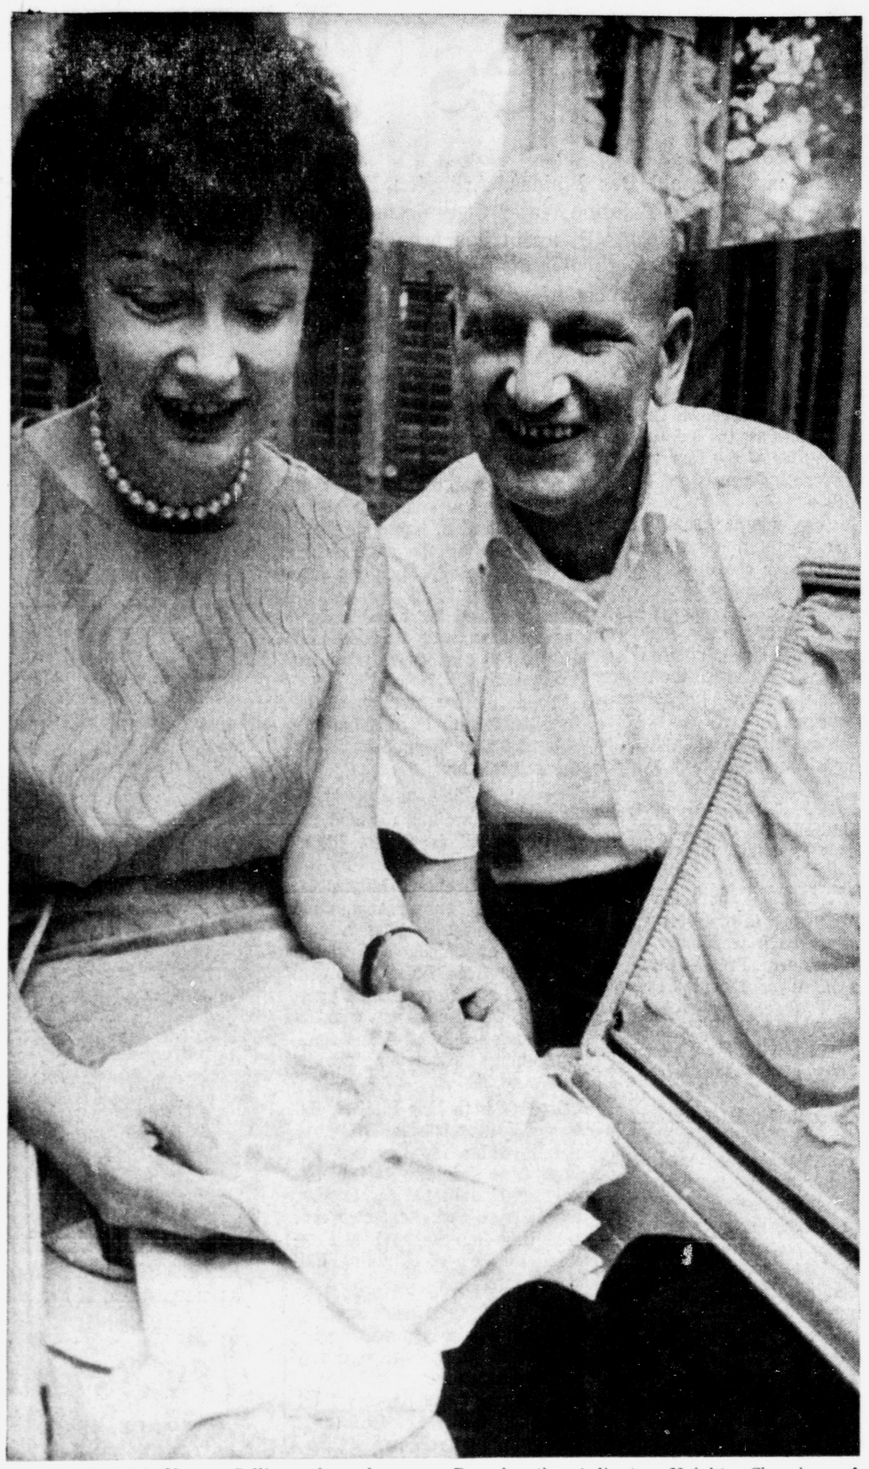
The trip, won by Mrs. Collignon last Mother's Day, was awarded by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce Retail Committee in its special Mother's Day promotion.

Commenting on the trip, Mrs. Collignon said that it will be her first airplane ride. Neither she nor her husband has been to California since World War II.

THEY PLAN to spend a day at Disneyland and take a trip along the coast as well as visit Mr. Collignon's brother. Although the Retail Committee's prize is specifically for a stay of three days and two nights in San Francisco, the Collignons are extending their vacation on their own in order to see more of California and spend some time in Los Angeles.

They will fly both to and from California via American Airlines. Their travel arrangements have been taken care of by Wayne Griffin Travel, Inc., 104 N. Evergreen.

Mrs. Collignon works as the manager's assistant at Montgomery Ward and Co., Inc., Arlington Heights.



MR. AND MRS. Verton Collignon have begun packing for a vacation in California which was awarded Mrs. Collignon last Mother's Day by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. (A

Sidewalk Requests Must Be in Writing

Home owners interested in sidewalk replacement are again urged to file their request in writing to George B. Anderson, assistant director of engineering, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

Upon receiving the requests, Anderson will contact the parties to determine breakdown of costs and to have them sign an agreement for sharing the costs.

IN ACCORDANCE with a contract with Concrete Engineering Construction, Inc., the village and homeowners will each pay 36 cents per square foot, with the following exceptions:

—The home owner will pay the entire cost of removal and replacement of the sidewalk across driveways;

—The village will pay the entire cost of replacement of walks at street corners and across dedicated alleys.

Construction is scheduled for summer and fall on a first come first served basis. (A Replacement Named For Miss Lindsey

Mrs. Justine Tarpy has been named by the Arlington Heights Library Board to fill the post of children's librarian when Edith Lindsey retires Jan. 1.

Coming to Arlington Heights with library experience in Florida, Minnesota, Tokyo and Germany, Mrs. Tarpy will begin work Sept. 1.

SHE WILL BE oriented to the job during the first few months and will not assume the full responsibility of children's librarian until Miss Lindsey's retirement.

MRS. JUSTINE TARPY

While in Tokyo from 1960 to 1964, Mrs. Tarpy worked as a children's librarian for the Air Force. At one time she helped to set up four libraries in Chofu. The libraries were needed because the Japanese government had taken over the Tokyo base for the 1964 Olympics. She said that she feels this experience will be of great help to her in planning the new children's library here.

Upon leaving Tokyo, Mrs. Tarpy worked in an Army-sponsored children's library in Germany. From that job she comes to Arlington Heights.

MRS. TARPY did her undergraduate work at Mankato Teacher's College in Minnesota and did graduate work at both Florida State University at Talahassee and the University of Minnesota.

Although she will have her permanent residence at 7½ E. Miner St. in August, she is presently staying with her son Gerald and his family at 34 N. Evanston Ave. (A

DAMP Proposes Joint Water Utility

The nine-year-old Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine Water Commission, more commonly known as DAMP, again has brought out a proposal for one source of water for the four municipalities—namely, Lake Michigan—with a new idea attached.

Last week the chairman of DAMP, William Mott, came before the Mount Prospect Village Board with a proposal that the commission buy the existing water facilities of the four villages and operate them as one utility.

Although the idea met with little enthusiasm from Mount Prospect officials, especially coming after the July 4 weekend water shortage to some 300 Mount Prospect homes when a private utility company well pump broke down, Village Pres. Dan Congreve turned the matter over to the board's public works committee.

The committee was scheduled to consider the idea at a meeting last night (Wednesday), but the DAMP proposal also appeared on the agenda for last night's special village board meeting.

ORGANIZED in early 1957, DAMP consists of five commissioners, each appointed for a six-year term. Present members are Mott, of Mount Prospect; Robert Warnicke and Art Marow of Des Plaines, Sam Curry of Arlington Heights, and Howard Olsen of Palatine.

In 1957 the four communities each contributed $500 for operating and other expenses of the commission, which was to investigate the procurement of a common source of water supply for the four member municipalities.

In 1958 the commission obtained $25,000 from the Federal Home and Finance Agency to pay for an engineering report on the feasibility and cost of the proposed project.

Consoer, Townsend and Associates, present consulting engineers for the village, were authorized to make the investigation.

THE INVESTIGATION covered four potential water sources—existing wells, augmented ground water supply from wells, surface water (rivers and creeks), and Lake Michigan (either direct or purchased from Chicago).

Consoer, Townsend's report, submitted May 25, 1959, led the commission to conclude that "Lake Michigan offers the most reliable and best source of water as a primary supply for the member municipalities."

The commission further recommended to the four member municipalities "the construction and operation of an independent Lake Michigan water supply system."

ESTIMATED cost was $17.5 million, including pumping stations, filtration plants, water storage reservoirs, meters, controllers, vaults, and 48-, 30-, 24-, and 20-inch water mains running from Lake Michigan opposite either Wilmette or Winnetka.

A unit cost of 31 cents per 1,000 gallons was estimated by the commission, based on facts and figures in the engineering report. The Lake Michigan supply system would also eliminate the need for home softening systems, with an additional $20 to $30 savings a year for home owners.

Funds for construction of the facilities would come from the sale of water revenue bonds by the commission.

LITIGATION before the U. S. Supreme Court had delayed the project ever since. The litigation was brought in 1958 by the states of Michigan, Minnesota, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Wisconsin seeking a curtailment on Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

DAMP attorneys felt the commission would be drawn into the legal entanglement if the four-community diversion project was started.

In 1962 both Des Plaines and Mount Prospect asked DAMP to obtain water for the two villages from Chicago. Each pledged $1,000 additional for another report from Consoer, Townsend, this time on the cost and related matters of obtaining Chicago water.

THE MATTER even went as far as 10-year contract being submitted to Chicago and tentatively approved.

But when DAMP sent out letters to its four members in 1963, saying the commission was ready to enter firm negotiations with Chicago, only Arlington Heights indicated an immediate desire to sign a contract.

Des Plaines decided to try it on its own, something it is still doing.

a quality program of instruction."

Clabaugh continued, "The precarious condition of the building fund will undoubtedly make it necessary to shift the appropriations for utilities and more of the salaries of building service employes to the education fund, thus further aggravating the problem."

HE WARNED that the operation of some programs already underway, such as television and individual instruction facilities, may have to be curtailed.

"And we still have the staffing and equipping of South Junior High School and the Dryden addition ahead of us," he said.

The present 25-cent rate for the building fund, which has not been changed since 1959, made it possible this year to make only token appropriations for site improvements, capital outlay, and building improvements, he said.

"If this continues," Clabaugh added, "we cannot make even the essential major repairs, replacements, and improvements in the buildings."

THE 1966-67 tentative building budget will use $154,200 of new taxes compared to $75,000 last year.

Furthermore, unless the building tax rate is increased, appropriations for building service salaries will have to be shifted from the building fund to the educational fund, he said.

Board Pres. Harold Sortor said, "The need for an increased tax rate is pretty obvious. As the teacher salaries were raised, there was a real squeeze on the other parts of the budget."

The 33.5-cent increase, Clabaugh said, should be thought of in terms of the total operating budget and not separately as educational fund and building fund. The reason for this is that various items, such as utilities and building service salaries, can be charged to either fund.

SCHEDULING the referendum for Sept. 24, the school board is cutting things close. Deadline for tax increases applicable to next year's bills is Sept. 27.

The increase, if approved, will go on bills issued next April, with funds to be collected for use in the 1967-68 school year.

Clabaugh based his recommendation for the referendum partially on the results of a financial survey done by the Midwest Administration Center at the University of Chicago.

HE LISTED the following points of the survey:

—That the people in Arlington Heights place a high value on education.

—That the assessment behind each child in District 25, now $510 per pupil, is less than the median for elementary school districts in Cook County ($535).

—That the indications are that the per pupil assessment will, in all probability, continue to decline.

—That goods and services for the school district must continue to be purchased in a competitive market.

—That there appears to be no way out of this situation except through an increase in the property tax.

The survey estimated that the 33.5-cent increase would bring about $60 additional per student. (AF

Freak Accident With Chlorine At Pioneer Pool

A freak accident Friday at one of the Arlington Heights Park District pools sent two girls and one man to Northwest Community Hospital for emergency treatment for overexposure to chlorine.

The three persons are Sandy Hemphill, 1331 W. Park St.; Chris Sanderbeck, 1327 W. Park St.; and Albert Vollendorf, 437 S. Dryden.

According to Thomas Thornton, park superintendent, the accidents occurred after the circulating pump in the Pioneer Park pool had become overheated and ceased to operate. The chlorine accumulated while the pump was shut down.

Once the pump was working again, the chlorine problem was solved.

THORNTON said problems of this type are not uncommon to pools, but there is seldom anyone directly in the area of the accumulated chlorine to be affected by it.

Over-exposure to chlorine causes eye and throat irritation, he said.

first on the list was the proposed utility tax, he said.

Mees asked the residents for suggestions on possible alternatives. No one responded.

Amid the warnings of strong opposition to the tax, there was praise of the village board's efforts to, among other things, attract industry and expand commuter parking. The praise cushioned the warnings of vocal public protest, but hardly made the trustees' controversial tax proposal any more popular.

THE MEETING ended on a friendly note, but with many of those attending wondering just how strong public opposition really is.

The village attorney was instruited to investigate all possible grants from the state and federal government which could head off the need for a utility tax. (AF

NINETY-SEVEN-YEAR-OLD Mrs. William McGuire shows an old postcard of her ancestors' house in Connecticut. Mrs. McGuire, a 30-year resident of Arlington Heights, celebrated her birthday Tuesday.

Mrs. McGuire Marks 97 Years

by NANCY BENCO
Staff Writer

Take good care of yourself — that's the secret for a long life, according to 97-year-old Mrs. William McGuire, 2722 N. Vista Lane, Arlington Heights.

The white-haired, blue-eyed woman, who celebrated her birthday Tuesday, proudly said, "I was born July 12, 1869, on "Orangeman's Day." Orangeman's Day is a legal holiday in Northern Ireland commemorating two 17th century battles.

Of Scot-Irish lineage, Mrs. McGuire today treasures a yellowed paper which traces her ancestors to Waterbury, Conn., in the early 1600's to some of the early Scottish settlers.

SITTING BACK in a rocking chair, she reminisced on her "earlier" days. "My father, a merchant in Cleveland, was a friend of Pres. James Garfield," she recalled. "My father used to buy potatoes from the general's farm in Mentor."

"I still remember the day he (Garfield) was assassinated. The sound of the muffled drums at his funeral was just terrible," she said.

Mrs. McGuire moved to the west side of Chicago at the turn of the century, when, according to her, the city was nothing but a "mud pile."

"The horse-drawn cable cars, which were heated by coal stoves in the winter, wormed their way around the city," she recalled.

"Lincoln Park in those days had beautiful electric fountains which were lit up at night," she said, recalling the nights when the famous Johnny Hand orchestra would play in the park.

UNMARRIED UNTIL the age of 40, she worked at Marshall Field's as a "lace girl." As a "connoisseur of laces," she sold the delicate chiffons and laces to women of high society who patronized the store.

In 1909 she married William McGuire, son of a railroad equipment manufacturer. She has one living son, William P. McGuire of 32 La Salle St., Arlington Heights.

Mrs. McGuire has kept her mind "running" by reading — books, newspapers, and magazines. "I used to be a stickler for reading and kept up with all the current events until my eyes began getting bad," she said. She listed Victor Hugo, Cervante, and Zane Grey as some of her favorites. She also browses through Reader's Digest looking for articles that "tick."

A BIRTHDAY party was given for her Sunday by Mrs. Frank Michalowski, with whom she now lives.

As the interview ended, this sprightly lady remarked, "I certainly hope I haven't tired you out." (AF

$80,000 For Park

A contract with Santucci Construction Co. for a 10-acre park site in the Pinegate subdivision was ratified by the Arlington Heights Park District Board Tuesday.

The land, at Belmont and Douglas if both were extended, was purchased for $80,000. When it will be developed depends on a future referendum.

Now vacant, the land eventually will provide a neighborhood playground for Pinehurst and Forest View. The builder had asked for and was refused multi-family zoning in the area.

IN OTHER action the board approved two ordinances of annexation. Annexed were five one-half-acre lots in Arlington Knolls subdivision, and 23 acres in Greenbrier subdivision.

The Arlington Knolls action was in line with the park district's policy of keeping boundaries as similar as possible to those of the village.

The Greenbrier subdivision, however, has not been annexed by the village and the park district will petition for this action. Part of the 23 acres was purchased from the Baker Family Nursery, part from the Chicago Archdiocese, and part was dedicated by the builder.

THE BOARD also moved to prepare an ordinance of annexation for the 40 acres comprising Prospect Heights School District 23. The land lies adjacent to the present park district boundary but has not been annexed by the village.

The school district, which is developing park land jointly with the park district, has requested the annexation.

No Future For Bo-Gi?

She said other plans were being considered.

She agreed with Appleby that the Cellar hurt support of Bo-Gi.

"Volunteer type things like Bo-Gi can't compete with the Shadows," she asserted. The Shadows are a rock 'n roll group that frequently appeared at the Cellar.

ONE OF THE big problems faced by the Bo-Gi board is what to do with $3,000 left over from last year. Under federal law covering a not-for-profit organization, the money must be turned over to charity if Bo-Gi is disbanded. Much of the money was received from last year's United Fund drive.

Equipment, such as pool tables and a television, were turned over to charity in May.

An attempt to revamp Bo-Gi when its attendance first began to decline failed earlier this year, Appleby explained. Board members tried to draw interest from junior high youngsters when the interest of older teenagers shifted to the Cellar.

Dances and other social functions were held on weekends at the center. At the time of its opening in 1963, Bo-Gi received considerable support from local teen-agers.

Appleby did not specify what kind of program the park district was planning as an alternative.

Friends of Museum Plan Fund Campaign

Some 16 "Friends of the Museum for Arlington Heights" Tuesday night took preliminary steps toward organizing a fund-raising campaign to make the dream of a local museum a reality.

Agreeing that their purpose was "to raise the necessary funds for a museum and to support its continuing existence," the friends decided to sell balloons at Sidewalk Days as an initial part of the campaign.

The group, whose over-all goal is $40,000, has designated a temporary goal of $10,000 to be raised by Aug. 15. The latter sum would be used to purchase land on which to relocate the 95-year-old Heller home offered the Historical Society by the village.

THE HELLER home was the subject of a public meeting last Thursday at which village officials, local organizations and the historical society discussed the possibility of converting it into a museum. It is located on the site recently purchased by the village for construction of a new library and would have to be moved no later than Sept. 1 should the Historical Society be able to provide property for it. The move is necessitated by the fact that the construction will begin this fall.

According to Mrs. Z. R. Rogozinski of 1219 Woodford Place, publicity chairman for the friends group, raising $10,000 would permit the group to borrow the needed additional $30,000 until it too could be raised.

The group will be soliciting pledges that can be paid over a period of 24 months, in addition to donations.

Melvin Kurtz, 805 S. Mitchell Ave., treasurer, reported there already have been cash donations of about $450 and pledges totaling a great deal more.

VIRGIL HORATH, chairman of the committee, said he felt that the fact that money was coming in even before the fund-raising campaign had officially begun was a wonderful indication of community interest in the project.

As the committee is seeking the support of all groups in the community, Horath suggested that the drive be divided into categories. He then further suggested that there be separate chairmen in charge of contacting businessmen, professional men, village organizations, individual donors and educators.

At a Monday night meeting the board of directors of the historical society agreed that people or organizations donating from $1 to $100 would be called "friends" of the museum. All persons or groups donating over $100 would be "patrons" of the museum and would have their names upon a plaque on the museum's wall.

PLEDGE CARDS and accompanying letters are being prepared and will be ready by July 21. Donations should be sent to the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association, 25 E. Campbell St., and checks should be made payable to the Arlington Heights Historical Museum.

Guidelines Set Up, Cellar Back in Swing

be improved. The rules also ordered cutting of high weeds on land adjoining the site of the Cellar, located at 407 N. Salem Ave. Both of these jobs were completed over the weekend, Sampson reported.

Sampson expressed dismay at another rule which stipulated that only one off-duty police officer from Arlington Heights would be allowed to help keep order at the Cellar. His salary would be paid by Sampson.

The services of additional policemen must be secured from other sources, according to the rules.

"I don't understand this policeman thing," Sampson remarked. "I'm completely perplexed."

THE MEMBERSHIP system will require that each teen be accompanied by a parent when purchasing an identification card. Cards, which bear a list of conduct rules and a picture of its holder, cost $1.25 each.

Memberships are available only to teenagers living in High School Districts 214 and 211.

Sampson, who estimated he lost more than $5,000 during the period the Cellar was closed, expressed relief over Hanson's decision.

"I'm glad it's over," he commented. "I want to open. I want to get the ball rolling."

THE CELLAR was closed following a disturbance June 18 in which an off-duty police officer was injured and three youths were arrested.

Sampson must obtain a weekly license—costing $50 each—to keep his business in operation. Some question had been raised by his attorney on whether the village had the right to include the Cellar under the ordinance requiring the weekly license.

Hanson, who postponed a decision twice during the past two weeks, said he had consulted with Village Atty. Jack Siegel on the question, but he made no changes in the ground rules for issuing a license.

Approximately 300 teenagers had purchased memberships Tuesday afternoon. Many more were expected to buy their cards Wednesday night.

Subdivision Plans Snag

Chesterfield Builders' plans for a subdivision on 330 acres at Hintz and Buffalo Grove Roads ran into an apparent snag Tuesday when the Arlington Heights Park Board voiced concern over the land designated for public dedication.

The board marked for public use are scattered throughout the subdivision. The board disapproves on the grounds that the arrangement does not provide any pieces of land large enough for an adequate park.

THE BOARD was to ask for another arrangement at a meeting with the builders, and school boards from Districts 21 and 23.

Chesterfield Builders is asking that the land be annexed by the village and zoned for multi-as well as single-family residence. Plans mark some of the land for high rise apartments.

Portable Classrooms

The Arlington Heights Village Board Monday approved a request from Our Lady of the Wayside School for use of two portable classrooms during the next school year.

The Catholic archdiocese recently gave its permission to the school for use of the classrooms on a two-year basis. The village board, however, followed a recommendation by Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson that approval for one year was sufficient to meet the school's immediate classroom needs.

The need for the portable units became apparent earlier this year when projected enrollments exceeded Our Lady of the Wayside's maximum classroom space.

"I think the need is clear," commented Village Pres. John G. Woods. The board approved the request unanimously.

IN OTHER action the board:

—Met in executive session to set a purchase price for land on which an elevated water tank and south side fire station will be constructed.

—Referred to its public safety committee a proposal by High School District 214 to have a policeman on patrol full-time at Arlington High and Forest View during the school year.

Six Persons Injured In Weekend Accidents

Six persons were injured as the result of five weekend traffic accidents in Arlington Heights.

Treated and released from St. Alexius Hospital with injuries received in a three-car accident Saturday at Arlington Heights Road and Thomas Street were Glen Cave, 60, of 127 E. Hawthorne Drive, and Grave Cave, 58.

Police said the Cave car, going north on Arlington Heights Road, struck the rear of a car, driven by Theodore Munn, 41, of 4629 W. Howard, Skokie, as it was turning into a driveway. A third car, driven by Dorothy E. Sully, 39, of 2224 Champlain St. Arlington Heights, struck the rear of the Cave car.

Police cited both Mrs. Sully and Cave for following too close.

A CHICAGO woman, Mrs. Mae H. Fowler, 35, of 6040 S. Laflin, was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital with injuries received in an accident at Wilke Road and Freemont Street Saturday afternoon.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Olet Fowler, 39, which was struck from behind by an auto driven by Walter A. Peppler, 42, of 704 S. Wilke Road, Palatine. Police said both cars were traveling north on Wilke Road.

Peppler was ticketed for following too close.

An Arlington Heights youth, Todd Guenther, 15, of 615 S. Kennicott, was injured slightly in a traffic mishap Saturday.

According to police, the youth was selling racing forms at the intersection of Wilke Road and Northwest Highway when he moved into the path of a car driven by James P. Ostler, 17, of 612 E. Oakton St., Arlington Heights.

POLICE MADE no arrests.

A Rolling Meadows woman was injured and two men were ticketed as the result of a three-car mishap at Euclid Road and Pine Street Saturday afternoon.

Kathy Piper, 4426 Lincoln, Rolling Meadows received neck injuries. She was a passenger in a car, driven by Roger Kuhleman, 21 of Rt. 2, Warren, Ill.

Police said that the Kuhleman car was pushed into the rear of a car driven by Francis P. Connoy, 49, of 711 N. Fairview, Mount Prospect by a third car, driven by John Waido, 50, of 12 Leon Lane, Prospect Heights.

All three cars were going east on Euclid.

HOSPITALIZED at Northwest Community Hospital with a fractured elbow received in an accident Saturday evening at Arlington Heights and Golf Road is Dorothy A. Frye, 34, of 4206 Owl Drive, Rolling Meadows.

According to police, she was driving east on Golf Road when a car driven by Francisco Garcia, 59, of 210 N. Arlington Heights Road, turned into the side of her car.

Garcia was cited for driving with no valid drivers license and for failure to yield. (A Vacation School to Open Mon.

Vacation Church School, sponsored jointly by the Arlington Heights Congregational United Church of Christ, 1001 W. Kirchoff Road, and the Southminster United Presbyterian Church, 906 E. Central Road, will open Monday.

Classes will be offered to children from four years of age through third grade and will be held 9:30-11:45 a.m. from July 18 through July 21 and from July 25 through July 28.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Jack Wilson, director of the school, the theme for the session is "Our Church." The children will be taught how they relate to their church through work, music and recreation.

Children may be enrolled through Monday. (A

School Board Votes Tentative Budget

The tentative budget for Elementary School District 25, to cover 1966-67, was passed unanimously Monday at a regular meeting of the Board of Education.

Public hearing on the tentative budget was set for 7:30 p.m. August 15.

Figures outlined in the budget represent an increase of about $875,000 in the educational fund, largest of five separate funds to be appropriated.

The total educational fund allotment this year is $4,217,992, as compared to $3,342,297 in last year's budget.

OTHER FUND totals and their counterparts in last year's budget are as follow:

Building fund—$470,375 this year; $490,300 last year.

Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund—$54,400 this year; $41,581 last year.

Transportation fund—$109,300 this year; $82,700 last year.

Bond and interest fund—$684,371 this year; $589,641 last year.

This tentative budget has been called by Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh as an "austerity" budget and by board members as a "very tight" budget. (A

Pat Cox Attends SIU Workshop

Arlington Heights resident Patricia Cox, 1539 N. Kaspar Ave., is taking part in the tenth annual High School Summer Workshops in Communications at Southern Illinois University, July 4-30.

The program is designed to improve the students' work in dramatics, yearbook and newspaper activity, speech and reading during their last year or final two years in high school.

Each student is enrolled in either journalism, speech, theater or interpretation. (A Class of 1946 Holds Reunion

The 1946 graduating class of Arlington High School celebrated their 20-year reunion recently with a dinner and dance at the Salt Creek Country Club.

Mrs. Harry C. Knaack, 202 W. Euclid Ave., served as chairman of the organizing committee.

One-hundred fifteen attended the reunion. (A

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights, Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

Natalie Fairhead 392-5654 — Mary O'Leary CL 9-3827

This Sidelight correspondent seems to have inadvertently taken on a new sideline . . . The Monday Morning Wake-up Service. My apologies to all the nice neighbors who groggily answered the phone last Monday. I know just how difficult it was to get out of the bed after spending two hours of the night in the basement listening to garbage cans fly by. Wonder why we can't just have a plain old-fashioned thunderstorm any more! I'll make you Sidelighters an offer: in exchange for a piece of news I will be glad to give you a friendly wake up call Monday morning.

The Edward Prinslow family of 11 N. Gibbons has returned from a long weekend at the Golden Horse Ranch in Westfield, Wis. All kinds of activities and summer fun were available for guests of the ranch. The children, Kurt, Kelly, Chris, and Laurie, tried everything with horseback riding and swimming being the favorites. Jean thoroughly enjoyed not cooking or washing dishes.

NEW NEIGHBORS of the Prinslows' are the Bob Ahrens at 19 N. Gibbons. Bob, Nancy and children, Philip, 5, and Ben, 4, are not newcomers to Arlington Heights. The whole family packed up and moved two years ago from an apartment in Arlington Heights to a home in Wheeling. Wheeling's loss is our gain and we are delighted to welcome them back.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, 19 N. Pine, returned from Michigan late Sunday night after a weekend visit with their daughters, Linda and Kathie. First stop was at Kalamazoo College to pick up Linda, who is spending this quarter on campus. They then drove on to Ann Arbor to visit Kathie. A June University of Michigan graduate, Kathie is taking some education courses this summer, getting ready to teach English and French at the junior high level in Garden City, Mich. this fall.

The Albert Colianni family, 531 S. Fernandez, entertained former residents of Arlington Heights over the July Fourth weekend. Enjoying a good gab fest and seeing friends were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brander and their sons, Bob and John. The Branders now make their home in Cincinnati.

CINDY BROWN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Brown of 603 N. Forrest, is singing the praises of our island state Hawaii. Cindy returned to Arlington Heights last week after a three-week visit with her college roommate, Violet Serrao. Violet's family has a home right on the beach on the island of Oahu, a perfect setting for sun and fun and a try at surfing. Cindy and Violet will be sophomores at Lorretto Heights College, near Denver, this fall and Arlington Heights will hang out the welcome sign for Miss Serrao during the Christmas holidays.

Cindy unpacked and packed again two days later for a trip to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Harold Brown of Naubinway, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. William Barnett, 804 N. Hickory, have all their family at home again. Mrs. Barnett's sister, Mrs. B. Heilman of Madison, Wis. brought Mary Barnett home last weekend. Mrs. Heilman and her children, Lawton and Anne, returned to Madison Sunday evening.

NORTH HICKORY has been a busy street during the last few weeks. Mrs. Ralph Donges of 735 N. Hickory tried to plan a surprise birthday party for her husband on July 3. The cool pool party turned out to be "kind of a surprise but everybody knew about it!" Helping Ralph to celebrate were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schulze, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laurey of Barrington and Mr. and Mrs. John Sinadinas of Glen Ellyn. The four couples enjoyed dinner in an Arabian Nights' setting at the Scheherazade in Chicago, and then the word was "everybody back in the pool!"

By this time North Hickory has about recovered from the two graduation parties at the home of the George Farrells at 745. Their daughter, Margaret, graduated from Marquette University in Milwaukee on June 5. Margaret, who received her degree from the school of nursing, was honored at a family buffet dinner that evening. Attending from Chicago were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cassidy. On June 11, the Farrells put on the room expanders and entertained 70 at another dinner party, this time honoring their son, Dick, who graduated from Northwestern that morning. It was a special red letter day for Dick and his family. His wife, Susan, and their four children, Cathy, Kevin, Chris and Amy, have been helping Dad study for several years. All the family, dressed up in their best bib and tucker, was present for the graduation ceremony. Guests at the dinner party were Dick's fellow employees at the Elgin Savings and Loan Assn. and many Arlington Heights friends.

Sympathy is extended to Ralph G. Hess, 104 N. Gibbons, on the death on July 8 in Des Plaines of his mother, Mrs. Adeline B. Hess.

A "WELCOME home" mat is being rolled out on the Carlson doorstep at 630 E. Clarendon. They are preparing for the return of their daughter, Janine, from a year in Europe. Janine, who will be a senior next year at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, where she also spent her freshman and sophomore years, has just completed her junior year studies at the University of Exeter in Exeter, England.

After leaving last September, she continued her studies in English literature (in which she plans to earn her degree) under the unique tutorial system, characteristic of many foreign universities and colleges.

As her school year included two five-and-a-half week vacations, she used these to travel extensively in Europe. The itinerary of her first vacation called for visits to such mainland countries as France, Germany, Italy and Switzerland. The second brought a pleasant change of pace — her parents flew over to join their daughter in a tour of Scandinavia. When they had turned homeward, she continued her travels to East and West Berlin, Holland, Germany, Scotland, Ireland and Wales during the remainder of her vacation.

LAST WEEK AT the New home, 515 Mayfair, Mr. and Mrs. Willard New entertained Mrs. New's sister, Mrs. Charles Schilcht and her children, Andy, Peter and Lisa. The News spent a week of beach outings and carting the kids around.

Mrs. Glorch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Loppacker completed a two-week visit with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Glorch at 615 S. Beverly. However, the return party to New Jersey winged its way eastward with one additional member. Six-year-old Susan Glorch joined her grandparents aboard the eastbound train and stopped in Long Island, N. Y. to spend two weeks with the family of Mrs. Glorch's sister. Leaving New York behind, Susan will then head for her grandparents' home in Bloomfield, N.J., where she will spend the final week of her away-from-home vacation. The climax to her adventure will come about two weeks from today (Thursday), when Susan will bly home alone.

The weekend of the Fourth of July brought a houseful of guests to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Peery at 504 S. Beverly. Mr. Peery's two brothers flew in July 1. Donald Peery arrived with his daughter, Kay, from Waldorf, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Peery came in from Charleston, W.Va. to pay their first visit to the Peerys in Arlington Heights.

The Peerys' daughter came in from Appleton, Wis. with her husband, Larry Deem; Their son, Bill, a sophomore at Buena Vista College in Storm Lake, Iowa, is home for the summer and joined in the festivities. The activities for the get-together included picnics, an outing to Chicago and cruising on the Fox River aboard the Peerys' cabin cruiser.

NANCIE DOUGLAS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Douglas, 407 Beverly, left Arlington Heights June 28th and set out for Iowa. Boarding an airplane, she headed for Shawnee, to spend two weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Douglas.

Two weeks in Wisconsin and Michigan kept Mr. and Mrs. Jack Meyerhoff away from their home at 326 S. Stratford until July 6. While they were gone, they spent a week in Saint Germaine, Wis., paid a visit to Mackinac Island, famous for its mode of transportation — no cars, just bicycles, horses, horse-drawn carriages and foot its historic landmarks and its scenery; spent three days at Dearborn Inn and toured the Ford Museum in Greenfield Village.

Guests from San Bernardino, Calif. came and went last weekend at the Arlington Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Johnson, 309 Stratford. Mrs. Johnson's niece, Mrs. Rudie Szutz, arrived with her husband and son, Randy, on Saturday and hoped to leave by plane from O'Hare Airport on Monday, if the airline strike permitted. (A

NU Aide To Help Schools Find New Superintendent

Dr. Frank Endicott, director of placement at Northwestern University, has agreed to help Elk Grove District 59 find a new superintendent.

Supt. Roger Bardwell has resigned to accept the superintendency of Ithaca, N.Y. school system.

The school board Monday evening approved a maximum of $1,000 for Endicott's consultation and expenses.

Candidates for the position are asked to contact Endicott or direct their applications to board Pres. Douglas Burns at the administration building, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

DEADLINE for applications is August 5.

The board will interview applicants who pass an initial screening. Interviewing is scheduled Aug. 8 through Aug. 12. The board hopes to be able to announce the appointment of a new superintendent soon after Aug. 15.

Burns said he is very optimistic that the school district will find the kind of superintendent it wants in spite of the short time permitted. Burns stressed that the board would not settle for someone who did not have the qualifications, just because of the deadline. "We'll go with an acting superintendent if necessary," he said.

School District 59 should attract several capable applicants, Burns said. He noted that Bardwell was found almost at the same time of year.

Burns said the board had not ruled out promotion from within the school system. District 59 applicants will be given the same consideration as an outsider, Burns said.

THE SCHOOL district is looking for a superintendent with a minimum of five years of successful administrative experience, preferably as a school superintendent. It prefers someone with a doctor's degree able to meet certification requirements for a superintendent in Illinois. Minimum age considered is 35.

The district is prepared to pay $20,000 on a 12-month contract depending on experience and training.

Personal qualities cited include:

A respect for all individuals and the potential of each to contribute to the optimum growth of the eductional program of the district.

An attitude toward educational change characterized by high tolerance for innovation; he should actively encourage and sanction new programs and projects.

A sense of urgency that improvements are needed in our public educational system.

A willingness to permit individuals to develop independently and autonomously and a faith in their ability to function in terms of an inner sense of responsibility.

The ability to view human relations as an important consideration in the decision-making process.

CAPACITY to make definite, firm recommendations to the board of education and support recommendations with a thorough analysis of the situation.

Willingness to acquire personnel whose ability may exceed his own and to give them assignments that challenge their abilities.

A concern for the wise deployment of school money to get the greatest educational return for each dollar spent. (A

Concert Tonight By Summer Band

The Arlington High School Summer Band will stage its second concert tonight (Thursday) at 8 at Pioneer Park.

The 70-piece band, under the direction of F. C. Schmoyer, will present a varied program featuring its trumpet section in a selection entitled "Trumpets, Ole!"

William Appleby, supervisor of parks, suggests that listeners bring lawn chairs or blankets to the program.

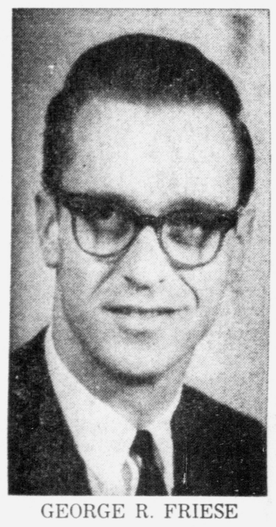
The third and final band concert will be played in Hasbrook Park on July 28. (A

Schlickman Names Campaign Manager

Eugene F. Schlickman, incumbent Republican candidate for the Illinois House of Representatives, has appointed George R. Friese campaign manager for the November general election.

Friese, a Schaumburg Township auditor and general legal counsel to the Republican party, was Schaumburg Township campaign manager for Robert O. Atcher in Atcher's bid for the GOP nomination for state senator in the 3rd District.

FRIESE said he was "pleased and proud to serve" in Schlickman's campaign. He referred to Schlickman as "an outstanding Republican who has demonstrated his effectiveness as a representative in the House and his leadership of the GOP in the largest township in the 3rd District."



GEORGE R. FRIESE

Schlickman, seeking his second term in the House, led the district ticket in the June Republican primary in which he also was elected Republican committeeman in Wheeling Township. (A

Hairdresser Takes Part In Seminar

Miss Carole Breust, 842 N. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, and other Chicago area hairdressers participated in an educational seminar sponsored by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers Association last week.

Among techniques demonstrated to the participants was a method for changing a dark haired woman into a partial blond.

MISS BREUST, a member of the Chicago Hair Fashion Commission and a hair coloring artist, said that the technique was developed to allow the salon patron to determine whether or not she will "have more fun as a blonde" without the necessity of constant touch-ups.

Also demonstrated at the seminar were new techniques of permanent waving.

The seminar was held at Banana's Steak House, 9401 S. Cicero, Oak Lawn. (A

Snow Man Points Way on New Map

The snow man means north on the new Arlington Heights maps which are available at the village hall business office for 25 cents. The snow man should help some women who have had trouble determining north on previous maps.

The maps, revised four weeks ago, include a street guide and cross reference to quickly check any location in the village. (A

Deadline Tonight for Falls Trip

Tonight (Thursday) is the deadline for reservations for the July 29 trip to Niagara Falls sponsored by the Over 50 Club of Arlington Heights - Wheeling Township.

The club plans to leave Pioneer Park by bus at 7:30 p.m. July 29. It will travel by train to Burlington, Ontario. Included in the club itinerary are breakfast at a restaurant called Pancakes in the Park at Hamilton, Ontario, a sightseeing bus trip to the falls and throughout the area, and a dinner at Seagram Towers.

There are eight seats unfilled for the trip. The entire cost is $45, and anyone who is interested should contact Elizabeth Meyer at CL 5-3169. (A

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Heidi Jo Singer, daughter of the Joe Singers, 1402 N. Illinois, was christened on July 3 in St. Mark Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect. Rev. David Quill officiated at the ceremony which took place after the 11 a.m. services. Sponsors for Heidi were her cousin, Diane Singer of Mount Prospect, and Fred Seidlitz of Chicago. The Singers gave a family dinner for 20 guests in Heidi's honor after the baptism.

Terrace newcomers are John and Joan Klussmann and their daughters, Nancy, 5, and Kelly, 15 months. The Klussmanns moved to 1301 N. Chicago from their former home on Euclid on July 3. John is employed by the Kendall Co. in Barrington. Among Joan's outside interests, she ranks her interest in the League of Women Voters tops.

Visiting the Howard Soissons, 1251 N. Chiago, from July 6 to July 12 was Howard's brother, Cliff Soisson of Irwin, Pa. Cliff enjoyed a vacation with his brother and family prior to reporting for duty in the Navy. The end of July Cliff will be stationed at Great Lakes. The Soissons took their guest to see points of interest in the area. Among places visited were Old Town and Brookfield Zoo. Two days of swimming at Cedar Lake and a trip to the city to see "Sound of Music" were other bits of entertainment for the houseguest.

Ray and Gail Israel, 1247 N. Chicago, went to Chicago to see "Hello Dolly" last Saturday. They were accompanied by former high school classmates, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bacchiere of Niles. The two couples had dinner at Elliot's Pine Lodge in Skokie after the play.

SATURDAY Freya Jones and daughter, Mara, 1227 N. Illinois, went to Wheaton, where they showed their Afghan Hound in the Kennel Club Annual Summer All-Breed Dog Show.

Sunday the Jones family went to Algonquin to another dog show. This one was sponsored by the Afghan Hound Club of Greater Chicago and was their Annual Summer A.K.C. Sanctioned Match. Freya was co-chairman of the show. The Joneses' dog won second place in two races in the elementary racers class. He won fourth in the Open Dog class. Nine-year-old Mara Jones won a third place in junior showmanship in her class for youngsters up to 10.

Kevin Dorsey, son of the James Dorseys, 1116 N. Yale, was 7 July 8. He celebrated with a party Friday attended by Michael, Kathleen, and Maureen Coleman, Dawn and James Lykken, and his brother and sister, Timothy and Pamela. A birthday luncheon followed by games was enjoyed by the young partygoers.

Saturday the Dorsey family went to a Cubs game to celebrate Kevin's birthday.

Recent guests of the Dorseys were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Penhale and 3 daughters of Negaumee, Mich. The Penhales were visiting in the Chicago area and saw the Dorseys on several occasions. Last Wednesday the two families went to Brookfield Zoo. Saturday the Penhales were guests in the Dorsey home.

THE TERRACE bids farewell to Bill and Olive Balow and their son, Stephen. The Balows moved from 1424 N. Illinois to Northbrook on July 6. Original Terrace residents, they had lived in their home nearly 12 years.

Enjoying Fourth of July weekend in Des Moines were Jack and Elma Harmon and son, Bruce, 1430 N. Race. The Harmons drove there on July 2 to visit Elma's parents, the Fred Wenettas; they returned home on the Fourth.

Betty Hanrahan, 1404 Race, spent last week at Lily Lake visiting her daughter and family, the Charles Barneses, at their summer home. Betty's sister and family, the Myron Walendas of Northlake also spent the week at Lily Lake. Joe Hanrahan joined his wife, daughter and her family for the weekend.

Howard and Ann Redding and children, Howard, Laura, Jill, and Sarah, 1345 N. Wilke, spent last weekend at Wesley Woods, a church family camp in Williams Bay, Wis., located on Lake Geneva.

Returning from a 10-day vacation in Florida on July 4 were Bob and Trudy Vonderheide and daughters, Cheryl, and Tammy, 1406 N. Chicago. The Vonderheides spent most of their time at St. Petersburg; they visited Trudy's aunt, Mrs. G. Hauber, while there. Among the many tourist attractions of the area they visited Tarpon Springs and Weeki Wachee, where the family enjoyed the underwater show and rode in a glass-bottom boat for a better view of the show.

ARRIVING IN Arlington Heights on July 3 to spend two weeks with the Hal Fluhrers, 1433 N. Race, were Hal's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fluhrer and Karen of Daytona Beach, Fla.

On July 7 the two Fluhrer families celebrated the 10th birthday of Skip Fluhrer. Joining them for the celebration was Skip's aunt, Elizabeth Lane of Chicago.

Comments on the weather in Arlington Heights and Florida made by both the Fluhrers and Vonderheides indicated that Florida was the cooler of the two locations.

The Terrace welcomes Lawrence and Judy Willmann and their son Bruce, 1. The Willmanns moved to 1346 N. Illinois from Wheeling the end of June. Lawrence is a Lieutenant at the Nike Base. Both Lawrence and Judy enjoy bowling and cards; Judy is having fun learning to sew and says she will accept the advice of experts in the field. The Willmanns attend Our Redeemer Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights.

Bill and Kay Platte and sons, Paul and Jimmy, 1318 N. Race, took a three-day vacation over the Fourth of July. On July 3 the Plattes drove to Chenoa, Illinois, where they visited friends, the William Kroples. They live on a farm and the Platte boys enjoyed seeing it and visiting a large dairy farm near the Kroples' home.

WORD HAS BEEN received from Jim and Pat Ordner that they have added a boy to their family of two girls. Daniel James was born June 24. The Ordners moved from Chicago Ave. to St. Louis in the late fall.

Ralph and Barbara Wiederhold and four of their children, Kevin, Robby, Dwight, and Lisa, 1322 N. Chicago, attended a big family picnic on July 4 at the home of Ralph's niece and family, the Tom Delaneys in Itasca. Robby and John Husted accompanied the Wiederholds.

Werner and Leona Becker, 1440 N. Race, spent July 3 and 4 with their son and family, the Ronald Beckers in Joliet. This was the Beckers' last opportunity to visit with their daughter-in-law's parents before their return to Seattle.

Vacationing in Sturgeon Bay, Wis., for five days last week were Jesse and Genevieve Galloway and children, Cathy, Mike, Deborah, and Stephen, 1111 N. Wilke.

Saturday night dinner guests of Jerry and Nancy Pollard, 1400 N. Yale, were their parents, the John Pollards of Arlington and the Francis Cooks of Barrington.

SUNDAY GUESTS of the Pollards were Terrace friends, the Tom Kays.

Visiting Ron and Lorie Starke, 1414 N. Illinois, are Lorie's sister and son, Mickey Horcher and Jeff of Arlington, Va. The guests arrived last Saturday and will remain until Sunday.

On June 24, Carl and Loretto Wasmunc, 1338 N. Chicago, celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary by attending the races at Arlington Park.

Le Roy and Velma Leister, 1440 N. Yale, enjoyed the company of LeRoy's father, Edward Leister, last week. The guest lives in Fairbury.

BILL AND PAT Ross and children, Billy and Cindy, 1252 N. Chicago, returned July 2 from a week's vacation at Lake Delton near Wisconsin Dells. Accompanying the Rosses on their vacation were ex-Terrace residents, the Rix family. Swimming and canoeing were only a few of the things enyoyed by the vacationers.

July 4 guests of the Bob Cooks, 1321 N. Chicago, were the Tom Sucher family.

Nine-year-old Kathy Cook recently participated in a piano recital in the home of her teacher in Stonegate.

Don and Mina Shields and daughter, Susie, 1256 N. Race, spent last weekend at Saugatuck, Mich., a resort town. Boating was one of their chief recreations. (A

Jean and Gary Waffle and their children enjoyed a weekend visit from Gary's folks, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Waffle of Pleasant Lake, Ind.

The same weekend saw the return of the Dick Sims family to their home on Clarendon after a two-week trip filled with fun and sightseeing. Their first stop was at Niagara Falls, after which they met their eldest son, Keith, in Springfield, Mass. From there, the family drove to New York City. Although time permitted no longer than two days in that area, the Simses made the most of it. Their itinerary included a tour of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Empire State building, the United Nations building and a performance by the famed Rockettes.

A tour up the East Coast brought them to the historical grounds of Concord and Lexington, Mass. Next, for a camping site, the family selected Hermit Island and Bar Harbor, Maine. After a return to Springfield with Keith, the rest of the family headed westward to Arlington Heights.

EN ROUTE to Kenona, Canada, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Crockett of Indianapolis made an overnight stop at the North Beverly home of the Richard Dick family. Recently from Indianapolis themselves, the Dick's enjoyed the visit from Pat's aunt and uncle.

July 4th afternoon found the Busse Woods forest preserve buzzing with happy Arlington Greens families, assembled for a picnic and assorted games. The children's games, whose participants ranged in age from four to fourteen, were won by David Weidinger, Kim Haltom, Eric Kopfer, Stacey Bergren, Tom Waffle, Laura Pettenuzzo, Kevin Dick, Tom Klingner and Robert and Kevin Roby.

Not to be outdone by their offspring, the parents engaged in a Henfruit Harvest. As the uncooked eggs were tossed back and forth between husband and wife, there were many groans amid the splatters, but eventually Virginia and Harold Klingner emerged unscathed.

A bowl containing 2169 beans was guessed by Dennis Bergren to hold 2150. For his near perfect guess, Dennis was awarded, of all things, a can of beans. Over 30 couples and their children attended the celebration.

ELEVEN OF his buddies helped Dickie Braun make his eighth birthday a memorable one on the Fourth of July with a lively party. Dickie lives with his family on Clarendon.

Peggy and Norman Sterner, with children Donnie and Kathy, spent the Fourth of July weekend in Detroit, Mich., visiting Mr. George Burton, Peg's father. While there, the Sterners attended a large family reunion before returning to their home on North Dryden. The following week, as a result of a hunting accident, their eldest son Kenneth was hospitalized in Northwest Community Hospital.

Harrisburg, Ill., was the scene of another family re-union at which the Floyd Kingstons and daughter Jane were participants. With one exception, a sister who was in West Virginia at the time, all of the Kingston family were on hand for a huge picnic. Floyd, Emily and Jane reside on North Beverly.

For any news you may have for the month of July, please call Elsie Roby at CL 3-3986.

HICKORY MEADOWS

Making their back lawn available to their friends for a get-together, June and Richard Wendell of North Hickory hosted the DeLucas, Rogers, Helblings and the Olivers. The couples enjoyed games and refreshments during the afternoon, then settled down to a potluck supper in the early evening.

Last Sunday, just as Marie and Don Helbling were about to embark upon a backyard cook-out with friends from Arlington Greens, the Kluball and Lynch families, Don's brother, Neil and his wife from Kansas City, Mo., paid them a surprise visit at their home on East Marion. Adding another couple of steaks to the grill, the group resumed festivities. (A

Lions Club Olympics at High School

Youngsters from all Arlington Heights parks will compete this afternoon (Thursday) in the Lions Olympics at Arlington High School at 1:30.

The participants were chosen in preliminary competitions earlier this week. Among the events will be shot put throwing, dashes and the high jump.

Every week there is a special park sponsored event for children from first through eighth grades. Last week more than 50 children entered in the Balloon Bang-Up which included a balloon stomp, a balloon throw and a balloon relay.

THE WINNERS of the balloon stomp and balloon throw were John Stubing and Mark Bestvina. The winning relay team winners were Dan Stubing, Bob Stubing, John Stubing, Nancy Skarcznski, Ken Myers, Gary Prindras and Randy Lechelt.

Next week the park will feature Carnival Capers, an event that is open to all children free of charge. There will be booths and games in all of the parks.

Northwest YMCA's Growth Recorded

The Northwest Suburban YMCA served 10 per cent more members in 1965 than in 1964 with a total '65 membership of 16,723, according to Charles McClellan, executive director. The ratio of volunteer leaders was one for every 10 members.

The increase in membership is reflected in changing program emphasis. Family memberships and women's and girls' participation have gained notably, but the "Y" remains a youthful organization with 60 per cent of its membership under 25.

McClellan says that 1965 income totaled just under $500,000. Of this amount, $42,000 came from Crusade of Mercy funds which helped provide free handicapped- and learn-to-swim classes, free membership for needy youngsters, and low rates for the use of facilities for civic, church and youth groups. Your Idea Can Earn You $5!

All suggestions will be judged on the basis of originality, interest and suitability for our suburban readership.

In the event two or more suggestions are received on the same topic, the recipient of the $5 cash award will be determined on the basis of the earliest postmark.

Want to see an idea of yours in print and earn $5 for it? Paddock Publications, Inc., is inviting its readers to submit new feature ideas for development by its staff.

Here's what you do:

First, consider persons you find interesting. Perhaps they're interesting because they've invented the first flying clothespin. Or, maybe they have an interesting hobby, such as bow-making.

Whatever your idea, jot it down on a piece of paper with your name, address and telephone number and mail to Features, Dept. J., Post Office Box 277, Arlington Heights, Illinois 60006.

Please include the name, address and telephone number of the person our writer should contact to develop the story when you submit your suggestion.

SIX WEEKS EARLY, William Alexius Barth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barth, 260 W. Par Lane, Itasca, was the first baby born at the new Saint Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village. The infant was born July 3 in the hospital's emergency room. Mrs. Barth is a member of Saint Alexius' auxiliary. The seven-story, 224-bed hospital opened June 27 and serves the northern portions of Cook and DuPage Counties.

Dentists Invite The Students

Dr. Robert C. Coberley, 1502 E. Miner, Arlington Heights, and Dr. Robert N. Klein, 111 S. Northwest Highway, Palatine, are among the first 47 dentists of a "Committee of 100" in Illinois who will invite new University of Illinois dental students to their offices for a three-to-five-day introduction to dentistry.

The dentists, selected from more than 2,000 of the University's dental alumni in Illinois, met recently to plan the program to help students determine whether or not they have chosen the proper career.

Members of the committee also will serve as regional alumni representatives in their communities to answer questions from interested high school and college students and teachers about dental careers. (A(P

Include Maryville Group With Dist. 214 Youth Corps

Twenty young people from Maryville Home for Children have been enrolled in High School District 214's Neighborhood Youth Corps.

They will work at Maryville but draw salaries from the $26,500 allotted from federal anti-poverty funds to operate the high school district's summer program.

District 214's success in encouraging its own NYC enrollees to take summer school classes—a project dear to the heart of some school board members—made it possible to include the Maryville students, NYC Dir. George Theodore said.

He said about 25 per cent of the District 214's 56 summer Neighborhood Youth Corp workers are taking summer school classes. Because of this, their NYC work will be limited to 15 or 20 hours a week each rather than the 32 hours planned for in the summer NYC budget.

"WITH SO many hours available," said Theodore, "We were able to accommodate the Maryville youngsters too."

He hastened to add that addition of the Maryville group will not make it necessary to exclude any regular District 214 students who are eligible for the NYC work guidance program because of their income level—or who meet income requirements but do not become 16 years old until mid-summer.

Approval of the Maryville youngsters' enrollment in the NYC program has been given by district Neighborhood Youth Corps officials, the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity and the District 214 administration.

THEODORE says he and Don Schroeder, District 214 counselor assigned to assist with the NYC guidance program this summer, believe they now have every eligible and interested local student enrolled.

The NYC students work at area high schools and one junior high as library aides, teachers' assistants, landscape helpers, typists or clerks.

They are paid $1.25 an hour and receive on-job counselling as a regular — and valuable— part of the NYC program. The Maryville students will do the same, but work at tasks at their own campus.

Maryville, located at River Road and Central in Des Plaines, is operated by Catholic Charities as a home for dependent children. The 20 youngsters being provided parttime jobs through the NYC represent about a fifth of the 16-and-older residents of the home.

By fall Maryville hopes to have its own Neighborhood Youth Corps program, to serve most of its children 16 years old or older.

THE SCHOOL and children's home is eligible as a non-profit institution. Almost all its children — many of them wards of Maryville — meet the income level requirements for the federal program.

Jack LaMotte, program director at Maryville, says the Catholic home's NYC program application will soon be ready for submission.

Theodore is serving as a volunteer, unpaid consultant in drawing up the application. He has "been of great assistance," LaMotte told Paddock Publications. "He has really extended himself to help us." (ACME

Park Pool Sanitation Rules OKd

Oral approval was given the Arlington Heights Park District last Wednesday by village health board members who inspected park pool sanitation regulations.

"If they follow that (the regulations), they're in good shape," Dr. John Detweiler, chairman of the health board, commented.

The board last month had asked that Park Supt. Thomas Thornton attend their meeting to explain pool sanitation rules.

The request was made after Mrs. Maria Coburn, village health nurse who acts as secretary to the board, said she had received unfavorable comments from Cook County Health Department officials. She had asked the county officials to explain sample pool water tests results given her by Thornton.

Thornton did not attend the meeting, but sent the pool regulation booklets and offered to take health board members on an explanatory tour of park facilities.

The tour—not mentioned at the Wednesday meeting—would take about two hours, he said.

5 Seek School Vacancy

Candidates from every geographical area of Elk Grove School District 59 have applied to fill a vacancy on the school board.

The vacancy will be created when Joseph Schefter resigns to go to Syracuse University in September for a year's study.

Resumes from five men have been received by School Board Pres. Douglas Burns.

Applicants are: J. A. Noble, 300 Crest Lane, Elk Grove Village; G. Wallace Meyer, 84 Kendall, Elk Grove Village; Richard H. Gallagher, 1203 Robin Lane, Mount Prospect; Earl J. Freise, 1643 Chesterfield Drive, Arlington Heights, and Jack Denny, 14 Lancaster Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Another applicant is expected from Elk Ridge Villa in Mount Prospect.

BURNS SAID the board will screen the resumes and invite the finalists for an interview.

The board is not looking for a person from a particular area, Burns said.

Burns said the individual chosen must indicate interest in running for the school board in the April election when Schefter's term would expire.

The new school board member probably will be chosen after a new superintendent is hired, Burns said. Schefter is expected to remain on the board during the interviewing of superintendent candidates.

The board has 30 days to appoint a new board member after a formal resignation. (A (M

ON TUBES & CARBURETORS

by ED LANDWEHR

For most folks, one TV or radio tube looks pretty much the same as the other. Many people still don't know the principle of the electric light bulb much less anything about an electronic tube. It is as much a mystery to them as the automobile carburetor is to me.

So, please believe us when we say that first line tubes and other fine electronic parts not only last longer and give better viewing results, but they have a definite bearing on the operation of your TV set.

Next time you need a TV serviceman, phone CL 5-0700 and let LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights show you the difference. You'll be better satisfied and money ahead in the long run.

Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

A party was held at the Harvey Thompson home, 1010 N. Patton, in honor of their son, Ronnie, who graduated from Arlington High School. Guests for the occasion included Sue's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marrill of Mount Prospect, her sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McKaig of Skokie, Glen Pasvogel and the Donald Gieskes of Arlington Heights.

Debbie Thompson is in Fredina, Wis. at Camp Anawa, indulging in the usual summer activities.

The Dick Goers, 1417 W. Elm, went camping at Monroe Center, Wis., for the July 4th weekend and did some fishing and swimming. They were accompanied by their son, Bob and his wife, Laurie, who joined in the double birthday celebration for Don, 10 July 6, and his Dad, July 4.

THE NORMAN T. Walls, 936 N. Ridge, had an outdoor barbecue July 3 to celebrate the holiday. Guests were the John Noerenbergs and the Raymond Crouchs of Arlington Heights. On the Fourth, they celebrated again at a picnic in Morton Grove as guests of the James Holdeners.

On Jluly 3, the James Ringels, 722 N. Ridge, went to a picnic at the home of the Richard Rileys in Chicago Heights.

Going on a vacation in northern Minnesota and Canada didn't help the Olaf Kolaris get away from the heat. It was just as hot there as it was at 1020 N. Kaspar. They did however, enjoy themselves visiting relatives, going fishing and going to various lakes the week and a half they were gone.

The Carroll Kuhlmans, 919 N. Kaspar, and their children spent the July 4th weekend camping in the Wisconsin Dells. They were joined there by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ashton of Burnsville, Minn.

This past weekend the James Junnens, 1016 N. Fernandez, entertained Pat's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Koontz of St. Joseph, Mich. While they were visiting, they all made a trip to Galena, to see Grant's home.

Pat Kunnen was hostess at a kaffee klatsch July 5 for Carol Schroeder of 1020 N. Fernandez, so she could meet some of her new neighbors.

THE ARTHUR Hughes cut short their visit with Betty's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Lawrence in Eau Claire, Wis., Father's Day weekend and returned home when they received word of the impending arrival at 647 N. Kaspar of Betty's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lawrence from Minneapolis on June 21. Her sister, Mrs. Walter Ignacio, and children also paid them a visit, arriving June 23 from Honolulu. It was Betty's sister-in-law's first visit to Chicago, so when they went to meet Mrs. Ignacio they took a tour of Old Town and went to the Museum of Science and Industry among other points of interest. Betty, Diane, Mrs. Ignacio and her children then went to Eau Claire to spend a week visiting Betty's parents, returning home for the holiday.

On the Fourth of July, the George Wojtkiewiczs, 920 N. Ridge, attended a family picnic at the home of George's cousin and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Marks in Glen Ellyn, and finished the day by watching the fireworks display on Lake Ellyn.

Last Thursday Joan and George entertained visitors from South Whittier, Calif., Joan's aunt and family, the Jack Wolfs came out for the day. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Leipzig of Chicago, another aunt. When it grew dark enough, George showed home movies to the Wolfs of different events they were unable to attend. Mrs. Wolf's son, Steve, stayed over night as a guest of his cousin, Jim.

Valerie Juhl, daughter of the Stanley Juhls, of 831 N. Salem, was guests of honor at a bridal shower July 4 at the home of her aunt, Colleen Ostermann. Thirty people were there to surprise Valerie who will be married at St. James Church on July 30 to Jim Arneson of Palatine.

MARTY KOOI celebrated his sixth birthday with two parties at 904 N. Kaspar. On the big day, July 7, afternoon guests included Lisa Etherton, Alison Bieniarz of Chicago, Joey Glassner, Marty's brother, John, and Lynn and Jeff Gillespie of Palatine.

The following Saturday his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kooi of Glenview, and aunts and uncles from Chicago arrived for dinner climaxed by a birthday cake decorated with Batman. Marty's parents are Marcella and Edward Kooi.

On July 3, at 1015 N. Illinois there was a party for the William Bruce Reiters' daughter, Lisa, 2 July 1. Among the guests were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Reiter of Des Plaines and Mr. and Mrs. Roe Dooley of Park Ridge.

THE LESLIE Schranks, 908 N. Ridge, entertained houseguests from Colt's Neck, N. J. recently. Les's brother and his family, the Richard Schranks, were here for a week to visit Grandpa Schrank and the rest of the family and to do some sightseeing.

The Richard Gustafsons, 822 N. Princeton, left July 2 for a week's vacation in Door County, Wis. Besides doing some golfing and swimming, they also celebrated Mary Ann's second birthday July 6.

The Robert Waymans, 924 N. Ridge, were in McHenry on July 4th, at the home of Kate's father, Herb Simon, to celebrate the holiday. It was a double celebration in as much as their son, David, was 10 that day.

The Jay Shaffers, 917 N. Harvard, didn't repeat their performance of last year by catching more trophy fish but they did all right with the wall-eyes. They spent a week at Grassy Narrows Camp, a resort on an island near Morson, Ontario, Canada, just to get away from it all.

Also in Canada on vacation for 12 days were the Donald Knoxes, 925 N. Princeton. They started off by spending four days at the Manoir Richelieu in Murray Bay, Quebec. Leaving there they toured Quebec, Toronto and Montreal, seeing, among other things, the vaults and the changing of the guards.

THIS PAST weekend the Newman Cryer family, 1007 N. Kennicott, cooled off by indulging in some sailing and swimming at Lake Geneva.

1003 N. Ridge was the scene on June 19 of a christening celebration for the Jack Furlongs' newest member. Guests included Jack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Furlong of 827 N. Kennicott, and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Furlong of Arlington Heights, Joan's sister. Sponsors for Michael James were his sister, Nita, and Joan's nephew, Timothy Furlong, at St. James Church.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Balfour attended a family get-together at the home of Bob's cousin, Mrs. Tillie Scharf in Glenview, on July 10. The occasion was a combined birthday and going away party for Mrs. Scharf's daughter, Linda, who was 11, and for Bob's grandmother, Mrs. John Gould, who is moving to Marshall, Minn. The Balfours returned to 1208 W. Northwest Hwy., bringing Robbie's cousin, Don Balfour of Janesville, Wis. Coming down for the celebration in Glenview, he was invited to stay over for the week as Robbie's houseguest.

The evening of July 9 the Charles Toots, 901 N. Princeton, entertained 55 people at a lawn party. It was a congratulatory party in honor of Jim Weltzien of Crystal Lake on his new position.

THE RAY Anderson family, 933 N. Harvard, returned July 9 from a two-week vacation in the east. After visiting Ray's mother, Mrs. Rachael Anderson in Long Island, they drove to Corning, N. Y., where they toured the Corning Museum. From there they drove through Canada to Detroit to visit Henry Ford's Greenfield Village and tour the Ford plant. Leaving there, they went on to Warren Dunes in southern Michigan, where they spent two days relaxing.

Gone from Ridge Park are the Joe Bartls of 939 N. Harvard who have moved back to Germany; the William Shaws of 1004 N. Harvard moved to Indianapolis July 1, and the Hal Eksteins of 912 N. Salem moved to 746 S. Dunton after four years in this area.

The William Barton family, 921 N. Harvard, has returned after a week of fishing and swimming near Hayward, Wis. at Chippewa Flowage on Chippewa Lake.

FROM SHERWOOD

Virginia Burfeind, 1130 N. Harvard, and Genie Sundstrom, 1011 Burgoyne Road, invited 30 friends and neighbors to a surprise linen bridal shower July 9 for Mollie Miller, daughter of the John Millers of 1221 Clarendon. Mollie will be married August 20 to Joseph Maiorello of Chicago.

A houseguest of the Jim Aulds this past weekend was Sam Cullison, formerly of Arlington Heights. Sam, a guitarist, had a playing engagement at the Salt Box in Elk Grove Village on July 9.

The Robert Blackburns, 1004 Watling Road, returned July 8 after spending two weeks in Colorado. There they visited friends, the Fred Utterbacks in Loveland, besides spending four days in Colorado Springs at the Broadmoor Hotel.

THE WILLIAM Helfers, 1215 Watling Road, were also on vacation, but in a different direction. They went south for two weeks, along the west coast of Florida to Naples, Sanibel and Treasure Islands. A majority of their time was spent swimming, sunbathing and shelling, returning home July 2.

Moving away from Sherwood are the James Blackburns of 1206 N. Harvard. After almost three years at this address, their new one will be 431 S. Pine after July 21. The new owners at 1206 N. Harvard are the George Coffins of Virginia Terrace. (A

Recommendation

TO THE PRESIDENT and BOARD OF TRUSTEES
VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS
COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Gentlemen:

We herewith submit an Ordinance for a local improvement entitled "An Ordinance Providing for the Making of a Local Improvement in and for the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Cook County, Illinois," as follows:

That the east half of the roadway of Walnut Avenue from a point fifty-seven and five-tenths (57.5) feet north of the north line (extended) of Clarendon Street, and the west half of the roadway of said Walnut Street from the center line of said Clarendon Street, south to and connecting with the existing pavement in Oakton Street;

And the east half of the roadway of Mitchell Avenue from the center line of Marion Street south to a point fifty-seven and fifty-four hundredths (57.54) feet south of the south line (extended) of Olive Street;

And the west half of the roadway of said Mitchell Avenue from and connecting with the existing pavement at the centerline of Thomas Street south to the south line (extended) of Olive Street;

And the south thirty-three (33) feet of the roadway of Thomas Street from the centerline of Ridge Avenue to and connecting with the proposed pavement in Mitchell Avenue, aforesaid.

And the roadway of Olive Street from a point one hundred thirty-two and two hundredths (132.02) feet west of the west line (extended) of Walnut Avenue to and connecting with the existing pavement in said Olive Street at a point one hundred thirty-two (132) feet, more or less, east of the east line (extended) of Chestnut Avenue (except the proposed pavement in Mitchell Avenue aforesaid);

The undersigned hereby recommend the making of said improvement, the extent, nature, character, locality and description of which is set forth in said draft of ordinance herewith transmitted, and also recommend to you the passage of said ordinance.

The undersigned also transmit to you herewith an estimate of the cost of said improvement as finally determined by them and provided for in said draft of ordinance herewith transmitted.

S. M. RUDDER
President,
Board of Local Improvements
R. H. COLVIN
HAROLD W. KLINGNER
ELLWOOD HUFF
Members of the Board

DATED: This 7th day of July, A.D., 1966.

ESTIMATE

TO THE BOARD OF LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS
VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS
COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Gentlemen:

I herewith submit an Estimate of the cost of making a local improvement in the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Illinois, as follows:

That the east half of the roadway of Walnut Avenue from a point fifty-seven and five-tenths (57.5) feet north of the north line (extended) of Clarendon Street, and the west half of the roadway of said Walnut Street from the center line of said Clarendon Street, south to and connecting with the existing pavement in Oakton Street;

And the east half of the roadway of Mitchell Avenue from the center line of Marion Street south to a point fifty-seven and fifty-four hundredths (57.54) feet south of the south line (extended) of Olive Street;

And the west half of the roadway of said Mitchell Avenue from and connecting with the existing pavement at the centerline of Thomas Street south to the south line (extended) of Olive Street;

And the south thirty-three (33) feet of the roadway of Thomas Street from the centerline of Ridge Avenue to and connecting with the proposed pavement in Mitchell Avenue, aforesaid;

And the roadway of Olive Street from a point one hundred thirty-two and two hundredths (132.02) feet west of the west line (extended) of Walnut Avenue to and connecting with the existing pavement in said Olive Street at a point one hundred thirty-two (132) feet, more or less, east of the east line (extended) of Chestnut Avenue (except the proposed pavement in Mitchell Avenue aforesaid);

Be improved by grading, paving, curbing, constructing storm water sewers, manholes, drainage structures, and connection pipe, together with all necesary adjustment and appurtenant construction.

The effective widths from back of curb to back of curb of completed pavements shall be as follows, including existing half-width sections:

Thomas Street — Forty (40) feet
Walnut Avenue — Thirty-one (31) feet
Olive Street — Thirty-two (32) feet
Mitchell Avenue — Twenty-eight (28) feet

The proposed pavements in all of the roadways hereinbefore described shall consist of either one of two different types of pavement construction, designated herein as Type A and Type B, and shall be constructed of the materials and to the thickness set forth herein as follows:

TYPE A PAVEMENT — Bituminous Concrete Binder and Surface Courses

Alternate 1 — Waterbound Macadam Base Course

Combination concrete curb and gutter on each side (only on one side for half width pavements) between which shall be constructed a Waterbound Macadam Base Course constructed on a granular subbase, and surfaced with bituminous concrete binder and surface courses, all in accordance with the minimum compacted thicknesses for each material used as set forth in the following schedule:

Material	Thomas Street	Walnut Avenue	Mitchell Avenue	Olive Street
Waterbound Macadam Base Course	14"	10"	7"	10"
Subbase Granular Material	4"	4"	4"	4"
Bituminous Concrete Binder Course	2"	1½"	1½"	1½"
Bituminous Concrete Surface Course, I-11	1"	1"	1"	1"

Alternate 2 — Pozzalanic Base Course

Combination concrete curb and gutter on each side (only on one side for half width pavements), between which shall be constructed a Pozzolanic Base Course, constructed on a granular subbase, if specified, and surfaced with bituminous concrete binder and surface courses, all in accordance with the minimum compacted thicknesses for each material used as set forth in the following schedule:

Material	Thomas Street	Walnut Avenue	Mitchell Avenue	Olive Street
Pozzolanic Base Course	7"	6"	6"	6"
Subbase Granular Material	4"	4"	none	4"
Bituminous Concrete Binder Course	2"	1½"	1½"	1½"
Bituminous Concrete Surface Course	1"	1"	1"	1"

TYPE B PAVEMENT — Portland Cement Concrete Pavement with Integral Curbs

A reinforced Portland cement concrete pavement, eight (8) inches in thickness, with integral curbs shall be constructed on Thomas Street within the limits and to the widths hereinbefore described.

A non-reinforced Portland cement concrete pavement, six (6) inches in thickness, with integral curbs shall be constructed on Mitchell Avenue, Walnut Avenue and Olive Street within the limits and to the widths hereinbefore described.

The curb lines constituting the pavement returns at each intersection shall be rounded to the arc of a circle having a radius of either twenty-five (25) feet or thirty (30) feet, as specified on the detailed plans. The area between said curbs and the improvements hereinbefore described shall also be paved and otherwise improved with the same materials and to the same thicknesses as adjacent improvements.

Existing pavement returns which conflict with proposed new construction shall be reconstructed as shown on the plans.

New catchbasins and inlets shall be provided where shown on the plans with new connection pipe to existing or proposed sewers.

Existing driveways along the route of the improvement shall be reconstructed as required to conform to the line and grade of the proposed new pavement.

A system of storm sewers with the necessary manholes and all necessary appurtenances as shown on the plans and details attached hereto and made a part hereof shall be constructed as hereinafter described.

The size, material and location of each of the lines of proposed storm sewer installation included in the improvement are as follows:

A. Marion Street Storm Sewer System

Twenty-seven (27) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Highland Avenue from and connecting with the existing storm sewer in said Highland Avenue, at a point forty-two (42) feet, more or less, south of the south line of Marion Street, northerly to said Marion Street; thence westerly in Marion Street to Mitchell Avenue; thence southerly in Mitchell Avenue to Olive Street; thence westerly in Olive Street to a point lying one hundred thirty-two (132) feet, more or less, west of the west line of Mitchell Avenue, aforesaid; thence changing in size to twenty-four (24) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe and continuing westerly to Walnut Avenue; thence changing in size to twenty-one (21) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe and continuing westerly to a point of termination lying one hundred thirty-two (132) feet, more or less, west of the west line of Walnut Avenue, aforesaid.

Eighteen (18) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Walnut Avenue from and connecting with the proposed twenty-four (24) inch storm sewer in Olive Street, aforesaid, northerly to a point lying one hundred thirty-seven and five-tenths (137.5) feet, more or less, north of the north line of said Olive Street; thence changing in size to twelve (12) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe and continuing northerly to a point of termination lying three hundred ninety-five and five-tenths (395.5) feet, more or less, north of the north line of said Olive Street.

Twelve (12) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Olive Street, aforesaid, from and connecting with the proposed storm sewer in Mitchell Avenue, aforesaid, easterly to a point of termination lying one hundred fifteen (115) feet, more or less, east of the east line of said Mitchell Avenue.

Fifteen (15) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Chestnut Avenue from and connecting with the proposed storm sewer in Marion Street, aforesaid, southerly to a point lying thirty-four (34) feet, more or less, south of the south line (extended) of said Marion Street; thence changing in size to twelve (12) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe and continuing southerly to a point of termination lying two hundred ninety-eight (298) feet, more or less, south of the said south line (extended) of Marion Street;

B. Clarendon Street Storm Sewer System

Twenty-four (24) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Dunton Avenue, from and connecting with the existing storm sewer in Oakton Street, northerly to a point lying five hundred (500) feet, more or less, north of the north line of said Oakton Street; thence westerly in an existing easement to Highland Avenue; thence northerly in Highland Avenue to Clarendon Street; thence westerly in Clarendon Street to a point of termination lying one hundred thirty-two (132) feet, more or less, west of the west line of Walnut Avenue.

Fifteen (15) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Walnut Avenue, from and connecting with the proposed storm sewer in Clarendon Street, aforesaid, southerly to a point of termination lying two hundred seven and five-tenths (207.5) feet, more or less, south of the south line of said Clarendon Street.

Fifteen (15) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Chestnut Avenue, from and connecting with the proposed storm sewer in Clarendon Street aforesaid, southerly to a point of termination lying eighty-seven and six-tenths (87.6) feet, more or less, south of the south line of said Clarendon Street.

All of said lots and blocks being in Northwest Highlands, a subdivision of the East ½ of the Southeast ¼ (except 2 acres in the extreme southeast corner) of Section 19, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, Cook County, Illinois.

Plans for the improvement showing limits of construction, typical cross-section, proposed grades and all other necessary details are on file with the Secretary of the Board of Local Improvements and are entitled "Village of Arlington Heights, Illinois, Northwest Highlands, Storm Sewers and Paving, Special Assessment No. ." Said plans consist of 32 sheets and are made a part hereof by reference .

Specifications governing the construction of paving improvements are the Standard Specifications of the State of Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings, Division of Highways, adopted on January 2, 1958, and Supplemental Specifications adopted January 3, 1966, as further hereinafter amplified and modified for the individual requirements of this project. Said Standard Specifications are on public file in the office of the Secretary of the Board of Local Improvements and are made a part hereof by reference.

The estimate of cost for constructing the above-described improvement if constructed with waterbound macadam base course and bituminous concrete surface (Type A Pavement, Alternate 1), is titled "Estimate A."

The estimate of cost for constructing the above-described improvement if constructed with pozzolanic base course and bituminous concrete surface (Type A Pavement, Alternate 2) is titled "Estimate B."

The estimate of cost for constructing the above-described improvement if constructed with Portland cement concrete pavement with integral curbs (Type B Pavement) is titled "Estimate C."

ESTIMATE OF COST

The cost, as estimated, for topsoil includes all labor and material necessary for furnishing and spreading of additional topsoil material and final dressing of parkways, complete.

The cost, as estimated, for sidewalk removal includes all labor and equipment necessary for removing existing sidewalks conflicting with construction of improvements and disposing of same off the site.

The cost, as estimated, for Portland cement concrete sidewalk includes the cost of forming, placing, jointing and finishing sidewalk, including all labor and materials, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for combination concrete driveway removal includes all labor and equipment necessary for removing existing concrete driveways interfering with construction of improvements and disposing of same off the site.

The cost, as estimated, for Portland cement concrete driveway pavement (6"), includes the cost of forming, placing, jointing and finishing concrete driveways, including all labor and materials, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for gravel or crushed stone, surface course, Type B, Grade 8 or 9, includes the cost of furnishing and placing gravel or crushed stone to replace stone and gravel driveways conflicting with construction of this improvement, including all labor, equipment and materials.

The cost, as estimated, for gravel or crushed stone base course, Type B, Grade 8 or 9, includes the cost of furnishing and placing gravel or crushed stone to replace stone or gravel bases under bituminous-surfaced driveways conflicting with construction of this improvement, including all labor, equipment and materials.

The cost, as estimated, for pavement replacement, entire, includes all labor, materials and equipment necessary to remove and replace existing concrete and bituminous pavements to their original thickness which interfere with construction of the improvement.

The cost, as estimated, for concrete curb removal includes all labor and equipment necessary for removing existing curb conflicting with construction of improvements and disposing of same off the site.

The cost, as estimated, for combination curb and gutter removal includes all labor and equipment necessary for removing existing curb and gutter interfering with construction of improvements and disposing of same off the site.

The cost, as estimated, for storm sewers in the various sizes and classes of reinforced concrete pipe includes cost of pipe, excavation, placing, jointing, connecting existing storm drains that are crossed by proposed storm sewer construction, backfilling, and all other labor and materials necessary to install storm sewers, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for manholes, Type A (modified) includes furnishing and placing of precast base and sidewall, cast iron frame and lid, excavation and trench backfill, Grade 8 or 9, if required, including all labor and materials, complete in place.

The cost as estimated, for catch basins, Type A (modified), 48" diameter, with frame or grate, as specified, includes the cost of all excavation, trench backfill, Grade 8 or 9, if required, disposal of surplus excavated material, and all labor and material necessary to construct the catch basins, including the cast iron frame and lid or grate, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for storm water inlets, Type A (modified) includes the cost of all excavation, trench backfill, Grade 8 or 9, if required, disposal of surplus excavated material and all labor and material necessary to construct the inlets, including cast iron frame and lid, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for trench backfill (modified) shall include hauling, placing and compacting, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for fire hydrants to be moved includes the cost of excavating, backfilling, and all labor and materials, including pipe and gravel sump, necessary for the relocation of said fire hydrants which interfere with the construction of the improvement.

The cost, as estimated, for fire hydrants to be adjusted includes the cost of excavating, backfilling, and all labor and materials, including barrel and stem extensions necessary to adjust said fire hydrants which do not meet proposed grades of the improvement.

The cost, as estimated, for manholes, valve vaults and catch basins to be adjusted includes the cost of all labor and materials necessary for the adjustment to final grade of said structures.

The cost, as estimated, for manholes, valve vaults and catch basins to be reconstructed includes the cost of all labor and materials necessary to remove and replace said structures which interfere with the construction of the improvement.

The cost, as estimated, for filling existing catch basins includes all work and materials necessary to abandon existing structures, including new pipe required to connect inlet and outlet pipes, and sand backfill, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for adjusting sanitary sewers, 8" diameter or less, includes all labor, materials and equipment necessary to adjust existing sanitary sewer services which interfere with construction of the storm sewers, complete in place and ready for use.

The cost, as estimated, for adjusting water service lines includes all labor, materials and equipment necessary to adjust existing house water services which interfere with construction of the storm sewers, complete in place and ready for use.

The cost, as estimated, for cast iron pipe, fittings and appurtenances for adjusting water mains, 8" diameter or less, includes the cost of all labor, materials, and equipment necessary to dewater, cut, sterilize, install, block and backfill adjustments made to existing water mains interfering with construction of the storm sewers, complete in place and ready for use.

The cost, as estimated, for cast iron frames includes all labor, materials and equipment necessary to furnish and install frames at locations designated by the Engineer, complete in place with cover or grate, as specified.

The cost, as estimated, for tree removal, special (all diameters) includes all labor and equipment necessary to cut, grub, remove and dispose of (off the site) trees interfering with construction of this improvement.

The cost, as estimated, for hard maple trees, 4" caliper, includes all labor, materials and equipment necessary to furnish and plant trees at locations designated by the Engineer, complete in place with fertilizer nutrients and peat moss, as required.

The cost, as estimated, for sheeting and bracing left in place includes only the cost of lumber used in sheeting and bracing when left in place upon written instruction of the Engineer.

The cost, as estimated, for class "X" concrete includes all labor and materials to furnish and place concrete cradle in trenches under sewer when directed by the Engineer.

The cost, as estimated, for the earth excavation includes the cost of shaping and compacting the earth surface on which the subbase is placed, removal and disposal of unsuitable materials, the hauling and disposal of all surplus excavated material, the removal and disposal of brush and obstructions, storing and placing salvaged topsoil and final dressing of parkways, including all costs for labor and equipment.

The cost, as estimated, for subbase granular material, Type B, Grade 8 or 9, includes the cost of furnishing, placing, and compacting said subbase, including all labor, equipment and material necessary, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for screenings includes the cost of all labor, equipment and material to furnish and place said stone screenings by spreading, rolling and compacting.

The cost, as estimated, for the waterbound macadam base course includes the cost of all labor, equipment and material to furnish and place the waterbound macadam base course by spreading, rolling, wetting and compacting.

The cost, as estimated, for the bituminous concrete binder and surface courses, Subclass I-11, shall include spreading, rolling and compacting said material, including labor, material and equipment.

The cost, as estimated, for the bituminous materials (prime coat) shall include the cost of all labor, equipment and material to apply said material to the waterbound macadam or pozzolanic base course and the stone bases of bituminous surfaced drives disturbed during construction.

The cost, as estimated, for combination concrete curb and gutter includes the cost of all labor, equipment and materials required to construct said curb and gutter on each side of the waterbound macadam or the pozzolanic base course.

The cost, as estimated, for aggregate (prime coat) shall include the cost of all labor, equipment and material, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for the pozzolanic base course includes the cost of all labor, equipment and material to furnish and place the pozzolanic base course by spreading, rolling and compacting.

The cost, as estimated, for Portland cement concrete pavement with integral curbs includes forming, placing and finishing the concrete pavement with integral curb, furnishing and placing joint material, dowel bars and tie bars, and cutting contraction joints, including all labor and material, complete in place.

The cost, as estimated, for pavement fabric includes furnishing and placing of steel reinforcing mesh in Portland cement concrete pavement, complete in place.

That the estimates of the total cost of said improvements, as made by the President of this Board, are (A) $202,481.86 for Type A Pavement with Alternate 1, Waterbound Macadam Base Course; (B) $190,784.81 for Type A Pavement with Alternate 2, Pozzolanic Base Course; and (C) $196,865.48 for Type B Pavement, Portland Cement Concrete Pavement with Integral Curbs, which estimates are as follows:

AN ORDINANCE

PROVIDING FOR THE MAKING OF A LOCAL IMPROVEMENT IN AND FOR THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS

BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Cook County, Illinois:

SECTION 1: That a local Improvement shall be made in the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Cook County, Illinois, the nature, character, locality and description of which improvement is as follows:

That the east half of the roadway of Walnut Avenue from a point fifty-seven and five-tenths (57.5) feet north of the north line (extended) of Clarendon Street, and the west half of the roadway of said Walnut Street from the center line of said Clarendon Street, south to and connecting with the existing pavement in Oakton Street.

And the east half of the roadway of Mitchell Avenue from the center line of Marion Street south to a point fifty-seven and fifty-four hundredths (57.54) feet south of the south line (extended) of Olive Street;

And the west half of the roadway of said Mitchell Avenue from and connecting with the existing pavement at the centerline of Thomas Street south to the south line (extended) of Olive Street;

And the south thirty-three (33) feet of the roadway of Thomas Street from the centerline of Ridge Avenue to and connecting with the proposed pavement in Mitchell Avenue, aforesaid.

And the roadway of Olive Street from a point one hundred thirty-two and two hundredths (132.02) feet west of the west line (extended) of Walnut Avenue to and connecting with the existing pavement in said Olive Street at a point one hundred thirty-two (132) feet, more or less, east of the east line (extended) of Chestnut Avenue (except the proposed pavement in Mitchell Avenue aforesaid);

Be improved by grading, paving, curbing, constructing storm water sewers, manholes, drainage structures, and connection pipe, together with all necessary adjustments and appurtenant construction.

The effective widths from back of curb to back of curb of completed pavements shall be as follows, including existing half-width sections:

Thomas Street — Forty (40) feet
Walnut Avenue — Thirty-one (31) feet
Olive Street — Thirty-two (32) feet
Mitchell Avenue — Twenty-eight (28) feet

The proposed pavements in all of the road ways hereinbefore described shall consist of either one of two different types of pavement construction, designated herein as Type A and Type B, and shall be constructed of the materials and to the thickness set forth herein as follows:

TYPE A PAVEMENT — Bituminous Concrete Binder and Surface Courses

Alternate 1 — Waterbound Macadam Base Course

Combination concrete curb and gutter on each side (only on one side for half width pavements) between which shall be constructed a Waterbound Macadam Base Course constructed on a granular subbase, and surfaced with bituminous concrete binder and surface courses, all in accordance with the minimum compacted thicknesses for each material used as set forth in the following schedule:

Material	Thomas Street	Walnut Avenue	Mitchell Avenue	Olive Street
Waterbound Macadam Base Course	14"	10"	7"	10"
Subbase Granular Material	4"	4"	4"	4"
Bituminous Concrete Binder Course	2"	1½"	1½"	1½"
Bituminous Concrete Surface Course, I-11	1"	1"	1"	1"

Alternate 2 — Pozzolanic Base Course

Combination concrete curb and gutter on each side (only on one side for half width pavements), between which shall be constructed a Pozzolanic Base Course, constructed on a granular subbase, if specified, and surfaced with bituminous concrete binder and surface courses, all in accordance with the minimum compacted thicknesses for each material used as set forth in the following schedule:

Material	Thomas Street	Walnut Avenue	Mitchell Avenue	Olive Street
Pozzolanic Base Course	7"	6"	6"	6"
Subbase Granular Material	4"	4"	none	4"
Bituminous Concrete Binder Course	2"	1½"	1½"	1½"
Bituminous Concrete Surface Course	1"	1"	1"	1"

TYPE B PAVEMENT — Portland Cement Concrete Pavement with Integral Curbs

A reinforced Portland cement concrete pavement, eight (8) inches in thickness, with integral curbs shall be constructed on Thomas Street within the limits and to the widths hereinbefore described.

A non-reinforced Portland cement concrete pavement, six (6) inches in thickness, with integral curbs shall be constructed on Mitchell Avenue, Walnut Avenue and Olive Street within the limits and to the widths hereinbefore described.

The curb lines constituting the pavement returns at each intersection shall be rounded to the arc of a circle having a radius of either twenty-five (25) feet or thirty (30) feet, as specified on the detailed plans. The area between said curbs and the improvements hereinbefore described shall also be paved and otherwise improved with the same materials and to the same thicknesses as adjacent improvements

Existing pavement returns which conflict with proposed new construction shall be reconstructed as shown on the plans.

New catchbasins and inlets shall be provided where shown on the plans with new connection pipe to existing or proposed sewers.

Existing driveways along the route of the improvement shall be reconstructed as required to conform to the line and grade of the proposed new pavement.

A system of storm sewers with the necessary manholes and all necessary appurtenances as shown on the plans and details attached hereto and made a part hereof shall be constructed as hereinafter described.

The size, material and location of each of the lines of proposed storm sewer installation included in the improvement are as follows:

A. Marion Street Storm Sewer System

Twenty-seven (27) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Highland Avenue from and connecting with the existing storm sewer in said Highland Avenue, at a point forty-two (42) feet, more or less, south of the south line of Marion Street, northerly to said Marion Street; thence westerly in Marion Street to Mitchell Avenue; thence southerly in Mitchell Avenue to Olive Street; thence westerly in Olive Street to a point lying one hundred thirty-two (132) feet, more or less, west of the west line of Mitchell Avenue, aforesaid; thence changing in size to twenty-four (24) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe and continuing westerly to Walnut Avenue; thence changing in size to twenty-one (21) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe and continuing westerly to a point of termination lying one hundred thirty-two (132) feet, more or less, west of the west line of Walnut Avenue, aforesaid.

Eighteen (18) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Walnut Avenue from and connecting with the proposed twenty-four (24) inch storm sewer in Olive Street, aforesaid, northerly to a point lying one hundred thirty-seven and five-tenths (137.5) feet, more or less, north of the north line of said Olive Street; thence changing in size twelve (12) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe and continuing northerly to a point of termination lying three hundred ninety-five and five-tenths (395.5) feet, more or less, north of the north line of said Olive Street.

Twelve (12) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Olive Street, aforesaid, from and connecting with the proposed storm sewer in Mitchell Avenue, aforesaid, easterly to a point of termination lying one hundred fifteen (115) feet, more or less, east of the east line of said Mitchell Avenue.

Fifteen (15) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Chestnut Avenue from and connecting with the proposed storm sewer in Marion Street, aforesaid, southerly to a point lying thirty-four (34) feet, more or less, south of the south line (extended) of said Marion Street; thence changing in size to twelve (12) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe and continuing southerly to a point of termination lying two hundred ninety-eight (298) feet, more or less, south of the said south line (extended) of Marion Street;

B. Clarendon Street Storm Sewer System

Twenty-four (24) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Dunton Avenue, from and connecting with the existing storm sewer in Oakton Street, northerly to a point lying five hundred (500) feet, more or less, north of the north line of said Oakton Street; thence westerly in an existing easement to Highland Avenue; thence northerly in Highland Avenue to Clarendon Street; thence westerly in Clarendon Street to a point of termination lying one hundred thirty-two (132) feet, more or less, west of the west line of Walnut Avenue.

Fifteen (15) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Walnut Avenue, from and connecting with the proposed storm sewer in Clarendon Street, aforesaid, southerly to a point of termination lying two hundred seven and five-tenths (207.5) feet, more or less, south of the south line of said Clarendon Street.

Fifteen (15) inches internal diameter reinforced concrete pipe in Chestnut Avenue, from and connecting with the proposed storm sewer in Clarendon Street aforesaid, southerly to a point of termination lying eighty-seven and six-tenths (87.6) feet, more or less, south of the south line of said Clarendon Street.

All of said lots and blocks being in Northwest Highlands, a subdivision of the East ½ of the Southeast ¼ (except 2 acres in the extreme southeast corner) of Section 19, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, Cook County, Illinois.

Plans for the improvement showing limits of construction, typical cross-section, proposed grades and all other necessary details are on file with the Secretary of the Board of Local Improvements and are entitled "Village of Arlington Heights, Illinois, Northwest Highlands, Storm Sewers and Paving, Special Assessment No. ". Said plans consist of 32 sheets and are made a part hereof by reference.

Specifications governing the construction of paving improvements are the Standard Specifications of the State of Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings, Division of Highways, adopted on January 2, 1958, and Supplemental Specifications adopted January 3, 1966, as further hereinafter amplified and modified for the individual requirements of this project. Said Standard Specifications are on public file in the office of the Secretary of the Board of Local Improvements and are made a part hereof by reference.

GRANULAR SUBBASE

Where required on the plans, a granular material shall be placed to the width and thickness as shown. The layer of material shall be compacted with a tamping roller, or with a pneumatic-tired roller, or with a vibratory machine, or with a combination of any of the three to result in a 4" compacted thickness mat prior to the construction of the base course.

The coarse aggregate shall be gravel or crushed stone, Grade 8 or 9. The aggregate shall consist of sound, durable particles, and shall not contain any appreciable amount of soft, deleterious materials. The aggregate shall be of uniform gradation and shall conform to the following requirements:

	Percent Passing Sieves
1-inch	100
½-inch	60-90
No. 4	40-60
No. 8	25-50
No. 16	20-40
No. 200	5-15

EARTH EXCAVATION

The necessary excavation shall first be done so that the pavement will be constructed to a suitable finished grade.

Earth Excavation shall include all cuts and fills, and moving all earth, rock or other material, and the removal of all obstructions in the line of the improvement necessary to construct the roadway to the cross-sections shown on the drawings. The subgrade shall be brought to the proper form and grade and shall be compacted by rolling, tamping, or other suitable means. All soft and spongy spots and all organic or perishable matter shall be completely removed from the subgrade and the space filled with gravel, broken stone, broken concrete, compacted clay or other suitable materials, as directed by the Engineer.

All organic material (black dirt or topsoil) which is removed in the area to be improved, as hereinbefore set forth, shall be stockpiled on the site and used for the final dressing and grading of the parkways. If, in the opinion of the Engineer, the amount of organic material (top soil) available on the site is not sufficient to properly dress the parkways, additional organic material (top soil) shall be brought to the site and spread over the parkways between the property line and the back of the proposed curb. The thickness of the organic material (top soil) shall be not less than four (4) inches.

The parkways, when completed, shall be free of all stone, sticks, gravel, clay material and all other debris and shall be graded in such a manner that property owners adjacent to the improvements may sow grass seed without further grading of the parkways. Seeding of the parkways will not be included in this improvement.

COMBINATION CONCRETE CURB AND GUTTER

On each side of the roadway to be improved for Type A Pavement, there shall be constructed a combination concrete curb and gutter. The back of the curb shall be inclined, four (4) inches in height above the gutter line. The top face shall be constructed at right angles to the back of the curb, and shall be one and five-eighths (1⅝) inches wide. The roadway face of the curb shall be in the form of a reverse vertical curve connecting the top face of the curb with the upper surface of the gutter flag, with two (2) arcs of circles having radii of three (3) inches at the gutter and four (4) inches at the top of curb. The width of the gutter flag from gutter line to pavement edge shall be twelve (12) inches and of a thickness equal to the combined thickness of the adjacent base and bituminous concrete surface courses, and the top surface shall be laid with a rising incline toward the center of the roadway of three-quarters (¾) inch.

Transverse expansion joints shall be installed in said curb and gutter at intervals of one hundred (100) feet. Expansion joint material shall be Preformed Expansion Joint Filler (Type 1, cork), A.S.T.M. Designation D544, cut to the exact cross section of the curb and gutter, ¾ inch in thickness, and set in place so that the top edge of joint material does not protrude above the top surfaces of combined curb and gutter.

Contraction joints shall be installed in said curb and gutter at intervals of twenty (20) feet between expansion joints. The joints shall be formed by steel templates, one-eighth (⅛) inch in thickness, of a length equal to the width of the combined curb and gutter, and with a depth of at least two (2) inches greater than the depth of the curb and gutter.

These templates shall be left in place until the concrete has set sufficiently to hold its shape but shall be removed while the forms are still in place.

Concrete for the combined curb and gutter shall be composed of one (1) part Portland cement, two (2) parts of fine aggregate and three and one-half (3½) parts of coarse aggregate, with only enough water added to make a workable mix.

The cement shall be of good grade Portland cement which meets the latest requirements of the American Society for Testing Materials.

Mixing water shall be clean and shall be free of oil, acid or injurious amounts of organic matter, alkalies or other salts.

Fine aggregate shall consist of sand having clean, hard, durable, uncoated grains free from deleterious substances. One hundred percent (100%) shall pass a one-fourth (¼) inch screen and ninety-five percent (95%) shall be retained on a 100 mesh screen. Not more than twenty percent (20%) shall pass a 50 mesh screen. It shall be well graded from coarse to fine and shall not contain more than five percent (5%) by weight of clay or loam, none of which shall be in lumps.

When the aggregate is mixed with Portland cement in the proportions of one (1) part cement to two (2) parts fine aggregate by weight according to the standard method of making briquettes, the resulting mortar at the age of 7 and 28 days shall have a tensile strength of at least equal to that developed in the same time by mortar of the proportions and consistency, made of the same cement and standard Ottawa sand.

Coarse aggregate may be broken stone or gravel. The broken stone or gravel shall be clean, hard, durable rock. It shall contain no organic or other deleterious matter and shall be free from soft, thin, elongated or laminated pieces.

One hundred percent (100%) of the coarse aggregate shall pass a one and one-half (1½) inch screen, and at least ninety-five percent (95%) shall be retained on a one-fourth (¼) inch screen, with all intermediate sizes retained.

These ingredients shall be mixed in a batch mixer, and the mixing shall continue until the same are uniformly distributed and the concrete is uniform in color and homogeneous, and sufficient water shall be added so as to produce concrete which can be spread into position with a template, but the amount of water used shall not be sufficient to cause a separation of the coarse aggregate from the mortar in handling the concrete; said concrete shall be of a consistency such that the mortar will flush to the surface under light tamping. The mixing of said concrete shall continue in the drum of the mixer not less than one (1) minute, and the drum shall be completely emptied before receiving material for the succeeding batch. The drum shall revolve at a rate of speed not less than twelve (12) revolutions per minute.

The method of measuring the materials for concrete, including water, shall be one which shall insure uniform proportion of each of the materials at all times.

TYPE A PAVEMENT — BITUMINOUS CONCRETE SURFACE COURSE

ALTERNATE 1 — Waterbound Macadam Base Course

The base course shall be constructed between the combined curb and gutters on each side of the street roadways to be improved, by first spreading and compacting a one (1) inch thick layer of stone screenings and then spreading, rolling and compacting crushed stone and stone screenings to the compacted thickness indicated on the plans and constructed in separate and equal layers not exceeding four (4) inches in compacted thickness.

Each layer of the macadam base course shall be waterbound by rolling, vibrating, adding screenings and saturating with water until all surface voids are completely filled, and the top surface of the base presents a rough, tight, granular surface.

The crushed stone shall be of good quality limestone graded in size so that the maximum size of crushed stone fragments used for the construction of the water bound base course shall pass a three (3) inch opening, and not over five (5) percent of crushed stone fragments shall pass a three-quarter (¾) inch opening. The percentage of wear, as determined by the Los Angeles abrasion method, shall not exceed 35.

The stone screenings shall be of good quality limestone and shall pass a three-eighths (⅜) inch opening. Not more than thirty percent (30%) or less than ten percent (10%) shall pass a sieve having one hundred (100) meshes per lineal inch.

The finished surface of said waterbound macadam base course after compaction shall be two and one-half (2½) inches below the proposed surface of the completed pavement.

TYPE A PAVEMENT — BITUMINOUS CONCRETE SURFACE COURSE

ALTERNATE 2 — Pozzolanic Base Course

Pozzolanic Base Course shall consist of a mixture of lime, fly-ash, course aggregate and water, plant-mixed and constructed on a prepared sub-grade in accordance with the requirements set forth below and to the lines, grades, and thickness shown on the plans.

Materials shall conform to the following requirements:

a. Lime. High calcium hydrated lime or monohydrated dolomitic lime shall be used. The lime shall have a total oxide (calcium and magnesium) equivalent of not less than 85 percent and a loss on ignition of not more than 25 percent. Monohydrated dolomitic lime shall have only the calcium component hydrated. Exposure of the lime to air shall be held to a minimum. If more than 10 percent of the lime has reverted to a carbonate, it shall not be used.

b. Fly-Ash. The fly-ash, prior to the dampening thereof to alleviate the dust problem, shall comply with the Specifications for Fly Ash for Use as a Pozzolanic Material with Lime, ASTM Designation C-379. The tests prescribed by this specification shall be performed at the option of the Engineer.

At the time of mixing the fly ash with the other materials constituting the pozzolanic mixture, the fly ash shall be in a finely divided condition such that 95 percent shall pass a ⅜ inch sieve when dry sieved.

c. Coarse Aggregate. The coarse aggregate shall be slag, gravel, or crushed stone meeting the following requirements:

(1) Slag. The slag shall be wet-bottom boiler slag, produced as a by-product of a power plant burning pulverized bituminous coal. The slag shall be composed of hard, durable particles, and shall be free of excessive or harmful amounts of foreign substances. The slag, in an oven-dry condition, shall meet the following gradation requirements:

Sieve Size	Percent by Weight Passing
No. 4	90-100
No. 10	60-90
No. 40	0-10
No. 200	0-4

(2) Gravel or Crushed Stone. The gravel or crushed stone shall conform to the following gradation:

Passing 1" sieve	100%
Passing ½" sieve	60-100%
Passing No. 4 sieve	40-70%
Passing No. 40 sieve	10-35%
Passing No. 200 sieve (gravel)	0-10%
Passing No. 200 sieve (crushed stone)	0-15%

Gravel or crushed stone shall consist of tough, durable particles reasonably free from an excess of soft and unsound material and other objectionable matter. Percentage of wear as determined by the Los Angeles abrasion method shall not exceed 45 percent. When subjected to the sodium sulphate soundness test (ASTM Designation C88 using full-size sieve), the weighted average loss shall not exceed 25 percent.

Insofar as applicable, the equipment shall meet the requirements for the type of work involved. Three-wheel or tandem rollers shall weigh from 6 to 10 tons and shall weigh not less than 200 pounds nor more than 325 pounds per inch width of roller. The compression developed by pneumatic-tired rollers shall be not less than 225 pounds per inch of tire width.

Should the Contractor elect to use a vibratory machine for compaction, it shall meet the approval of the Engineer.

Pozzolanic base course mixture shall be placed between April 15 and September 15, when the temperature in the shade is 40° F. or more.

The lime, fly ash and coarse aggregate shall be proportioned within the following approximate limits on a dry-weight basis:

Percent by Weight

Ingredient	Slag	Gravel or Crushed Stone
Lime	2 to 4	2 to 5
Fly Ash	20 to 40	12 to 20
Coarse Aggregate	56 to 78	75 to 86

The moisture content at the time of mixing shall be such that the moisture content at the time of compaction shall be at the optimum required, plus or minus one percent, for maximum density.

The optimum moisture content and maximum density shall be determined in accordance with the Standard Method of Test for Moisture—Density Relations of Soils, using a 5.5 pound hammer and a 12-inch drop, A.A.S.H.O. Designation T99, except that the sample may contain particles of all sizes passing a ½-inch sieve. The particles retained on the ½-inch sieve shall be removed from the sample and replaced with an equal amount of material passing the ½-inch sieve and retained on the No. 4 sieve. A fresh sample shall be used for each determination.

The actual proportions of the constituents of the mixture will be set by the Engineer before work begins and will be based on tests conducted on mixtures composed of samples of the constituent materials furnished by the Contractor. The right is reserved by the Engineer to make such changes in the proportions during the progress of the work as he may consider necessary.

The ingredients and proportions of the mixture shall be such that when made into test cylinders and subjected to the pozzolanic strength test described hereinafter, each cylinder shall carry an unconfined compressive stress of not less than 750 lbs. per square inch and when subjected to a freeze-thaw test, each cylinder shall have durability satisfactory to the Engineer.

The pozzolanic strength test will be conducted as follows: Samples of the lime, fly ash and coarse aggregate submitted by the Contractor will be proportioned within the approximate limits hereinbefore stated, mixed dry, and then mixed with sufficient water to bring the mixture to the optimum moisture content. This mixture shall then be compacted in three equal layers in a Proctor mold, compacting each layer with 25 blows of a 5.5 lb. hammer falling 12 inches. The specimens shall then be placed in a sealed container to preserve moisture content, placed in an oven, and cured for 7 days at a temperature of 130° F. At the end of 7 days, the specimens shall be removed from the containers, capped and broken to determined the unconfined compressive strength.

The constituents of the pozzolanic mixture shall be accurately proportioned and thoroughly mixed in a mechanical mixer at a central mixing plant. Measuring devices for the ingredients of the mixture shall be of such accuracy that the proportion of the ingredient may be controlled within the following tolerances based on the total weight of the mixture:

Lime	±0.3 percent by weight
Fly Ash	±2.0 percent by weight
Coarse Aggregate	±3.0 percent by weight

The mixer shall be capable of producing a uniform mixture. Mixing operations shall be continued until all ingredients are distributed evenly throughout the mixture, and a uniform mixture, free of segregations, is obtained. The Engineer shall be the sole judge of the adequacy of mixing. The mixer shall be capable of discharging the mixture without undue segregation.

The pozzolanic base course shall be constructed in separate and equal layers not exceeding six (6) inches in compacted thickness, except where the total thickness of said base course is eight (8) inches or less, under which conditions the base course shall be spread and compacted in one layer.

Each layer shall be deposited, full-lane width, directly on the prepared subgrade or on the preceding layer of compacted mixture with a mechanical spreader or spreader box of a type approved by the Engineer. Where the base must be constructed in more than one layer, the previous layer shall be maintained in a moistened condition until the succeeding layer is placed. After having been tested for density and approved by the Engineer, the previous layer shall be raked to a depth of one inch and dampened with water immediately prior to placing the succeeding layer so that the layers are knit together. When placed, the pozzolanic mixture shall be free from segregation and shall require minimum blading and manipulation. Immediately after placing, the mixture shall be compacted with a pneumatic-tired roller, or with a vibratory compacter, or with a combination of the two. The top layer shall be given a final rolling with a three-wheel or tandem roller. The pozzolanic base shall be compacted to at least 100 per cent of maximum density. The manner of compaction shall be approved by the Engineer.

The density of each layer of the compacted base course shall be determined by the Engineer at regular intervals in accordance with the Standard Methods of Test for the Field Determination of Density of Soil In Place, A.A.S.H.O. Designation T147 for compliance with these specifications. If these tests indicate that the base course layer does not comply with the density requirements, additional wetting, if necessary, and rolling will be required until the specified density is obtained.

All pozzolanic mixture shall be placed and compacted the same day it is mixed. The entire base course within an increment of work shall be completed within 24 hours.

In constructing the top layer, the grade shall be kept at sufficient height so that the top surface, when compacted, will be at or slightly above grade, rather than below grade. Finish grading shall be accomplished by removing excess material followed by recompaction by rolling. In the event that low areas occur, they shall be raked to a depth of one inch, dampened with water immediately before placing additional mixture, and then rolled to the satisfaction of the Engineer.

The thickness of the pozzolanic base course shall be determined by the Engineer following finish rolling and recompaction. Areas which are more than ½-inch thinner than the required thickness shall be corrected or removed and replaced to meet this specification.

If any subgrade material is worked into the base material during the compacting or finishing operations, all pozzolanic mixture within the affected area shall be removed and replaced with new material. The Engineer may restrict hauling over partially completed work after inclement weather or at any time when the subgrade is soft and there is a tendency for the subgrade material to work into the base material.

After the pozzolanic base course has been constructed as specified herein, the surface shall be remoistioned every 24 hours until a bituminous protective prime coat is applied. The bituminous prime coat shall be Liquid Asphalt RC-2 applied at the rate of approximately 0.20 gallon per square yard. It shall be applied uniformly to the surface of the pozzolanic base course by a pressure distributor to produce complete coverage without excessive runoff. The exact rate of application and temperature shall be specified by the Engineer. At the time the bituminous material is applied, the surface shall be tightly knit, free of all loose or extraneous material, and shall contain sufficient moisture to prevent penetration of bituminous material. Should it be necessary for construction equipment to use the bituminous-covered pozzolanic base course before the bituminous material has hardened sufficiently to prevent pick-up, sufficient sand cover shall be applied to prevent pick-up.

The equipment used for wetting the finished pozzolanic base course with water and to apply the bituminous material shall be of such limited weight that its use will not cause marring or rutting of the surface.

No traffic other than essential construction equipment shall be allowed on the finished base until a wearing course has been constructed. At least five days shall elapse after the base course is completed before the wearing course is constructed.

At the end of each day's construction, a straight transverse construction joint shall be formed by cutting back into the completed work to form a vertical face. Damage to completed work shall be avoided. The base course shall be constructed and finished full width each day without longitudinal joints.

TYPE B PAVEMENT—

PORTLAND CEMENT CONCRETE PAVEMENT WITH INTEGRAL CURBS

Portland cement concrete pavement shall consist of a wearing course of Portland cement concrete including reinforcement and longitudinal and transverse joints where required, with integral curb, construction on the prepared subgrade to the lines, grades, thickness and cross-sections shown on the plans and in conformance with the following:

MATERIALS

Cement: Portland cement shall be Type I conforming to American Society for Testing Materials Designation C150 or Air Entraining Portland Cement, Type IA conforming to American Society for Testing Materials Designation C175. The cement shall be a product resulting from the calcination to incipient fusion of an intimate mixture of properly proportioned argillaceous and calcareous materials and to which no additions greater than three per cent (3%) have been made subsequent to calcination. The resultant clinker shall be so ground as to produce a cement so fine that at least seventy-eight per cent (78%) of the volume will pass through a sieve having forty-thousand (40,000) meshes to the square inch and be so seasoned as to produce initial set in less than forty-five (45) minutes.

Water: Water used with cement in concrete, mortar, or soil-cement, and water used for curing concrete, shall be clean, clear, free from sugar, and shall not contain acid, alkali, salts, or organic matter in excess of the following amounts:

(a)	Acidity and Alkalinity
	(1) Acidity	0.1 Normal NaOH	2 ml. Max.*
	(2) Alkalinity	0.1 Normal HCl	10 ml. Max.*
	*To neutralize 200 ml. sample.
(b)	(1) Organic		0.02% Max.
	(2) Inorganic		0.30% Max.
	(3) Sulphuric anahydride (SO2)		0.04% Max.
	(4) Alkali chloride as sodium Chloride (NaCl)		0.10% Max.

When standard 1: 3 mortar briquettes made with cement, sand, and water from the sample are compared with briquettes made with the same cement and sand and distilled water, there shall be no indication of unsoundness, marked change in time of set, or variation of more than 10 per cent in strength.

Water which has been approved by the Illinois Department of Public Health for drinking or ordinary household use may be accepted without being tested. All other sources shall be approved by the Engineer.

Fine Aggregate: Fine aggregate shall be sand less than 0.187 inch size (No. 4 sieve) with the following properties.

Sand shall be the fine granular material resulting from the natural disintegration of rock. Sand produced from deposits simultaneously with and by the same operations as gravel coarse aggregate may contain crushed particles in the quantity resulting normally from the crushing and screenings of oversize particles.

Fine aggregate for Portland cement concrete and mortar shall consist of washed sand. The fine aggregate shall conform to the following requirements.

The following substances shall not be present individually in amounts exceeding the following percentage by weight:

Material finer than the No. 200 sieve	3.0%
Coal, lignite, and shells	1.0%
Clay lumps	1.0%
Conglomerate and cemented particles	1.0%

The combined amount of these substances present in any one sample shall not exceed 5 per cent by weight.

At the time of its use, the fine aggregate shall be free from frozen material and all foreign material which may have become mixed with it during transportation and handling. Cars used for shipping fine aggregate shall not be caulked with straw, excelsior, or similar materials.

When the fine aggregate is subjected to 5 cycles of the sodium sulphate soundness test using full size sieves, the weighted average loss shall not be more than 10 per cent by weight. Fine aggregate failing to meet this requirement may, at the option of the Engineer, be subjected to the freezing and thawing test and may be accepted provided the weighted average loss at the end of 50 cycles does not exceed 10 per cent by weight.

Fine aggregate shall be free from injurious amounts of organic impurities. If, when subjected to the colorimetric test for organic impurities, a color darker than the standard is produced, the fine aggregate shall be rejected unless it passes the mortar strength test specified herein. If at any time the fine aggregate shows a darker color than that of the sample originally approved, its use shall be withheld until tests satisfactory to the Engineer have been made to determine whether the difference in color is indicative of the presence of injurious deleterious substances.

The fine aggregate shall be of such quality that when made into a mortar and subjected to the mortar strength tests, it shall develop compressive strengths at 7 and 28 days of not less than 100 per cent of those developed by a mortar prepared in the same manner with the same cement and a grade of standard sand having a fineness of 2.40 plus or minus 0.10.

Fine aggregate for Portland cement concrete shall be uniformly graded from coarse to fine and when tested by means of laboratory sieves (square openings), shall conform to the following limits:

Sieve Size	Per Cent Passing
3/8"	100
No. 4	95-100
No. 8
No. 16	45-80
No. 50	5-25
No. 100	0-10

Coarse Aggregate: Coarse aggregate shall be crushed stone, gravel, or crushed gravel larger than 0.187 inch (No. 4 sieve) in size and shall have the following properties.

Crushed Stone

Crushed stone shall be the angular fragments resulting from crushing by mechanical means the following types of rocks quarried from undisturbed consolidated deposits: granite and similar phanerocrystalline igneous rocks; calcareous or dolomitic limestone; or massive metamorphic quartzite, or similar rocks.

Gravel

Gravel shall be the coarse granular material resulting from the reduction of rock by the action of the elements and having subangular to rounded surfaces. It may be partially crushed.

Crushed Gravel

Crushed gravel shall be the product resulting from crushing gravel by mechanical means, and shall consist entirely of fractured particles obtained by crushing gravel, all of which before crushing shall be retained on a screen with openings 1½ times as large as the maximum size permitted by the gradation requirements.

Coarse aggregate for Portland cement concrete shall be gravel, crushed gravel or crushed stone, and shall conform to the following requirements:

Gravel and crushed gravel coarse aggregates shall be washed. The following substances shall not be present individually in amounts exceeding the following percentages by weight:

Soft and unsound fragments	5.0%*
Coal and lignite	1.0%
Clay lumps	0.25%
Material finer than the No. 200 sieve	1.0%
Other deleterious or injurious material	1.0

*Including chert in crushed stone.

The combined amount of these substances present in any one sample, together with materials which the Engineer considers unsatisfactory, shall not exceed 5 per cent by weight.

All varieties of flint contained in gravel coarse aggregate, whether crushed or uncrushed, pure or impure, and irrespective of color, shall be classed as chert and shall not be pressed in the total aggregate in excess of 25 per cent by weight.

At the time of use, the coarse aggregate shall be free from frozen materials and all foreign materials which may have become mixed with it during handling. Cars used for shipping the aggregate shall not be caulked with hay, straw, excelsior, grass or similar materials.

When the coarse aggregate is tested by the Standard Method of Test for Abrasion of Coarse Aggregate by the use, of the Los Angeles machine, the percentage of wear shall not exceed 35.

When the coarse aggregate is subjected to 5 cycles of the sodium sulphate soundness test using full size sieves, the weighted average loss shall not be more than 15 per cent. Coarse aggregate failing to meet the above requirements may, at the option of the Engineer, be subjected to the freezing and thawing test and may be accepted provided the weighted average loss at the end of 50 cycles does not exceed 15 per cent.

The gradations given herein cover the sizes and maximum permissible ranges in sieve analyses for the coarse aggregates used in the construction of concrete pavements. The sizes prescribed may be manufactured by any suitable commercial process and by the use of any sizes or shapes of plant screen openings necessary to produce the designated sizes within the limits of the sieve analysis specified. The gradation limits shown below represent the limits which shall determine suitability for use from all sources of supply. The gradation of the material from any one source shall be reasonably uniform and shall not be subject to the extreme percentages of gradation represented by the maximum and minimum limits for the various sieve sizes. The sizes given below are based on the use of square opening sieves in making sieve analyses.

Concrete

Portland cement concrete shall have an air-entrainment of not less than 4 per cent nor more than 6 per cent of the volume of the concrete. The air-entrainment shall be obtained either by the use of air-entraining Portland cement or by the use of non-air-entraining Portland cement in connection with an approved air-entraining admixture added during the process of mixing the concrete.

The coarse aggregate shall be furnished in 2 gradations or separates sizes. The separated sizes shall be combined as hereinbefore provided. The proportions of cement, fine aggregates, coarse aggregate, and water will be determined by the Engineer, before the work begins, so as to produce a workable plastic concrete having a minimum compressive strength of not less than 3500 pounds per square inch and a minimum modulus of rupture of not less than 650 pounds per square inch at the age of 14 days. This determination shall be based on the tests for aggregates selected by the Contractor for use in the work. The quantities of aggregates for each batch of concrete shall be measured by weight.

The use of admixtures to increase the workability of the concrete will not be permitted unless authorized in writing.

Forms shall be set on solid subgrade which has been thoroughly consolidated. Any subgrade which at the form line is below the established grade shall be filled to grade for a distance of 18 inches on each side of the base of the form, and rolled as specified. All subgrade for forms shall be prepared by means of a form grader, or by other suitable means approved by the Engineer. If the finished grade after being prepared is more than ½ inch low, it shall be refilled, rerolled, and again cut to the required grade. This operation shall be repeated until a foundation for the forms is obtained that is satisfactory to the Engineer. Any variations which are less than ½ inch low, and all variations which are above grade, shall be corrected to true grade by cutting or filling. Any filling shall be compacted with a hand tamper weighing not less than approximately 0.6 pound per square inch of tamping surface.

Forms shall be staked by using not less than 3 pins for each 10-foot section. The length of pins shall be such as to maintain the forms at the correct line and grade. Form sections shall be neatly and tightly joined together by a locked joint free from play or movement in any direction. After the form is in place, the earth or granular material under the base of the form shall be tamped to the satisfaction of the Engineer with a mechanical form tamper. No settlement or springing of the forms during finishing operations will be permitted.

Bent, twisted, or broken forms shall be removed from the work. Repaired forms shall not be used until inspected and approved by the Engineer. Built-up forms shall not be used.

Forms shall be set to the required grade and alignment, checked with a 10-foot straightedge and rechecked just before the concrete is placed. Forms which vary from the required grade and alignment shall be reset or removed as directed by the Engineer. If any form is disturbed or any subgrade becomes unstable before the concrete is placed, the form shall be reset and rechecked.

Forms shall be in place, as specified herein, at least 800 feet ahead of the mixer or in advance of placing the concrete. Forms shall be cleaned and oiled each time they are used.

Forms at back of curb shall be placed to the full height of curb or shall be placed only to the plane of the pavement surface. In the latter case, an additional form shall be fastened to the lower form immediately after the placement of concrete.

On each side of the pavement there shall be constructed an integral Portland cement concrete curb and gutter. The back of the curb shall be inclined six (6) inches in height above the gutter line. The top face shall be constructed at right angles to the back of the curb, and shall be 1⅝" wide. The roadway face of the curb shall be in the form of a reverse vertical curve connecting the top face of the curb with the upper surface of the gutter flag, with two (2) arcs of circles having radii of three (3) inches at the gutter and four (4) inches at the top of curb. The width of the curb from gutter line to back of curb shall be seven (7) inches. Joints in concrete pavement shall continue through curb and gutter.

The integral curb may be constructed by means of a full height form and shaped by templates attached to the mechanical floating equipment or may be constructed by placing main slab, attaching an additional form to the main slab form, placing curb concrete and shaping with a mechanical mule. In the latter method, the placing of the integral curb shall be done while main slab concrete is thoroughly plastic and shall not exceed twenty minutes after placing of main slab. Care shall be used to assure an intimate mixture of main slab concrete with curb concrete.

Pavement fabric shall be kept clean and free from objectionable rust, and shall be handled with such care that the individual sheets or strips will remain flat, and free from distortions. Bends or kinks in individual wires, or other irregularities, shall be corrected before the sheet is laid in the pavement.

Pavement fabric shall be placed in sheets or strips at the depth shown on the plans. The lap between adjacent sheets, and the position of the sheets with respect to the transverse joints, longitudinal joints, and the edges of the pavement shall be as shown on the plans. All laps between sheets shall be held firmly together by wire or clips spaced not more than 4 feet apart.

Longitudinal joints shall be formed by installing, as shown on the plans, metal parting strips of the gauge, shape, and dimensions shown. Longitudinal metal joints shall not be continuous across any transverse joint, but shall begin or terminate at the transverse joint. When it is necessary to cut longitudinal metal joints in the field, the work shall be done in a workmanlike manner. The metal strip shall be held securely in place, true to line and grade, by means of metal pins, within an allowable variation of ½ inch from the center line of the pavement. Adjoining sections shall be securely fastened. If lapped, the upper edges of the overlapping ends shall be in contact for the full length of the overlap. If other methods are used, the device for holding the ends together shall be approved by the Engineer.

Tie bars shall be placed across and through the longitudinal metal joint as shown on the plans. They shall be deformed steel bars of the diameter and length shown on the plans, and shall not be painted, greased, or enclosed in tubes or sleeves. Tie bars shall be held in position at both ends, at the spacing shown, by bar supports.

Unless other prescribed joints occur at the same points, transverse construction joints shall be made at the end of each day's run, or when an interruption in the concreting operation of more than 30 minutes occurs, provided the length of pavement laid from the last joint is 10 feet or more. Sections less than 10 feet in length will not be permitted.

The transverse construction joint shall be formed by means of a suitable header board with longitudinal metal key, accurately set and securely held in place in a plan perpendicular to the surface of the pavement. No. 4 deformed tie bars, 30 inches long, and spaced at 30-inch centers or other types of load transmission permitted for transverse joints shall be installed through the header board, with each bar extending 15 inches on each side of the face of the joints. Upon the resumption of concreting, the header board shall be carefully removed and any surplus concrete on the subgrade shall be cleared away, and the fresh concrete deposited directly against the old. When tested with a 10-foot straight edge, the surface across the joint shall not vary more than ½ of an inch.

Contraction joints shall be sawed at the location on the plans. The contraction joints shall be of ⅛ inch minimum width and 2¾ inch minimum depth. Sawing shall be performed not earlier than 6 hours and no later than 30 hours after placing of concrete. Prior to opening of traffic, the sawed joints shall be filled with concrete joint sealer of the hot poured elastic type. Dowel bars shall be installed across contraction joints as shown on the plans.

Expansion joints shall be placed at location indicated on the plans. Expansion joints shall be ¾ inch in width. Expansion joint material shall be preformed expansion joint filler (Type 1 cork) ASTM Designation D-544, ¾ inches in thickness, out to the exact cross-section of the pavement and integral curbs.

Expansion joints shall be fitted with ¾ inch diameter expansion devices eighteen (18) inches in length extending nine (9) inches each side of the joint. One side shall be greased and fitted with a punched stop as shown on the plans.

Handling, measuring, and batching of concrete materials shall be done by accepted methods approved by the Engineer.

The concrete mixture shall contain no more water than is necessary to produce concrete which is workable and plastic. The amount of water used per bag of cement, including the moisture in the aggregate, shall be determined by the Engineer. Corrections shall be made for the amount of moisture contained in the aggregates and allowance shall be made for absorption of moisture by the aggregates during the period of mixing and handling. A uniform consistency shall be maintained continuously.

When the slab as a whole is not to be vibrated, the slump ordinarily shall be not less than one nor more than 2 inches. When the concrete is to be consolidated by vibration, the slump ordinarily shall be not less than ¾ inch nor more than 1½ inches. In each of these cases, slumps outside of the limits named may be used when, in the opinion of the Engineer, satisfactory workability cannot be obtained within such limits.

Concrete may be mixed at the site of the work or may be mixed and transported by ready mixed concrete methods approved by the Engineer. The concrete when delivered to the site of the work shall be delivered in a plastic state, not segregated or retempered and with the correct mixture of course and fine aggregates, cement, water, and entrained air.

The concrete shall be deposited on the subgrade in successive batches in such manner as to require as little rehandling as possible, and distributed to such depth, above grade, that when consolidated and finished, the slab thickness required by the plans will be obtained at all points. Concrete mixed in a paving mixer at the site of the work shall be delivered to the subgrade directly from the mixer by means of a boom and bucket discharging device.

A mechanical concrete spreader shall be used to spread the concrete for the lower course. After the pavement fabric has been placed, a mechanical spreader shall be used to spread the concrete for the top course. The spreader shall be equipped with a "stop" or other suitable device which can be permanently set to prevent the strike-off of the spreader from operating below the elevation required to place the pavement fabric as shown on the plans. When strike-off and consolidation-hand method is permitted, a mechanical concrete spreader will not be required.

Any portion of a batch of concrete which becomes segregated shall be thoroughly mixed with the main body of the batch during the process of spreading. The operation of depositing and spreading shall be continuous between transverse joints. If interruptions are necessary, a construction joint shall be placed.

Concrete shall not be placed on a soft, muddy, or frozen subgrade. Concrete adjacent to the transverse construction joint shall be compacted with a vibrator inserted into the concrete and worked along the entire length of the joint before the finishing operations are initiated.

Consolidating and finishing shall consist of a series of operations, hereinafter specified, to be performed in the following sequence: Strike-off and consolidation, longitudinal floating, straightedging, belting (if required by the Engineer), edging, and dragging with burlap.

Where mechanical finishing is used, if the rate of depositing concrete, in the opinion of the Engineer, is in excess of the amount which the finishing machine can strike off and consolidate in full compliance with the specifications, a second finishing machine shall be provided and used.

The compacting and finishing operations shall at all times be such as to produce a satisfactory surface in accordance with the specifications.

Finishing operations shall be completed not farther than 250 feet back of the mixer, regardless of the number of square yards produced per hour, if weather conditions permit.

After the longitudinal floating has been completed, but while the concrete is still plastic, the pavement surface shall be tested with a 10-foot straightedge. The straightedge shall be held in successive positions parallel to the pavement center line, in contact with the surface, and the whole area gone over from one side of the slab to the other as necessary. Advancement along the pavement shall be in successive stages of not more than ½ of the length of the straightedge. Any depressions found shall be immediately filled with freshly mixed concrete, struck off, consolidated, and refinished. High areas shall be cut down and refinished. The straightedge testing and refloating shall continue until the entire surface is found to be free from observable departures from the straightedge.

After the straightedging, when most of the water sheen has disappeared and just before the concrete becomes nonplastic, the pavement shall be belted by one application of a flexible belt, if so directed by the Engineer. The belt shall be operated with short strokes transverse to the pavement center line and with a rapid advance parallel to the pavement center line. The belt shall at all times be kept in good usable condition by proper cleaning and oiling.

After longitudinal floating, straightedging, and if required, belting the surface, and before using the burlap drag, the square edges of the pavement shall be carefully finished with an edging tool having a radius of not more than ¼ inch, and the pavement edges left smooth and true to line.

Final finish shall be obtained by the use of 2 separate, double thickness burlap drags, at least 4 feet wide and 2 feet longer than the width of slab under construction. The burlap shall be attached to a bridge riding on the pavement forms and shall be kept saturated with water while in use. The burlap shall be laid on the pavement surface and dragged in the direction that the pavement is being laid with approximately 2 feet of its width in contact with the pavement surface. The burlap drag shall be kept clean and free from hardened concrete. The Engineer may require changes in the methods and equipment used in belting and burlapping to produce the desired final surface texture.

The finished surface of the pavement shall be within the tolerance of the following surface trueness test.

The pavement shall be tested for trueness at the expiration of the required curing or protection period. The surface shall be tested by means of a 10-foot straightedge placed parallel to the center line of the pavement, parallel to the grade line, in each wheel lane, and touching the surface.

Curing shall be performed by the uniform application of an approved impervious coating (curing compound) at the rate of not less than ½ gallon per hundred square feet. Curing compound shall be white pigmented conforming to American Association of State Highway Officials Designation M148 Type 2. Curing by wetted straw, burlap, ponding or similar methods shall be permitted if methods are approved by the Engineer and shall continue for 96 hours after placement.

PORTLAND CEMENT CONCRETE PAVEMENT (SPECIAL) WITH INTEGRAL CURB

Portland cement concrete pavement (special) shall consist of a wearing course of Portland cement concrete, without reinforcing, including longitudinal and transverse joints where required, with integral curb, constructed on a prepared subgrade to the lines, grades, thickness and cross-sections shown on the plans. The pavement construction shall conform with the foregoing specifications except for the following changes:

A mechanical form grader will not be required.
A mechanical form tamper will not be required.
A mechanical concrete spreader will not be required.
A mechanical longitudinal float will not be required.
Concrete shall be deposited, consolidated and finished in one lift.

PAVEMENT FABRIC

Welded wire fabric shall comply with the Specifications for Welded Steel Wire Fabric for Concrete Reinforcement of the American Society for Testing Materials, Designation A185.

Welded wire fabric shall be furnished in flat sheets or hinged flat sheets. Longitudinal wires shall be #00 Wire (0.3310 inch diameter) at six (6) inch center. Transverse wires shall be No. 4 wire (0.2253 inch diameter) at twelve (12) inch centers. Welded wire fabric shall weigh approximately seventy-eight (78) pounds per one hundred (100) square feet.

A light coating of rust, which may form during storage under acceptable conditions at the mill or warehouse, will not be deemed cause for rejection. Stocks and fabric, either at the mill or warehouse, which have not been protected in an adequate manner during storage, will not be accepted.

At the time the bars and fabric are placed in the work, they shall be free from rust which pits the surface or scales off, dirt, oil, grease or other foreign substances. A light coating of rust, which may form during storage on the work under acceptable conditions, will not be deemed cause to require cleaning.

SIDEWALKS

Sidewalks shall be constructed of Portland cement concrete and shall be five (5) feet in width and five (5) inches thick, (six (6) inches across driveways), and shall be constructed at the locations shown on the plans attached hereto.

The forms for the cross walks shall be so set that the slab will have a fall of one (1) inch vertical to five (5) feet horizontal from the edge nearest the property line toward the edge farthest from the property line.

The subgrade shall be prepared by excavating or filling, as the case may be, so that the top surface of the cross walk to be constructed at the edge nearest the property line will be at the established grade.

The Portland cement concrete shall be a mixture of one (1) part Portland cement, two (2) parts of fine aggregate, and three and one-half (3½) parts of coarse aggregate mixed as hereinbefore specified for concrete curb and gutter. Said fine and coarse aggregate shall be the same as those hereinbefore specified for concrete curb and gutter.

The concrete shall be placed in successive batches for the entire width of the slab, struck off one-half (½) inch higher than the finished slab, tamped until all voids are removed and free mortar appears on the surface, thoroughly spaded along the edges, struck off to the true grade, and floated and troweled to a true and even surface. After tamping, floating and troweling, the depth of the mixture shall be at least five (5) inches. Final finish shall be accomplished by a broom specifically used for the purpose.

Forms shall be of lumber, two (2) inches thick, or of steel of equal strength. They shall be held rigidly in place by stakes or braces, with top edges at true line and grade. Ends of adjoining forms shall be flush. Forms shall be at least five (5) inches in depth.

A template, resting upon the side forms and having the lower edge at the exact elevation of the subgrade, shall be drawn along the forms before any concrete is laid. Any high place in the subgrade shall be removed so that the template will pass over without being raised off the side forms or being tipped at an angle to the cross walk surface.

The subgrade shall be damp, but not muddy, when concrete is placed.

The walk shall be divided into separate rectangular slabs by marking with edging tools. No plain concrete slab shall be longer than six (6) feet or less than four (4) feet on any one side.

The surface edges and side edges of each slab shall be rounded to a radius of about one-fourth (¼) inch.

Premoulded expansion joints shall be placed where specified below and shall extend from one-quarter (¼) inch below the surface of the walk to the subgrade, be truly at right angles to the cross walk surface, and be set before placing the concrete. They shall be located each fifty (50) feet in the walk and at nor near all places where the walk line intersects a curb line or other cross walk, and shall be a one (1) inch expansion joint composed of two (2) thicknesses of one-half (½) inch joint filler. Joints shall be made at right angles to the centerline of the walk.

PRIME COAT—TYPE A PAVEMENT ONLY

As soon as the base course is completed, an asphalt prime coat shall be applied to said base course at a rate of thirty-five hundredths (0.35) of a gallon per square yard for waterbound macadam base course or 0.20 of a gallon per square yard on pozzolanic base course. Before applying the prime coat, the area shall be dry and swept clean of all dust and debris.

Said asphalt prime shall be applied with a pressure distributor and shall be what is known as MC-O, a medium curing cutback asphalt consisting of a petroleum residuum with a suitable distillate for waterbound macadam base course, or RC-2, a rapid curing cut back asphalt consisting of a petroleum residuum with a suitable distillate for pozzolanic base course. Asphalt prime shall be free from water, show no separation on standing, and shall conform to the following requirements:

BINDER COURSE AND SURFACE COURSE— TYPE A PAVEMENT ONLY

The bituminous concrete top courses, including a prime coat, shall be constructed upon the base course, between the concrete gutters, by spreading, rolling and compacting thereon, to a compacted thickness as shown on the plans and as outlined hereinbefore, a combination of crushed stone, stone screening, mineral filler and hot asphalt cement.

The asphaltic surface course shall be what is commonly known as Subclass I-11, being a hot mix bituminous concrete surface course of compacted thickness, as hereinbefore stated and as shown on the plans. The materials used and methods of preparation and laying for the surface course shall conform to the following specifications.

The aggregates to be used in the binder and surface course shall be heated to a temperature of 250° to 350° F. The heated aggregates shall be mixed in the pug mill mixer for a period of not less than five (5) seconds. The asphalt cement shall then be added and the mixing continued. The time required to add the asphalt cement shall be not more than fifteen (15) seconds. The total time required for adding the asphalt cement and completing the wet mixing period shall be not less than thirty (30) seconds, or longer if necessary to provide a homogeneous mixture in which all particles of aggregate are coated uniformly.

The ingredients of the binder course shall be combined in such proportions as to produce a mixture conforming to the following specification limits by weight:

Passing ¾ inch Sieve	95-100%
Passing ¾ inch, retained on ½ inch Sieve	15-30%
Passing ½ inch, retained on No. 10 Sieve	35-50%
Passing No. 10 Sieve	20-40%
Bitumen	4-7%

The ingredients of the surface course mixture shall be combined in such proper portions as to produce a mixture conforming to the following composition limits by weight:

Passing ½ inch Sieve	95-100%
Passing ½ inch, retained on No. 4 Sieve	25-50%	(
Passing No. 4, retained on No. 10 Sieve	10-30%	(45-65%

Passing No. 80, retained on No. 200 Sieve	3-10%	(
Passing No. 200, Sieve	3-7%
Bitumen	4-7%

The binder course mixture shall be delivered at a temperature of 250° to 325° F., and the surface course mixture at a temperature of 250° F. to 350° F. The bituminous mixture shall be placed true to crown and grade with a spreading finishing machine. Bituminous mixtures may be spread and finished by hand methods where machine methods are impracticable.

Placing of the bituminous mixtures shall be as continuous as possible. Not more binder course mixture shall be placed in advance of the laying of the surface course than can be covered by two (2) days run of the paving plant. The binder course shall be kept clean until covered with the surface course. Any foreign material on the surface of the binder course shall be removed before the surface course is placed.

The machine shall spread the bituminous mixtures without leaving the surface and shall strike a finish that is smooth, true to cross-section, uniform in density and texture, and free from hollows, transverse corrugations and other irregularities.

In areas not accessible for machine spreading, hand spreading shall be used and shall comply with the following.

Upon arrival at the work, the binder and surface course mixtures shall be dumped upon approved steel dump pans outside of the area on which they are to be spread. Immediately thereafter they shall be distributed in place with shovels and spread with rakes in loose layers of uniform density and correct depth.

Immediately after the binder course mixture or surface course mixture is placed, it shall be compacted thoroughly and uniformly with a three-wheel roller. Where initial rolling causes undue displacement, hair-cracking or checking in either the binder course or the surface course, the time of rolling shall be adjusted to correct these conditions.

Rollers shall be operated at a speed of not more than 150 feet per minute and shall weigh from 8 to 12 tons and have a unit compression of not less than 250 nor more than 400 pounds per inch of roller width.

After final compression, the finished surface course shall at no point have a density less than 95% of the maximum passible density of a voidless pavement composed of the same materials in like proportions. If the density of the finished pavement is less than 95%, additional rolling will be required.

Rolling of the binder and surface courses shall start longitudinally at the sides of the pavement, overlapping uniformly on successive trips by at least one-half (½) the width of the rear wheels. Succeeding trips of the roller shall be terminated at least three (3) feet from the preceding stop. Each stop shall be regulated to prevent trapping of water on the rolled surface. The roller shall not pass over an unprotected edge of the freshly laid bituminous mixture, except when the laying of this course is to be discontinued for an extended length of time.

The speed of the roller at all time shall be slow enough to avoid displacement of the bituminous mixture; if displacement occurs, it shall be corrected at once by raking and applying fresh bituminous mixture where required. To prevent adhesion of the bituminous mixture to the roller, the wheels shall be kept moistened, but an excess of water will not be permitted.

Immediately after the initial rolling of the surface course, a test shall be made for smoothness with a ten (10) feet straightedge to locate high and low spots so that they may be altered while the mixture is still fresh. Binder course shall also be straightedged in the manner described for the surface course. Rolling of the binder and surface course shall be continued until all roller marks are eliminated and the bituminous mixture is thoroughly compacted.

In all places inaccessible to the rollers, such as locations adjacent to curb, gutters, headers, manholes, and similar structures, the required compression shall be secured with hot tampers.

Any bituminous mixture that becomes loose, broken, mixed with foreign material, or which is defective in finish or density, or which does not comply in all other respects with the requirements, shall be removed, replaced with suitable material, and finished in accordance with these specifications.

The mineral aggregates in such binder and surface course mixtures shall be clean, tough, durable fragments of crushed stone, consisting of angular fragments resulting from crushing by mechanical means the following types of rocks quarried from undisturbed, consolidated deposits: Granite and similar phanerocrystalline igneous rock; calcareous or dolomitic limestone; or massive metamorphic quartzite or similar rocks.

STORM SEWERS

Storm sewer shall be of reinforced concrete pipe with the following minimum characteristic and shall conform to specifications for Reinforced Concrete Pipe of the American Society For Testing Materials Designation C-76-59T.

Type 1 Sewers	10-Inch	12-Inch
a. Wall Thickness	1½ Inch	1¾ Inch
b. Circular Reinforcement	0.15	0.15

MISCELLANEOUS CONSTRUCTION

The existing manholes, catch basins, valve vaults and inlets within the limits of the improvements shall be adjusted or reconstructed, as specified, to the proposed pavement and/or parkway grades. These structures shall be adjusted or reconstructed with Portland cement mortar and brick (Grade SW building brick, made from clay or shale, or Grade A concrete building brick).

Existing private driveways and pavements, service walks along the route of the improvement shall be removed as necessary to insure the proper slope to the new curb grade and to facilitate the construction of the new pavement. The driveways and/or service walks so removed shall be permanently restored with materials identical to the original materials to their original width, thickness, and constituents except that minimum thickness standards shall be as follows:

Bituminous Pavement	—	Eight (8 inch thickness of crushed stone, Grade 8, with 2½ inch Bituminous Concrete (I-11) surface
Concrete Pavement	—	Seven (7) inch thickness.
Bituminous Driveway	—	Six (6) inch thickness of crushed stone, Grade 8, with 2-inch Bituminous Concrete (I-11) surface
Concrete Driveway	—	Six (6) inch thickness.
Stone Driveway	—	Eight (8) inch thickness.
Gravel Driveway	—	Eight (8) inch thickness.
Cinder Driveway	—	Eight (8) inches of stone or gravel.
Concrete Sidewalks	—	Five (5) inch minimum thickness.

Inlets, catch basins and manholes shall be constructed at necessary locations, as shown on the drawings, and shall be of pre-cast reinforced concrete construction, conforming to ASTM C-478 specifications.

The bases of said manholes, catch basins and inlets shall be precast reinforced Portland cement concrete, composed of one (1) part Portland cement, two (2) parts of fine aggregate, and three and one-half (3½) parts of coarse aggregate, with only enough water added to make a workable mixture. The bases for said structures shall be six (6) inches, six (6) inches, and four (4) inches thick, respectively, and wall thickness shall be five (5), four (4), and three (3) inches thick respectively, and shall be set on a cushion of sand three (3) inches in compacted thickness.

The space between the sides of the excavation and the outer surfaces of the manholes, catch basins and inlets shall be backfilled with gravel or crushed stone, grade 8 or 9, as required under proposed pavement area. The backfill shall be compacted as hereinafter specified.

The concrete pipe placed in the masonry walls for outlet or inlet connections shall extend through the walls and beyond the outside surfaces of the walls a sufficient distance to allow for connections, and the masonry shall be carefully constructed around them so as to prevent leakage along the outer surfaces.

After the masonry work is completed, it shall be kept moist and protected from the elements in a satisfactory manner for a period of not less than forty-eight (48) hours.

Catch basins shall be provided with a sump three (3) feet in depth below the invert of the outlet pipe. The manholes and catch basins shall be circular in form, of an internal diameter of four (4) feet. The upper two (2) feet eight (8) inches of the walls of the manholes and catch basins shall be drawn in from forty-eight (48) inches to twenty-four (24) inches in diameter.

Storm water inlets shall be two (2) feet deep, measured from the top of the base. The inlets shall be circular in form of an internal diameter of two (2) feet.

The manholes, catch basins, and inlets shall be equipped with frame and lid, the combined weight of which shall be not less than five hundred and forty (540) pounds for manholes, and not less than five hundred and six (506) pounds for the inlets and catch basins.

The frames and lids shall be fabricated of close-grained gray iron having a tensile strength of 20,000 pounds per square inch. Castings shall be smooth, true to pattern and free from projections, sandholes or blowholes.

Cast iron frames shall be set in full mortar beds on top of the concrete masonry walls. The castings shall be set accurately to the finished elevations of pavement or parkway so that no subsequent adjustment will be necessary.

Existing storm water structures which are not usable in the proposed drainage scheme shall be abandoned and filled with gravel or crushed stone, grade 8 or 9, to the subgrade of the proposed pavement. The frames shall be removed and delivered to the Village Yard.

The pipe used for inlet and catch basin connections shall be reinforced concrete pipe, of the size and strength class as specified on the plans. The pipe shall be similar to reinforced concrete culvert pipe having a minimum strength of 1667 pounds per lineal foot, and shall be laid at a minimum pitch of one-eighth (⅛) inch per lineal foot.

Joints shall be made of the best quality tarred manila yarn (jute) and Portland cement mortar composed of one (1) part Portland cement and two (2) parts of clean graded torpedo sand, as hereinbefore specified.

The material used in backfilling trenches falling beneath proposed pavement shall consist of gravel or crushed stone, grade 8 or 9, produced from crushing rock quarried from undisturbed, consolidated deposits. The backfill material shall be placed to a height of twelve (12) inches above the pipe, in layers not to exceed four (4) inches thick, and each layer shall be firmly compacted by ramming or tamping. The remainder of the trench shall be backfilled with loose aggregate to the subbase of the proposed pavement improvements and settlement secured by introducing water through holes "jetted" into the trench to a point approximately two (2) feet above the top of the pipe. The backfill around valve basins, catch basins and inlets shall be compacted by "jetting."

Existing house sanitary sewer and water services and water mains, which interfere with the construction of the storm sewer, shall be adjusted by removing existing pipe and re-laying at a new grade. Pipe used for sanitary sewer service adjustments shall be either vitrified clay pipe conforming to American Society for Testing Materials Specification C-200, with ASTM C-425 Joints, or cast iron pipe, conforming to American Standards Association Specification A21.6, with ASA A21.11 Joints (mechanical joints), as required by the Engineer. Pipe used for water main adjustments shall be cast iron pipe, ASA A 21.6, with A 21.11 Joints and cement lining, and pressure classification of one hundred fifty (150) pounds per square inch. Pipe used for house water service adjustments shall be one (1) inch diameter Type K copper, complete with brass couplings and adaptors.

Pipe and fittings used for water service and water main adjustments shall be properly cleaned and sterilized with an acceptable chlorine solution prior to installation.

Existing concrete curb and combination concrete curb and gutters and sidewalks conflicting with the construction of the proposed pavement shall be removed.

Where the frames of existing drainage structures are structurally unsound or light duty, they shall be replaced with frames and lids of the strength and quality, and in the same manner as hereinbefore specified.

Only such trees as designated by the Engineer in the field shall be removed as necessary for the construction. All other trees shall be properly protected from damage.

All materials of every kind and character to be used in the construction of this improvement shall be of first-class quality, suitable for the purpose for which they are to be used and subject to the inspection and approval of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois.

All of said work shall be constructed in a workmanlike manner under the superintendence of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois.

All elevations on the attached drawings are given in feet and decimals thereof above Project Datum. Project Datum for the purpose of this improvement is hereby fixed and established as a level plane seven hundred fifteen and twelve hundreths (715.12) feet below the northeast flange bolt on the fire hydrant at the southeast corner of Thomas Street and Ridge Avenue.

That the Board of Local Improvements shall determine, after bids are received, which of the alternate methods of paving shall be used.

SECTION 2: That the recommendation of the Board of Local Improvements of the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, providing for the improvement, and the estimate of the cost thereof made by the President of the Board of Local Improvements, both hereto attached and made a part hereof, be, and the same are hereby approved.

SECTION 3: That said improvement shall be made and the whole cost thereof, together with an amount not exceeding six per cent (6%) of the estimated cost, to-wit: TWO HUNDRED TWO THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED EIGHTH-ONE and 86/100 DOLLARS ($202,481.86), which is hereby provided for to apply towards the cost and expense of making, levying and collecting said special assessment and all other expenses allowed by law, being the amount included in the estimate, thereof, shall be paid by special assessment, in accordance with the Illinois Municipal Code, Article 9, Division 2, and amendments thereto.

SECTION 4: That the aggregate amount herein ordered to be assessed against the property and against the municipality, if any, and also the assessment on each lot and parcel of land herein assessed shall be divided as follows:

The said assessment to pay the cost of construction of said improvement and the cost of levying, making and collecting said assessment and all expenses allowed by law, shall be divided into ten (10) installments, in the manner provided by the statute in such case made and provided.

So much of the aggregate amount of the assessment as represents the cost of levying, making and collecting the special assessment and all expenses allowed by law, together with all fractional amounts so as to leave the remaining installments of the aggregate assessment equal in amount and each in multiples of $100.00 shall be apportionate to the first installment of the said special assessment. The first installment shall be due and payable on the 2nd day of January next after the filing of the first voucher issued on account of work done on the said improvement. The second installment of said assessment shall be due and payable one year thereafter, and so on annually until all assessments have been paid.

IT IS HEREBY made the duty of the Board of Local Improvements of the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS to file in the Office of the Clerk of the Court in which such assessment was confirmed a certificate signed by the Secretary of the Board of Local Improvements of the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS of the date of the first voucher and the amount of the said voucher, within thirty (30) days after the issuance of the said voucher. All installments shall bear interest until paid at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum. Interest on all installments shall begin to run in accordance with the provisions of the Illinois Municipal Code, Article 9, Division 2 and amendments thereto. Interest on such first installment shall be due and payable and shall be collected at the same time as the first installment. Interest on the second and succeeding installments shall be due and payable and shall be collected with the installments respectively as in said Code relating to special assessment provided.

SECTION 5: That for the purpose of anticipating the collection of the second and succeeding installments of said assessment for the cost of said improvements, the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS shall issue bonds payable out of said installments, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum, signed by the President of the Board of Trustees of the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, and attested by the Village Clerk of said Village. Said bonds shall be issued in accordance with and shall in all respects conform to the provisions of the Illinois Municipal Code, Article 9, Division 2, and amendments thereto.

SECTION 6: That the President of the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS be and he is hereby directed to file a Petition in the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, in the name of the people of the VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, praying that steps may be taken to levy a special assessment for the purpose of defraying the expense of said improvement so far as the same may lawfully be done and to ascertain what property will be benefited, in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance, and in the manner prescribed by law.

SECTION 7: That all ordinances, or parts of ordinances, in conflict with this ordinance, be, and the same are hereby repealed.

SECTION 8: That this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and approval thereof according to law.

An Ordinance

PROVIDING FOR BORROWING MONEY AND ISSUING BONDS OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS, TO THE AMOUNT OF $1,425,000 FOR THE PURPOSE OF PAYING THE COST OF PURCHASING A SITE FOR LIBRARY PURPOSES, CONSTRUCTING THEREON A BUILDING TO BE USED AS A LIBRARY AND PURCHASING NECESSARY EQUIPMENT FOR SAID LIBRARY BUILDING AND PROVIDING FOR THE LEVY AND COLLECTION OF A DIRECT ANNUAL TAX FOR THE PAYMENT OF THE PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST MATURING ON SAID BONDS.

WHEREAS for many years a free public library has been maintained and operated in and for the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois, under the direction of a duly elected Board of Library Directors and annually, taxes have been duly levied and extended against all taxable property within the Village for the purpose of maintaining and operating such public library; and

WHEREAS the Board of Library Directors of the public library of the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois, by proper proceedings has heretofore determined that it is necessary to purchase a site for library purposes, to erect thereon a building to be used as a library building and to furnish equipment for said building and said Board of Library Directors has heretofore submitted to the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Arlington Heights plans an estimate of the cost of so improving the library facilities of the Village; and

WHEREAS the said Board of Library Directors of the public library of the Village of Arlington Heights has estimated the cost of purchasing a site for library purposes, constructing thereon a building to be used as a library and purchasing necessary equipment for said library building to be One Million Four Hundred Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($1,425,000); and

WHEREAS the President and Board of Trustees of said Village has heretofore approved and does now hereby approve the said plans for the new building to be constructed on property to be acquired, such new building to be used for library purposes, and the equipment to be purchased and installed therein and the estimated cost thereof including the estimated cost of purchasing and furnishing necessary equipment for said new building and including the cost of purchasing the site on which said new building is to be erected, as said plans and estimate of cost were heretofore submitted to this President and Board of Trustees by said Board of Library Directors; and

WHEREAS it is deemed advisable and necessary and for the best interest of the Village of Arlington Heights that such new building be erected and that necessary equipment for said new building be purchased and furnished and that property be acquired as a site on which the new library building may be erected, all as above referred to; and

WHEREAS the President and Board of Trustees of said Village have estimated that the cost of the making of the improvements to the existing library facilities of the Village, as above referred to and described, will be not less than One Million Four Hundred Twenty-five Thousand Dollars ($1,425,000); and

WHEREAS funds are not available for the purpose of paying the cost of so improving the existing library facilities of the Village, as hereinabove referred to and described, and it will therefore be necessary to borrow money and in evidence thereof issue bonds of said Village for the purpose of paying the cost thereof; and

WHEREAS the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois, did by an ordinance adopted on December 13, 1965, call a special election to be held in and for said Village on January 8, 1966, for the purpose of submitting to the electors of said Village the following question:

Shall bonds in the amount of $1,425,000 be issued by the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois, for the purpose of paying the cost of purchasing a site for library purposes, constructing thereon a building to be used as a library, and purchasing necessary equipment for said library building, said bonds to become due serially on December 1 of each of the years and in the amounts as follows:

Year	Amount	Year	Amount
1968	$15,000	1977	$80,000
1969	20,000	1978	90,000
1970	25,000	1979	100,000
1971	30,000	1980	115,000
1972	40,000	1981	125,000
1973	45,000	1982	125,000
1974	55,000	1983	135,000
1975	60,000	1984	145,000
1976	70,000	1985	150,000

and bearing interest at the rate of not to exceed five per cent (5%) per annum?

and

WHEREAS the President and Board of Trustees of said Village did cause to be given proper notice of said election by publishing notice thereof once in the Arlington Heights Herald, the same being a newspaper published in said Village, said publication of said notice being made not more than thirty (30) nor less than fifteen (15) days prior to the date of said election, which said notice did specify the places where such election was to be held, the time of opening and closing of the polls and the question to be voted upon; and

WHEREAS the President and Board of Trustees of said Village by proper proceedings adopted and spread upon its records, found that all legal requirements in connection with said election were duly complied with and that a majority of the electors of said Village voting at said election on said question above referred to, voted in favor thereof:

NOW, THEREFORE, Be It Ordained by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois, as follows:

Section 1. That it is hereby found and determined that all of the action referred to in the preamble of this ordinance has been properly taken as referred to and set forth in said preamble and that the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Arlington Heights have been authorized by a majority of the electors of said Village voting on the question at said special election, duly called, noticed, held and canvassed for that purpose, to issue bonds of said Village in the amount of $1,425,000 for the purpose of paying the cost of purchasing a site for library purposes, constructing thereon a building to be used as a library and purchasing necessary equipment for said library building.

Section 2. That it is hereby found and determined that it is for the best interests of the Village of Arlington Heights that money be borrowed by said Village for the purpose of paying the cost of purchasing a site for library purposes, constructing thereon a building to be used as a library and purchasing necessary equipment for said library building, all as hereinabove referred to and described in the preamble hereof and that to evidence said loan negotiable coupon bonds of said Village be issued.

Section 3. That in order to raise the sum of $1,425,000 needed for the purpose of paying the cost of purchasing a site for library purposes, constructing thereon a building to be used as a library and purchasing necessary equipment for said library building, there be borrowed by, for and on behalf of the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois, the sum of $1,425,000 and to evidence said loan negotiable coupon bonds of said Village be issued. Said bonds shall be designated "Public Library Bonds," be dated June 1, 1966, be two hundred eighty-five (285) in number, numbered consecutively from 1 to 285, inclusive, be of the denomination of $5,000 each and become due serially on December 1 of each of the years and in the amounts and shall bear interest from date until paid at the rates as follows:

Year	Amount	Bond Numbers (All Numbers Inclusive)	Interest Rate
1968	$15,000	1 to 3	5%
1969	20,000	4 to 7	5%
1970	25,000	8 to 12	5%
1971	30,000	13 to 18	5%
1972	40,000	19 to 26	5%
1973	45,000	27 to 35	5%
1974	55,000	36 to 46	5%
1975	60,000	47 to 58	4.40%
1976	70,000	59 to 72	4%
1977	80,000	73 to 88	4%
1978	90,000	89 to 106	4%
1979	100,000	107 to 123	4%
1980	115,000	124 to 149	4%
1981	125,000	150 to 174	4%
1982	125,000	175 to 199	4%
1983	135,000	200 to 226	4%
1984	145,000	227 to 255	4%
1985	150,000	256 to 285	4%

That the interest becoming due on said bonds shall be payable on June 1, 1967 and semiannually thereafter on the first days of December and June in each year, which said interest payments to date of maturity of principal shall be evidenced by proper interest coupons attached to each bond and maturing on the dates herein provided, and both principal and interest shall be payable in lawful money of the United State of America at such place as may hereafter be agreed upon by the President and Board of Trustees of said Village and the purchaser of the bonds herein authorized and shall be designated in a resolution to be adopted for such purpose. The seal of said Village shall be affixed to each of said bonds and said bonds shall be signed by the President and be attested by the Clerk of said Village, and said coupons shall be signed and attested by said officials, respectively, by their respective facsimile signatures, and said officials, by the execution of said bonds, shall adopt as and for their own proper signatures their respective facsimile signatures appearing on said coupons.

Section 4. That the bonds hereby authorized shall be payable to bearer, provided, however, that such bonds may be subject to registration as to principal in the name of the holder on the books of the Treasurer of said Village, such registration to be evidenced by notation of said Treasurer upon the back of such bonds so registered. No bond so registered shall be subject to transfer except upon such books and similarly noted on the back thereof unless the last registration shall have been to bearer. Such registration of any of said bonds shall not, however, affect the negotiability of the coupons attached to said bonds, but such coupons shall continue transferable by delivery merely.

Section 5. That each of said bonds and the interest coupons to be thereto attached shall be in substantially the following form:

(Form of Bond)

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
STATE OF ILLINOIS COUNTY OF COOK
VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS
PUBLIC LIBRARY BOND

Number $5,000

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, that the Village of Arlington Heights, in Cook County, Illinois, hereby acknowledges itself to owe, and for value received promises to pay to bearer, or if this bond be registered, then to the registered holder hereof, the sum of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($5,000) on the first day of December, 19 , together with interest on said sum from the date hereof until paid at the rate of ..... per cent (.....%) per annum, payable on June 1, 1967 and semiannually thereafter on the first days of December and June in each year, upon presentation and surrender of the respective interest coupons hereto attached as they severally become due and payable.

Both principal and interest are hereby made payable in lawful money of the United States of America at

, in the City of , .

For the prompt payment of this bond, both principal and interest, as aforesaid, at maturity, and the levy of taxes sufficient for that purpose, the full faith, credit and resources of said Village are hereby irrevocably pledged.

This bond is one of a series of bonds issued by said Village for the purpose of paying the cost of purchasing a site for library purposes, constructing thereon a building to be used as a library and purchasing necessary equipment for said library building, pursuant to and in all respects in compliance with the applicable provisions of the Illinois Municipal Code, approved May 29, 1961, and all acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and including the applicable provisions of the Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled "AN ACT in relation to free public libraries for cities, villages, incorporated towns and townships and to repeal Acts and parts of Acts therein named," approved July 12, 1965, and all acts amendatory of the Acts above referred to and supplementary thereto, and was authorized by a majority of the electors of said Village voting upon the question at an election duly called, noticed, held and canvassed for that purpose in and for said Village, and in compliance with the provisions of said ordinance duly passed by the President and Board of Trustees of said Village, approved by the Village President and published, in all respects as required by law.

It is hereby certified and recited that all acts, conditions and things required by the Constitution and Laws of the State of Illinois, to exist or to be done precedent to and in the issuance of this bond, have existed and have been properly done, happened and been performed in regular and due form and time as required by law; that the indebtedness of said Village of Arlington Heights, represented by this bond and the issue of which it forms a part, and including all other indebtedness of said Village, howsoever evidenced and incurred, does not exceed any constitutional or statutory limitation, and that provision has been made for the collection of a direct annual tax, in addition to all other taxes, on all of the taxable property in said Village sufficient to pay the interest hereon as the same falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal hereof at maturity.

This bond is subject to registration as to principal in the name of the holder on the books of the Village Treasurer, such registration to be evidenced by notation of such Treasurer on the back hereof, and after such registration no transfer hereof, except upon such books and similarly noted hereon, shall be valid unless the last registration shall have been to bearer. Registration hereof shall not affect the negotiability of the coupons hereto attached which shall continue negotiable by delivery merely, notwithstanding registration hereof.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, said Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois, by its President and Board of Trustees, has caused its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed and this bond to be signed by the President of said Village and attested by its Village Clerk and the coupons hereto attached to be signed and attested by said officials, respectively, by their facsimile signatures, and said officials do, by the execution hereof, adopt as and for their own proper signatures their respective facsimile signatures appearing on said coupon, all as of the first day of June, 1966.

Ordinance No. 0-33-66

AN ORDINANCE
AMENDING ORDINANCE 0-46-57

BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Palatine, Illinois, that Ordinance No. 0-46-57, known as the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Palatine as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

(A) The following is hereby inserted in Section 2.02, after the paragraph entitled "Automobile Service Station":

"Bedroom. A room or enclosed floor space in basement, first or upper story arranged and intended for sleeping purposes. In dwelling units of more than two rooms in multi-family buildings each room in excess of two, other than bath, toilet rooms, laundries, pantries, foyers, or communicating corridors shall constitute a bedroom whether or not arranged or intended for sleeping."

(B) The paragraph entitled "Land Area For Dwelling Unit" contained in Section 5.03 is hereby deleted in its entirety and replaced by the following:

"Land Area for Dwelling Unit. There shall be provided a minimum of 8,000 square feet of land area for a single-family dwelling and for two-family and multiple-family dwellings the following area shall be provided:

TYPE OF DWELLING UNIT	REQUIRED LAND AREA IN SQUARE FEET
4 OR MORE BEDROOMS	2,000 PER BEDROOM
3 BEDROOMS	5,000 PER D. U.
2 BEDROOMS	2,400 PER D. U.
1 BEDROOM & EFFICIENCY	2,100 PER D. U.

The above minimum land area requirements are diminished by five per cent (5%) for dwellings constructed on lots platted prior to January 12, 1958.

(C) Paragraph (a) of Article VI, Section 6.01, is hereby deleted in its entirety and replaced by the following:

(a) DWELLING UNITS AND LODGING ROOMS

"(1) There shall be provided not less than 1250 square feet of lot area for each unit in hotels, motels and motor inns.

(2) Dwelling units may be permitted only upon petition under planned development concepts on tracts or parcels of land in excess of 40 acres when such tracts are proposed for development, with interdependent residential and non-residential uses.

(3) Dwelling units, when permitted under this Article VI, must comply with the following land area requirements:

TYPE OF DWELLING UNIT	REQUIRED LAND AREA IN SQUARE FEET
4 or more bedrooms	2,000 per Bedroom
3 bedrooms	5,000 per D. U.
2 bedrooms	2,400 per D. U.
1 bedroom & efficiency	2,100 per D. U.

Land areas used to fulfill the above requirements cannot be used to fulfill other land use requirements."

(D) Paragraph (b) Article VI, Section 6.01 is hereby changed to read as follows: "All business, service, repair, processing, storage of merchandising display shall be conducted wholly within enclosed buildings, with the following exceptions:

1. In Automobile Service Stations:
   (a) The sale of automotive fuels, lubricants and coolants;
   (b) The display of automotive tires within closable units, especially constructed for tire storage and display and not exceeding 500 cubic feet in total volume of all such units in any single station;
   (c) The storage of not more than 4 inoperable automobiles; provided that storage must be effectively screened from view from streets and surrounding properties. If such screening cannot be accomplished, the storage of inoperable vehicles will not be permitted.
2. The display and sale of nursery stock, garden and farm equipment and outdoor furniture and recreation equipment.
3. Display for the purpose of sale or rental of new or used automobiles, trucks, motorcycles, trailers and boats; all in operable condition, except that utility hauling trailers stored for sale or rent shall be screened from view from streets and surrounding properties.
4. Vending machines, in conjunction with another permitted principal use.
5. Outdoor recreational uses (including swimming pools, golf courses, golf driving ranges and miniature golf), drive-in restaurants and parking lots.
6. The Village Board may grant permission, without public hearing, for the relaxation of regulations regarding outdoor display and sales for annual promotional events not exceeding three consecutive days in duration.

All merchandise displayed outdoors shall be displayed in a neat and orderly manner."

(E) The following is added to Article VI, Section 6.03, at the end of the list entitled "Permitted Uses":

"(s) Nursery and garden supplies—retail."

SECTION 2: That all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION 3: That this ordinance shall take effect, and shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication as provided by statute.

PASSED: This 11th day of July, 1966.

Ordinance No. 1161

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING SANITATION FOR BEAUTY CULTURE ESTABLISHMENTS

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF MOUNT PROSPECT, ILLINOIS:

SECTION ONE: That Chapter Nineteen of the Municipal Code of Mount Prospect of 1957, as amended, is hereby further amended by adding thereto an entirely new Article IV of Chapter Nineteen and said Article IV shall and hereafter be and read as follows:

SECTION 19.401—Definitions: The following definitions shall apply in the interpretation and enforcement of this ordinance:

a. "Beauty Culture" shall mean and include any establishment within the Village engaged in the work, business, or art of hair dressing (thinning, trimming, shaping, fingerwaving, old methods of curling, marcelling); permanent waving; hair coloring (tinting, dyeing, bleaching), scalp and hair conditioning; electric devices for hair treatment and removal; and facials (massage, basic makeup and arching, hand and arm molding).

b. "Health Inspector" shall mean the Inspector of Health of the Village of Mount Prospect, or any of his authorized representatives.

c. "Person" shall mean any person, firm, corporation, partnership or other association.

SECTION 19.402—License Required — Posting and Revocation: It shall be unlawful for any person to operate a Beauty Culture Establishment in the Village of Mount Prospect who does not possess an unrevoked license from the Village of Mount Prospect. Such license shall be posted in a conspicuous place. Only persons who comply with the requirements of this Ordinance shall receive and retain such a license.

SECTION 19.403 — Operator's License: All persons engaged as a beauty culture operator must display their certificate of registration from the Department of Education and Registration of the State of Illinois, in a conspicuous place.

SECTION 19.404—Inspections: It shall be the duty of the Health Inspector to inspect every Beauty Culture Establishment licensed under this article, at least once every six months or as often as necessary to insure compliance with this Article and all other Ordinances relating thereto. In case the Health Inspector discovers the violation of any item of sanitation required in this Article; he shall send written notice to the operator stating the violation noted and specifying the time for correction; he shall make a second inspection after the lapse of such time as he deems necessary for the defect to be remedied, and the second inspection shall be used in determining compliance with the sanitation standards required under this Article. Such license may be revoked upon violation after an opportunity for a hearing by the Board of Health upon serious or repeated violation.

SECTION 19.405 — Sanitation Requirements:

a. Walls and ceilings of all rooms shall be kept clean and in good repair.

b. Floors of all rooms in which beauty culture is done shall be of such construction as to be easily cleaned, shall be smooth, and shall be kept clean and in good repair.

c. Beauty culture establishments shall be well lighted and properly ventilated.

d. Beauty culture establishments must be located in rooms separate from other lines of business, except those incident thereto.

e. Beauty culture establishments shall be equipped with smoking stands, ash trays, or sand jars, all of which shall be cleaned daily.

f. Water supply. Each beauty culture establishment shall have sufficient amounts of hot and cold running water as may be necessary to operate in a sanitary manner. All bowls, basins, jars, and like receptacles shall be cleaned immediately after using.

SECTION 19.406—Implements:

a. Combs, hair brushes, razors, shears, clippers and applicators, cups or other instruments shall be kept in a sanitary condition at all times and shall be cleansed and shall be subjected to an approved germicidal treatment before further use.

b. Only unused freshly laundered towels including dry towels, steam towels and wash cloths shall be used for each patron. All clean towels shall be kept in a closed cabinet until used. In cutting the hair of any patron a newly laundered towel or fresh paper neck strip shall be placed around the neck, to prevent the hair cloth from touching the skin. When shampooing the hair of any patron a newly laundered towel shall be placed around the neck to prevent the hair cloth or rubber apron from touching the skin.

c. All creams, lotions, and other cosmetics used for patrons shall be kept in clean closed containers. All jars and bottles shall be securely closed and labeled. Creams and other semi-solid substances shall be dipped from container with a sterile article or spatula. Removing such substances with fingers is prohibited.

d. Powder must be in shakers or similar receptacles. Open powder boxes must not be used for patrons. Cosmetics must be removed by means of absorbent soft paper, or other disposable material.

SECTION 19.407 — Operators and Employees:

a. Every operator and employee shall thoroughly cleanse his hands immediately before and after serving each patron.

b. No operator or employee having an infectious or contagious disease shall be permitted to work in a beauty culture establishment, and no owner or manager of a beauty culture establishment shall permit any person suffering from a communicable disease or from any venereal disease in a communicable form to be employed nor shall any service be performed on any person known to have an infectious or contagious disease. Each operator and employee of a beauty culture establishment must have a chest X-ray yearly, with proof of same made available to the Health Inspector.

c. No operator or employee shall massage any person when the surface to be massaged is inflamed or broken out, or contains pus.

SECTION 19.408 — Penalties: Any person violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00). Each day such violation is committed, or permitted to continue, shall constitute a separate offense and shall be punishable as such hereunder.

SECTION TWO: All Ordinances, or parts of Ordinances, in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION THREE: This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval, and publication in the manner provided by law.

AYES: 5.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

ANOTHER FORM TO FILL OUT! AND DO IT BEFORE AGE 65

The men and women of retirement age who refuse to make a complete list of what they own — and where it is — may well wind up paying for a rest home for cats. Even if they hate cats.

A banker says this. He is Virgil W. Brown and is retired.

"Many people, but particularly men, hoard and hide things," he says. "Some of it is instinct. Some of it is a desire or a need to get money out of sight of relatives and friends.

"This probably would be all right if people didn't die, or lose memory, or develop mental illness. But after age 60 or so they do, unfortunately. And in 30 years of banking I saw strange things happen to cash and securities that the owners never intended should happen . . ."

He mentioned bank accounts that gathered dust for years, until all immediate heirs were dead and some remote relative came in to claim the loot . . . securities and cash that lay unused and forgotten until some local unit of government impounded them for public use . . . other wealth that courts, unable to find proper hiers, turned over to public projects.

To avoid all these problems, Mr. Brown has drawn up a "Where It's Hidden" chart. He recommends that everybody past age 60 use it:

1. CASH
   Checking account at _____ Savings account at _____ Investment account at _____ Currency in tin can buried at _____
2. LIFE INSURANCE
   I have ____ policies, with the following companies _____

4. WHAT I OWE
   To whom _____
   How much _____
   Where copy of the note is _____
5. WHAT I'M OWED

6. SECURITIES

   Where they are _____
7. SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX

8. TAXES
   Where past Income Tax returns are _____
   Where receipts and other data are to prove they were honest _____

Forgiveness

"Thou didst forgive the iniquity of thy people; thou didst pardon all their sin."
— Psalms 85:2

If you have a weakness, you must work to conquer it, else it will defeat you in many things. If you sin, you must repent and believe in forgiveness. It is wrong to carry guilt as a never-ending burden. It is best to seek forgiveness.

As Christians, we can understand the meaning of forgiveness, because we know the example of a forgiving God. We can understand that love makes it easy to forgive, for love closes out hate and envy and brings strength to heart and mind and soul.

So let us be aware of forgiveness, for ourselves and for others. And build strength for tomorrow through love of God and fellow man.

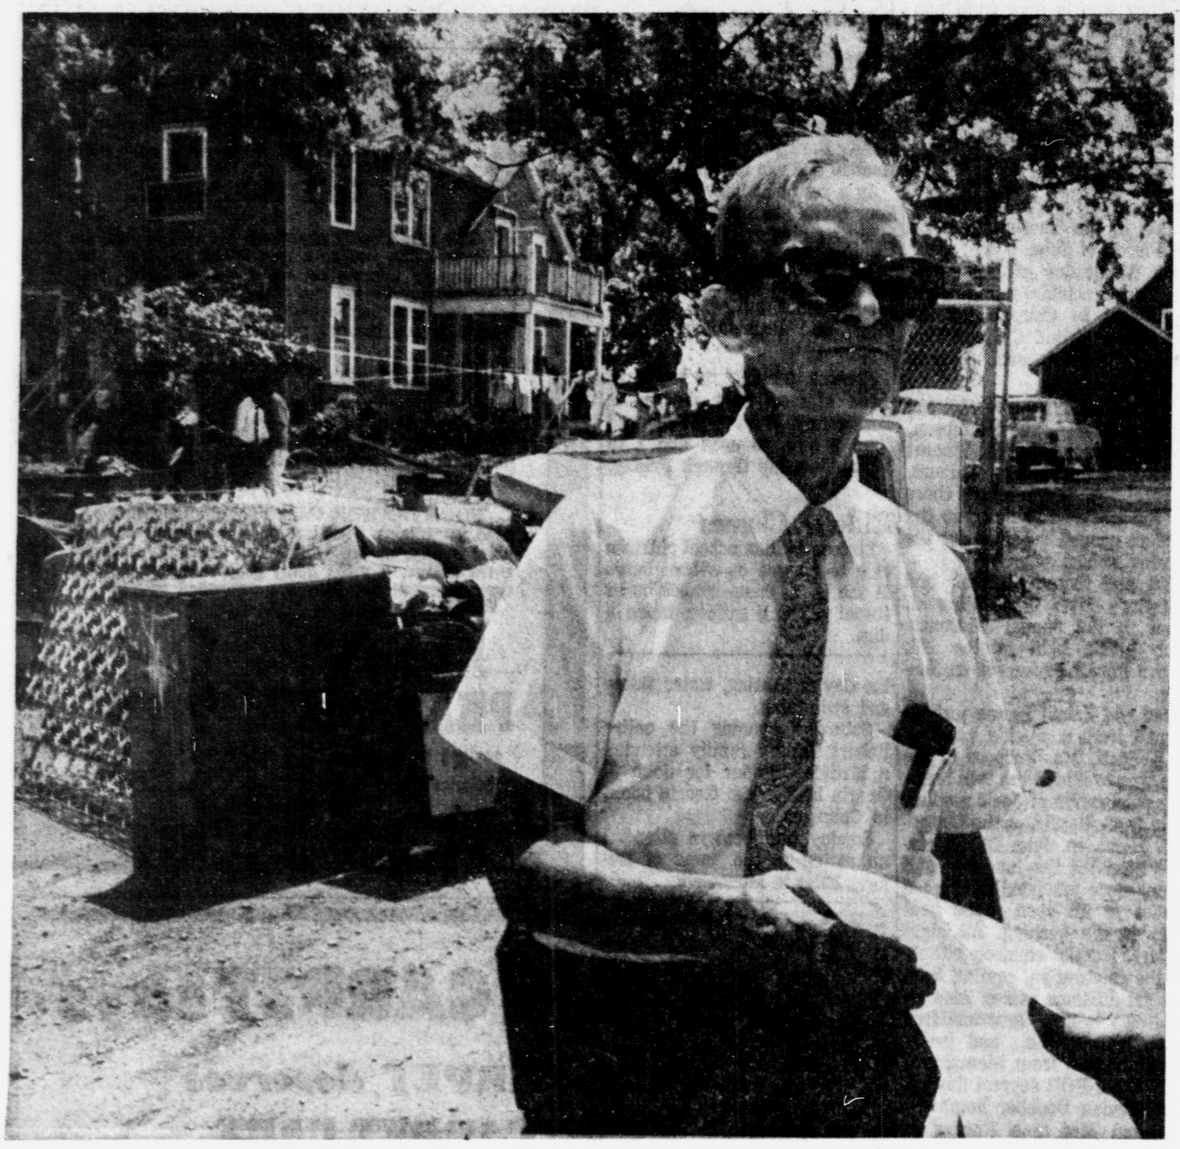
THE ACCEPTED INFLUENCE IN THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

Now In 110,000 Homes

38,000 on Thursday + 72,000 on Sunday



EVICTIONS, RARE IN THE SUBURBS, may become more common as Cook County forces the closing of substandard housing in Elk Grove Township. Cook County bailiff gives formal eviction notice at the home of Abeline Villarreal, 501 Golf Road, Elk Grove Township. This case involved a dispute with the landlord over the condition of the water. (Staff photos by Larry Cameron)

ABELINE VILLARREAL, 501 Golf Road, Elk Grove Township, stands on the porch as Cook County police and bailiff move furniture out and lock his home. Villarreal claims he was evicted a week before he was to move to a Wheeling home. This allegedly was retaliation from the landlord for his complaints about the condition of the water. In the next few weeks Cook County will begin its test cases against Mexican-Americans living in housing which violates health standards, zoning, or fire regulations.

Mexican-Americans Seek Alternatives

'Miracle' Needed to Prevent Evictions

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

Few threads of hope have loosened from the snarl of housing problems Mexican-Americans face in the northwest suburbs.

The Northwest Cook Opportunity Council (Norwesco) has found nothing to stop the court action Cook County plans to force evictions of Mexican-Americans living in substandard housing.

"We're being super-cautious," said Daniel Coman, administrative assistant to Cook County Board Pres. Seymour Simon. "But court action will be brought in the next weeks."

The county's building and health departments, and the state fire marshall's office all have submitted evidence to the states attorney to build the county's case for evictions.

VIRGIL BASS vice chairman of Norwesco, believes it will take a "miracle" to stop the evictions. Norwesco has not been able to find any housing to relocate the families it anticipates will be evicted.

Coman noted most families in this substandard housing do not qualify for Welfare payments Thus the county would not worry about relocation.

Petitions with 1,344 names failed to slow county action on the substandard housing or to bring about a meeting of metropolitan planners, welfare groups, real estate dealers, and other officials who might devise a solution.

Bass unhappily notes that much more work at a community level is needed to create the kind of climate that would allow the construction of low income housing units. The power of municipalities to object to any projects within a 1½-mile limit of their boundaries means no federal or state housing programs can be used.

THE REV. J. WARD Morrison, pastor of Queen of the Rosary Cahtolic Church in Elk Grove Village, has worked to arrange for loans for the Mexican-Americans who qualify. "Within the next 10 days there should be at least three to five approvals and this is a victory," Father Morrison said.

He has gone to Chicago institutions holding mortgages to plead that Mexican-Americans should not be discriminated against in receiving home mortgages.

The newly formed Latin America Association, a not-for-profit corporation, is wrestling with the housing problems. At a meeting Saturday evening at Queen of the Rosary Catholic School, Frank Ybarra, vice president of the group, told of locating potential homes for sale in Wheeling, Hoffman Estates and Des Plaines.

Robert Nelson of Elk Grove Village, who has worked on housing problems with this minority group, believes the Latin America Association may find some solutions to the housing problem. Organizing themselves into a group able to bargain for their rights has proved effective for Mexican-Americans in Texas. On a smaller scale it might prove helpful in this area.

THE LATIN America Association is attempting to survey where the Mexican-American families live, time of residency, number of children, and occupation of husband and wife.

A Des Plaines real estate man, John Jones, appeared at the Saturday evening meeting to pledge his help. He has some homes listed on FHA and VA lists. Homes have been located primarily north of Wheeling, he said.

Two Elk Grove Village residents interested in the housing problems are investigating a plan for a syndicate to be formed to provide help in acquiring trailers. Mexican-Americans would be able to buy from the syndicate. In this plan, a Mexican-American family would not be tied to a long-term mortgage situation, which many dislike.

The trailer plan would allow the families to have adequate sanitary cooking, and lighting facilities, and more space than the one-room dwellings many now occupy. (B-10

Anniversary best wishes go to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ayres and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berg, both July 17.

COLONIAL HEIGHTS

Having an extra reason to celebrate on July 4 were the George Menards and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kertz, all Rusty Drive. Their first granddaughter was born to Mrs. Jerry Kertz, daughter of the Menards and daughter-in-law of the Kertzes. It was the Menards' sixth grandchild and the second for the Kertzes.

The Jim Kingsboroughs, Rusty Drive, helped Mr. and Mrs. Jess Black of Des Plaines celebrate their 18th wedding anniversary Saturday evening at the Kingsborough home.

The George Menard family had Mrs. Menard's brother and family, the Wayne Worcesters of Chicago, as July 4 guests for the day and dinner and to visit with their mother who is visiting the Menards. Other guests were the Menards' son and daughter-in-law, the junior Menards of Schiller Park.

MISS PAT Trznadel, Rusty Drive, gave a farewell party for a classmate, Jane McDermott, who is returning to England after a seven-year stay in the United States. Guests were Linda Read, Patty Yamamoto, Sue Fiebernittz and Louis Mehlhop. The girls presented Miss McDermott with a gold charm bracelet.

Saturday evening the Wuchterl family, Kim Avenue, attended a dinner at the Chicago home of Judy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Carroll, in honor of Judy's cousin, Joe Brophy, who is visiting from Dallas.

The junior Carl Baardsens, Estates Drive, were Sunday dinner guests of the H. V. Nystroms in Chicago.

Kathie, Karen Sue, Carlene, Dristen and Carl and Mrs. Gordon Field and sons of Des Plaines visited former neighbors of the Baardsens, the John Pekarik family in Elmwood Park, on Wednesday.

MR. AND MRS. Douglas Tetrick, Estates Drive, returned recently from two weeks in northern Michigan. They reported that early morning fishing was good.

A welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Al Di Vito and daughters, Nancy and Diana, and sons, Al Jr. and Mark, who have moved to 600 Crestwood Drive from River Grove.

And to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Busch and son, Tom, who recently moved to 1802 Estates Drive from Safford, Ariz.

The James Colamatteos, Estates Drive, entertained cousins, the Donald Martinsons from Weathersfield, Conn., for three days. The guests left for Wisconsin, but will return here for an extended visit the end of this week.

Ted Strand Jr. and Dena Holsman, Hatlen Avenue, spent the weekend with Ted Strand Sr. at Clam Lake, Wis., where they enjoyed swimming and touring the countryside.

ELK RIDGE VILLA

On July 4, the Bill Mallians, Robert Drive, had a cook-out. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Don Cerva and children of Arlington Heights.

Sunday the Mallians went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Drechler in Norridge for the 14th birthday party for their nephew, David. (AME

St. Edna Picnic Is Saturday

St. Edna Church, 2525 N. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, will hold its Second Annual Parish Picnic Saturday.

The picnic, held on the church grounds from 12 noon until 10 p.m., will feature all kinds of games, pony rides, races and home baked goods furnished by the St. Edna Women's Club under the leadership of Mrs. Samuel D. Hutcheson Jr.

According to Raymond Kulla, president of St. Edna Men's Club, the club members will provide all types of picnic refreshments, but anyone may bring his own lunch.

St. Edna Church with its pastor, the Reverend James J. Doherty, and his assistant, Willard J. Meyer, has extended an open invitation to all who wish to attend the picnic. (APW

What will the others be worth a year from now?

The Cadillac car holds its value far beyond any other automobile at or near its price. Let your Cadillac dealer explain today why now, more than ever, it's great . . . going Cadillac!

There is one simple way to measure the worth of any other luxury car: compare it to the way a Cadillac keeps its value. For Cadillac is the grand champion in this most telling of all motor car tests—and at resale returns a higher percentage of its original cost than any other car built in the land. There are many reasons. The first is Cadillac quality—recognized wherever automobiles are known. Then there is Cadillac beauty and luxury—so advanced that the car retains its desirability long after others have lost their appeal. And there is Cadillac safety, performance, dependability and operating economy. What will your car be worth a year—or even three years—from now? If it's a Cadillac, the answer is predictably pleasant. Get the facts today from your authorized dealer. He's an expert in serving the world's most demanding motorists—and his interest in your complete satisfaction will continue throughout your ownership. Isn't it time you put a Cadillac in your life?

MAYFAIR CARPET says

GOOD CARPET deserves GOOD CARPET CARE

When you spend your hard earned money on fine carpet, you have every right to expect long and dependable service from it.

Carpet takes heavy day-in, day-out abuse from all kinds of traffic. So it deserves some special care and attention which enhances its wearing qualities, such as:

- REGULAR VACUUMING—as required.
- PROFESSIONAL CLEANING—to brighten the surface, add years to its life.
- RUG CUSHIONS—proper cushioning absorbs shock, fills uneven floor spaces, adds to the luxury and life of the carpet.
- HIGH TRAFFIC AREA RE-ARRANGING—where wear is accelerated and pile crushes faster; corrected by repositioning furniture occasionally on wall-to-wall, by turning room-size rugs frequently.

Speaking of professional carpet cleaning, we know a lot about what it will do to prolong fine carpet life. We've cleaned an awful lot of them in our more than 20 years of carpet care in this area!

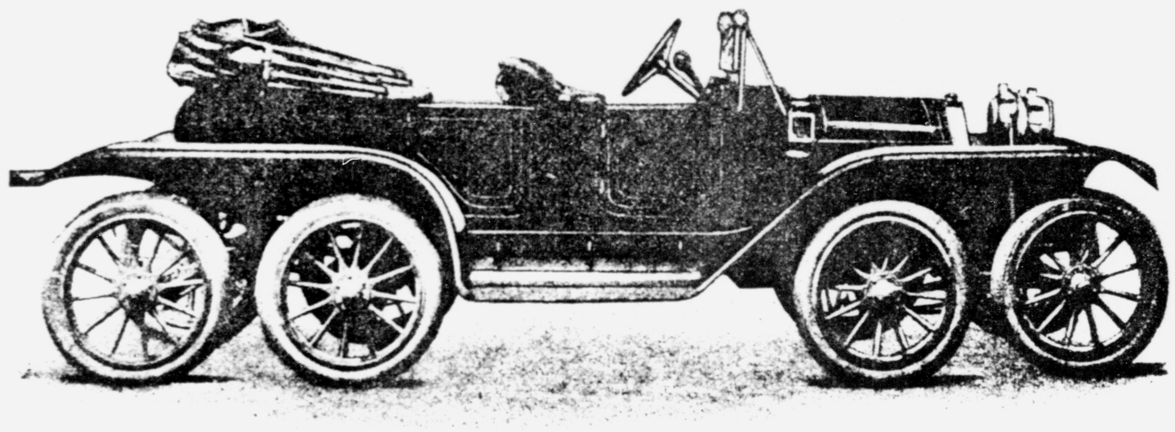
The Paddock

Classic Car SCRAPBOOK



THE 1911 OCTOAUTO

In the good old days when I used to take cattle to the Chicago Stock Yards, I carried a long hickory pole, a basket of grub, and much enthusiasm.

On long runs, my home was in the caboose for perhaps three days and three nights. It was a sad day, however, when, instead of a regular, genuine caboose, they bundled the merry stockmen into a dinkey. The difference between a dinkey and a caboose is that a caboose has four wheels on each side, and a dinkey has only four wheels altogether, one on each corner. The dinkey's business is to bounce, jounce, jolt, jar and jerk, and make a puncture in your vocabulary.

A wheel is a plan of continually hitting the rail. The Pullmans, it was who discovered that when you hit the rail in twelve places in running a car, you greatly reduce the amount of jar and wear and tear on the rails and the rolling-stock.

A car having twelve wheels is considered doubly as safe as one having eight.

A wheel lives its life exactly as a man does his. A man will stand a great number of raps and kicks supplied by Fate, provided they are distributed over a long period of time, but when you concentrate them in a few years, or a few months, you destroy the man by destroying his nerve fabric.

In the Reeves Octoauto, the load is distributed over eight wheels, instead of being concentrated on four. In a four-wheeled automobile, a wheel at each corner carries one-fourth of the load. In case of an imperfection in the road, the sudden dropping down into a rut, one wheel may for an instant carry half of the load, and it is this sudden jolt and burden that causes the tire trouble. You get enough of these tremendous pressures in a day, and your tire reaches its limit and explodes with a loud R. G. Dun and Company report. If you are running fast, you may lose control and the ditch, always waiting, gets you.

So the proposition is, if you can save your wheels from these severe jolts which will occasionally come through dropping into a rut, you are going to prolong the life of the tire, the life of the car and the life of its occupants.

Motor Club Suggests Drive To Illinois Beach State Park

Located right off Lake Michigan, between Waukegan and Zion, Illinois Beach State Park continues to enjoy increasing popularity in summer months. This is one of the state's newer and more modern parks, and the touring department of the Chicago Motor Club recommends it for visitors of all ages because of the wide variety of entertainment offered. Especially popular activities here are swimming, hiking, sightseeing, golfing and playground games.

The lake border of this 1,650-acre park includes 3½ miles of sandy beach, much of it ideal for a relaxing daytime stroll or a romantic walk in the moonlight. About 3,000 feet of cleared beach is reserved for swimming, and on sweltering holidays upwards of 8,000 people have been accommodated.

This is dunes country, and the erratic profile of the park's terrain was caused ages ago by glacier action. Hikers may follow the nature paths and trails along a series of low sand ridges and a high bluff paralleling the lake. Many will be surprised to recognize plant, animal, and bird life not usually seen in Illinois, yet here in the park's free and unspoiled habitat they have managed to survive.

OTHER FORMS of outdoor entertainment include horseback riding, fishing, camping and picnicking. A number of sizeable areas within the park have been designated for campers and picnickers. All are equipped with tables, woodburning stoves, running water and restrooms, and plenty of space is available for parking cars.

A luxurious lodge, completed only six years ago at a cost of $4 million continues to be the biggest attraction at the park. The lodge—actually more like a resort hotel—undoubtedly is one of the most modern hostelries to be found in any state park.

Its architecture, a contemporary stone and glass design, looks magnificent. Each of the 96 guest rooms is handsomely furnished, carpeted, air conditioned and includes TV. A sliding glass partition opens to a private balcony which commands a sweeping view of the lake.

On the main level is a spacious lounge where guests may relax or watch a bridge tournament when one is in progress. Conference rooms are available for club groups, and removable partitions open to provide a roomy banquet hall or ballroom. The lodge serves excellent meals and diners enjoy a view of the scenic park and its lake backdrop through picture windows.

IN A WING adjacent to the lodge is an Olympic-style swimming pool which can be heated during cold weather. The pool is permanently housed in glass framed with colorful redwood. The plastic domed ceiling was specially designed to admit the sun's rays so that even in winter the guests may swim and lounge around the pool while acquiring a Florida sun tan. Next to the large pool is a small wading pool for children.

Outside courts permit match tennis games, badminton, shuffleboard, volleyball and horseshoes. Also, there is a children's playground, a baseball diamond, miniature golf course, and a putting green. For golfers who must have the real thing, just outside the park is a country club course. A small fee is charged to play.

During the last few years, the Chicago Motor Club points out, many changes have been made at Illinois Beach State Park to further the enjoyment of all visitors. If you haven't seen this park in recent years —expect to be surprised. (CR

Clerk Asks Parents to Avoid Rush

Edward J. Barrett, Cook County Clerk, requests all parents who will register children for school this fall to come in, or write his Bureau of Vital Statistics, 130 N. Wells Street, Chicago, in order to avoid the last minute rush for birth certificates.

"Inasmuch as our bureau handles birth certificates, not just for children born in Chicago, but for those born in all the suburban areas of Cook County as well," Barrett said, "we have the most complete and comprehensive set of records in Chicago."

Barrett said that if the parents cannot come in to the office, they can mail their request in.

PARTICULARS, on written requests, should include the name of the child, date of birth, father's name, and the maiden name of the mother.

Delivery by return mail, can be made in 48 hours.

Under the law, a fee of $2 is made for the search. No charge is made for the certificate. No charge is made for the certificate. Money orders should be made out to: County Clerk Edward J. Barrett and mailed to him at the Bureau of Vital Statistics, 130 N. Wells St., Chicago, Illinois, 60606. (B10

Start North Suburb Retardation Council

A new North Suburban Council on Retardation has been organized to improve coordination of services to the mentally handicapped and their families.

This pioneering organization brings together seven community agencies serving the retarded of 32 north suburbs. Assisting in the formation of the council was the Community Planning Project of the Illinois Association for the Mentally Retarded.

The new North Suburban Council seeks to eliminate costly and needless duplication of services and to boost efficiency through increased communication between the units for the exchange of ideas and data.

The seven agencies are: Glenview Association for Retarded Children; North Shore ARC, Evanston; Countryside ARC, Palatine Township; Clearbrook ARC, Arlington Heights; Orchard School Parent Group, Skokie; Northwest Suburban Aid to Retarded Children, Park Ridge, and D.O.O.R., a vocational workshop in Wheeling.

All offer a variety of educational and recreational services for different age groups.

The suburban council plan, which has been put into action in western suburbs and is being studied for south area communities, grew out of a year of visits to agencies concerned with the retarded.

More than 60 visits were made by Mrs. Robert P. Knight, 300 Locust Road, Winnetka, chairman of the IAMR Community Planning Project steering committee, and other committee members to study overlapping services and to pinpoint areas of unmet needs.

"We are giving better referral service now that one agency knows what its neighboring agency is doing, Mrs. Knight said.

"When an organization or individual offers to sponsor a project for the mentally retarded, the suburban council can help channel such voluntary efforts into areas and programs where they are most needed.

The possibility of having a jointly operated project such as a diagnostic clinic is being studied. The council also is working to implement the new law which will make public school classes for the retarded mandatory in 1969.

The new councils plan to hold regular monthly meetings to be attended by the president, executive director and a board member of each of the member agencies.

Alvin J. Blake, 436 N. County Line Road, Hinsdale, a member of the IAMR Community Planning Project steering committee, is assisting with organizational work in the west suburbs. Morris Bryson, 809 S. Na-Wa-Ta, Mount Prospect, another steering committee member is serving as chairman of the North Suburban Council on Retardation.

Other steering committee members are: Mrs. Arthur Chapman, 1805 Clifton, Highland Park; Mrs. James Hall, 1155 Ash, Winnetka and Herbert Ullmann, 4229 Clausen, Western Springs.

Two others who served on the committee are: Mrs. L. Trimble Steinbrecher, executive secretary, Illinois Board of Mental Health Commissioners, and William K. Murphy, consultant, day programs for the mentally retarded, Ill. Dept. of Mental Health. (B-10

School Inoculation Policy Reaffirmed

Cong. Donald Rumsfeld (R-13th) has expressed his approval of President Johnson's action in signing the freedom of information bill, S. 1160.

The President signed the bill into law on July 4 at his Texas ranch.

Rumsfeld, a member of the House Committee on Government Operations, which helped draft the bill, said:

"I commend the President for his support of this important legislation. The President's far-sightedness and demonstrated concern about the people's right to know will, I trust, be noted by all officials of the executive branch of the federal government."

THE FREEDOM of information bill's purpose is to give the public and the press greater access to government information. In cases of unwarranted withholding of information by officials, the bill provides for an appeal to federal courts. It also specifies nine areas in which information may be properly withheld.

The new disclosure requirement will take effect on July 4, 1967.

Rumsfeld pointed out that the new law "puts the burden of proof in withholding cases" on the governmental agency concerned. It does not, he said, "solve all the problems of government secrecy, but is a welcome step toward the goal of a more informed citizenry, and President Johnson deserves the thanks of the American people for signing this important measure." Plan Big Air Show at Glenview

Flying more than 500 miles-per-hour, with a 14 foot overlap of their wings, and about three feet apart, four airplanes fly the tightest aerial diamond formation in the world. Their speed sometimes drops to just above stalling speed, at 170 mph, during the team's diamond slow pass.

The Blue Angels will demonstrate their precision flying July 30 and 31 at the Naval Air Station, Glenview. They will head an all-star cast of aerobatic performers, including the U. S. Army's world champion sky-diving team, the Golden Knights. The gates of the air station will be open to the public 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission and parking are free.

The two-day air show will conclude the week-long national model airplane championships beginning July 25. More than 1500 contestants from every state in the union and some foreign countries will be competing. (B10

County May Halt Flood Plain Subdivisions

Committee Studies Ferrone Proposal

A resolution to prohibit subdivisions in flood plain areas in Cook County was referred Friday to the public service committee of the Cook County Board.

The resolution was introduced by Daniel Ferrone, head of the building, zoning and planning department.

Ferrone said flood plains would be determined by the U.S. Geological Survey hydrologic atlas.

Commissioner Charles F. Chaplin commented such a resolution would need further study before passage.

He commented that "years ago a subdivision was denied outside Wheeling. Then it was annexed by Wheeling and the home owners were forever flooded."

COUNTY BOARD Pres. Seymour Simon said, "If the villages do that, it's not our legal or moral responsibility. We then don't have authority."

Ferrone explained that presently some confusion over what a flood plain is exists among various county departments.

He said the highway department declares areas flood plains based on so-called "five-year rains," while the building department has used a "50-year rain" as a guide for denial of building permits. By using the U.S. G.S. survey, the standard would be a "100-year rain."

(The so-called five-year or 50-year rain terms are somewhat theoretical and based on past heavy rain storms.)

SIMON COMMENTED provisions should be made to allow subdivisions in so-called flood plain areas if the builder takes preventive action such as reservoirs or special drainage systems.

Ferrone also commented the county via the proposed resolution could put in a "release clause" which would allow single lot construction but release the county of responsibility.

This clause would give fair warning to a future buyer that the home does sit in a flood plain.

COMMISSIONER Floyd Fulle asked, "Is not the Sanitary District denying permits?"

Ferrone answered, "The Sanitary District doesn't deny any sewer permits. It approves them but notes that the area is a flood plain. Then the plans come to my department and we refuse the permits."

The flood plain resolution would strengthen an already existing concept. Wheeling has a flood plain ordinance prohibiting construction on flood plains.

In Palatine, the idea has.. been tossed about and study of it has been an on-again-off-again thing.

ADEQUATE DRAINAGE has become a problem in the northwest communities. Projects have been held up because of potential and actual flooding.

In Palatine, a special assessment right now is being sought in an industrial area because of need for adequate storm drain sewers. Without the storm drain, the Sanitary District is withholding permits or has threatened to do so.

Critics of the flood plain concept have said such laws deny a man use of his property and the U.S.G.S. surveys are not realistic. Many examples exist of homes now situated on the U.S.G.S. map flood plain areas which have never experienced flooding.

The resolution as presented to the county board reads as follows:

". . . THE RAPID development of the unincorporated areas of Cook County in recent years has caused increased flood hazards;

". . . be it resolved that the Cook County Board hereby directs the map and plat officer of Cook County and the Cook County Highway Department not to approve any subdivision where all or part of the subdivision falls within a flood plain as delineated in the Hydrologic Investigators Atlas published by the United States Department of Interior United States Geological Survey." Asks Study Of Utility Companies

Cook County may look into the adequacies of private utility companies serving unincorporated areas of the county.

Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke Friday introduced a resolution calling for a study of the situation.

He noted the July 4 water system failure of an area adjacent to Mount Prospect served by Citizens Utilities Co.

MOUNT Prospect's administration has alleged the system is not capable of meeting the demands of service.

Bobrytzke's resolution was referred to the county board's legislation committee.

The resolution calls for inquiry into the need for legislation, and how adequate water and other utility services are for the county and in particular for this Mount Prospect area.

THANK YOU! THANK YOU! THANK YOU!

We wish to take this opportunity to express our most sincere appreciation to the wonderful people in and around Mt. Prospect who purchased from us during our May-June sale.

It's true. We didn't go over the top in our own doubled objective but we did break old sale records. John Mufich Buick is among the first 5 dealerships of 38 in the Chicago area to do better than 100% of Buick's Open Sales Contest and we think that this proves again that John Mufich Buick is making the kind of deals you want . . . the kind of deals that save you most money.

In Chicago area: BUICK SALES UP 32%!

At John Mufich Buick: 100.6% OF GOAL REACHED!

We've missed our doubled sales mark but we're happy to report one of the biggest percentage of sales increases in the Chicago area. After running first for most of the Buick Open Contest, we found ourselves finishing second just 1.6% behind the leader as the final standings were released. There were a total of 38 dealerships in the contest and frankly, we feel that coming in so close to first has got to be considered tops in any league. 1966 will be a record year for John Mufich Buick and we can't Thank You enough. Our success is testimony of your faith in a dealership with a brand new name in the community. It also points up the fact that we are making the deals. And you can be sure that we are going to continue doing so — giving you the consideration, value and service that has earned for us your valued patronage and support.

1,200 In Summer Driver Education Courses

Experts Help in Learning

by MARY SCHLOTT
Staff Writer

The driver chose the correct lane and began signaling for a left turn well before he reached the intersection.

The car made a full stop at the stop sign, although the way was clear.

The sign on the rear of the vehicle said "Student Driver," but the full stop should have provided clue enough that the driver was no adult.

For Arlington High driver education surveys have shown that 95 per cent of the area's adult drivers regularly practice "rolling stops" at stop signs rather than the full stop the law requires.

The surveys, made at all hours at busy intersections, underscored for those teenagers the importance of preventive driving techniques that High School District 214's driver education program is probably also the largest outside of Chicago.

BY THE END of the summer more than 1,200 teenagers will have completed the four-week course that includes classroom instruction, practice driving with a simulator and driving films and on-the-road experience.

The course, which aims at teaching safe driving techniques rather than providing just the minimum needed to meet state licensing requirements, is valuable not only to the student but to his parents.

The parent gains a modicum of peace of mind—from knowing his teenager has had good in-instruction—and gets a break on the high cost of insuring the younger driver. Companies give lower rates for students who have passed a driver training course, the saving ranging from 10 to 25 per cent.

"Between the age of 16 and 25 the rate reduction probably saves the student—and his parents—hundreds of dollars," points out Howard Lester, head athletic supervisor for District 214 and coordinator of the driver training program.

LESTER SAYS District 214, not content with the driver education program that it has, will revamp the teaching schedule starting with the summer of 1967. The school system will provide a four-phase program, dovetailing the classroom instruction simulator work, range driving and on-the-road driving into a tightly-coordinated package. "All research done indicates this approach is far superior," Lester says.

At that time, too, the school district will begin limiting its driver education class to juniors and above. At the present time, sophomores may take the course if they are 15½ years old. But a 1965 change in state law makes it illegal for students 15½ to 16 to operate a motor vehicle unless accompanied by a driver education teacher. Lester says candidly this limitation leads to an "indifferent attitude" in those younger students.

He also says the driver education teachers have found that a good many students under 16 are immature, less likely to see the importance of safe driving rules. Girls 15½ years old may still not have the strength to handle a motor vehicle, he asserts, despite the assistance of power brakes, power steering and automatic transmissions.

Of the 22 cars presently in use in District 214 for driver training, all are automatic shift cars. The school system tried to work back to using some stick-shift automobiles a year or so ago but no longer requests any. There just wasn't the demand from students, Lester says.

THE AUTOMOBILES are provided the district free by seven auto agencies—Glenview Plymouth, Ladendorf Oldsmobile in Des Plaines, Poole Ford, Lattof Chevrolet, Arlington Park Dodge, Morton Pontiac and Bill Cook Buick. District 214 provides gasoline, maintains the vehicles and agrees to return them in "new car condition," a requirement that usually just means a tune-up, Lester says.

The school system has found a "considerable" difference between models in per-hour cost of operation, Lester says. The figures, however, are not available to the public but are being kept only so cost of driver education classes can be accurately budgeted.

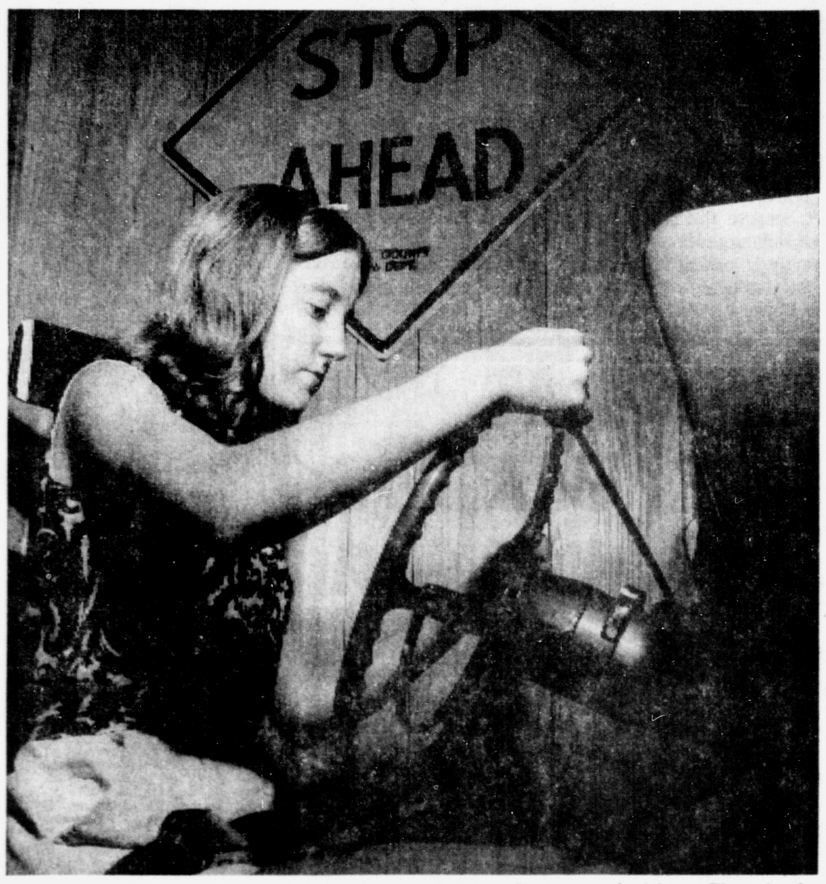
At present District 214 receives reimbursement of $8 per student for classroom instruction and $32 for each student completing on-the-road instruction satisfactorily. The reimbursement covers all costs of summer classes, when all teachers are paid an hourly rate, but only covers partial cost of school year classes taught by teachers whose pay varies according to their training and experience.

FUNDS COME from the $2 allotted for driver education from every $3 license fee.

About one-third of the District 214 driver education students enrolled this summer attend private or parochial schools during the regular school term. The driver classes are open to any district resident under 21 years of age; a separate (and separately reimbursed) adult school program is provided for those older.

At present only the classroom phase of the driver program is compulsory, but Lester thinks that soon will change.

He predicts that in 1967 the General Assembly will pass a law requiring satisfactory completion of a driver education course by all drivers' license applicants who are under 18. A number of states have this requirement now. (CR



SIMULATOR GIVES Arlington High School driver education student Martha Gabens a chance to try out coordination of brake and gears in safety. She'll also practice reacting to common road dangers as they are shown on a movie screen—much the same as adults around the nation did on last year's National Driving Test on television. The simulator gives each driver education student every experience but the "feel of the road." There is an experimental simulator that does that too, Howard Lester says, but it costs $12,000. The ones used by District 214 are rented, for much less. (Staff photo)

Lake County Fair, 4-H Show To Open July 27

THURS., JULY 14, 1966

Lake County will hold its 38th annual county fair and 4-H club show at the end of this month at the Lake County Fair Grounds.

The fair, opening Wednesday, July 27, and continuing through Sunday, July 31, will combine the flavor of the old county fair with that of today, according to Ray T. Nichols, Lake County Farm Adviser and fair publicity director.

Among the attractions will be homemaking and arts exhibits, rides, booths, purebred livestock and crop exhibits.

SATURDAY AND Sunday there will be a parade of livestock and machinery starting at 7 p.m.

The fair's opening day has been designated as 4-H Club Day. More than 1,400 youngsters will participate. Featured will be an all-day horse show and a talent show in the evening. The talent show will include the blue-ribbon instrumental, dramatic and novelty numbers selected from the Lake County Share-the-Fun 4-H Festival.

In addition to the 4-H talent show, there will be Talented Teens Entertainment on Thursday night; Red Blanchard, a television and radio star and a group of WGN artists on Friday night; and variety programs with trapeze artists, magic acts, juggling, a circus clown band and the Ginny Tiu Show on Saturday and Sunday evenings.

There will be four horse shows at the fair. They are: July 27, 8 a.m., the 4-H all-day horse show; July 29, 9 a.m., a Western horse show; July 30, 9 a.m., a second Western horse show, and July 31, 9 a.m., the All Shetland Pony Show.

ONE OF the fair's highlights will be the presentation and crowning of the 1966 Lake County Fair Queen and her court. The semi-finalists will be presented on the stage Wednesday, July 27 at 7 p.m., and the queen and her court will be announced Thursday, July 28 at 8 p.m.

A public auction of grand champion, reserve champion steers, barrow and wether lambs will take place on Saturday, July 30, at 3 p.m. in the livestock area of the fair grounds.

There will be a special informal reception Thursday, July 28, at 6:30 p.m. for Lake County mayors and supervisors and their wives.

The fairgrounds is located on Route 45, about one-half mile north of Route 120. (B10

Prospect Releases Spring Honor Roll

READY TO START—About to pull out for on-the-road practice is driver education student Kenneth Bosworth, 818 E. Talbot, Arlington Heights. His instructor is Roger Steingraber, whose training includes 18 college semester hours of safety education instruction—eight hours specifically in driver education. All of High School District 214's driver education teachers are thus qualified. Most, but not all, are men—not because the school system prefers it so, but because fewer women teachers have the training. The school district currently is looking for a women's physical education teacher who is also qualified in driver training, head athletic supervisor Howard Lester says. (Staff photo)

Names of students on the spring semester honor roll have been released by Prospect High School.

Each of those on the "senior" honor roll earned a grade point average of at least 4.5, with no grade below "B." To attain the "junior" honor roll, a student earned at least a 4.0 grade point, with no grade below a "C."

On the 5-point grading system, an "A" counts 5.0, a "B" 4.0, and a "C" 3.0.

Rolling Meadows Man 'Lent' to Charity Drive

JAROCKI: "I have a great interest in teenagers."

Jarocki a Seeborg Corp. Executive

by DAVE HANKS
Staff Writer

An energetic young man who is an expert in promotion work and has a great interest in the youth of the community is Stanley W. Jarocki of Rolling Meadows.

Jarocki, national promotion manager of the Seeburg Corp. of Chicago, is one of 50 men who will be working with the Chicago Metropolitan Crusade for Mercy.

"Promotion is my business," said Jarocki, and "I guess that is why they (Seeburg) asked me to serve with the Crusade for Mercy." Working in the advanced gifts division in the crusade he works with "solicitors" as a team.

Money from the crusade goes to 132 welfare agencies in Chicago and 76 in the suburban area.

The goal for Chicagoland is $22,075,000.

Jarocki looked on the six-month assignment as a challenge, not necessarily a duty. "I'm a very earthy fellow and get along with everyone," he said.

The father of five children, Jarocki has a great interest in teenagers. "I have twins who are 12, and the next step for them is to get in the swing of teenage life," he ssaid.

"I LIKE TO work with teenagers and really enjoy working at teen centers," he added. Jarocki said he started acting as master of ceremonies at dances or hops to promote his company. It started when he was promoting the Seeburg Discotheque program for young people.

"But after a while I got so much enjoyment out of working with teenagers that I started doing it on my own," he continued.

"I think if you can have 200 to 300 kids at a dance, and off the streets, it's a good idea," he said. It's certainly better than having them on the streets, according to Jarocki.

JAROCKI wants to assist the people at Hoffman Estates who are planning activities for teenagers at a boys' center there.

When asked if he had any hobbies, Jarocki said "I guess my main hobby is my family."

He went on to explain that he also is active in Little League, especially with twins, Jim and Bill.

"I spend four or five nights in a row with Little League," he said. "And I enjoy every minute of it," he added.

But Jarocki doesn't just concentrate on his twins. His three daughters, Susan, 7, Nancy, 5 and the baby, Cheryl, 7 months, gain Daddy's attention too.

THE WHOLE family goes out for dinner about twice a week. It's a treat for them, and "I think it's part of a child's training to learn to eat away from home or in public," said Jarocki.

They behave when they are out at restaurants, but all the credit there goes to their mother, Diane.

Jarocki went to work at Seeburg just out of high school as a stock boy. He worked the full gamut of jobs with the firm. Some of the positions at Seeburg he has had include sales and distributor relations director.

A veteran of the Korean War, Jarocki took a leave from Seeburg in 1951 for two years, but returned afterward and has been there ever since.

HE PLAYED an important role in the introduction of various Seeburg innovations including the Artist of the Week and Little LP Album phonograph record programs.

He was a leader in the introduction of Seeburg's Automated-Packaged Discotheque in 1965.

Calling on people, or companies, in the Crusade for Mercy program will not be a new experience, Jarocki said. He traveled more than 60,000 miles in less than a year when he unveiled the Seeburg Big Sound listening and dancing concept to locations all over the United States. (A15

Suggests Own Well for Supplemental Watering

A beautiful lawn or lush garden doesn't just happen. It takes horticultural know-how hard work and plenty of water.

Many lawns and gardens with a promising future in the spring are burned out and dry by midsummer—victims of the hot, dry months when no rain falls. Sprinkling should, of course, be the answer. But many communities, anxious to conserve precious water supplies, restrict and even ban sprinkling altogether.

What to do? For many homeowners, the answer is a supplemental source of water their own well—the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau says.

The idea of a well may sound like moving backward in time to many non-rural dwellers. They're accustomed to associating an individual well with primitive living—something you "put up with" if you want to live in the country.

NOTHING COULD be farther from the truth, the bureau says. The modern pump, or water system as it's generally called, in no way resembles the old-fashioned hand pump, and its use is not confined to remote farms or summer cabins.

The modern pump is electrically powered and completely automatic. There are two types—those that are installed on the surface in a pump house or basement and those that are installed right in the well, out of sight and sound.

The latter type, called the submersible, is most popular with homeowners who live on comparatively small lots. It purrs away at its job of bringing water to the surface, taking up no space, and is completely noiseless. Since most submersible pumps for residential use are no larger than 3 or 4-inch in diameter, all the homeowner sees is the sealed-up top of the well, level with the ground, and a tank for storing the water. The water is piped to points of use in the conventional way.

There's nothing new about the idea of a supplemental water supply. Of the 365,000 new wells drilled each year, at least 50,000 are in communities where municipal water is provided, but is in chronic short supply. The only thing that's new is the large number of people who are now discovering how much more convenient and pleasurable their lives can be if they don't have a constant struggle over water. It's anticipated that the number of supplementary wells will double or triple in the next five years. They'll join 10 million older ones providing a plentiful supply of water to about a quarter of the country's population.

It goes without saying that a well can supply water not only for gardening but for every use—an outdoor drinking fountain, swimming pool, running water in the garage, a new bathroom. In other words, in an age of water, the supplementary water supply can help the American family fully enjoy all its plumbed-in conveniences.

Roses: No One's Indifferent To Their Explosive Blooming

The Fourth of July may be over, but there's still plenty of explosive beauty in the rose garden. In fact roses are so dramatic that they appeal to almost all the senses. Sometimes in a controversial way.

Very few people can remain indifferent to roses. Their eye appeal is obvious and their fragrance subtle. They even impinge on the sense of touch for incautious fingers that close on an occasional thorn. Roses were tasted a few years ago when cooks made candied flowers and rose petal sandwiches.

Actually roses have been explosive and controversial ever since Eve gave Adam the forbidden fruit in the Garden of Eden. Custom says the fruit was an apple . . . a member of the rose family.

THE ROMANS certainly weren't indifferent to roses either. It was customary to stuff pillows and mattresses with rose petals. A bed of roses was a fact. The emperor Nero made such a lavish use of roses that we know he spent four million sesterces for just roses at a banquet. This must have been before inflation as one sesterce was then worth four donkeys.

The rose almost became the symbol to early Christians of all that was evil and in bad taste. It took almost a thousand years before we hear of roses being grown in monasteries and church gardens.

By 1450 an English war was fought about roses. Well, not exactly. The contending families for the throne had roses as their emblems. The House of York the white rose and the House of Lancaster the red rose. The House of York won. This certainly was a surprising turn of events considering the difficulty which gardeners have growing good white roses. For gardeners that would like to join this controversy they may want to try growing the white roses, White Knight or Matterhorn.

CURRENTLY A heated below surface controversy is raging in Congress. Several members want it as the national flower. Others point out that this is the national flower of several other countries. Counter proposals for zinnias, marigolds, corn and even grass have been made.

A few years ago a hybridizer who was also a diplomat thought he found the answer to the controversial topic concerning the best rose. He produced a large yellow-pink hybrid tea of such outstanding merit that it received the highest rating a rose has ever received. Perhaps with almost a sigh of relief he named the rose peace. Of course World War II was raging and the non-rose-growing public attributed a different meaning to the name. Without question peace is still the favorite rose of gardeners.

If you have an empty spot in your garden that receives full sun you can still plant potted roses in July and August. Best be cautious though. If you plant one rose you'll find your own interest exploding to the point where the roses may take over the entire garden. (O

Choose Dome Design To House Antennas

The 755th Radar Squadron, Arlington Heights, has adopted the dome design to house huge radar antennas for use in the aerospace defense of the United States.

According to history, the original domes were first conceived by the Romans. Emperors and subjects alike were awed by the vastness of the dome's interior, unblemished by columns or other supports—a spaciousness which makes the Roman innovation ideal for protecting today's radar equipment.

The 755th Radar Sq. is one of many similar Air Defense Command installations scattered across the North American Continent. Their prime function is constant surveillance of the skies and relaying up-to-date information to the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) headquarters at Colorado Springs.

USING BOTH tracker and height finder radars, the 755th can pinpoint the location, asimuth, range and speed of any object flying within its area of responsibility.

This information is quickly relayed to Semi-Automatic Ground Environment (SAGE) center and then to NORAD. As quickly as the human mind can react, it cannot possibly cope with objects flying at speeds compared with sound and at heights measured in miles.

For this reason, all pertinent data is fed into computers which automatically process and evaluate the information.

THE COMPUTERS have also been programmed to take appropriate actions but the man is still the key factor in this operation . . . since only he can think.

Teamed together, man, computer and this country's defensive forces represent an integral part of the protective net for the United States. (B10

FOR THE FAMILY MANAGER

ITEM: If you're looking for a change-of-pace in trailing plants for hanging baskets or window boxes, try one of the many varieties of ivy-leaf geraniums available in porous clay pots at your garden center or florists.

ITEM: Next time you shop for nonfat dry milk, notice the amount of quarts the contents will make. You'll find this can save you money. Size of package is not always indication of a better buy.

ITEM: Children aren't the only ones who track mud into the house — everyone does when the weather is bad. Many homemakers take care of the situation with a mudroom, located at the back or side entrance, usually with at least a lavatory and water closet. The mudroom traps mud before it gets into the living area of the house.

ITEM: If you are redecorating, you can mix both warm and cool colors in a room, but don't use too many colors in it. Remember to study color swatches in both daylight and incandescent light because colors tend to change under artificial lighting. Don't use colors in equal proportions in any one room as this tends to dull the overall effect. And, for a smooth, visually pleasing color flow from room to room, use harmonious colors in rooms that adjoin.

Notes from Arlington Acres

A warm welcome to Arlington Acres is extended to Mr. and Mrs. John Lucchesi and son, Lido, from Chicago, now at 408 S. Forrest. Mr. Lucchesi is a retired sculptor and his son, an artist with the Field Museum in Chicago, is endowed with the same talent. The younger man has been commissioned to do the sketches for the remodeling of the old Heller home which is being considered as a new museum for the Arlington Heights Historical Society.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery go to Mrs. David Roy, 425 S. Prindle, who is in Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, room 712. Carol entered the hospital two weeks ago for tests and will remain for another two weeks while undergoing treatment.

Not every Midwesterner can boast of having both her birthday and anniversary dinners in California, as Mrs. Don Cook, 525 S. Forrest, can. Ann, Don and daughter, Debby, drove to the West Coast for a vacation a few weeks ago with stops at Las Vegas, Grand Canyon and Hoover Dam on the way.

THEIR 21st wedding anniversary June 23 found them in Los Angeles, where they visited all the tourist points of interest, including Knotts' Berry Farm, Disneyland, Marineland and Universal City, and spent a day with an aunt and uncle in Arcadia.

From Los Angeles, the Cooks drove up the coast to spend a day at Monterey before continuing on to San Francisco to meet friends from San Jose by pre-arrangement. They were in San Francisco on Ann's birthday and had dinner at the Fairmont Hotel.

Other area travelers were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gryzik, 417 S. Forrest, who chose Florida as their vacation site. With their two older children, Linda and Susan, a leisurely drive down took them sightseeing at Mammoth Cave and through the Smoky Mountains to make stops at Silver Springs and Cypress Gardens, to Tampa and eventually Miami. They report pleasant weather until they reached Miami, then the rains came and continued during the return trip through St. Augustine and well into Georgia.

Before the Gryziks left on their trip, they had a family party for 3-year-old Donna's June 17 birthday. Grandparents, the Stanley Gryziks and Mrs. Anthony Chrusciel of Chicago were at the celebratory dinner with a host of aunts, uncles and cousins.

THE GERALD Earls, 433 S. Prindle, vacationed in Logan, Utah, with Gerry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Earl. The set-up gave Penny a perfect opportunity to get away alone and she took advantage of the offer to leave Michael and Brian in Utah with their dad and grandparents, and after a week there she continued on to spend a week with her mother, Mrs. Carmen Young in San Francisco.

The John Brunsfelds, 416 S. Phelps, and their next door neighbors, the Ray Fritzes, like to take vacations in small doses and the weekend before the Fourth the two couples spent at the Wisconsin Dells. They enjoyed all the attractions peculiar to the resort area, including the boat trip through the waterways.

The following weekend the Brunsfelds celebrated their 17th wedding anniversary by inviting the Fritzes to have dinner with them at the Golden Ox in Chicago, and later touring Old Town.

MIKE BRUNSFELD was 16 July 7 but passed up all celebrations per se because of his involvement in a combo known as "The Downbeats," that is showing promise. Mike, a drummer, and the Wigge duo, Rhiny and Darlene, who play guitar and accordion, were among the winners of the Teen Talent contest held in Palatine a few weeks ago. Among the prizes they received were a half hour recording session and the privilege of appearing as finalists at McCormick Place July 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Verley, 436 S. Prindle, did not totally enjoy the quiet that descended on their home two weeks ago when their son and daughter, Bill and Teresa, left to visit friends in Wall Lake, Iowa. They will be welcomed home with open arms.

A welcome houseguest of the Ray Chappells, 440 S. Forrest, for a few days last week was Cece's mother, Mrs. Helen Witosiowski of Natrona, Pa. Teh family could not prevail upon their guest to stay longer because she had come with fellow club members who were making an appearance at a gala at McCormick Place.

Tony Farina, 421 S. Forrest, spent a week with eight fishing buddies and drove to Crow Lake, a favorite fishing haunt in Canada. They report a satisfactory catch.

A RED LETTER day in the Ron Siebold household, 429 S. Gibbons, was the first birthday of their son, Larry, on Saturday. It was celebrated Sunday with a cook-out dinner for Larry's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Siebold of Itasca, and his godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Folz of Elk Grove Village who were accompanied by their sons, Kenny and Mike.

Kathy Ehlen, daughter of the Ed Ehlens, 437 S. Gibbons, knows what the result is when an irrestistable force meets an immovable object. She collided with a young friend last week and ended up in the emergency room of Northwest Community Hospital to have eight stitches taken in her cheek. In addition, Kathy has the black eye that backs up her story.

Gary Shawhan, 532 S. Prindle, was one of the guests of honor at a multiple birthday party Sunday. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McPherson of Des Plaines gave a dinner to celebrate the birthdays of Gary, his mother, an aunt and two cousins.

When Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Mertes, 529 S. Phelps, counted the guests they invited for dinner Saturday and it added up to 32, they decided to serve in the garden. Being feted were the Mertes boys, Mike, 8 June 30, and Bert, 10 July 8. Among the guests were grandparents, Mrs. Marie Mertes and Mr. and Mrs. Gust Fetting, friends, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Martinkus, and Bert's godmother, Mrs. Florence Murphy, all of Chicago.

TWO SMALL informal parties had preceded the big dinner. On Mike's day he invited a friend, Bobby Hoffman, to join the family for dinner and a movie, and Bert was allowed to do the same for his friend, Jim Semeca.

Another area family to mark dual birthdays are the Robert Runges, 525 S. Phelps, whose daughter, Gail, was 7 July 4 and whose son, Brian, was 3 July 10. A traditional Fourth of July barbecue for the family served to celebrate both birthdays and individual parties further marked each one.

Guests at the barbecue were grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins, who in lesser numbers returned Sunday to offer felicitations to Brian and to share his birthday cake and coffee.

Gail's party was for her contemporaries and took place July 6. Guests for cake, ice cream, games, prizes and favors were Debby Teasdale, Wendy Winkelhake, Leanne Woodlock and Carol Streng.

WHILE IN the midst of planning these events, Mr. and Mrs. Mertes took time out to attend the 10-year class reunion of Dolores' graduating class of Arlington High School on July 2 at Nordic Hills Country Club in Itasca. A cocktail hour preceded dinner and an evening of dancing.

For Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Hulse, July 2 means their wedding anniversary and the birthday of their son, Jack. A dinner party the evening before was in Jack's honor and the 2-year-old climbed on "Cloud 9" when his godfather, Robert Blanchet of Des Plaines, presented him with his first tricycle. The following afternoon he had an opportunity to show it off to his friend, Deryn Robinson and his baby sitter, Carlene Schmidt, who was invited to bring her sisters, Barby and Patty, as well as Barby Jenko for birthday cake.

The Julses' anniversary which temporarily, at least, runs second, was celebrated with an evening of dining and dancing at Uncle Andy's Cow Palace in Palatine.

MR. AND MRS. Roy Stoehr, 441 S. Prindle, gave the Dinner-of-the-Month Club's July get-together Saturday evening. Instead of a cocktail hour followed by dinner out, the members decided on an informal evening at home and a steak cook-out on the patio. Their guests were the Al Mays of Hawthorn Woods, Howard Schulzes of Des Plaines and the Frank Marshalls of Arlington Acres.

A glimpse into the back yard of the James Thorstad home, 412 S. Phelps, the evening of July 7, might have given the casual observer the impression that it was an army encampment. Not so-it was Jimmy Thorstad, his brother, Tom, and seven friends who pitched tents and spent the night sleeping outdoors to help Jimmy celebrate his 11th birthday. Occupants of the tents and sleeping bags were James Dumke, Paul Obuchowski, Kevin Knudson, Jim Powers, Bob Pasquale, Matt Sopchyk and Billy Richardson.

Diana Truelove, 532 S. Phelps, celebrated her July 2 birthday by having a friend, Judy Madar, join the family for dinner Sunday. Diana is the 17-year-old daughter of the Edward Trueloves.

A HAPPY occasion at the Boyd Briscoe home, 433 S. Forrest, on July 2 was the first birthday of their son, Todd. The joy was shared with friends from Elk Grove Village who were guests at a cook-out Sunday.

For Beth Ann Briscoe, soon to be 9, the Saturday before Todd's birthday was of more personal significance. She acted as junior bridesmaid at the wedding of a cousin in St. Paul Lutheran Church in Chicago, and was attired in her first floor length gown.

Paul Jahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jahn, 420 S. Waterman, was 8 July 8 and celebrated with the help of his parents, sister, Ellen, and brother, Mark.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Karl May, 2005 E. Park, who were married 13 years July 2; and to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanson, 429 S. Prindle, on their 21st wedding anniversary July 6. (A

Board Passes Home Nursing Provision

Over its chairman's opposition, the Arlington Heights Health Board last Wednesday recommended that the village provide home nursing services under Medicare.

The recommendation, asking trustees to apply for certification of the health department as a nursing supply agency, was passed 2 to 1.

Dr. Frank Schroeder, a dentist, and Donald Hillenmayer, an insurance man, voted in favor of the nursing service proposal. Dr. John Detweiler, a physician and former chief of staff at Northwest community Hospital, cast an emphatic, "No." Absent from the meeting was a fourth board member, Dr. Richard Treanor, also a physician.

Dr. Detwiler said he felt Medicare was "morally wrong" and "unconstitutional." He added, "I don't think a local public agency should become a third party between the patient and his physician."

Equal opposition to Medicare, as a principle, was voiced by Hillenmayer and Dr. Schroeder.

"But it is the law," said Schroeder. "People have entitlements under the law. What are we going to do about it? I think the people in this community would resent the fact that this village fails to provide the services."

Under the federal Medicare law that went into effect July 1, all persons over 65 are entitled to up to 100 home nursing visits a year under the Social Security-supported provisions of the program. Those subscribing to the paid-insurance provision can get an additional 100 visits.

nursing visits is provided by the government, however, only if the service is provided at a doctor's request-by a certified agency headed by a public health nurse. The village health department meets most requirements for certification and there is no other visiting nurse service operating in the area.

At Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson's request, health nurse Maria Coburn is preparing an estimate of the need for nursing services, based primarily on calls received by her office.

She told the health board that she had not had a call about home nursing service since Medicare's July 1 "D-Day." But, she added, beginning in mid-March she averaged about 5 calls a day inquiring about availabilitiy of home nursing service. (A (E

Bible School Starts Monday

Vacation Bible School will begin Monday at St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights.

The classes, based on the theme, "My Savior and I," will be held 9-11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday from July 18 through July 29.

Children, ages three through junior high, may still register at the church office. Late registrants may enroll the first day of classes.

A special program will be presented at the close of the two-week Bible School period. (A

Recreation Park Show Tonight

"Gymnarama," the Arlington Heights Park District achievement programs, will be held at Recreation Park tonight (Thursday) and at Pioneer Park tomorrow night. The first Gymnarama program of the year was held last night at Hasbrook Park.

The three programs are the finale of the first session of the parks' summer recreational programs and allow parents and friends to see what the children have done in the park's summer classes.

Handicrafts are on display at the time of the programs. (A

GARDENING TIPS

FROM THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS GARDEN CLUB

Your Garden . . . Day by Day

by MARY B. GOOD

This week's column is devoted to all the backyard vegetable farmers among you. When the crop comes in, you will discover the advantages of growing your own over the week-old, much-handled produce at the store!

July 14

To be in the know, grab your copy of the "Illinois Vegetable Garden Guide" available free from the University of Illinois Extension Service, 201 N. Dunton, Arlington Hts.

July 15

Garden crops are subject to attack by a number of diseases and insects. Preventive medicine means the use of insecticides and fungicides, in combination or separately, using a sprayer or duster.

July 16

When temperatures are high, pick tomatoes before they are fully ripe, and they will be firmer and have a better flavor than vine ripened varieties in scorching weather.

July 17

Never save seed of hybrid sweet corn. Because of its hybrid character, it will not come true to seed.

July 18

Perennial grasses, such as quackgrass, Bermuda or Johnson, can be controlled in the asparagus bed by dalapon (2, 2-dichloropropionic acid).

July 19

Rhubarb, or pie plant, the cool season perennial, is well adapted to growing in Illinois, but only the leafstalks are edible. The leaves must never be eaten as they contain harmful substances that have been known to cause death when eaten.

July 20

Do's and don'ts: Don't try to grow vegetables on a lot so infertile and poor that it can't make a good growth of weeds and grass. Do plant on sunny, open land away from large trees.

Inquiries may be directed to the Arlington Heights Garden Club, Box 362, Arlington Heights.

KNOX NOTES

by Ken Knox

"ON THE LONG TRIPS," Terry Gellinger recalled, "the starting pitcher always got the long seat at the end of the bus. That way, he at least could stretch out and get a little rest."

It was a remembrance from the summer of 1959, the summer in baseball's Basin League, and Gellinger brought to life one of the experiences that may be unfolding this summer for two youths from Northwest suburbia.

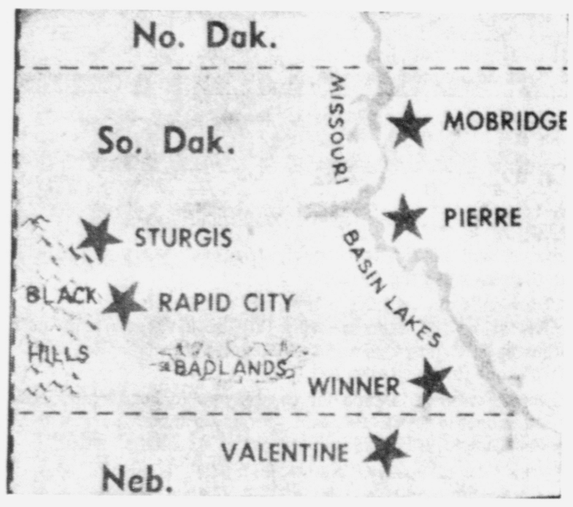
It also brought to mind that if college professors required essays on "How I Spent My Summer," some of the most captivating reading could come from the boys who toiled those months in the Basin Leauge.

Little publicized outside its immediate confines—the scorching and forbidding plains and hills of South Dakota and Nebraska—the league is nevertheless one of the essential training grounds for aspiring major leaguers, a source for some memorable baseball adventures, a place where young men may forever put their dreams away.

Life in the league should provide for some interesting letters home this summer from Tom Lundgren of Rolling Meadows and Paul Splittorff of Arlington Heights. That splendid tandem from the 1965 Arlington American Legion nine is split now, and it's the Basin League that did it. Lundgren is pitching for the Rapid City, S. D., Chiefs, and Splittorff for the Valentine, Neb., Hearts.

The Chiefs are the defending champions in the league, which has a current membership that also includes the Mobridge Lakers, the Pierre Cowboys, the Sturgis Titans and the Winner Pheasants, all South Dakota-based. Lundgren, at last report, had a 0-1 mark with the Chiefs, but with a 1.98 earned run average, while Splittorff just recently was called on the Hearts line.

Lundgren and Splittorff are both college boys the rest of the year, which makes them typical of the talent sprinkled in what's billed as America's number one all-star collegiate summer circuit.



THE BASIN LEAGUE
Where The Boys Are

That's what it is, essentially, a baseball road show for much of the cream of the nation's college players, and its highest degree is a trip to one of the 20 major league cities. Countless performers—like Gellinger, perhaps like Lundgren and Splittorff—don't make it, but the graduates include the likes of Frank Howard, Jim O'Toole, Eddie Fisher, Dick Radatz, Bob Gibson, Don Sutton, Ron Perranoski, Larry Bearnarth, John Edwards, Don Schwall, Jerry Adair, Dave Giusti, Bobby Klaus, Dick Green, Doug Clemens, Dick Bertell, Bill Faul, Chuck Dobson, Sammy Ellis, Steve Boros, Carroll Hardy, John Herrnstein and Woody Woodward, to name just 23.

"It's very much like the minor leagues," related Gellinger, now headman of the Palatine High School and American Legion nines. "But it's no vacation. It's a job."

He played—worked—in the Basin League that summer of 1959, after he led the Big Ten as a pitcher for the University of Illinois, and at a time when the league was making a transition from a loop dotted with ex-professionals to one structured almost strictly for college players with at least a chance for a future in the game.

The league—which takes its name from the general proximity of the member cities to the Missouri River basin—is a busy one and a rugged one, as Gellinger found.

"There's no such thing as a 25-man roster," he said. "We had 16-man teams, usually with six pitchers, and maybe an extra catcher. That meant one player for each other position, so most players played every game, about six games a week."

It was not unusual, Gellinger found, for a pitcher to be pressed into outfield duty during a player shortage, or for a team to look around for some quick help, in the manner in which Splittorff got the call. But that occasional scarcity of players wasn't nearly so demanding as the daily—or nightly—routine.

"The transportation is rugged," Gellinger said. "It's all by bus or station wagon, and because the teams can't afford hotels on the road, the games are all one-night stands.

"We'd leave our quarters in the morning," he continued, "and drive until we got to the town where we were supposed to play. You'd get to town maybe in late afternoon, get a sandwich, then go to the park for the game. If you were lucky afterward, you'd find a hamburger joint open for a bite to eat, then drive all the way home during the night."

Hence the privilege of the back seat for the starting pitcher.

"When you'd get back to your quarters," Gellinger went on, "you'd go to sleep, and you might sleep all day. About five, you'd get up and go to the park. It went on that way all the time, away one night and home the next. You're gone all the time, always moving."

Gellinger's team, the now-defunct Mitchell Kernels, had it better than most. As home base—dressing room and living quarters—they had the Elks Club in Mitchell, which in a South Dakota community of 15,000 can be the best spot in town. Visitors had use of the VFW Hall.

The Elks layout gave the players some luxury, a place to lounge, a bar if they wanted to use it, a pool room. But it didn't dispel the truth that the Basin League is where the action is NOT. It is a place to play baseball, and little more, so the

Victors Break League Lead Tie

Mount Prospect Slammed 8-1 By Powerful Northbrook Unit

By LARRY EVERHART

The moment of truth arrived Tuesday night for Mount Prospect's Legionnaires — and the truth was hard to swallow.

The hard cold facts, much as it hurts to any Prospect backer, had to be admitted to anyone who witnessed Tuesday's battle.

Northbrook clearly was the superior team on the Prospect diamond Tuesday night. Their 8-1 victory is not the cause of this statement. It is merely proof of it.

MANAGER Mark Thorne knows it as well as anyone. "We just got beat — bad," admitted Mark. "There's not much else you can say."

It showed on the field. It showed in the way the teams fielded, the way they hit, the way they moved. The hosts looked like an entirely different club from the one that had shocked explosive Northbrook 3-2, just six days earlier.

J. D. Thorne went all the way on the hill and surrendered eight hits. He was not at all helped by three miscues and several other mental lapses by his teammates.

THORNE DID not really pitch as badly as the score would indicate. He walked three to go along with five strikeouts, and all three of his teammates' errors eventually resulted in runs.

But errors or no errors, Northbrook was simply not to be stopped. They were as high for this game as the stakes were, and they showed it by taking command right from the start.

One prime reason for the unexpectedly easy triumph for the visitors was Frank Bataglia. The righthanded flame thrower, who had swallowed last week's loss to Prospect in relief, was not about to let it happen again.

BATAGLIA'S strikeout and walk figures were the same as Thorne's. But Frank yielded just four harmless singles, one in each of the last four innings.

Even Prospect's lone marker would not have scored had it not been for the visitors' only error of the night.

The powerful Brookers wasted no time, socking Thorne for three runs in the first as the first three men up for the visitors crossed the plate.

BOB BREITZMAN walked to start the agony for Thorne. Chuck Leve was safe on an error by Clyde Chitcomb and Don Piggot singled Breitzman in.

Butch Larson's sacrifice fly and Bob Moody's groundout were good for two more markers. Bob Youngberg added a double before Thorne could sit down.

Thorne settled down and held the visitors at bay for the next three innings, scoring himself in

Adds Fifth Homer

Kingman's No-Hitter Thwarts Park Ridge

By LARRY EVERHART

We said, a couple of weeks ago, that it was bound to happen sometime. And sure enough, it did.

Dave Kingman, after dazzling opponents with two two-hitters and three one-hitters this season, finally reached the goal that thousands of schoolboy hurlers try but fail to reach every time they set foot on a pitching rubber.

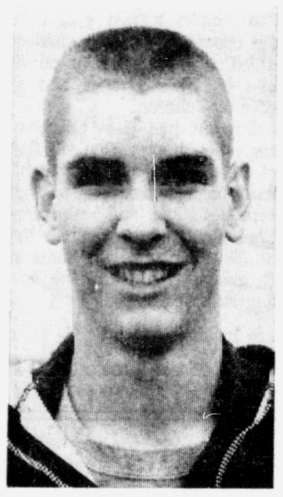
Kingman mesmerized Park Ridge Red with a no-hitter.

OH, YES — he also hit a cannon-shot two-run homer good for two runs in a 3-0 triumph. That was Dave's fifth homer of the year, easily tops on the club.

For just about any other performer, Monday's game would be extraordinary. For Kingman, it was old hat.

Three of Dave's five circuit clouts that year have been winning blows, and a fourth pulled out a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning. After Monday's battle, Kingman had 17 hits in 43 at-bats, making him far and away the team's top hitter.

AND IN THE pitching department -- well, you just can't say enough about the value of big Dave's right arm to this 1966 Mount Prospect Legion unit.



DAVE KINGMAN
No-Hit Artist

You might mention, however, that he has a perfect 7-0 league standard — 8-0 on the season. Also that his ERA is an eye-popping 0.42. And that he has surrendered just 12 hits in seven contests.

It's frightening to imagine what Prospect's status would be at this moment without Kingman's arm and bat.

IF PARK RIDGE Red never sees Kingman again, it'll be too soon for them.

The Reds have amassed a grand total of one hit off the miserly righty in two full games this year — both on the Park Ridge diamond. (Prospect, however, was designated as home team in Moday's tussle).

In Park Ridge's latest failure against Kingman, they could not even boast a baserunner until the fifth.

AFTER THAT, things got considerably tenser as Prospect's mound ace walked five batters and had to sweat out bases-loaded jams in the fifth and seventh.

Each time, a whiff sent a Park Ridge batter back to the dugout to end the threats.

Though they nicked starter Dave Larson for two hits in the third, Prospect didn't really knock on the door until the

Arlington Has Spoiler's Role

Rivals To Meet Friday; Northbrook Holds Edge

by Ken Knox

Dwell in the past, the recent past.

Flip the chronicle back in time to almost precisely one year ago, to July 19, 1965. Focus on a baseball game played that Monday afternoon.

Arlington's American Legion competitors, poised then for what is now a well-recounted rush into national Legion glory, hosted the nine from Mount Prospect, by all logic a bitter area rival.

Arlington needed a victory desperately to survive in the struggle for its league's title, and Mount Prospect—an also-ran—was single-mindedly determined that the contenders would not claim the prize as their expense. It was the last scheduled game of the league season, and an Arlington loss would be intolerable because Maine South was equal to the locals in the standings.

It has been recorded that Mount Prospect dominated that game for six innings, and then Arlington — with the kind of comeback that became a team hallmark—surged to win 8-6 in the seventh, launching itself on a dismissal of Maine South in a playoff and to the county, state and regional titles.

NOW, A YEAR later, the two meet, and again there is an air of desperation attached to their meeting. But this time it is Prospect that must win, and urgently. For on that game—scheduled for 6 p.m. at Recreation Park tomorrow (Friday)—may depend a league title. And for Prospect, which has supplanted Arlington as the area's Legion hopeful, the situation is even more dire than Arlington's a year ago.

Because Prospect must not only win, but it must also hope that its principal nemesis—Northbrook—loses. The situation arise Tuesday afternoon when Prospect, previously a conqueror of Northbrook and even with the 'Brooks at 12-2 in the First Division standings, was shattered in a showdown game.

Thus Northbrook took the edge as the two teams thrashed down the stretch, both facing a burden of makeup games, both dreading a single misstep.

Both were to play yesterday (Wednesday), and for both, the opponents offered trouble. Northbrook was home to Palatine, a team from which it escaped 3-2 earlier, and Prospect was at Evanston, a team it had smitten 7-4.

MORE WAS to be resolved today (Thursday), with Northbrook making up a contest with Glenview, another of the league's rugged entrants.

And tomorrow—perhaps the crucial day—will feature Northbrook re-playing a tied game and Mount Prospect playing Arlington. For Northbrook, it will be the end of the 18-game First Division schedule, but the Prospect, there still will remain a re-play—perhaps Monday—with Park Ridge Blue.

The resolution of the league may go to that last game, perhaps even to a playoff, and in that regard even Arlington could still intrude, at least mathematically. But—for Lloyd Meyer's nine—that would require victories in the remaining games with Morton Grove (Wednesday) and Mount Prospect, and all losses by Northbrook and Mount Prospect the rest of the route.

THE PRIZE to the victor—besides the coveted title of the strenuous First Division— will be the trip into the Cook County tournament at Maine East High School's field July 23-27, and perhaps the state tourney beyond that.

Mark Thorne, Prospect's youthful and surprisingly successful headman, remains hopeful, because he knows how much can happen. His obstacles are not easy, especially not after falling a game behind Northbrook, but he has a talented and powerful lineup, buoyed by slender Dave Kingman of both no-hit and multiple home run fame.

Northbrook, for its stretch run, has the power that was the essence of Glenbrook North High School's state champion team, and depth in pitching. The odds would favor Northbrook. but each game is huge in importance. And no game—to Mount Prospect—may be more important than that with an Arlington team smarting for a proud way to conclude its league season.

Crouch Leaving As Conant Ball Coach

The man who guided Conant High School's baseball fortunes for the first two years of the school's existence has resigned the job for a post in industry.

Lynn Crouch, 68 Winston, Scahumburg, will leave the area shortly for Hurst, Texas, where he'll be employed as a weight control engineer by the LTV Aerospace Corp. in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Conant Athletic Director Charles O. Feutz, in revealing Crouch's resignation, announced at the same time that Crouch would be replaced as varsity baseball headman by Mark Just. Assistant to Crouch this spring, Just is a 1965 University of Iowa graduate highly regarded as a player in college competition. He's also on the Conant basketball coaching staff.

Crouch, who was chairman of the mathematics department as well as a coach at Conant, said he would enter a training period first with his new company, then engage in a research and mathematics-oriented program involving the weighing of parts and fixing of the center of gravity in space capsules, missiles and airplanes. He has no other immediate teaching plans.

Wins, 6-3

Thorne's Nine Keeps Pace

It looked bleak for Mount Prospect's Legionnaires going into the seventh inning last Thursday, but a happy ending was in store.

Prospect had jumped into first place the previous night with a dramatic 3-2 victory over Northbrook. It looked as if their Wednesday night toil would go to waste, as Prospect entered the final frame at Morton Grove trailing 3-1.

However, Mark Thorne's boys know how to come back as they have demonstrated before. They did just that, slugging Morton Grove with a five-run outburst to win going away, 6-3.

Tom Lundstedt, Prospect's able catcher who has also been invaluable in bolstering his team's thin pitching corps, went all the way on the hill for a well-deserved triumph.

LUNDSTEDT, relying almost entirely on his fast ball, struck out seven and walked two while scattering six hits and the hosts' three runs. It was Tom's second win in as many decisions.

Leading the way at the plate was newly-converted third-sacker Paul Peterson, who pounded out three hits in four trips, including a triple good for two RBI's.

Dave Kingman's 2-for-4 effort with the warclub lifted his average to an impressive .394. Kingman now paces the club in hitting as well as pitching.

Both teams went to work in the second inning Thursday, tallying a run apiece.

BOB ROBINSON started Prospect's rally with a two-out single and stolen base. Clyde Whitcomb's safety chased him in.

Greg Luzinski singled to start the Morton Grove second and advanced on a throwing error on catcher Maury Gallagher. Korpinski followed with a run-scoring single.

The hosts assumed the lead in the third on a walk, stolen base, and single.

In the sixth, Lundstedt gave up Morton Grove's only extra-base hit to Luzinski, a real nemesis for Prospect hurlers this year. It was a long home run, and put the hosts in command to the tune of 3-1.

THE KEY happening in the game probably occurred between the sixth and seventh innings. That's when Morton Grove decided to replace Bill Maurer, who had pitched a fine game, with Bob Feltz on the mound.

It was a move they were to regret, as the ungracious visitors batted around, kicking Feltz for five decisive runs.

The "musical bases" game began when Robinson was safe on an error. Ken Traversone and Jim Gumz singled, the latter's safety tallying Robinson.

PETERSON then chased Traversone and Gumz around with his third hit, a triple. With still nobody out, Peterson scored as J. D. Thorne was safe on another miscue.

Thorne stole second and, after two outs, posted his team's final marker on Kingman's base rap.

Panthers Readying

A dynamic gal and a seasoned old pro have joined forces to try to bring the semipro Panthers football team its first Central States League championship.

Marty O'Connor, guiding light of the Niles, Ill.-based club and probably the only woman general manager in professional football, and Joe Osmanski, former Chicago Bears backfield great, can be found every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening on the Maine East high school gridiron readying a 60-man squad for the rigors of a 10-game schedule, home opener Aug. 27, against the Manitowoc Chiefs.

All home games—five—will be played under the Notre Dame of Niles high school lights, Saturday 8 p.m. kickoff.

2-1, 3-0 To Beloit

Offense Sputters As Arlington Drops Pair

The object—scoring runs—is obvious enough, but it's not always easy enough.

So Arlington's American Legion team was reminded Sunday afternoon as it toiled in the fierce heat against an accomplished nine from Beloit.

The boys of Merle Guild Post 208 scored exactly once in two games, and the result was predictable: they lost, twice.

Beloit was little more successful off the Arlington pitching tandem of Mark Newman and Bob Young, but successful enough to carry off victories of 2-1 and 3-0.

The defeats dropped the season mark of the Arlington club to 18-11, concluding an incredible stretch for them in which they lost nine of 11 starts.

BUT FINAL results notwithstanding, the Sunday games could have gone either way. In the first game particularly, Lloyd Meyer's contingent made a fierce battle of it. Newman, making one of his infrequent starts, pitched excellent baseball, dispensing only two hits to the Beloit batters while fanning nine of the. Ron Hahn served five hits to Arlington, but confined their scoring to one tally.

Beloit had taken a 1-0 lead in the second, when John Harris doubled in Tom Johnson, who had singled and advanced on an error. It stayed that way until the seventh, when Newman hit leadoff man Harris, and an error by the pitcher eventually let him score.

But Arlington flurried in the bottom of the seventh, and for some moments there was hope. With one out, Brad Somers ripped a triple for the locals. Doug Fink, still making a habit of late inning heroics, followed with another and Somers breezed across the plate.

THE SOMERS score, however, was to be the last for Arlington. For though Mark Frase drew a walk, Hahn came back with a strikeout and a ground-out to close the inning, and the game.

Along the way, Arlington had other threats, including a one-out triple by Jerry Donahue in the fourth. But it ended that way, 2-1.

Score by innings:

Beloit	010 000 1—2-2
Arlington	000 000 1—1-15

In the second game, Young — though he came back effectively — sealed his doom in the first inning.

He got the first man to ground out, but served a single to Bill Austin, and then walked Gary Olen — a .400-plus batter — and Tom Johnson to load the bases.

Young came back at that point to get Rick Straw to rap to the mound, the pitcher firing the ball back to the plate to force Austin and keep the sacks filled. But then successive passes to Harris and Randy Olen forced in two runs.

That, as it turned out, was quite enough, but Beloit added a third run in the fifth on a single by Fritz Drager and a double by Johnson.

Arlington had its chances, though not many. One of the best went to waste in the fourth, when Thad Woodard singled and Newman walked, and both were moved along on a sacrifice by Fink. But Frase and Somers both grounded out and the uprising subsided.

Score by innings:

Beloit	200 010 0—3-8
Arlington	000 000 0—0-4

Barbecue and Trap Shoot Scheduled

The Northern Illinois Conservation Club will hold their second annual Chicken Barbecue and Trap Shoot on Sunday July 17, on their club grounds. Tender young fryers will be broiled over charcoal, and done to a luscious turn by head chef Dick Waters, who also happens to be NICC president.

Also on the gala program is the big July trap shoot-out, held for disgruntled fishermen; unhappy boaters; ant-ridden campers, and happy nimrods who just like to shoot for the fun of it. Besides which, there will be fat young ducks, chickens, steaks and primers, as rewards for being on target. All types of shooting contests are on the day's list.

For those disappointed shooters who cannot hit the wide side of a barn; for sore-heads and grouches who are mad at the world; and for those guys who want to take a poke at someone, Boy Scouts of NICC sponsored Troop 86 will run a "SMASH-A-CAR," and for a mere dime a swat, can take their anger and frustration out on a helpless car until it is reduced to a metallic pulp.

All of the proceeds from this will be used by the troop to help purchase their equipment.

Earl J. Paddock, McHenry, will lead a group of archers from the Northern Illinois Bowmen in a free exhibition of archery, on the NICC archery range. Fine points of the sport will be shown by the Robin Hood type sportsmen. Paddock is president of the group.

NICC club grounds are 3 miles west of Antioch on Route 173. Shooting and eating begins at 10 a.m. and continues until dark. All of the net proceeds will be used in the NICC conservation program.

U.S. Bicycle Title Races

The Northbrook Cycling Committee will be hosts this year for the National Championship amateur bike races, on August 19,20, and 21. The races will be held at Northbrook's Meadowhill Park race track.

Races are regularly scheduled for every Thursday night at the track.

Key Tilt Lost

the fourth as Prospect got one of the runs back.

AFTER A BASE on balls to Thorne, Tom Manderscheid reached on a throwing error on the shortstop. Thorne raced to third on the play and dented the plate moments later as Tom Lundstedt stroked a sacrifice fly.

But Northbrook was not satisfied with merely a two-run advantage. They increased it to three in the fifth with an unearned marker.

Denny Jacob was safe on Whitcomb's second bobble. Breitzman and Leve laid down perfect, almost identical bunts to the right side. Both were safe, and the sacks were jammed with nobody out.

AFTER THORNE whiffed Piggot, the run scored on a groundout by Larson, his second RBI though he failed to hit safely.

The Brookers picked on Thorne for two-run innings in the sixth and seventh, closing out the scoring.

Frank Battaglia lined a one-out single in the sixth. Bill Zarit followed with a shallow pop fly to center on which Manderscheid tried for a shoestring catch but was unsuccessful. The ball fell for an RBI double.

JACOB BEAT out an infield hit and Breitzman's grounder brought in another tally.

Piggot reached on an error to start the seventh and Larson drew a free pass. After Moody sacrificed them along, Youngberg's grounder brought in run No. 7. Larson capped the scoring, counting while Battaglia was caught in a rundown. Frank had been safe on a fielder's choice.

Though Prospect had fallen a full game behind Northbrook, with three left, Mark Thorne wasn't throwing in the towel yet.

"I THINK Northbrook will still lose one," was Mark's opinion. "They could lose to Glenview easily."

No-Hit Game

fourth.

THE FRAME started uneventfully, with Tom Manderscheid and Tom Lundstedt quickly making outs. A few short moments later, Prospect had a 2-0 lead and Kingman was all but home free.

Ken Traversone drew a two-out walk and Kingman ripped a Larson offering to deep right-center for a round-tripper.

Prospect sealed up the scoring activity and the game in the sixth. With one out, Lundstedt beat out an infield safety to the right side.

HE WAS promptly chased home as Traversone belted one to almost the identical spot where Kingman's homer had gone. Traversone, though possessing fine reflexes with the bat, is no Maury Wills on the basepaths and was pegged out trying to stretch his solid triple into a four-bagger.

An error and two walks jammed the sacks full of Reds in the seventh, but Kingman bore down to fan the last two batters.

Prospect's left pasture roamer, Bob Robinson, was the only one to get more than one of his team's six hits. Robby legged out a pair of infield raps.

THE TRIUMPH was Prospect's thirteenth in 15 tries, keeping them tied for first place and setting up a super-showdown with Northbrook Tuesday (see separate story for results.)

Lundgrens and Splittorffs probably need not worry too much about their sons drifting astray.

"Only once did we have a lay-over," Gellinger remembered. "We had a two-day stand in Rapid City, so the whole team got together one morning and went to Mount Rushmore. But there just isn't time for much even like that."

There is also little time for the players to handle the jobs that are supposed to sustain them over the summer, so athletes, teams and employers make the best out of a casual situation.

The jobs themselves are an interesting potpourri. Gellinger's, with Michigan State's All-American football back Dean Look, was keeping the outfield grass at the Mitchell park in a state of trim. Another player was to load boxcars for a milk company. Others were to work in the shoe store owned by the father of Dick Green, a Mitchell boy now at second base for Kansas City. Others had jobs with the park district. All, most of the time, had difficulty meeting their prescribed hours, because when they weren't playing, they were riding, and when they weren't riding, they were sleeping.

None of it was especially comfortable, because the weather can be as inhospitable as the traveling distances in South Dakota and Nebraska.

"I had a black car," said Gellinger. "It got so hot out there that the paint blistered on the top. And then in August, it gets so cold at night . . . "

Gellinger's Basin League experience ended unhappily, for after a brilliant beginning, there was a prolonged siege with tonsillitis, then a deadly cycle in which he was bombed on the mound, pressed perhaps too hard, then was bombed again until he had lost five straight.

"I couldn't," he confessed, "wait for the summer to end."

But it was still an education for him, and a special experience.

"It was good for me in that I found out that I didn't have it, as much as I wanted to be a ballplayer. It probably saved me from wasting a couple of years in the low minors.

"I also found out that if you have to stay in the low minors, forget it! If you have to play that way all the time—unless you really have a taste for beating the bushes—it's ridiculous. If you're going to make it, you have to get to the top fast."

Thus, a message for Splittorff and Lundgren: the Basin league may be a nice place to visit, but don't plan to live there.

JUST DOGS

By Dave Terrill

Dog Hero Award

Approximately 50 canine heroes of the United States are currently in the running for the Ken-L Ration gold medal, emblematic of the 1966 Dog Hero of the Year.

Entries for this year's award, already including canines from Florida to North Dakota and from California to New York, will vie for the honor of being named America's most heroic dog. Each has been honored in his own vicinity by the presentation of a medal and certificate attesting to his exploit.

The winner and his owners will be brought to Chicago for an all-expense-paid three-day stay at the Palmer House. A banquet in honor of the nation's top canine hero will be held in the hotel's new Monroe Room on Wednesday evening, Aug. 17. At the conclusion of the ceremonies, the winning dog will be led by his owners to the speakers platform, where one of the country's top military heroes will affix the Ken-L Ration gold medal about his neck.

Other awards he will receive include a $1,000 U.S. Savings bond in the owner's name, a gold plaque, a gold-plated leash and collar, a custom made dog blanket and most important to the dog, a year's supply of dog food.

In writing about the Dog Hero award, we have been talking about he;" however, like their human counterparts, the males of the canine world will have to keep a sharp eye out for the growing challenge from the female sex. Records of the competition for the annual Ken-L Ration Award show the males clinging to an uncomfortably narrow lead, seven titles to five. So far it is of interest to note that the largest dog to win was a female St. Bernard from Sacramento, Calif., with the name of Beggar. The smallest, and also a female was Lassie, a Shetland Sheepdog from San Carlos, Calif.

Manners

The average dog owner does his best to teach his dog some basic manners; however, every so often you see a dog that looks and acts like he never has been taught even a few simple facts. These facts boil down to not jumping on people even though the dog is just plain friendly.

Saw this happen not too long ago. How simple it would have been if the owner would have corrected the dog then and there. This common habit of a dog can be stopped if you just keep one thing in mind. Once the dog has jumped up on you, it's too late to correct him.

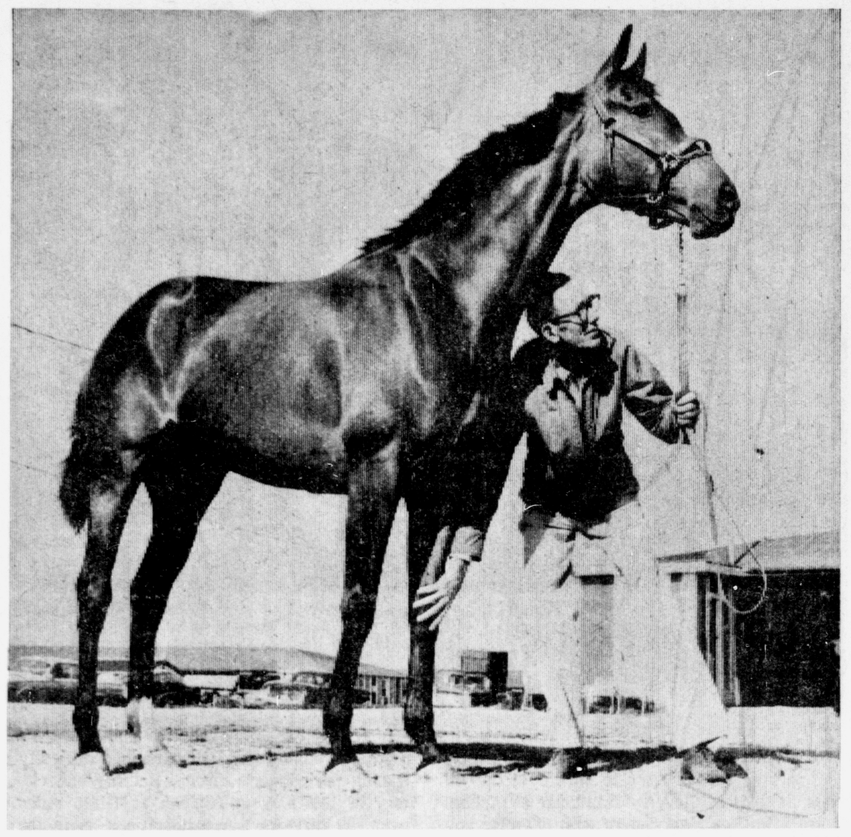
The time to get the correction in is when the dog is on the way up. A well placed knee in his chest will soon get the idea over to him that jumping up on people is not what he is expected to do. With a small dog, just using the side of your foot to tap him on the chest will do the job. One thing to remember is not to grab his front paws with your hands and then step on his hind feet. Forget it—he has already jumped up. Also, keep hands out of the correction, for when he sees hands going for him he figures he may be petted.

Car Windows

With the weather that we have had, need I have to remind you to keep the car windows open when you have the dog in the car and have stopped to do some shopping. A woman forgot to do this a few days ago and came out to her car, after donating blood in a hospital, to find her three children dead. The windows were closed tight and the children too small and just not able to get the windows open.

Barks & Bays

Remember, with this weather your dog's water pan should be checked and refilled often with fresh water.



MARRY THE PRINCE, considered one of the better stakes fillies over the past two seasons, will rank high among the favorites at this Saturday's 29th running of the Beverly Handicap at Arlington Park. The J. Graham Brown-owned horse has done especially well at Arlington, last year winning the Misty Isle and Cleopatra handicaps and finishing second in the Cinderella. She's handled here by Bob Dyer. $40,000 Beverly 'Cap Tops Arlington Card

Distaffers move into the spotlight as the Arlington Park Jockey Club swings through the fourth week of its 1966 activity, featuring the $40,000 added Beverly Handicap this Saturday.

The Beverly will find fillies and mares, three years old and up, journeying 1-1/16 miles on the turf course in what shapes up as the Midwest's top turf test of the year for females. The race, being staged for the 29th time, will be run at 1 1/16 for the first time Saturday. It was most recently run at a mile, with Swoonalong the victor in 1965.

J. Graham Brown's Marry the Prince, C. E. Grinstead's Miss Rincon, Bruce L. Corbett's Bea Hasty, David Shaer's Treasure Chest, Charles Nicholas' Lady Amigo, Fred W. Hooper's Plez U., and H. V. McNamara's Clezon are among the likely entrants to the Beverly, with all sporting impressive credentials to date.

As one of the better stakes fillies over the past two seasons, Marry the Prince has especially fared well at Arlington Park. The bay daughter of Prince John—Rambling Mary won the Misty Isle and Cleopatra handicaps locally last year as well as finishing second in the Cinderella 'Cap. And this season she came home a strong runner-up to May's Guide in the Four Winds Handicap in addition to winning an allowance test with authority June 23, closing between horses to cover the mile in 1:38 on the grass.

MARRY THE Prince went unraced as a juvenile, yet has proven to be one of the most consistent performers anywhere, rarely coming home out of the money. And Earlie Fires, one of the nation's top riders, will handle the saddle duties.

Often a bridesmaid, Miss Rincon is still in quest of her first win of the year. However, the four-year-old Arctic Prince filly has run exceptionally well against all competition, including colts.

For example, she ran second in the Santa Barbara and first division of the Modesty Handicaps against her division, while coming home third in the San Marino and Stars and Stripes Handicaps pitted against veteran male turf runners.

BEA HASTY is another steady runner, who has encountered problems finding the winner's circle. The five-year-old mare's lone score of the campaign came Jan. 19 at Hialeah in which she posted a 1½ lengths victory over 1 1/16 miles on the grass.

Then on June 3, Bea Hasty ran third in the first division of the Modesty Handicap to Margarethen and Miss Rincon after holding the lead at the top of the stretch.

Rapidly - improving Treasure Chest managed to find her way home on top in the second division of the Modesty Handicap as well as in the Lottie Wolf Memorial June 2 at Hazel Park. The four-year-old Florida-bred has shown a fondness for the turf and will no doubt be ridden by John Beebe.

TREASURE CHEST posted three victories last season, especially coming into her own during the late fall months. She authored winning treks Jan. 27 at Hialeah and April 20 at Gulfstream Park before journeying Northward.

High-flying Lady Amigo, who barely caught Treasure Chest during the latter's triumph in the Modesty Handicap, may benefit from the longer distance. The late-rising filly went unraced until this season but has displayed flashes of brilliance.

Arlington Nine Is Shocked 4-2

The meek did not inherit the earth, but they did destroy the world for Arlington Heights' American Legion nine.

The meek—Des Plaines' First Division basement residents—were perhaps the unlikeliest to do it, but they all but mathematically entombed Arlington's fervent hopes of another Legion division championship, and perhaps a march like the one that brought them national note last summer.

Lloyd Meyer's nine, admittedly down psychologically after a rugged week with the league's powers, walked into an unsuspected 4-2 setback at Des Plaines last week (Wednesday).

That defeat dropped the Arlington league standard to 9-5, and those five losses—in comparison with the continuing successes of Mount Prospect and Northbrook—had a deadly tang.

BILL GASTORF, a southpaw who led Maine West High School to the Mid-Suburban League diamond crown this spring, was the principal author of the shocking. He allowed Arlington only three hits, and only two balls to the outfield besides the safeties.

Des Plaines totaled only five hits off the combined efforts of John Friedl and Jerry Donahue, but they were wisely placed. Two of them came from the bat of tiny Tom Kehe, and both were important.

One came as Kehe led off in the first for Des Plaines. He was eventually washed out in a fielder's choice, but the hit had set in motion events that culminated in Tony Gysler scoring the game's first run on an Arlington error.

And it was Kehe who wrecked Arlington in the fourth. Going into that frame, Arlington had taken a 2-1 lead. But leading off for Des Plaines, Norm Skelly crashed a home run off Friedl to knot the score. When Wayne Rozanski was hit by a pitch and Sherm Schuett singled, Meyer brought Donahue in from right field.

HE FANNED Jim Koltz, but walked MacDonald to load the bases. That brought up Kehe, and he whistled a two-run single that set the final score. Donahue ended the inning by fanning Gysler and getting Gastorf to tap to the mound.

Arlington had scored one run in the second, when Donahue reached on an error and eventually scored on Friedl's single. The losers took their temporary lead in the third when John Loughman singled, Mark Newman walked, Donahue bunted for a hit and Tom LeStarge brought in the run with a sacrifice fly to left. But Gastorf shut them out the rest of the way.

Favorite attraction with the stock car racing fans this year at O'Hare Stadium, Mannheim and Irving Park rds. in Schiller Park, is the terrorizing Figure 8 race that is presented twice each weekend on a special course in the shape of an '8' at O'Hare.

The main point of excitement in these events presented each Friday and Sunday nights at O'Hare is the crossover or intersection in the middle where collisions occur with regularity. O'Hare also has stock car racing every Saturday night. Gates open nightly at 6 p.m. The first race is always at 8 p.m.

Kingman Hero Again

Late Home Run Saves Prospect, Earns Tie

by LARRY EVERHART

Mount Prospect's title dreams very nearly flew out the window last Friday evening—and one little pebble on the infield of the Maine East High School diamond could easily have made the difference.

Only a dramatic seventh-inning home run by a guy familiar with the hero's role—Dave Kingman—saved Prospect from disaster. Kingman's blow enabled his team to salvage a 2-2 deadlock with Park Ridge Blue and keep pace with Northbrook atop the league standings.

The game, called after eight innings because of darkness, will not count in the standings and will be completely replayed.

Bill Brown probably deserved the mound victory over J. D. Thorne who, while not pitching badly, was not at his best. J. D. gave up nine hits while he and his teammates could gather only five.

BROWN WHIFFED eight while walking only one through the first four innings. He was relieved by Grunwahl in the fifth.

Brown was a bit shaky in the first inning, allowing Prospect to count a run that would give them the upper hand until the fifth.

As has been the case with so many of Prospect's rallies, this one started with two outs. It consisted of two quick, decisive blows. Tom Manderscheid blasted a triple to deep left field, the first of a pair of safeties for him. Tom Lundstedt's double scored him easily.

WITH ONE OUT and Glen Thompson on second in the Park Ridge first, center fielder Manderscheid made a spectacular diving catch of Terry Juliar's drive, then doubled the runner off.

Brown got stronger as the game progressed. Prospect managed infield hits by Thorne and Manderscheid in the third, but couldn't push another run across.

Those two bleeders in the third were the only safeties Prospect could show for the middle five frames.

Thorne got in trouble in the fifth when the hosts counted both of their runs, but the hit that brought them in was of the cheap variety.

ROB SCHROEDER singled for his second hit. After a groundout, Grunwahl got another one-bagger, taking second on a throw to third.

Thorne eased the tension somewhat by whiffing the dangerous Juliar, and should have escaped the inning unmarked.

Wally Pollack hit what looked like a routine grounder right at Whitcomb at short, but the ball hit a pebble and bounced over Clyde's head as both runners romped home.

KINGMAN led off the seventh with a towering blast to center. The ball was hit high enough that the center fielder probably could have caught up with it, but he watched it sail over his head.

The ball rolled almost to the street as Kingman trotted around the bases effortlessly.

The teams got in one more scoreless inning before darkness halted the conflict.

Bats Lead 6-1 Triumph

Arlington Explodes, Evanston Is Routed

A psychiatrist may have seen it this way: Arlington's American Legion baseball players, frustrated and thwarted at almost every turn for two weeks, had to finally vent their hostilities with violence.

Valid explanation or not, Arlington's diamond-men did violence to Evanston Monday evening, flashing the form they showed when it looked as if they'd march without scars to the First Division title.

The final—recorded at Evanston's Boltwood Park—read 6-1, but even that wasn't quite a true measure of the assault. Lloyd Meyer's men left Evanston in ruins in the first three innings, clubbing out nine of their 10 hits, four for extra bases, and totaling all six runs.

FROM THEN to the finish they coasted, never really menaced. Right-hander Jerry Donahue, on the hill for Meyer, responded to the big stake with one of his finer hours of the season, a five-hit, nine-strikeout job that upped the Arlington league total to 11-5.

Victimized in the wrecking was Evanston's highly-regarded Frank Wiltgen, and before the game was ended, just about everyone had a piece of the action off him.

It was forecast in the first, when Thad Woodard tripled with one out. He died on base, but there was considerably more to come in the second. Mark Frase, who with Woodard was to be one of the evening's big bombers, singled to open that stanza. Doug Fink moved him ahead with another single, and Brad Somers moved both along by drawing a walk.

TOM LeSTARGE in effect destroyed Wiltgen at that point, whipping out a double that sent Frase, Fink and Somers in. Paul Oly one of those runners scored—that in the fifth on a walk and two singles—and only one other made it as far as third.

The game clearly was like old times for Arlington.

Arlington Takes 2-1 Final

Donahue Pitches Way Past Yurtis, Palatine

by KEN KNOX

Palatine's American Legion baseball players ended one streak against Arlington, but the Arlington boys kept another—the more important one—going last Friday evening.

In three previous games last season and this, Palatine had failed to even score against the operatives from neighboring Post 208. They accomplished that quickly Friday, acquiring one tainted run in the first inning of their encounter at Arlington's Recreation Park.

But Arlington had the most when it counted, specifically two runs to that one at game's end. It meant the continuation of the Arlington mastery, and it boosted the First Division mark of the victors to 10-5, while Palatine — suffering through its seventh successive setback—settled to 2-12.

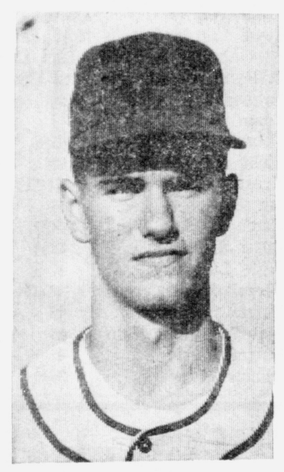
The 2-1 final was a valid indicator of the kind of game it was, for the competitors presented another of the tense matches typical of the meetings between Lloyd Meyer's Arlington nine and Terry Gellinger's Palatine crew. It was a tingling pitcher's standoff between Arlington's Jerry Donahue and Palatine's Barry Yurtis, resolved by Arlington nursing across single runs in the fifth and sixth, and by Donahue showing grittiness in the face of danger.

EACH HURLER, concentrating on keeping the enemy drives confined to the infield, struck out five. Donahue, though suffering some from control trouble that produced four walks and a hit batsman, allowed only two hits and showed his best in the clutch. Yurtis, 0-3 against Arlington over two seasons though giving only a composite of five runs, held the victors to one hit in the first four frames, then faltered with five safeties in the last two. But even with that, the score remained tight.

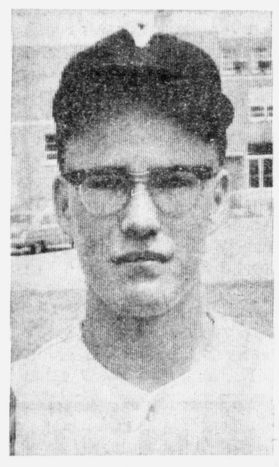
Of the three runs that did score in the game, all had the element of good fortune about them, good fortune for the teams that scored them.

Palatine's came in that first inning, Donahue's most troubled stanza. With one out, Don Wickersham and Wes Dixon both drew walks. Ken Johnson hit into a fielder's choice that erased Dixon, but sent Wickersham to third. Dick Strauss rolled to third, but the ball was fumbled there by Mark Newman and Wickersham tallied.

PALATINE continued to threaten as Johnson and Strauss advanced on a ball that got past catcher Mark Frase, but Dick Smith—with a snappy play by Arlington shortstop Thad Woodard—grounded out to end the inning.



BARRY YURTIS
Pitcher's . . .



JERRY DONAHUE
. . . game

Palatine—with much of the credit to Donahue—wasted several more opportunities in the game, stranding a total of six runners and four times having men at least as far as second. The most painful missed chance was in the fourth, when Johnson went all the way to second on a Donahue throwing error, went to third on a Strauss sacrifice, and tried to come in on a squeeze with Smith at the plate. But Donahue threw the pitch high, and Frase flopped on Johnson with the tag. Smith rattled the next pitch for a hit, but it produced nothing.

Arlington, meantime, labored until the fifth before beginning the solution of Yurtis. With one out, Brad Somers boomed a triple to deep right center. Tom LeStarge followed with an unplayable ball to Dixon at third, and Arlington had men at first and third.

LeSTARGE broke for second, but Palatine catcher Bob Hoffman fired instead to third, and Somers was called out. That seemed to quell the threat. But Frank DeRosa, batting ninth for Meyer's forces, looped a ball beyond second. Shortstop Johnson and second baseman Mike Ferguson sprinted back for it, and as Johnson stretched his glove he collided with Ferguson. The ball dropped and LeStarge went all the way home.

Yurtis fanned Woodard to end hat rally, but Arl ginotnniclch-t that rally, but Arlington clinched it the next inning. Newman, with one out, rippled a single between short and second. Donahue then hit what might have been a double play ball to short, but after the force of Newman, the throw to Fred Bahn at first went into the dirt and the first sacker couldn't dig it out in time.

That kept Arlington alive, and when Doug Fink worked Yurtis for a walk, the threat was huge.

Frase showed how huge it was. He hung in for a 2-2 count, then rocked a Yurtis pitch on a line into center that sent Donahue home from second. The young hurler not only scored what proved to be the winning run, but he jealously protected it in the Palatine seventh.

In Friday Night League

Doyno Motors Slicing Pro Sport Shop Lead

Dick Wood lost the captain's match to Esquire Barbers' Joe Wylie, but from there on it was all Doyno Motors as Roger Roggatz, Ted Small and Chet Spak scored all the points for a Doyno 7.5 to 2.5 victory over the Barbers. Doyno is now in second place and only 1.2 points behind Pro Sport Shop, still the leaders in the Mount Prospect Friday Night League.

The Pro Sports maintained their leadership by defeating Clayton Courts 6.7 to 3.1 with balanced scoring. The victorious foursome of Don Campbell, George Miscevich, Charles Kovacs and Jack Buyers all registered important points in turning back third place Clayton Courts.

Fourth place Keefer's Pharmacy was the victim of an upset when Kruse's Tavern — led by captain Joe Pash—scored a 7-3 win. Pash received necessary scoring help from teammates Burt Hillstrom and Val Reising to down Gordon Stephen and his title-seeking Keefer's unit.

UNDERDOG MEESKE'S Supermarket bested Mount Prospect State Bank, that by a 5-3 score, but the rest of the matches ran true to form. Bainbridge Apartments downed FBK Realtors 6.5 to 3.5; Arlington Camera Shop edged George S. May Co. 6-4; and Willie Fuel and Lumber turned back Pete's Standard Service 7-3.

Bill Harner turned in the leading performance of shot-making with his steady 38, as he knocked down an eagle on the par five first hole, reaching the green with two outstanding shots, then one-putting. John Leonetti captured the week's low net honors with a 30, closely followed by Al Smith, one stroke behind.

The powerful Friday Night League shot-makers produced the usual high quota of birdies, with the birds coming from Stan Peterson on No. 5, Bob Nordli on No. 7, John Burck on No. 9, Ray Felitto on No. 10, George Miscevich on No. 12, Carl Campbell on No. 13, Wylie on No. 15 and Chet Spak on No. 16.

Tuesday Twilight

Thunderbird's Lead Widens

League - leading Thunderbird Bowl picked up nine points from Wille Lumber and Fuel last week in their Mount Prospect Twilight Gvlf League match, which enabled the Bowl team to enjoy a little better point margin over the rest of the Tuesday night pack.

Two weeks back, the spread had been narrowed to less than half - a - point with challengers Licht Paint Store and Kruse's Tavern breathing on their back. However, the best Licht's could do last week was a 7-3 victory over Carter Music Shop, and Kruse's won by an identical score in their match with Moler's Barber Shop.

At this juncture in the 1966 season, the race seems to have narrowed down to three contestants, with Thunderbird Bowl, the leader, out in front by 3½ points over Licht's Paint Store and 4-1/3 points over Kruse's Tavern.

MOUNT PROSPECT Electric Construction Co., one time challengers for the leading role but presently in fourth, seem to be unable to shake out of their slump, bowing to Busse-Biermann Hardware 8-2, and find themselves 11½ points off the pace but by no means out of the race.

In other matches, Keefer's Pharmacy, another challenger, was held to a 5-5 tie by Illinois Range, while Kersting's Garden Center squeezed out a 5½-4½ victory over Kirchhoff Insurance.

Low individual score for the evening and the 1966 season was a two-under-par 33 over the second nine posted by Glenn Adams, "A" player for Kruse's Tavern. Other low shooters were Pat Danna, Jim Driscoll, Walt Peterson and Walt Lyman all with 37s, Ken Shipley 38, and Paul Boyd 39.

Birdies were claimed by Glenn Adams on 11, 12 and 15, Paul Boyd on 1 and 4, Walt Lyman on 8 and 9, W. Peterson on 12, P. Danna on 13, and Dave Shean and Karl Pohl on 18.

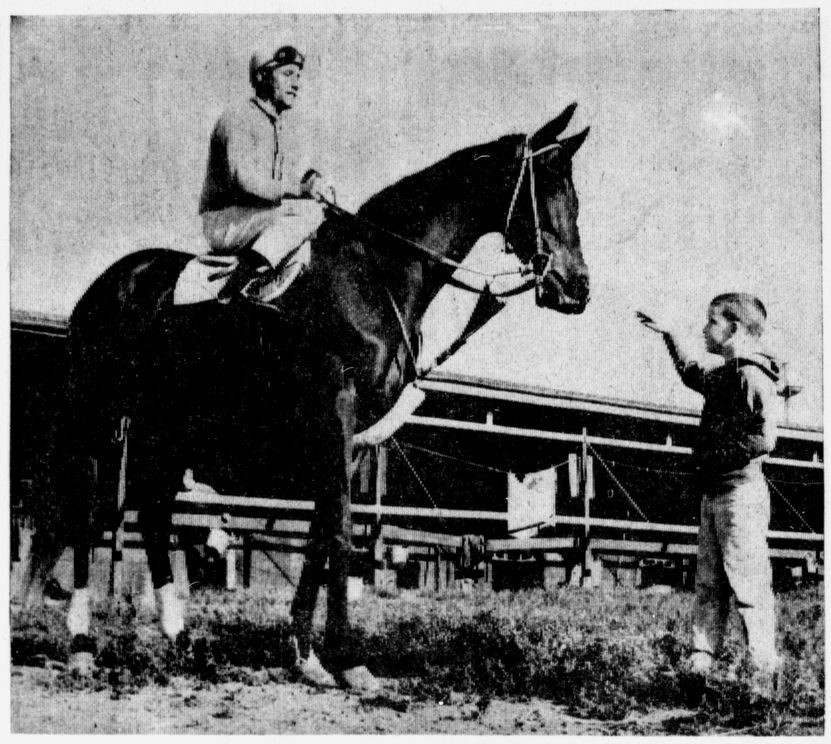
Grid Rifles In Early Training For 1966 Play

The Lake County Rifles 1966 practice sessions are in full swing. The local gridders are in camp at Mundelein High School practice field. Last year's veterans reported to the training headquarters and were promptly greeted with a grueling half hour's calisthenics.

Coaches Gene Cichowski and Angelo Dabiero have stressed peak conditioning for their players. They will be issued equipment and can expect some very early scrimmages. The Rifles will undergo a long, hard month of practice in preparation for their exhibition opener with the Canton Centaurs on August 13



A BARRINGTON-OWNED mare, Bea Hasty, is expected among those to bid for victory in this Saturday's Beverly Handicap at Arlington Park. Bea Hasty, here with exercise boy Stanley Kuc up and John Jones admiring, is a steady-running horse that has had difficulty finding the winner's circle. But her one victory of 1966 was at Hialeah at 1-1/16 miles over the turf, the same conditions as in the Beverly. (Arlington Park photo)

Tastee Meats Loses First; Rodewald Leads Rob Roy

C. P. Floor & Wall Tile knocked Tastee Meats from the league lead with a decisive 6 to 1 victory. Bud Romme's 39-7-32 was the leading tormentor of the Tastee crew and was ably assisted by team captain Clare Peterson's 37-4-33 and Vince Hoffman's 40-6-34. That was the big action in the Rob Roy Tuesday Night Golf League.

The Rodewald Dairy clan made the most of this event as they trampled Joy-Di 6½ to ½ and took over first place by the slim margin of one half point. Warren Erven, the No. 1 man, 39-3-36, and Len Dunteman, in the No. 2 spot, 42-6-36, were the leaders for the Dairy gang. This was the first time since the second week of league play that Tastee Meats was not in first place.

L-Nor C leaners remained in third place, but lost ground as they were defeated by Prospect Heights Pharmacy 4½ to 2½.

Mike Spinello continued his torrid play as he carded a three under par 33-0-33 on the back nine for Gunnell's Restaurant.

Bob Voight, playing in the No. 3 slot for Prospect Heights Barber, clubbed his way around the front nine in 39-7-32 to tie Bud Romme for league low net.

Jack Andreani had his best night of the season in leading Girder Process to a 5 to 2 win over fourth place Kirchhoff Insurance when he came in with a 44-11-33. Jack also took closest to the pin honors son the fourth hole when he played his tee shot 18 inches from the cup and sank the putt for a birdie two. Safety Can Prevent Injury to Caddies

Golfers, take better care of your caddies. You're hurting too many of them. That is the warning of safety experts.

More than 6500 caddies are hurt every year on the nation's public and private golf courses, a recently completed survey of golfing accidents reveals, and one of every three of these injuries is serious.

Most of the accidents involve caddies struck by hard-hit balls. And, the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company which made the survey says, most of them could have been prevented if the golfers had given a little more thought to the safety of their caddies.

There is one simple, primary, rule for golfers, says the Institute.

Never allow a caddy to be in front of the golfers, unless the lad is "forecaddying" or shagging. If they are forecaddying, make sure the boys are far enough ahead of the players. When shagging, make sure the caddy is not looking into the sun; with the ball traveling at 200 miles per hour, the sunblinded caddy hasn't a chance of seeing the ball in time to duck.

Other suggestions for golfers by the Institute are:

—Don't send the caddy into places where you wouldn't go yourself — swampy areas where there might be poisonous snakes, wasp nests or other hazards.

—Don't insist on playing during a thunder storm. If you're willing to take a chance, don't insist that your caddy run the same risk.

—Never let a caddy run your golf cart.

—Always think of your caddy's safety.

Over-all, the Institute's survey showed that there were some 20,000 golfing accidents of all kinds last year. Nearly 30 per cent of these were caused by golf balls. Fifteen per cent were caused by golf carts. And the third most frequent cause of trouble on the fairway was overexertion, with a surprising number of deaths recorded from this last cause.

In the list of safety rules published by the Institute and sent in poster form to golf clubs across the country, the final word of warning reads: "remember your age, the golf course gets longer and harder every time you play it."

Remember your caddy, too!

Sprinters Take Off At Santa Fe Friday

The United States Auto Club's stellar 110 Offy compact sprints division makes a return visit to Santa Fe Speedway in Hinsdale this Friday, July 16.

A 100-lap feature event on Santa Fe's quarter-mile clay oval will highlight the program. Time trials start at 7:30 p.m. The sprinters will take off at 8:30 p.m.

Heading the star-studded compact sprints list, which includes eleven of the top twenty compact sprinters in the nation, are Mike McGreevy, Don Meacham, Mel Kenyon and Bob Wente, who are ranked first through fourth respectively. Kenyon is fresh from one of his greatest triumphs — a fifth place in the Indianapolis "500," the World Series of racing.

Other top twenty racers who will broadslide around Santa Fe Speedway's clay oval are Bob Tattersall of Streator, Illinois, Henry Pens of Joliet, Illinois, Bill Mehner, Chuck Arnold, Tom Sellberg, Sonny Ates and Bobby Grim, who is another Indianapolis "500" driver.

Still Leads 59ers Golf

M'Gonigle & Sloan scored a smashing 13-1 victory over Dern's Dairy to move within just ½ point of second place and three points of first in the Hoffman Estates 59ers Golf League.

All three matches ran true to form as the three front-runners easily downed the second-division units.

Frank's Beauty Salon, a close second behind league-leading Roselle State Bank, routed Hoffman Liquors 11-3. The No. 1 Bankers breezed past Tri-City Hardware, 10-4.

In the daily event of olw putts, the winner was Jean Witt with 14. Runners-up were Barbara Sorters and Barbara Ross with 16's. Clara Gerker and Doris Morrisey posted 17's in the event.

Low gross was also recorded by Jean Witt, who boasted a 49.

Husbands Treated

The Tri-City Women's Golf League entertained the husbands of the golfers on Sunday, July 10, at the Mount Prospect Country Club.

It was a mixed two-ball event, and at the conclusion of play, the members and their guests had refreshments at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee, 507 We-Go Trail. The prizes were awarded by the president, Mrs. Vernon Moore.

Low gross was won by Ina Lee and Gene Goodman, and low net by Santa Felitto and Bob Evans, Martha Ragland and Vernon Moore, Doris Bryant and Ray Hawkinson, Virginia Shanby and Frank Musgrave; Sonimy Moore and Jim Lash, Florence Evans and S. Pawnthin, Florence Bush and George Sawless, Florence Coleman and A. Runge, Arlene Runge and Bob Bryant, Fern Raull and J. Coleman, Mabel Musgrave and Jim Hays, Nancy Sank and Bob Lee.

Golf balls were awarded to Jim Stewart, A. J. Bush, Tim Rickard, Jack Remson and Bruno Pinkas.

In Scratch Loop

Peters & Co. Fattens Lead

Once again first place Peters & Co. proved its matchplay excellence with a big 7½ to ½ win over second place Haire Funeral Home, thereby increasing the lead over the Scratch League field to 9½ points.

Haire, dropped into fourth place by the loss, gained a half point as Skoglund and Howard Haire played to a tie. Led by John Keeley's 36, Skokie Valley Drywall took all eight points from Miles & Miles and moved up from fourth to second place.

All five of the drywall team won their matches. Although they gained only three out of eight points Graft Builders maintained its position in third place. Mike Spinello had a win with an even par 35 for the builders, but up and coming Busse Flowers produced wins via Hugo, John St. Germaine and sub Bill Bohle.

Arlington Realty edged L-Nor Cleaners 4½ to 3½, sparked by Bob Lee's 37. Avery Harris, back on his game, had 37 for L-Nor despite three putts on one and nine.

Bob Walters of Baird & Warner turned in a 38 on the back nine last Friday but lost to a 37 by Frank Kasper. All wasn't lost however, B & W won over Nelson Realty 5½ to 2½. Eiler and Marve Kamps had 38 wins and Joe Conley tied low ball with his 37.

Bill Schwerin carded the fourth eagle of the season on his way to a one under 35 as Burrow Chevrolet rolled over Pitzen Movers 6 to 2. A hot putter produced a matching 35 for teammate Bob Moore while Till Foy and sub Phil Loncar had wins for the Movers.

Entries Taken For Tourney

Entries are now being accepted for the Chick Evans Amateur Golf Tournament, to be held at White Pines Golf Club July 25-28.

All male amateur golfers, regardless of handicap, are eligible for entry. The medal play will be held over 72 holes and will be divided into championship, first, and second flights.

Entry fee is $20, including green fee and award dinner.

The tourney, which finances scholarships for worthy and needy boys from the Chicago Boys Clubs, must limit its entries to the first 175.

Entries, which must be received by midnight July 16, are not to be telephoned or telegraphed. If mailed, the entry fee must be paid by check or money order.

The low 100 shooters in Monday's and Tuesday's rounds will qualify for the three flights. The Championship Flight will consist of the low 40, the First Flight the next highest 30, and the second flight the last 30. All of these numbers will include ties.

A sudden-death playoff will determine the champ in case of a tie for first in any flight.

Entries who find they are unable to compete are requested to notify the Tournament Committee. Entry fees will be refunded if the withdrawal is made by July 18, and players on the alternate list will be allowed to enter.

Entry forms may be obtained by writing to Alfred R. Infusino, Chick Evans Amateur Golf Association, 439 Taylor Ave., Oak Park.

Paul's Jewel Clubs Friday Night Leader

Joy-Di held its lead in the Friday Night League at Arlington Country Club, but just barely as Paul's Jewel gave the leaders a trouncing by taking five of a possible six points.

Harris Pharmacy took a clean sweep from L'Nor Cleaners, winning all six points to move up to third. At the same time, Portage Auto Parts took four points from Bruce's Cities Service Citgo, and the cellar-dwelling Borchardt's took five and a half from Webber Paints.

Hole No. 14 was assaulted for six birdies, with Tony Lenio, Al Snell, Dick Cashmore, Henry Huberty, Harry Woods and Jim Rodgers all scoring. Russ Knight chipped in a 20-footer for a bird at No. 15, and Nick McDonald also had one there. Art Kehe deuced the tough No. 16, and Harold Gallmeier dropped a five-footer on No. 17 to complete the birds.

Dick Cashmore is still holding the hot hand, and with a superb round of 38 he captured both low gross and low net, that being 31.

The Standings:

Lions Win 3, Lose 4 in Busy Week; Rooney Top Hurler

The Lions baseball nine of Arlington Heights emerged from another busy week with a record of three wins and four losses.

Coach Larry Nomellini's crew dropped a doubleheader to Glenbard West and a single game to Northbrook while splitting a twin bill with Berwyn and beating Deerfield and Lane Tech.

The Lions now have a 18-22-1 standard this summer, with about 30 more contests still to come. Unbelievably, only two rainouts have occurred.

Asked about his rigorous scheduling, Nomellini said, "The more games we play the better. A boy picks up something new with every ball game."

"These boys are young and they're making a lot of mistakes, but they'll be ahead of the game next year because of all the experience they're getting," continued the Lion leader.

"Our record is not important. If we play 80 games and play .500 ball, to me it'll be a successful season."

Nomellini repeated an earlier statement that, had it not been for injuries and other misfortunes, the Lions might have lost only five games by this time.

The Lion boss attributed a collapse of the defense to Sunday's doubleheader loss. The Lions were guilty of ten errors—five in each game.

While on the subject, Nomellini pointed out that his boys have permitted over 60 earned runs in their first 41 contests. Thus, a shaky defense has been perhaps the Lions' major shortcoming in 1966.

The locals dropped the first game Sunday by a 9-2 score, getting only seven hits to the host Bards' 13. Moore went all the way for the mound decision.

Tom Collins absorbed the loss, hurling the first three frames on a yield of seven runs and ten hits. Mike Miller finished up on the hill.

BILL WASILEWSKI
Batting Binge

Bill Wasilewski, on a hitting binge lately, collected a pair of safeties, as did Dan Collins and Rich Leitzen. Wasilewski lashed out five hits Sunday to give him eight for the last 15 at-bats.

The Lions tallied both of their markers in the third, a walk to Pat Loughman was sandwiched around singles by Wasilewski and Dan Collins. Frank Patzke was safe on an error and Tom Collins reached on a fielder's choice as the two runs scored.

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Lions	002	000	—2- 7
Glenbard West	214	002	—9-13

In the second game, the Lions committed all five of their errors in the fifth inning, handing the hosts eight runs and the game. The locals led 4-2 entering the disastrous frame, but eventually dropped a 10-4 game.

Nomellini's outfit equaled Glenbard's hit production with nine, but the errors made the difference as Miller went all the way in swallowing the loss.

The Lions got a run in the second as Tom Collins singled and later counted on Dan Miksta's one-bagger.

Each team chalked up two runs in the third as the locals showed some heavy artillery with the bats. Wasilewski clouted a long homer into the street, Dan Collins slugged a triple, Tom Collins a double, and John Brawley a single in that order.

However, with all that noise, the Lions tallied only two runs as Collins was thrown out at the plate on an attempted double steal on a third strike to Brian Rooney.

The Arlington Heights-based nine grabbed a 4-2 lead in the fourth on an unearned run before the roof caved in in the error-riddled fifth. The game was halted after five frames because of darkness.

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Lions	012	10—	4-9
Glenbard West	002	08—	10-9

The Lions divided a double dip Saturday with Berwyn at home. Nomellini's boys blew a six-run lead in the opener but pulled out a 7-6 decision before falling 5-3 in the nightcap.

Game number one saw Brian Rooney shut out the visotors for the first five innings before losing his stuff in the sixth and allowing the visitors to tie the contest.

The Lions built up a 6-0 lead through the initial five frames. Four singles produced a pair of markers in the first, before the locals added another in the third on a single, sacrifice, and error.

In the fourth Nomellini, in action because of a player shortage, tripled home Miksta, who had walked. Two more one-base blows were good for another run.

The hosts' sixth run scored in the fifth before Berwyn bombed Rooney for two tallies in the sixth and four in the seventh to knot the count. Wasilewski's two-out single scored the winning run in the eighth.

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Berwyn	000	002	40—6-10
Lions	201	210	01—7-15

John Wendell absorbed the 5-3 loss in game two, allowing all five of Berwyn's runs in the first two innings. Tom Collins hurled scoreless ball from the third inning on, but it was too late.

The Lions came up with a two-spot in the third as Miksta and Loughman each walked and stole a base, then were singled home by Wasilewski.

The locals had a golden opportunity to tie it up in the fifth. With two men on and a run already in, the Berwyn right fielder made a good running catch on a drive by Rooney which would have scored two runs had it dropped in.

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Berwyn	320	000	—5-6
Lions	002	01	—3-6

On Friday, the Lions dropped Deerfield 5-2 behind the slants of Brawley.

The St. Viator boys hit loser Stanger with a three-spot in the first inning and were never behind. The three-run first was effected on a double by Loughman, walk to Wasilewski, single by Brawley, fielder's choice by Patzke, walk to Rooney, and another single by Dick Aylward good for two RBI's.

The locals, who outhit Deerfied 10-6, added single runs in the third and seventh. The enemies got both markers in the sixth.

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Lions	301	000	1—5-10
Deerfield	000	002	0—2- 6

Powerful Northbrook flattened Nomellini's gang Thursday by a no-doubt-about-it score of 10-1.

Mike Miller yielded six runs and as many hits in the initial two frames to accept the loss. Tom McDonald took over the hill in the third and was scratched for four more runs and seven hits.

The only mark the Lions could make on winning pitcher Paul Brubaker came in the second stanza. Miller walked but was out on a fielder's choice by Brawley. After an error on the second baseman and a fly ball by Rooney, Miller counted on another miscue.

The locals could muster just two safeties, neither of which figured in the scoring. Wendell singled in the fifth and Dan Collins rapped a two-bagger in the sixth.

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Northbrook	422	020	0—10-13
Lions	010	000	0— 1- 2

Nomellini's crew racked up a 3-1 triumph over Lane Tech last Wednesday with Rooney going all the way on the hill for a well-deserved win.

After Brawley singled in the second, Wasilewski reached on a fielder's choice. The latter stole second and Miksta was safe on an error as Wasilewski tallied.

A one-bagger by Dan Collins in the fourth was followed by a run-scoring triple by Patzke. The game ended officially after six innings but the teams played an extra frame, with the Lions getting four more runs and Lane Tech two.

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Lane Tech	000	010	02—3-6
Lions	001	200	4 —7-7

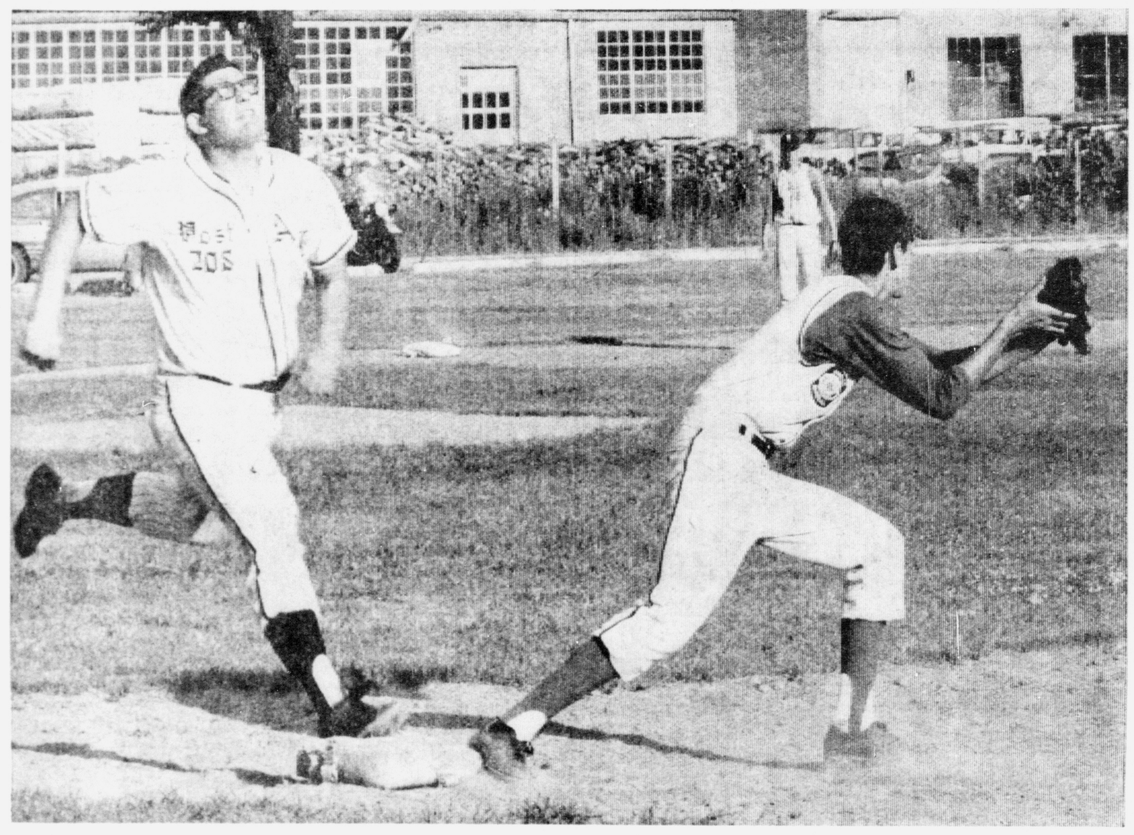
Rooney is currently the club leader in pitching with a sharp 0.91 ERA and a 4-3 record. Tom Collins has hurled the most innings (51), posting a 3.84 ERA and 4-2 record.

After travelling to Niles West tonight, the Lions have a Winnemac Park league affair tomorrow. They will visit Rockford for a twi-night twin bill against Boylan Central Saturday night.

The same team will return the visit Sunday, engaging the Lions in a double dip here.

Baseball Form: The Double Play

A DOUBLE PLAY BEGINS—Palatine shortstop Ken Johnson, after taking the flip from second baseman Mike Ferguson, forces Arlington's Jim Jorgensen at second and makes ready to relay to first, where the batter—Mark Frase—was also out.



OUT AT FIRST!! Thus ends a double play, as Palatine first baseman Fred Bahn takes a peg from shortstop Ken Johnson, during Friday's Arlington-Palatine Legion game at Recreation Park. The Arlington victim at first is Mark Frase, who later came back to bat in the winning run in a 2-1 Arlington triumph. (Staff Photo by Bob Finch)

Over Northbrook

Prospect Grabs Top Spot with 3-2 Win

by LARRY EVERHART

If Clyde Whitcomb had had his choice of when to come up with his third hit and first extra base clout of the First Division season, he couldn't have picked a better spot.

The odds were piled against Clyde when he stepped into the batters box in the seventh inning of last Wednesday's (July 6) super - showdown between the Northbrook and Mount Prospect Legion frontrunners.

Here was the situation. Score tied, 2-2, Ken Traversone on first, two outs, and Northbrook's ace hurler, Frank Battaglia, on the mound. Battaglia had relieved to start the inning and was well-rested.

WHITCOMB, Prospect's regular shortstop and one of its best glovemen throughout the year, had the lowest batting average of any Prospect regular—a sickly .090.

Now, don't get us wrong. Whitcomb has done a fine, steady job all year with his sacrifice hits, walks, and fine fielding. But this was about the most unlikely situation possible for a game-winning hit.

So what did Clyde do? He lashed one of Battaglia's feared fast balls into deep right-center for a triple, sending Traversone home easily. That was the old ball game—and Prospect took over the top perch in the league standings for the first time.

CLYDE WHITCOMB
Clubs Clutch Clout

WHILE WHITCOMB'S drive was the difference, the man who has grabbed so many headlines this year—Dave Kingman— deserved most of the credit. All "Superman" did this time was blast a two-run homer for Prospect's first two runs and throw a five-hitter at the extremely dangerous Northbrookers.

Dave's control was improved, as he walked only three and struck out seven.

But what a shame that he gave up two earned runs. That shot his ERA all to pieces, "ballooning" it to 0.50 — three tallies in six games.

THE NORTHBROOK conflict was played under protest after the host Brookers disputed a strike which they claimed was a foul tip.

However, since this was a judgement call, the protest will probably be insignificant. Tension was high and tempers short in this all-important battle, and consequently the umpires took quite a verbal beating all night.

Bob Moody started on the hill and pitched a strong six innings. with the only disasterous blow against him being Kingman's round-tripper. Moody whiffed nine, walked just one, and allowed three safeties during his stint.

NORTHBROOK took command with a run in the first. With one out, Bob Brietzman sliced a double down the left-field line. He took third when Kingman, trying for a pickoff, threw the ball into center field.

Brietzman then scored on a suicide squeeze, with Battaglia laying down the RBI bunt. Brietzman's hit was Northbrook's last until the fifth.

Prospect couldn't dent Moody until Dave Muszynski led off the fourth with a double to right. J.D. Thorne sacrificed him to third, but Tom Mandersheid and Tom Lundstedt failed to bring him in.

IN THE FIFTH, Prospect fans had something to shout about. Traversone walked and Kingman unloaded his towering drive over the center fielder's head. Dave raced home just ahead of the relay, giving himself a 2-1 advantage.

Moody composed himself and retired the next three men.

The Brookers pushed across the equalizer in their half. Don Piggot started the wild inning with a line drive single to left. Ken Kozil ran for Piggot and was forced out on Moody's grounder.

MOODY STOLE second and Bob Youngberg walked. Frank Krohe stroked a bouncer that hit Moody in the basepath. It was scored as a hit, but Moody was out.

Larry Mynars then lined a hit to right, scoring Youngberg with the tying run.

The hosts threatened in the sixth. Battaglia was safe on a throwing error by third - baseman Thorne, but Whitcomb eventually pegged him out at the plate as he tried to score on Moody's infield hit, a weak blooper.

THEN CAME the seventh-inning heroics. Traversone led off with a single over second. Kingman and Jim Gumz were retired, but Whitcomb, always cool as you please, followed with his dramatic triple.

Kingman couldn't relax until the end. Bob Youngberg kept things tense with a leadoff single in the bottom of the seventh, but Kingman got the next three men easily.

The win gave Prospect a skimpy half-game lead with a 10-2 First Division record compared to Northbrook's 9-2.

Too Many Stranded

Palatine Falls To Park Ridge

Though a lack of hitting was a big reason for the slide of Palatine's American Legion baseball club, finding it wasn't the complete answer either.

At least it wasn't the solution last week (Wednesday) when the Post 690 squad met Park Ridge Blue in a First Division rematch. Though they shut out the Blues 3-0 when they first met in June, in the latest encounter the locals succumbed 4-2, even though they out-hit their conquerers 8-7.

IT WAS a case of stranding too many runners, and it spelled the sixth straight defeat for Palatine in First Division action.

Terry Gellinger's nine, falling behind 3-0, left five runners on the bases in the first four innings, before rallying to bring the difference to 3-2. Park Ridge had cashed in on Palatine errors and a strategic triple by Pat Kurz in building the lead, and Palatine used a little bit of a lot of things in getting close in the fifth.

It started with one out when Don Wickersham walked. There followed two errors, fielder's choices by Wes Dixon and Dick Smith, and key singles by Ken Johnson and Fred Bahn.

But that was as close as Palatine was to get, and Park Ridge came back for the clincher off starter and loser Irv Hahnfeldt in the sixth, with a double by Greg Olsen the key stroke. Palatine, meantime, reverted to the costly habit and left five more runners on over the last two frames.

SCORE BY INNINGS:

Palatine	000	020	0—2-8
Park Ridge	021	001	*—4-7

Second Half Begins In YMCA Golf Loop

The first half of the Northwest Suburban Golf Twilight League is now history, and as was expected since as long ago as May 15, the Coloramic Tilers won all "the marbles."

Winning an average of almost five out of a possible six points for six weeks in a row is what turned the tide. Only in last night's play did the fast-surging Mount Prospect Bankers begin to cool off Coloramic's pace, but too late.

Now the season will continue into the second half. The winner will play off for the year's title with Coloramic Tile.

Compared with previous years, the Y-Leaguers have done a good job in the low net category. The low gross boys have not quite come up to standard. Current low net is 28 and low gross is 36.

In the July 6 play the big hero would have to be Dick Dixon, who missed a hole-in-one on the par-4 13th hole by three feet. He did, however, hole out his putt for a very neat Eagle 2!

Other under-par shooters included Ed Then on no. 3, Max Pemoller on no. 11, and Wally Busch on no. 13.

Low gross honors went to Ed Then with a 39. Wally Busch and Dick Dixon had 40's, and Len Franklin a 41.

Low net honors went to Wes Stock with a 33. There was a six-way tie for second at 34 among Len Franklin, Frank Musgrave, Dave Prochnow, Wally Busch, Bob Rohrback, and Ray Nelson.

First half final standings:

Tennis Meet Won Easily

Pioneer Park trounced Recreation Park, 9-1, in a tennis meet held on Tuesday morning.

In the Upper Division (7th and 8th grades), the Pioneers made a clean sweep of all five matches. Rick Clemens, Nancy Skarzynski, and Bob Williams won the number one, two, and three singles, respectively.

The first doubles combo of Paul Raeder and Steve McAllister and the second doubles duo of Gary Aldrich and Barb Wray also won their matches.

The instructor at Pioneer Park is Harley Gates. Donna Cunningham leads the Recreation Park youth.

Openings for the second session in tennis classes remain at both parks. Interested persons should register at either of the parks.

The second session will begin on Monday, July 18.

Cards Seeking JV Grid Game

Arlington high school is looking for a junior varsity football game for this fall's schedule.

The school has an availability for a game on either Saturday, Sept. 17, or Monday, Sept. 19. Any area athletic officials interested in making arrangements for the game are asked to contact Ted Wissen of the Arlington coaching staff.

Falcon Flingers Aid Heaters' Cause

Waycinden No. 1 Suburban Heating is currently setting the pace in their division of the Northwest Suburban Baseball Conference.

The heaters, led by Marty Fontana, a junior from the Forest View varsity, hold a 9-2 record. Fontana has won five of six mound assignments.

Bill King, ace righthander for Forest View, has also helped out on the mound. King had six hits in his first 20 at-bats for an even .300 batting average.

THE TWO Falcon flingers are supported by some heavy hitting from Robert Chudik (.407 average), Richard Gillespie (.500 average), and Kurt Koentopp (.457 standard). As a team, the Heaters own a robust .307 mark.

King got the hill decision as Suburban Heating clobbered Elk Grove 14-2 last Sunday.

The righty was as hot as the 98-degree temperature, striking out 12 batters in the five-inning game.

KING WAS backed up by some heavy stickwork by his teammates, as Kurt Koentopp belted a round-tripper over the centerfield fence in the second and Dan Smith's drive sailed over the right field barrier in the fifth for a grand-slam homer.

Jerry Adams crashed a triple and two doubles and Richard Gillespie also registered a pair of two-baggers.

THE RODEO COWBOY is a superb athlete. This saddle bronc rider has reacted to bronc's vicious explosion out of chute gate and is in perfect shape for a winning ride. Shawn Davis, 25-year-old World Champion of this contest, will be among the rodeo pros on hand for Championship Rodeo at Soldiers Field in Chicago today (Thursday) through Sunday to match skill against the West's worst broncs and bulls. Performances will begin at 8 p.m. through Saturday and at 7 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are on sale at all Chicagoland Ward stores and at Ticket Central, 212 N. Michigan Ave. Reserved seats are $4, general admission $2.50 and children 14 and under $1.25.

Wheeling Little League

Two close battles were contested in the Wheeling all-star games held on the Sandburg field July 4.

In the National League game, Mark Torp hit a home run for Sandburg in the third inning for the game's only round-tripper. In the fourth inning, however, Union came back with four runs to wrap up the game.

Sandburg managed one more in the sixth, but the final score was Union 4, Sandburg 2. Winning pitcher Scott Cole got relief help from Dave Anderson. Ricky Loomis was the loser.

Union All-Stars	000	400	0—4-7-0
Sandburg All-Stars	001	001	0—2-7-1

The stars of the odd-numbered teams in the American League parlayed a three-run fourth and four-run fifth to down the stars of the even-numbered nines, 7-5.

Dan Bowers of the even-numbered team and Alex Paulos of the odd-numbered unit provided the game's highlights as each clouted a round-tripper.

The winning runs were scored in the fifth inning, when Randy Hyde hit a sharp bases-loaded single which got through the right fielder's legs as all four runs scored. One more run for the even-numbered team in the final frame was not enough.

Winning hurler in this one was Dwane Nelson, while Casey Wasilewski was charged with the setback.

Even-numbered teams	202	000	1—5-9-2
Odd-numbered teams	000	340	0—7-9-2

Ridge Cubs Lead Loop In Softball

Three games were played Sunday in the River Trails Park District Softball League in near 100 degree weather. The league-leading Cubs from Rainbow Ridge didn't seem to feel the heat at all as they melted their neighboring team, the Sox, 30 to 2. Howard Goone pitched a five-hitter for the winners while Ron Finotti, Hank Hips and Fred Paul hit home runs.

Littelfuse stayed in second place with a 23 to 7 win over Grove Dodge. Jim Silicani, Tim Anderson, Ange Bernar and Larry Smith hit homers off the winners.

Woodview Civic Assoc. began to show new team strength as they beat the Hilltoppers 22 to 16. Ed Kurr hit a home run to pace the 23 hits attack of the winners.

In the game last Thursday, Grove Dodge knocked the Lakers off the undefeated list with a close 14 to 10 victory.

Items From Inverness

The big news in Inverness this week is that several homes have changed hands, among them, the junior A. Schnippers, 513 Aurshire Lane, bought by the John A. Fosters, who with Mark and Tim moved June 19 from Los Angeles.

The Frank Wenter family moved from Firth Road to the former McGinley home at 53 N. Lomond Drive. The William McGinleys, Bobby, Jimmy and Margaret Jane, are building in the Barrington area.

The William A. Smiths came from Weston, Conn., July 3 and settled at 357 N. Cumnock, the former Thomas Kiddoo home. The Smiths have a son Vern, a daughter, Pamela Jane, and another son, William Jr., home for the summer from Grove City College, Grove City, Pa. Mr. Smith was transferred to Chicago by Mosinee Paper Mills.

THE ROBERT EVANS, Gail, Jill, Cynthia and Christine, moved July 2 from Blackburn Drive to 200 Firth Road.

The Andre Maisonpierres, who rented a home in Palatine, moved to their new house at 1700 Banbury on June 30. The Maisonpierres, originally from Pittsburgh have three children, Jonathan, Luke and Diane.

Lynn Jaeger's high school graduation party was a Fourth of July buffet supper for relatives from Edison Park, Sauganash, Skokie, Lincolnwood and Champaign-Urbana. Lynn, daughter of the R. O. Jaegers, 1875 Thornhill, was accepted at University of Illinois. Her sister, Gay, will return to Knox at Galesburg.

THE JOSEPH Huebners went to northern Wisconsin and also visited their children, Rickey Martin at White Sox Camp, Chilton, Wis., and Kim at Campo Fiesta, near Boulder Junction.

Mrs. Gilbert T. Ayers, Bradwell Road, had a 22-day European tour, arriving home June 30. Flying to London, she went to Edinburgh, Scotland, then went to Norway, seeing the Midnight Sun, and visited in Sweden and Denmark. She reported the flowers were very luxurious in Denmark but found the weather unseasonably warm in the Scandinavian countries.

Mrs. Norman Olson, Lizabeth, Linden, Laurie and Lance, Appleby Road, went to Lake Carlos, near Alexandria, Minn., on vacation. Mrs. Olson's mother, Mrs. Dell Ekholm of Montevideo, Minn., went with them. Mrs. Olson and son, Laird, joined the family for Fourth of July weekend.

NORMAN OLSON left July 6 for London, England. He will visit plants in Scotland and Frankfort, Germany and spend a weekend in Norway.

The C. E. Daughertys, S. D. Moormans and the W. F. Heins stopped overnight at Uphoffs, at the Wisconsin Dells, en route to Sioux Narrows, Ontario, where they went for a three-day fishing trip, reporting that they caught northern and wall-eye pike. (P

Nature Is Theme For Activity Week

Nature appreciation was theme for Palatine Park District's second week of supervised playground activity. High-point of the week was a hike to Deer Grove last Thursday where children fished, cooked hot dogs, and collected leaves.

At Paddock playground, children displayed caterpillars and turtles. Owners of the winning caterpillars were: Karen Magnus, neatest; Sue Ann Rohr and Lauren Risley, cutest; Debra Williams, most ferocious; and, Harold Dodson's adopted caterpillar which he named "Mo." Gary Primdahl and Tom Jensen had the cutest turtles.

The children at Paddock also put on a hobby show and a doll show for Friday's special event.

YOUNGSTERS AT Pleasant Hill playground entained their custodians at a Kool-Aid party on Friday.

Winston Park children had a peanut hunt, bean hunt and a treasure hunt July 8.

At Jane Addams, children had an elephant naming contest for their papier mache elephant. The Jane Addams area has also formed a girls softball team.

Sanborn's children held several contests during the week. Winners of a dance contest were Mike Gavigan, Linda Blackwell, Kathy Hamman, Mary Piotrowski and Tom Donahue. Dave Werner won the box hockey tournament by defeating Sam Sunseri and Jim Moreland. A Kool-Aid party on Friday helped celebrate the softball team's victory over Pleasant Hill. (P

Stone Finances New Workshop At Little City

W. Clement Stone, president of the Combined Insurance Companies of America and a friend of Little City, training and treatment center for mentally retarded children near Palatine, has made a generous contribution to the new sheltered workshop building.

On June 9, the tornado that hit the northwest area of Cook County destroyed the workshop building on the grounds of Little City, Algonquin Road just west of Roselle Road.

Stone's immediate response to the call for help enabled Little City to immediately contact architects, and plans are now on the drawing board for a new and improved workshop. (P

Only American Motors sales were up in June! How come?

Meet a Mind-Changer.
(Like Rambler American)

Take the example of one vacation-blessed college student. "This summer I am going to scrimp and save until I can buy a big car with a big engine. A real performer." Then it happened. A buddy told him that Rambler Americans finished 1-2 in the Acceleration Test, Class VI, Pure Oil Performance Trials—with standard Sixes. Then he read about American's new 290-cube Typhoon V-8. "A lot of heavier cars don't have that much engine," he thought. And so they don't. Later he learned he could take his pick of 4-on-the-floor or automatic at no extra cost.

That, so equipped, Rambler American is the lowest-list-priced V-8 car built in America.* And that a long list of safety features, like Double-Safety brakes, were standard. But that was pure gravy. His mind was already changed. And that's the way it went all last month. We sold more new cars this June than last. In fact, sales hit an eight-month high. So before you buy a new car this month, meet the Mind-Changers: Rambler American, Rambler Classic, Ambassador, Marlin. With savings at a model-year high, they're changing a lot of minds these days.

*Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail prices

American Motors . . . where quality is built in, not added on.

STOP Built with your safety in mind. Every American Motors car now includes a Double-Safety brake system plus solid, all-welded Single-Unit body construction and safety features like: padded dash and visors, outside mirror, seat belts, backup lights, windshield washers, higher-strength windshield, and variable-speed wipers.

Long Grove Cook Rene Kathrein at State Convention

When Rene Kathrein of Checker Road talks about "space dogs," "round dogs" and "a chicken little," only her hot lunch enthusiasts at Prospect Heights public schools would guess she's talking about names of some of her latest sandwich concoctions.

During her eight years as cafeteria manager, Rene's chief delight has been to make food unusually appealing to the pupils who file through her lunch lines daily.

Ranking as one of the top winners in a national sandwich contest over a year ago, it was the recognition for her pizza roll-ups which brought Mrs. Joseph Kathrein the opportunity to demonstrate her sandwiches at the annual convention of the Illinois School Food Service Assn. held June 28-30 at Illinois State University in Normal. While there the cafeteria head talked to hot lunch managers and cooks from all over the state, showing them how an imaginatively bit of carrot placed here, a dark raisin or an olive there can actually influence Junior not to pass up the spinach.

Rene's "surprise bun" is every housewife's answer for when it comes time to clean the refrigerator. She simply uses all her leftovers to make a variety of sandwich fillings, then wraps each one in aluminum foil. No pupil knows what he's getting, and, unwrapping the contents, he's as excited as his mother when someone hands her a white elephant at a ladies' bazaar!

BECOMING better acquainted with one's neighbors comes easily over a slice of watermelon or an outdoor grilled hamburger. At least, so Mardan Woods and Mardan Estates residents discovered during their Fourth of July picnics. Each area held its own community get-together, it being a first-time occasion for Mardan Woods which patterned its fun after the oft'-repeated Mardan Estates picnic.

Both events began with a costume bicycle parade for the youngsters, Mardan Woods "kids" even luring their cats and dogs into the show. Everyone at both events, somehow, seemed to walk away with a prize, water pistols for the boys, trinkets for the girls, whether he came dressed as a daisy, a butterfly or Bat Man.

A potluck smorgasbord table highlighted both affairs, with plenty of cold pop and watermelon. Families brought their own meat to grill.

The Mardan Woods picnic took place on the Walter Saunders' grounds, Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Ralph Seeler and Mrs. Woody Janssen serving as chairmen. The Joe Klemeyers kept the games moving, with the 18 families moving in a lively step.

TWENTY-FOUR families turned out for the Mardan Estates event held at the Mayflower Lane cul de sac. The Stewart Richmonds' pool caused an "overflow" gathering on their grounds, where the children rode a pony and everyone joined in the spirit of the day. General chairman of the event was Mrs. Clarence Reinecke.

There were helium balloons from Clarence Reinecke and jig saw puzzles from the Frank Bivins, the latter with Jerry Brode serving as judges during the races. Jim Didier mowed the field, clearing away the weeds to make way for fun, Janice Mason keeping the children happy in their games, Jean Mason and George Van Der Bosch doing the same in the adult department. Mrs. Herbert Collyer planned the food, Mrs. Lee Massey collected the tables and grills and bill Mason supervised the parade. Clarence Reinecke and Everett Lewis made up the beverage crew.

MORE SERIOUS interim of the Mardan Estates event was when members of the association elected new officers. Jim Hull, president; Sue Van Der Bosch, secretary; Frank Bivins, treasurer.

Chalking up the most par holes and taking the least number of putts to sink a ball brought awards to women golf "pros" on Thursday, when 24 members of the Newcomer's League met for luncheon at the Sportsman Country Club's Sapphire Room. Awards went to Elaine Morgan, Thelma Davison, June Lam, Mervin Hawkins, Virginia Burgin and Doris Dombrow.

At impressive ceremonies held Sunday evening, members and friends of Long Grove Church watched their minister-elect, Rev. Bert Helm, installed as pastor of the congregation. Here to administer the covenant of installation was the Rev. Harold Dobstaff, assistant executive director of the N. E. Association of the Illinois Conference.

In his "charge" to the minister, the Rev. Donald Hinze, pastor of the Church of the Master, Des Plaines, described him as having "a healthy sense of creative tension."

Rev. Rudolph Schade, professor of Elmhurst College, delivered the "charge" to the congregation, reminding them this is an age when members of the laiety are no longer bystanders, but actively engaged in the life of the church. "Be faithful to your church and the gospel. Be courageous. Heal one another's wounds," he told his listeners, to most of whom he has come to be a familiar figure, because of often preaching here during the summer.

CONSISTORY Pres. Jack Schaum expressed appreciation to all for their participation in the service and looked ahead to a heartwarming and productive period under the pastorship of Rev. Helm. A choir number, congregational singing, a prayer by Charles Johnson and scripture reading by David McCartney completed the program.

Afterward a refreshment hour was held in the social room, with Mrs. Frank Hurley and Mrs. Robert Coffin as hostesses.

At the morning service that day the Rev. and Mrs. Helm were officially received into the membership, with Anton Berg, chairman of music and ministry, presiding.

Long Grove's Summer Migrant Program, nearing its close July 23, is bringing heartwarming satisfaction to those involved. Each afternoon the children, having been driven to Kildeer School by the Dave McCartneys, begin with reading classes, pause later for refreshments, then are taken to the Stewart Richmonds' pool for swimming. Once a week art is offered. All instruction is carried on by the McCartneys and Mrs. Douglas MacDonald. The final week will include trips to Chicago's Historical Museum, Lincoln Park zoo and Ravinia.

The latter part of the summer David McCartney will take a three-hour credit course in vocations at the University of Arkansas.

AL WILLIAMS' backyard rose es are at their peak and Jean is finding her work in a loop brokerage house very interesting. These are among the bits learned on a recent Saturday when the McCartneys hosted the Williams' for dinner. The meal was followed with a drive to the Richard Irelands', where, true to the saying that "the fishing is always good," members of the party pulled in their share of perch and catfish.

Putting a kettle of strawberry jam to cook, then dozing off, Bernice Taylor awakened on Wednesday of last week to find her kitchen in flames. Firemen were summoned; though flames were put out quickly there is extensive damage in the kitchen and much of the house is charred from the smoke.

Fifteen members finished the Red Cross First Aid Course June 26, having taken their last lesson and test at the fire station. Recently Norman Fisher, Edwin Rodewald, Dennis Spoerlein, Fred Behrens and John Cook attended a lesson fighting oil fires at Great Lakes Naval Station. Several crew members received added experience when taking part in a practice burndown July 3. Our firemen, along with Buffalo Grove and Countryside, took part in the demonstration at the Theodore Weidner farm on Arlington Heights Road.

THE NECESSITY of taking her college board exams at a Niles High School brought AFS student Nural Aydiner back to Long Grove and the Fred Frenches for a day before being off on her permanent journey home. She hopes to be accepted by Robert College in Turkey.

Fifteen of Mary Jo Korbelik's and Eileen Jungbluth's friends made it a bon voyage get-together at the Korbelik home on Tuesday of last week, preceding their departure for France. Following the pool fun there were records, ping pong and refreshments.

Activity in the Korbelik pool these days doesn't seem to ever subside. Members of the church choir combined a splash party with their last rehearsal of the summer, Esther serving cake and punch to the 16 guests.

On Aug. 13 Mrs. Doris Dombrow's daughter, Carla, will become the bride of Philip Blum of Oak Park in ceremonies performed at St. John Lutheran church, Forest Park. Carla's fiance, a math major, will teach at Lake Forest Academy, where the couple will live.

THE WILLIAM Salzmans' recent trip to Tucson to attend the 50th wedding anniversary of Bill's parents, the senior Ray E. Salzmans, formerly of Mount Prospect, was one during which the family "made" the social limelight of a Tucson paper, the Tucson Daily Citizen. The senior Salzmans' home in the Skyline Foothills Estates area, received four pages of pictures in its section on beautiful homes.

Bill, along with his brothers, Ray Jr. of Tucson, Bob of Mount Prospect and Joe of Ridgefield, Conn., and their families were on hand for the anniversary celebration dinner at Tucson's Cliff House. Also shared at the Salzman home was the birthday party in honor of the senior Mrs. Salzman and son, Bob. Careers among the Salzman brothers seem to show a difference of interests; Bill and Bob are both officers in the Milburn Brothers and Allied Asphalt Companies; Ray Jr. is an interior decorator and Joe, a clinical psychologist. No wonder their conversations cover a wide gamut!

The joyous reunion somewhat helped to make up to our Long Grove Salzmans for all the problems they encountered en route, such as stolen luggage, lost tickets and arriving at the airport too late to board the plane, because of a slow watch.

THE LESLIE Schaufflers are home after a several weeks' stay in Portland, Ore., with their son, David and family. They report the former Long Grovers are happily settled in a two-story house overlooking a lovely view. Dave is music director in a Portland private school and this summer is going to go on tour with a group of young people.

Vacation to the Lee Masseys meant a trip back home to Westchester, Pa., 40 miles outside of Philadelphia, where they visited his parents, the Howard Masseys, and her folks, the W. C. Fenstermachers, and met the future bride of Barbara's youngest brother, William.

Driving north 375 miles, the Fred Dahlbergs spent five days near Iron River at their resort cottage on James Lake. Since the berries aren't ready for picking, there was lots of time to fish.

Timing it advantageously, the Tony Bergs also headed for that area, taking a cabin at Beachwood, only a 10 minute drive away from the Dahlbergs. Steve pulled in a big bass, which deserved a second look. At night, with a gas lamp casting a rustic glow, the Dahlbergs and the Bergs filled in some time with bridge.

Home once again, making it a Saturday night for cards at the Bergs' were the Jim Korbeliks, Kenneth Hartmans and the Dahlbergs.

Our Newcomers are planning a picnic outing for husbands and wives to be held July 30 on Honey Hill, near Bangs Lake, Wauconda.

VACATIONERS AT the Walter Gosswillers' have been Ruth's sister and her husband, the Lloyd Ralphs and Mrs. Lydia Fry of Mineral Point, Wis. For the Ralphs, it was an opportunity to see their son, Gene of California, who stopped at the Gosswillers en route to New York on business.

Four former teachers gathered at the Gosswiller home recently for luncheon; one-time Kildeer instructors Mrs. Margaret Underbrink of Libertyville, Mrs. Harriet McGuire, also the latter's sister Mrs. Marjorie Jordan of Deerfield. A regular custom at their luncheons is to read a letter from a former member of their group, Mabel Schoenke of Las Vegas. In her most recent letter, Mrs. Schoenke says they'll not be heading this way this year. Still interested in coin collecting and antiques, the Schoenkes plan to travel through California, Texas and Colorado.

Happy birthday wishes go to Susie Byrne, July 14; Tom Turner, 15th; Pam French, 16th.

Suzie Massey's sixth birthday June 29 was reason for a swim party for eight friends.

Former residents of the area, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sander of Conroe, Tex., are planning an open house in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary. It is to be held Sunday, July 17, from 2 to 5 p.m. at St. Matthew Lutheran Church on Old McHenry Road, according to Mrs. William Koeppen of Mundelein.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Verdelle Didier of Mardan Estates on the death on July 7 of her mother, Mrs. Mathilda Wolf of Des Plaines. (WP

GROUNDBREAKING ceremonies for a twin drive-in theater, to be built on a 40-acre site at the southwest corner of Milwaukee Avenue and Hintz Road, were held recently. On hand were Richard Rosenfield (left) and Martin Rosenfield of the M & R Amusement Co. A spokesman for the firm said it's the first such twin, or two-screen drive-in to built in the northwest suburbs. The $1.2 million facility will accommodate 1,600 cars.

Summer Students To Stage Operetta

The Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Summer School Drama and Music Class will present the operetta "A. J. Jones" by Brace and Surace at 8 p.m. tomorrow, (Friday), at Jack London Junior High Gymnasium.

The setting for this story is an average school in a town somewhere in the western United States. To this school from a home "beyond the freeways" comes A. J. Jones, a boy who misses the country. He is lonesome, uncertain, and quarrelsome as he moves from one experience to another, and he repulses attempts at friendship by other boys in the school.

In the operetta A. J. Jones will be played by Bill Barger; Spike, the bully with a soft heart, by Peter Coan; Alfred, the brain, by John Wray; Monty, the clown, by Bob Rosenberg; Joey, the popular boy, by Mark Lane; Jennifer by Pat Shasteen; Annie by Debbie Oates; Marcella by April Ainlay.

OTHER MEMBERS of the cast are: Phillip Keesee, David Bjornson, Kelly McKay, Gail Hoeck, Debby Griese, Kathy Buerger, Jo Ellen Sedlander, Melanie Ford, Dawn Woods, Kimberly Hall, Kendra Lewis, Terry Fiedler, Shirley Blankenship, Lynn Allison, Karen August, Carey Nemecek, Hope McGlothlin, Diane Knowles, Kathy Summerville, Cindy Schloatman, and Rebecca Dietrich.

The performance is under the direction of Ann Taylor and Marjorie Beu. All are invited to attend and there will be no admission charge.

Before the operetta, the summer School bands will perform at an outdoor concert at 7 p.m. The Cadet Band of 35 students will play "Brownies March," "Evening Song," and "Red River Valley."

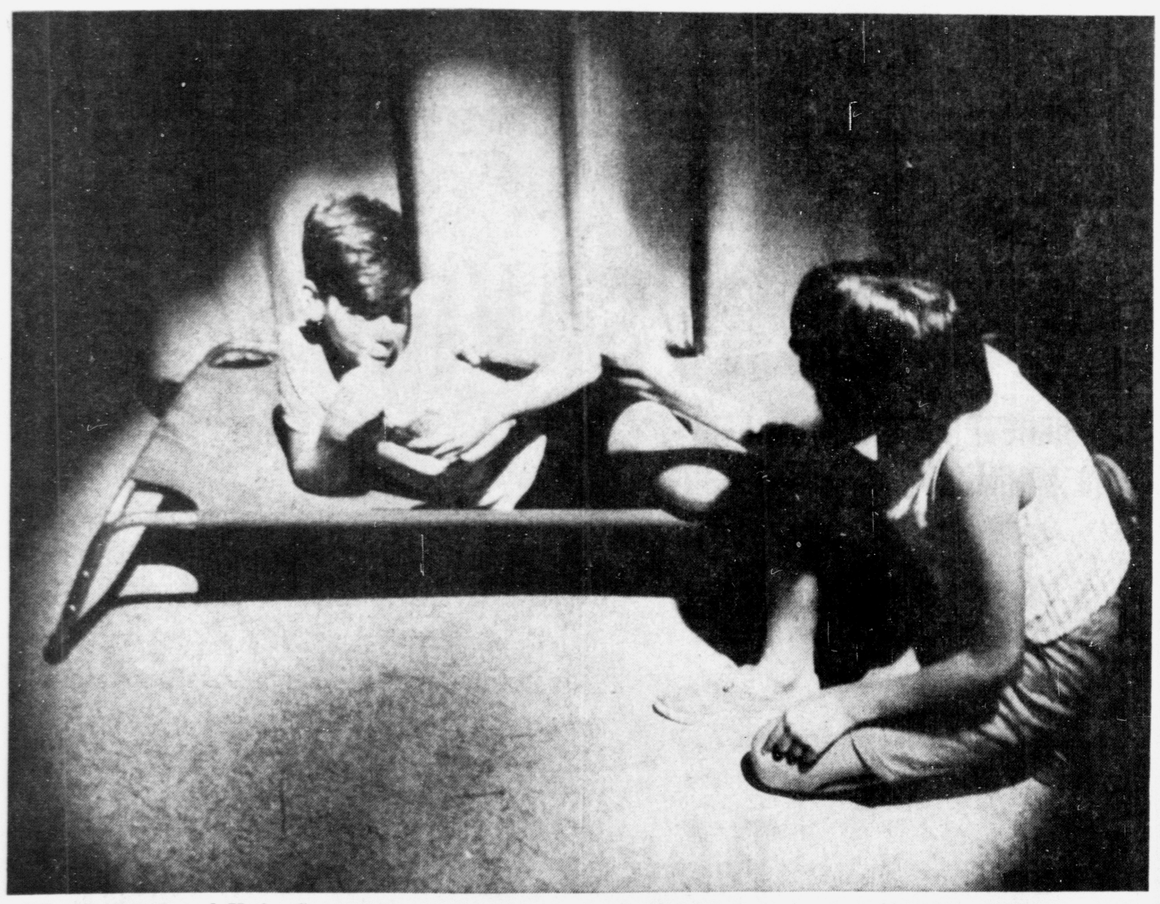
The Concert Band will play "Young America March," "Symphonette for Band," and "Belmont Overture." Both bands are under the direction of George Galvan.

A spokesman said guests at the "old fashioned" concert are encouraged to bring lawn chairs or blankets on which to sit. Folding chairs will be available, however. (W

Resident Sues Apartment Firm

A tenant in the Cameo Terrace North condominium apartments in Wheeling has filed suit in DuPage Circuit Court, Wheaton, asking $15,000 for injuries he says he received when he walked through a glass door in the lobby.

Gustave Stein claims he was severely cut as a result and that the Cameo Terrace North Corp. was negligent in not placing marking or stripping on the door. (W



BILL BARGER and Kathy Summerville practice for the play "A. J. Jones" which will be presented at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Friday) at Jack London Junior High School. Bill plays the role of A. J. in the play which takes place at "a school in a town in the western part of the United States." The summer bands will perform at 7 p.m., preceding the play.

'Fence Me In' Plea Denied by Trustees

Buffalo Grove Trustees ignored an impassioned plea by a housewife to "please fence her in," and followed the recommendations of its plan commission to deny her request fora four-foot picket fence along the ront lot lines of her yard.

Mrs. Frederick Klatt, 1 Red Oak, told te board that she requested the variation for "safety's sake." She said she had a large dog that needed fencing and that she had three small children that needed constant watching because of a nearby swimming pool.

"IF I ACCEPT the commission's plan and build the fence along the regular building setback lines, I wouldn't be able to see the gate all day," she said. "My property has an eight-foot drop from the sidewalk to the driveway."

Mrs. Klatt said that both of her neighbors said they had no objection to the fence.

Commented an understanding Trustee William Marsh: "The fence ordinance rubs me the wrong way, I admit it. We owned a large dog that we had to sell. It nearly broke my heart. I would dearly love to fence my entire property. But the ordinance must be followed."

Village Pres. William Farrington explained that the ordinance was originally set up to help protect the asthetics of the village. "It is much easier for us to prohibit the building of a fence than to have to maintain or remove a lot of unsightly, neglected fences."

"I realize that there are often hardships involved in enforcing ordinances. You can, if you like, erect the fence as the commission suggested along the building set-back lines. Or you may still repetition for another hearing."

Sampson Heads PR Unit

New officers for the Wheeling Public Relations Commission were elected at a meeting last Friday.

Larry Sampson is the new chairman. Other officers include Eugene Hicks, vice-chairman, Mrs. Lillian Stiller, secretary, and Mrs. Robert McEstes, treasurer.

Members expressed regret at the resignation of former chairman Frank Novocek. He is moving from the area.

The commission appointed Mrs. Delores Stephan and Mrs. Shirley Wilson to work on a project for Family Fair.

Village Reports $21,385 in Bank

Buffalo Grove has $21,385 in the bank, village trustees learned last week.

During May the village spent $10,202 and received $6,933. The general fund amounted to $14,600; road and bridge, $2,900; motor fuel, $2,311.52, and vehicle, $1,565.45.

Receipts during the month were from the following sources: real estate taxes, $2,128; sales tax, $936.82; building permits for 23 homes, $2,875; road and bridge tax, $321; vehicle tags, $320; dog tags, $39; sign permits, $27, fines for violation of village ordinances, $194; $15 for a variation hearing and $7.50 for a fence permit.

Bridge Repairs May Be Delayed

The hoped for "emergency" repairs slated on Raupp Bridge will probably not begin until next spring, Buffalo Grove trustees learned last week.

Village Engr. John Hooper reported that he had experienced difficulty in contacting the skokie Valley Co. concerning costs and bids.

"I CALLED the company every third day without luck. The best we can expect would be that work begin by late fall. But this is the tail end of the construction season and most firms are up to their ears in work."

Hooper suggested that the village consider waiting until spring in order to get prices. "I suggest waiting," Hooper added wryly, "but remember I'm the guy who predicted that the bridge would fall three years ago."

Plans call for repairing and widening the bridge and also work on Raupp Boulevard on both sides. (BG

Employes Don't Meet Rules for Group Insurance

Buffalo Grove village employes are so few in number they don't even have enough to qualify as a group.

At least that's the way insurance companies feel, Trustee William Marsh told the board.

MARSH SAID that he had been investigating the possibility of obtaining group coverage for the employes but had been told that there were not enough employes to qualify.

However, Marsh indicated that there was a possibility of obtaining individual hospital insurance for employes on an individual basis.

The board agreed to discuss the insurace question at its next meeting July 28.

Board Cracks Down on Cars

Abandoned cars in Buffalo Grove, Beware! The village board last week approved an ordinance limiting the life of an abandoned car to 72 hours and set a maximum fine of $500 a day for cars allowed standing longer than three days.

The ordinance presented to the board by Trustee William Marsh, is an attempt to eliminate abandoned, wrecked, junked, discarded or partially disabled vehicles from both private property and village streets.

MARSH SAID that the rule of thumb is if a vehicle had a "reasonable appearance of being abandoned. This certainly isn't meant to include those that are legitimately under repair."

Also excluded are vehicles within closed buildings or stored on legal car lots.

The ordinance authorizes the village police department to remove lost, stolen or unclaimed autos within the village. Daily fines ranging from $5 to $500 may be levied. (BG

Civil Defense Group to Meet

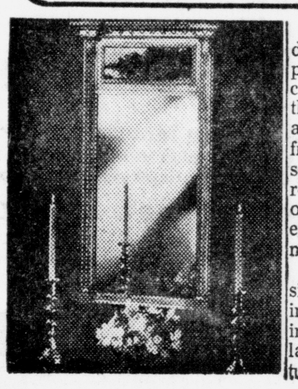
IT'S AN IDEA — HOME DECORATIONS



Classic architecture inspired design of the Sheraton picture panel mirror, circa 1800. Typical of the Neo-Classic style are the straight cornice trimmed with a row of balls and the deep frieze framing a softly colored landscape picture. This is a museum reproduction of an authentic gilt original, created to bring the elegance of classic design to the modern home.

Measuring 23 x 39 inches, the simulated wood frame is finished in patina gold. Mirror is of genuine plate glass. To be available in late summer or early fall in furniture, department and gift stores.

Surrenders To Warrant

George Polales, 42, of 1534 Park Ave., River Forest, surrendered to Mount Prospect police last week after learning a warrant had been issued charging him with battery.

Complainant was Mrs. Mary Ellen Polales, 42, of 10 E. Golf Road, Mount Prospect. The couple is divorced, according to police.

Polales was released on bond and directed to appear in court July 21. (M

THE STATUE OF LIBERTY IS UNVEILED AND BECOMES A STIRRING SYMBOL OF AMERICA

To an American serviceman returning from a war; to an immigrant coming here for the first time; to anyone who loves America—the Statue of Liberty stands as one of the most inspiring sights on earth.

Yet, surprisingly few people can name the man who designed it. His name: Frederic Auguste Bartholdi. The Statue was given to the U.S. by the people of France who admired American government.

It was unveiled, and began its long vigil here, Oct. 28, 1886.

At the Statue is Emma Lazarus's immortal poem:

"Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,
Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed, to me:
I lift my lamp beside the golden door."

Now It's Fun to Learn

School Not Drudgery For Summer Students

by MARTHA MOSER
Staff Writer

At one time Mount Prospect children must have been among those who sang "school's out, school's out," as they happily went home for summer vacation.

Now children are not only back to "School Days," they are voluntarily back in summer school.

Mount Prospect School District 57 is conducting a grade school summer school program that is geared as much to gifted pupils as those needing extra help. New concepts in education are being used to benefit both groups.

School is not the drudgery parents may remember it as being. An emphasis is made today on the fun and challenge of learning.

In the Mount Prospect summer school, there are first and second grade children who know the meaning of "solvent," "compound" and "chemical reaction."

THERE ARE sixth and seventh grade children doing chemistry experiments and learning typing.

One upper grade mathematics class went through pre-algebra in a week and is now studying high school algebra.

A pre-kindergarten class was adapted to school within three days and is learning to count.

These classes are part of the "enrichment" program which parents surveyed in the school district this spring indicated they favored.

LAST YEAR Mount Prospect had no grade school summer school because of low enrollment, John Gatto, summer school director, said. This summer there are over 500 pupils enrolled in courses half days in Lincoln and Fairview schools.

"I tried to develop a new concept for summer school by offering courses the school district was interested in," Gatto said.

These were enrichment courses or something "different" from what pupils had had in school or will have this fall.

Purpose of the new approach is to stimulate and encourage children to develop their own potentialities.

CHILDREN ARE not put in classes by age but by ability as shown in results of achievement tests. Those in enrichment courses had to be at or above level in regular school and have their teacher's permission.

Children are not graded on their work. They will not receive any credit. The main benefit will be possible increased abilities during regular school.

Classes are departmentalized so children move from room to room. Attendance is not strictly enforced.

"We have three things going here that will be of value to other school districts if they develop properly," Gatto said.

"These are new techniques in remedial reading, the ungraded classes and the pre-kindergarten class."

ONE REMEDIAL reading course developed for the primary level by Encyclopaedia Britannica Press associates vowel sounds with colors.

The remedial class for intermediates uses programmed reading.

"If these are determined successful programs, we may use them in the fall," Gatto said.

The interest in the pre-kindergarten class is mainly as a possible means of recognizing gifted children early.

"Most schools are going into programs for the gifted so this could be an important means of identifying them," Gatto said.

"OUR SCHOOL psychologist developed a test he gave the pre-kindergartners at the beginning of the session," he said. "He will re-test them at the end of the session."

Purpose of the pre-kindergarten class was threefold: to increase the socialization process, to provide vital early identification of the gifted and to develop a control group to to compare with kindergartners without this experience.

"Pre-kindergarten classes are not a new concept but it is new in the northwest area," Gatto said. "Ours is distinguished from most other pre-kindergarten programs because it is not under the title Head Start and adapted for the culturally disadvantaged.

"Our 20 pupils are not disadvantaged so our purposes are different," he said.

The summer school involves 23 teachers and a librarian from throughout the school district. Tuition of $25 per pupil makes the summer school self supporting without state and federal aid, Gatto said. The four week session ends July 20.

Enrichment courses offered are typing, arts and crafts, two levels of mathematics, two levels of science, reading, creative writing, creative art, physical science and physical skills.

REMEDIAL COURSES are different levels of reading, language skills and mathematics skills. Speech correction was also offered.

Enrollment in remedial courses was kept from 11 to 19 in a class. Enrollment in enrichment courses varies from 20 to 32 in classes.

Although twice as many enrichment courses as remedial courses were offered, enrollment in each kind came out about equal, Gatto said. (M

Girl Hurt In Crash

Darlene Socha, 16, of 1533 N. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, suffered severe head injuries in a two-car collision at Rand and Kensington Roads last Thursday.

Miss Socha, a passenger in a car driven by Thomas Kuchman, 19, also of 1533 N. Arlington Heights Road, was taken to Holy Family Hospital by Mount Prospect firemen.

Kuchman told police he was southbound on Rand Road and had the green light as he started into the intersection at Kensington. A northbound car driven by Charles Madelung, 51, of 715 Lake Shore Drive, Barrington, made a left turn in front of the Kuchman vehicle, according to police. M

Vandals Topple Wall a 4th Time

For the fourth time in as many months, vandals have knocked down a brick wall being constructed at Robert Frost School on Cypress Drive in Mount Prospect.

Last week Walter Jurek, school custodian, told police that about 24 square feet of the recently completed wall had been knocked down, causing an estimated $90 damage. Three boys were reportedly seen tearing down the wall. Police are investigating. (M

Drainage Problem Studied At Park

The Mount Prospect Park District plans to request tapping onto a Des Plaines sewer line for drainage at High Ridge Knoll Park.

The decision was made Monday after a citizens group from the area complained about water standing in the park. High Ridge Knoll Park is in the village of Des Plaines but in the Mount Prospect park district.

The board of commissioners decided to ask Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel if they could drain into village sewers. The commissioners are considering laying drainage tile.

Daniel McIlwee of Des Plaines, speaking for the citizens group, said there are frogs and mosquitoes in the area due to the water pools.

PARK SUPT. Tom Cooper was asked to explain the park situation. Cooper said everything was taken out of the park when the district acquired it. The park district has put in fill and leveled it, but the fill settles and leaves water pockets, he said.

He said even it they added more fill, they are not allowed to fill it high enough to drain water into back yards.

Commissioner Robert T. Jackson, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, said the logical solution would be to drain tile connected to a sewer.

McIlwee also asked what citizens had to look forward to in the way of plans for the park.

"WE FEEL we've been ignored," McIlwee said. "You put in a bicycle path recently, but I feel it is unsafe. It is three inches off the ground and children could go off the shoulder of it and spill."

He also said motorcycles are being driven on the path.

Jackson said the commissioners had appropriated money for trees, put in a walk, hauled fill to baseball diamonds and put up fencing at the request of other residents from that area.

Cooper said they had spent $15,000 for improvements in the park and planted 200 trees this year. He said the bicycle path would be filled in at the sides. He said he had not been aware motorcycles were using the walk. (M

High Winds Buffet The Prospect Area

Mount Prospect police were beseiged with calls early Monday morning when a severe wind and rain storm struck the area.

The Illinois State Police had alerted Mount Prospect at 1 a.m. Monday, of severe weather and possible tornadoes. The all-clear was sent out over police radio at 3 a.m.

During the height of the storm there were numerous reports of lines down and tree limbs blocking roads.

High winds were believed responsible for a large window being blown out at the Weiboldt's auto center in Randhurst Center. A large outdoor umbrella covering a six-foot table at 712 S. Na-Wa-Ta Ave. was either stolen or another victim of the wind, police reported.

A report that a barn was on fire at Busse and Algonquin roads during the height of the storm, proved to be sparks and flame from a power line and transformer arcing. (M

Arlington High Remodeling Plans Set Aside By Board

The high school District 214 board of education Tuesday night decided to delay action on remodeling plans for Arlington High until a complete picture of the needed improvements is known.

Board President H. W. Armstrong explained the board's decision, saying, "It's just that we'd like to know we're doing the right thing on a job we know has to be done."

In order to avoid what board members termed "ticky-tacky" improvements, the board requested that the engineers draw up various alternatives. Board members agreed that even if the improvements will have to be made on a step-by-step basis an over-all plan is needed.

LITTLE HAS been done to improve Arlington facilities and the administration expressed some concern over having the school, the oldest in the district, become the "forgotten" school.

The board's decision followed a presentation by architect K. E. Unteed of Berger-Kelley-Unteed and Associates.

Unteed's recommendation for the school included:

The addition of two physical education stations with storage rooms and mechanical equipment space.

The air conditioning of the existing band room and adjacent classrooms.

The remodeling of the girls locker room facilities and existing rest rooms east of the girls' gymnasium.

THE REMODELING of the corridor south of the girls' locker room.

The improvements suggested by Unteed would cost $397,500. An additional $220,000 would be needed to bring the entire building within the State Safety Code.

Speaking of the Unteed suggestion, Supt. Harold L. Slichenmyer said, "At the present time this would be acceptable, but not really adequate."

He said that the school actually needed four additional physical education stations.

John Rowe, assistant principal at Arlington High, cited the need for 13 to 15 new classrooms.

When the board began considering the over-all problem of remodeling the school, Unteed pointed out that the present physical education stations are in the wrong location. However, he said that a major improvement of the building would be needed to relocate them and make the facilities "ideal."

Superintendent - elect Dr. Edward Gilbert suggested that should such a major improvement be decided upon, it might be feasible to discontinue classes at Arlington for the first year after the sixth high school is completed. Arlington students could then use the new facilities while their school was being redone.

Gilbert also pointed out that construction of the seventh high school might cut down the enrollment of Arlington High somewhat.

The question of enrollment was one of the primary considerations in the discussion of remodeling the old school.

Slichenmyer recommended that enrollment be limited to 2,000 students.

"When you get the next school," he said, "you should whittle down the boundaries. And that takes guts! But that's what should be done.

Projected enrollment figures for next year put 2,388 students at the school. The following year an additional 300 students are expected.

One of the remodeling alternatives discussed by the board would enable the school to accommodate 2,500 students. (A

Nugent's Fraternity Brother

Arlington Youth to Usher At Luci Johnson's Wedding

Ushering at a fraternity brother's wedding Aug. 6 in Washington, D. C., will be Philip Pailey, 700 S. Belmont, Arlington Heights. His fraternity brother is Patrick Nugent, whose bride will be Luci Baines Johnson.

Pailey and Nugent met long before either suspected that Nugent would one day have the first family for in-laws. They became friends their freshman year at Marquette University, Milwaukee, where they lived in the same dormitory.

During their sophomore year they were initiated into Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity where their friendship deepened. Pailey took summer school courses in 1964 after which he and Nugent toured the West by car for three weeks.

After the trip they settled down to their senior year as roommates in the fraternity house.

PAILEY FIRST met Miss Johnson when she attended Marquette graduation exercises in June 1965 disguised in a much-publicized blond wig. He has renewed the acquaintance on two occasions since then, when Miss Johnson made trips to the midwest.

Pailey is leaving July 28 to spend some time with Nugent in Arlington, Va., where Nugent rents an apartment. The official celebrations begin Aug. 1 when Ambassador - at - Large Averill Harriman throws a party for the young couple and their guests.

Pailey admits to being mildly bewildered by the official tone of it all, but looks forward eagerly to the wedding and meeting and seeing many of the people most of us see only in the news.

After graduating from Arlington High School in 1961 Pailey majored in biology at Marquette. He will do graduate work at Marquette this fall in medicine or chemistry. (A

PHILIP PAILEY

Q. I am marrying a widower. Would it be in good taste for me to wear a white wedding gown and veil?

A. Yes, indeed. The status of the bridegroom has nothing to do with this matter. The bride who has never before been married is perfectly entitled to wear the veil.

Girl, 17, Hurt In Cycle Crash

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From Allen Fretz, Salford, Pa.: I remember the days of canal boating on the Delaware River. Small bridges crossed the canal every few miles. A buddy and I would gather small stones and stand on the bridges, dropping the pebbles as boats passed beneath us. Boy, did it make them mad! Sometimes they would pull a boat to shore and one of the men would jump out and start after us. By the time they reached shore, we were half a mile up the mountain. Their language, I might add, was very bad.

There were numerous red covered bridges along the line and they were a blessing when sudden rains came up. I once knew a fellow who liked fishing so much he built himself a chair with long legs so he could sit in the bridges when it rained and cast his line out one of the windows.

I learned to dislike the covered bridges. One night I was coming home about 2 A.M. and had to walk through one of the bridges. A black bear came up and put his wet nose against my hand. I knew it was a bear because of their ugly smell. It was the same distance to either end of the bridge, so I walked carefully so as to not excite the bear. When I reached the end of the bridge, I saw him, about the size of a Saint Bernard. I really picked up my feet and put them down the rest of the way home.

An Alert Flyer Triggers Rescue

An Arlington Heights man last week brought rescue boats to the aid of three people whose inboard motor boat had been stranded in Lake Michigan for four hours.

James R. Kendell, 1142 N. Mitchell Ave., said that he noticed a faint, flashing red light below him as he flew across the lake from Ohio.

He said he didn't think much about it, but remembering the incident of the three girls missing at the Indiana Dunes, reported the light to the Joliet Flight Service. The flight service alerted the Coast Guard which towed the boat in.

THE BOAT WAS stranded 20 miles east of Meigs Field.

Kendell is a member of the Proviso Township Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

He and his wife, Pat, and daughter, Llora, 6, moved to Arlington Heights recently. (A

Three Cars In Collision

A three-car collision on Arlington Heights Road at Grove Street in Arlington Heights Monday evening resulted in one injury and one arrest.

Peggy McGurie, 17, of 1317 Phoenix, Des Plaines, was treated and released at Northwest Community Hospital for back and neck injuries.

Police said a car driven by Richard S. Veres, 35, of 615 N. Gibbons Ave., Arlington Heights, struck the rear of the McGurie auto and pushed it into a third car, driven by Harold B. Stoffel, 133 S. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights. All were northbound on Arlington Heights Road.

Police ticketed Veres for failure to reduce speed. (A

Pupil Innoculation Proof Is Required

The Arlington Heights Board of Health last Wednesday reaffirmed its recommendation that proof of inoculation should be required of all children entering kindergarten or first, fifth and ninth grades.

It did so at the request of Mrs. Thelma Carroll, District 25 head nurse.

MRS. CARROLL, in a letter, commented that there was apparently "considerable misunderstanding" regarding school immunization policies. She asked if the board thought the school system should drop its low-cost inoculation program and asserted that there was no way the school could enforce inoculation requirements suggested by the board of health.

The recommendation is simple, Dr. Frank Schroeder of the health board said.

"The child should have this (the inoculation) before — not after — he's exposed," he stated.

Since school inoculations are not usually given before November, at the earliest, the child without them has plenty of time to become exposed, he pointed out.

Questioning Mrs. Carroll's comments regarding enforcement, village health nurse Maria Coburn cited the Illinois School Code section that states examinations "as prescribed by the Department of Public Health" be required at the first, fifth and ninth grade levels.

The department of public health, Mrs. Coburn said, has ruled that such an examination shall include dental inspections and inoculations.

HOWEVER, HEALTH board members did not recommend that District 25's low-cost inoculation program be stopped, although they felt it was preferable to have shots given by the child's own doctor.

"If a child cannot afford it, we owe it to him to provide those safe, approved inoculations," Dr. John Detweiler, chairman of the health board said.

Board members also noted that if a child cannot afford preentrance physicals, the law requires township welfare supervisors to provide them.

22 Carriers Tally 104 Subscriptions

Reports received from 22 boy and girl carriers at the end of the first week of Paddock Publications' carrier-subscription drive show 104 subscriptions sold, with one boy responsible for 12 sales and another for 10.

These youngsters are among more than 50 who are participating in the three-week campaign to sell three-, six- or 12-month subscriptions to northwest suburban residents not currently receiving a Paddock paper.

FOR THEIR efforts they receive their choice of cash or points toward a variety of prizes being offered by the publishing firm.

The five boys and girls who obtain the greatest number of subscriptions by the end of the contest will also win a Lake Michigan yacht cruise and be eligible for a drawing for a television set.

Carriers do not collect money from new subscribers. They merely fill out an acceptance form for the subscription, and billing is handled by Paddock Publications.

THE ACCEPTED INFLUENCE IN THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

Says Industrial Land Should Not Be 'What Is Left Over'

Communities should have a reasonable degree of flexibility in their zoning so that areas that may be desirable to industry can be rezoned for that purpose without a battle, states John R. Weaver, sales manager of the Du Pont Company's real estate division in the current issue of the Society of Industrial Realtors' Newsletter.

"Planners, in setting aside industrial tracts, should take into account the needs of industry and not willy-nilly assign an industrial classification arbitrarily to a tract of land, desirable or not," he asserts. "A well-laid out and regulated industrial park can be just as attractive, if not more so, than a residential subdivision and certainly produces more benefits to the community in the way of tax revenue, employment and growth."

THE SOCIETY, a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, is composed of more than 1,000 members who specialize in marketing industrial properties and meeting the real estate needs of industry.

In discussing what communities can do in land development practices to make the area more attractive to industry, Weaver wrote:

"ONE OF THE most obvious, yet frequently overlooked, factors in this respect is the availability of land within a community for industrial development. Unfortunately, there is a general tendency throughout the country for community planners and zoners to lay out the community and, after looking out for the needs of residential, commercial and civic nature, to designate whatever is left over—usually the swamp land and other least desirable portions of the community—for industrial use. Certainly this is a mistake on the face of it, and when a community offers land for industrial development, industry has a right to expect "useable" land.

"Most zoning ordinances are organized to the effect that the residential development is the most desirable, commercial development is next on the list, and finally and least desirable—from their point of view—is the industrial area. Not infrequently, so-called higher uses—residential, commercial—are permitted in so-called least desirable zoned areas (industrial) with a result that industrial land may be used for residential purposes but (horror of horrors) industry may never go into residential areas. Result of this thinking is that the more desirable lands set aside for industry are frequently developed for residential or commercial purposes, and when the industrial site selector comes to town only the marginal properties seemingly are available for his use. This will hardly entice him to locate in the area." (RE

Decade's Leader in New Homes: Northwest Suburbs

"A 10 year review of suburban housing construction shows the northwest suburbs leaders in number of homes built while during this time the west suburbs were leaders in apartments," said Harold P. Halleen, president of Bell Savings and Loan Association. Older suburban towns and new communities which literally mushroomed in the more desirable areas around the city were included among the leaders in home and apartment construction, Halleen noted.

Figures taken from the monthly "Bell Survey of New Buildings" show that during the past decade northwest suburbs had a total of 50,558 home permits—almost a full third of total suburban home construction studied. This was nearly as many homes as the west suburbs (30,918) and north suburbs (27,270) combined.

NOT FAR BEHIND in home construction were the south suburbs with 44,692 homes while Indiana towns in the Bell Survey reported 16,825 homes for the 10 years.

"Yearly home construction figures by suburban areas do not disclose any contradicting trends," noted Halleen. Northwest suburbs were leaders in number of homes in eight out of the past 10 years. South suburban towns were leaders only one year, 1959, although their figures have closely trailed the northwest especially in 1965.

"THE WEST suburbs led the way in apartment building during the past decade with a total of 23,144 apartment units reported. Not far behind were the northwest suburbs with 20,198 apartment units," Halleen said. Other suburban areas reported substantially fewer apartments. For example, the south suburbs had a total of 14,876 units, north had 13,377 and Indiana towns only 2,795 apartment units.

"Yearly apartment data reveals that while apartment volume has risen in all suburban areas during the past decade, apartments are growing at a more rapid pace in the northwest," said Halleen. During each of the past three years, northwest suburbs had more apartments than any other suburban area and by an increasingly greater margin over the west suburbs.

Bentz Completes Dealers' Course

Robert Bentz, who operates the Standard Oil station at Northwest Highway and Race in Arlington Heights, recently received a diploma certifying his satisfactory completion of a three-week dealer training course.

At the training center in La Grange, Bentz was schooled in all phases of service station operation, including maintenance of a clean, attractive station; product knowledge; salesmanship; money, manpower and material management. To enable him to provide his customers with friendly, efficient service, actual driveway experience was also included in the course.

Bentz and his wife, Dolores, and three children live at 1512 W. Thomas in Arlington Heights. (BB

The Law Serves You

A Public Service of the ILLINOIS STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

Do you want your husband or wife to become the sole owner, upon your death, of any real estate you own together?

If so, then be sure the deed to the property—such as your house and lot—states that you and your spouse hold it in "joint tenancy."

Under Illinois law, the death of one tenant causes all rights to property held in "joint tenancy" to pass the surviving tenant. He or she becomes the sole owner with all rights to possess or dispose of the property. Children or creditors of the deceased have no claim upon it.

ON THE other hand, if the deed does not expressly state that the real estate is held in "joint tenancy," the owners are then considered to be "tenants in common." Like joint tenants, tenants in common own the property together, but each tenant owns his interest absolutely and can control what happens to it.

Death of a "tenant in common" causes his interest in the property to pass, not to a surviving owner, but to the heirs of the deceased owner according to his or her will. If there is no will, the interest passes to the heirs as stipulated by Illinois law.

Thus, if you should predecease your spouse, he or she might get only one half of the house and lot you own in "tenancy in common"—the half that is already his or hers.

This doesn't mean that it is always wise for a husband and wife to hold their real estate in joint tenancy. Circumstances, such as tax consequences, of holding property in joint tenancy may indicate that a tenancy in common is more advisable. Therefore, it would be wise to obtain legal counsel concerning the property you hold or plan to purchase together. (RE

Appaisers Oppose Licensing Proposal

Unanimous opposition to current proposals for government licensing or certification now estate appraisers was registered in a joint statement by representatives of the five principal United States and Canadian organizations associated with the appraisal profession.

The "less-than-professional" standards in draft legislation for licensing or certification now being proposed in several quarters would give unjustified or misleading implications of state sanction or state approval to the work of many appraisers who lack genuine professional qualifications, the joint statement declared.

The organizations represented at a meeting in Chicago at which the statement was drafted were: the American Society of Appraisers, which acted as host for this informal conference of national appraisal organization officers and administrators; the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers of the National Association of Real Estate Boards; the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers; the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, and the Appraisal Institute of Canada.

Conscientious enforcement of their own organization's codes of ethics and standards of professional conduct already provide the public greater assurance of competent and ethical real estate appraisal service from their accredited members than any presently proposed licensing or certification laws would provide, according to the participants in this conference.

EACH ORGANIZATION has formally registered its own opposition to licensing and certification proposals on previous occasions. In reaffirming their joint disapproval of such proposals at their Chicago meeting, however, those present agreed that their general position was probably expressed best in the following statement by conference participant Alexander P. Grice, III, of Norfolk, Virginia, 1963 president of ASA and also an M.A.I. (Member of the Appraisal Institute):

"Unless the professional requirements for a licensed or certified appraiser are as high or higher than those now required by the various recognized appraisal societies, the profession will have received a severe setback in its efforts to see that only fully qualified appraisers are given the responsibility for properly representing the interest of the general public. It is my firm belief that it would be exceedingly difficult for every state or for any state to establish a regulating or governing Commission that could adequately supervise the conduct and professional standards of certified or licensed appraisers. Currently such controls are being rigidly enforced and uniformly handled through the national offices of our various societies.

"IF LICENSING or certification of real estate appraisers is adopted it will be a means of rubber stamping an 'implied' approval on persons who may not be professionally or ethically qualified to render such specialized services. The licensing of professionally unqualified individuals who are not subject to the supervision of a recognized society would certainly lead to a lowering of the standards of the profession and could work an unnecessary hardship to the countless citizens who rely on the ability and ethics of the professional appraisers." Firm Shows Doubling of Loan Value

Baird & Warner's mortgage loan volume for the first six months in 1966 more than doubled over the same period last year, according to figures released by Laurence H. Cleland, senior vice-president and manager of the 111 - year - old real estate company's mortgage loan department.

In addition to a continuing good business in loans involving apartment building construction, significant increases were noted in mortgages made on shopping centers, office buildings and medical centers, all of which doubled.

LOANS MADE on commercial properties reflected a 91.74 per cent growth, while the volume in industrial projects was up 72.44 per cent.

In addition, FHA 220 financing and sale lease back transactions also were arranged by Baird & Warner's staff of mortgage loan negotiators, who are headquartered at 10 S. LaSalle St. in Chicago, in Milwaukee's Marine Plaza, and at 607 N. 8th Street in Sheboygan, Wis.

"While some lenders are taking fewer submissions currently, Baird & Warner is in a favored position, since it represents many large institutional financing sources," Cleland said. (RE

Associated Spring All Set to Open

Operations at the new Elk Grove Village plant and sales office of Associated Spring Corp. will begin by the end of this week with William F. Weiss as plant manager, according to an announcement by Lester F. Johns, Midwest regional general manager.

Located at 850 Nicholas Boulevard in Centex Industrial Park, adjacent to O'Hare International Airport, the 10,000-square-foot facility will provide improved service for a wide variety of flat springs and wire forms for Chicago-area industry.

THE ASSOCIATED Spring sales office for the Chicago area also will be located in the new Elk Grove Village plant. Troy L. Sorensen, Midwest regional sales manager for Associated Spring, has announced that Donald J. Rossi will head this office.

"As sales manager for the entire Chicago-Milwaukee territory, Mr. Rossi is responsible for all sales to customers in this territory, regardless of which plant makes the parts that are ordered," Sorensen said. "This is in keeping with our continuing efforts to improve our service to customers."

Associated Spring Corp. with general offices in Bristol, Conn., is the world's leading producer of precision mechanical springs and other custom metal parts. It is also an important supplier to the automotive and marine trades and to industry and heavy equipment contractors.

Q. We are sending wedding invitations to people who live in distant cities and who we know will not be able to attend the wedding. Should these recipients of invitations reply?

A. Courtesy demands that they send letters saying they are sorry they cannot attend. Otherwise one might think the invitations were not received — or else that the recipients just do not care.

Copley Honored

One of the nation's leading newspaper publishers, and the organization he heads, have been honored by Flick Reedy Corp. of Bensenville for continuing efforts to foster freedom for the individual.

James S. Copley, chairman of the corporation, and The Copley Press, Inc., with headquarters in LaJolla, Calif., have received the Flick-Reedy Americanism Award.

Copley accepted the awards at a luncheon in his honor hosted by President and Mrs. Frank Flick in the firm's corporate headquarters in Bensenville.

Publishers of Copley newspapers in Aurora, Elgin, Joliet and Springfield, Ill., were in attendance, along with Flick-Reedy executives and other dignitaries, including Rear Adm. Howard A. Yeager, commandant Ninth Naval District, who received the award in 1965.

IN PRESENTING the award to Copley, Flick observed: "To James Copley "patriotism" is a word to be revered. He is a staunch advocate of a national policy which continues to stress freedom for the individual. His personal efforts and those of The Copley Press have done much to champion the cause of true Americanism, and stand as an example to others in the journalism field."

In accepting the awards, Copley credited the publishers of his 16 daily newspapers in California and Illinois, and their staffs.

SELF ANALYSIS QUIZ

Do You Frighten Men Away?

For Women Only:

by Jane Sherrod Singer

It is normal for men and women to be attracted to each other and normal for people to want a happy marriage and a family. Some women attract men like magnets while others, despite their beauty or good grooming, send all the males scurrying away. Here are some questions to determine whether or not you are a female ogre as far as men are concerned.

	YES	NO
1. Do you insist on opening your own doors, getting into your coat without help, carrying heavy packages, etc. when your escort is around?	( )	( )
2. As a child, did you side with your mother against your father and/or the other males in the family?	( )	( )
3. Do you subtly hint to your escort that you are ready for marriage?	( )	( )
4. Are you prone to see more faults in men than good points?	( )	( )
5. Do you lean on men, asking their help and advice on everything from your clothes to politics?	( )	( )
6. Is your conversation spiced with juicy telltale tidbits about the private lives of others?	( )	( )
7. Do you usually organize your dates by telling your escort what to wear, where you wish to go and how to behave?	( )	( )
8. Do you think that over affection, such as kissing, caressing, holding hands, etc., is the way to a man's heart?	( )	( )
9. Do you often provide the money, tickets and/or transportation for your dates?	( )	( )
10. If your escort seems tired, worried or in a dark mood, do you show your disgust for his weakness?	( )	( )

ANSWERS IN A NUTSHELL:

If you said yes to:

1. You're too independent for most men. The age of chivalry is not dead!
2. With this conditioning, chances are you really don't trust men. They sense this, even if you try to cover it up.
3. Nothing puts a man more on guard than to feel he is being pursued. The nature of the beast makes him want to be the hunter, not the hunted. Control yourself.
4. Put this shoe on your foot. Don't you want your faults to be understood and your virtues emphasized?
5. The climbing vine, and worse the parasite, break down strong trees and ruin mighty buildings. Men, being a thinking animal, will turn and run — if he is smart.
6. A gossip is untrustworthy, malicious and such a personality trait hints of an unwholesome mental character. As self-protection, men learn to shy away from women who talk unkindly about others.
7. No real man wants a bossy female!
8. The sexy approach will get you somewhere, but not for long. Many men find such attention embarrassing and your behavior raises questions in their minds about your basic moral principles.
9. A woman can buy attention for a time, but never true love. "All the world loves a lover" but no one respects a gigolo.
10. Your are insensitive to feelings. Everyone has moods, problems and disappointments. If you can't help or sympathize, get out before he does.

Adults-Only Community in McHenry: Whispering Oaks

Whispering Oaks, McHenry's planned unit community which will offer a totally new approach to adult living, is being shown this weekend.

The 600-acre rolling and wooded property is being developed by Ladd Enterprises, Inc. Homesites, streets and all other features have been planned to save as many as possible of the majestic oak trees and other foliage which add to the natural beauty of the property.

The entrance is off Illinois 120 west of Crystal Lake Road.

Whispering Oaks will be one of the most unusual communities in the entire Midwest. It is designed exclusively for adults who do not have young children. While there will be no official age limit, it is expected that nearly all homes will be occupied by couples over 45 years of age.

The basic concept, said Roger W. Ladd, president of the building firm, is that there are many people in and near McHenry County who want an easily maintained, individually built home in a community populated by others in their approximate age group. Social and recreational activities in the community will center around adults rather than young children or teenagers, the firm said.

Homes on display in Whispering Oaks are priced from about $15,000 to $20,000, including site. All homes are individually built, and buyers have a choice of many optional features and alternate plans.

According to Roger Ladd, the plan for Whispering Oaks required more than four years of research on all aspects of adult living. Ladd Enterprises retained a consulting firm to study the preferences of persons over 45 both as to housing features and the organization of the community itself.

"First of all, most adults expressed a strong preference for active, independent living," said Roger Ladd. "They welcome community recreation facilities which they can use as they wish, but they definitely do not want pressure to participate in organized activities.

"Our planning reflects this desire. Whispering Oaks should appeal especially to couples nearing retirement age and those with plenty of leisure time. Hunting, fishing on the Illinois Chain of Lakes and other forms of outdoor recreation are easily available."

The community plan features clusters of homes adjacent to common greens, parks, and recreation areas. Over one third of the 600 acres in Whispering Oaks will be used for parks and an 18-hole golf course. Lot sizes vary from 66 by 120 feet to ½ acre.

"Reserving so much space for community use naturally enhances the value of individual homesites." Ladd pointed out. "The choice ranges from fairly small, easily maintained sites to estate-size lots. Nearly all lots are irregularly shaped, so that an interesting community layout is achieved."

To insure quiet living areas, the street plan calls for loops, cul-de-sacs and curved lanes which feed into collector routes. There will be no four-way intersections or busy thoroughfares in the residential section.

Uniquely, there is a provision for walking, that almost forgotten means of transportation in many communities. Greenways which are laid out independent of the street plan will enable residents to walk to nature areas, other residential sites, and the nearby convenience shopping center. This center is planned for the periphery of the site and is isolated from residential property.

As a result of clustering homes and providing common areas, there has been little need to remove the tall, stately oak trees which are native to the site. Once called Boone Valley, the property slopes westward to the meandering Boone Creek. The valley floor is some 70 feet below the highest point.

A 10-acre lake, which will be created by damming the creek at one point, will be clear and cold. It will contain trout and will be stocked with panfish. (RE

Normandy in Berkley Square Offers Special Privacy Area

If you've considered custom-building a home for any of the following reasons: private quarters for golden age parents, separate accommodations for live-in help, a home office or studio, then the Normandy in Arlington Heights' Berkley Square may be tailor-made for you.

The L-shape mid-level layout of this four bedroom home provides almost a complete living suite on the lower level, with "private" staircase from the entry foyer. This lower floor has a big bedroom with wall-to-wall closet, full bath with marble vanity and pastel plumbing, extra partitioned bonus room plus laundry-utility-storage area, and a large paneled family room. This unique arrangement insures quiet and seclusion for the student, the man conducting business from his home, guests, live-in grandparents or household help. The downstairs recreation room offers privacy for party-giving adults and teens.

Three bedrooms, living room, dining room and kitchen all sprawl ranch-style on one step-saving main level. A bath with pastel plumbing has a partition dividing bath and commode from the marbelized vanity sink.

The kitchen has a family-sized breakfast area, custom handcrafted cabinets, formica counters, stainless steel sink, deluxe range and hood. All rooms are spacious and many closets are provided throughout the home, including a foyer guest-closet.

The Normandy offers 2,754 square feet. It is constructed of brick wainscot and Masonite siding and includes an integral two-car garage. The price is $27,990. The Normandy is one of the many furnished model homes on display by 3-H Homes in Berkley Square. The model village, on Arlington Heights Road, one quarter mile north of Rand Road, is open daily and Sunday 9 to 9, Saturdays until 6 p.m. (RE

Dr. Hockenson Guest Preacher At Grace Church

Dr. Henry J. Hokenson will be guest preacher at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church for three Sundays, beginning July 24.

Dr. Hokenson is treasurer of the Board of American Missions of the Lutheran Church in America and former treasurer of the Board of American Missions of the Augustana Lutheran Church.

Dr. Hokenson, a native of Stromsburg, Neb., was ordained into the Lutheran Ministry in 1929 at Rockford.

He and his wife live in Glenview and are members of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church there.

FOR THE FAMILY MANAGER

ITEM: Light colors make a small room seem larger than it really is. If you have a small bathroom, keep this in mind when you remodel. Another way to create a feeling of spaciousness is to stick to one color for walls and ceilings.

ITEM: If left in aluminum utensils, salted food may pit the metal. Better to put leftover food in another container, then wash the aluminum utensil.

ITEM: Corn doesn't always mean corn. The word is used in some countries to mean the major crop grown in the area. For example, in England, wheat is called corn; in other countries, barley and oats are called corn.

ITEM: Even though alone, a homemaker should sit down to a nourishing lunch. A simple lunch, and one that car be prepared with little fuss, is a salad and milk. The leafy greens and vegetables or fruits furnish needed vitamins and minerals; the milk supplies valuable protein, calcium and riboflavin. Round out the meal with a slice of buttered toast.

FAMILY POT LUCK
BY HELEN HALE

Sorcery with Leftovers

Cream sauce, thinned celery or mushroom soup may be used with leftover vegetables for reheating them and letting them come to the table in a different form. Serve garnished with toast points.

What do you do with leftover roast? Buy a bottled barbecue sauce or use your own. Heat with sliced roast meat and serve on French bread buns or onion rolls.

Pound cake or angel food? Soften peppermint ice cream and use as a sauce. Custard sauce might also be used if you want to make your own or thinned pudding mix might be cooked.

Green beans leftover from dinner might join kidney beans in a salad with a hot bacon dressing — the kind usually used for potato salad.

Leftover broiled fish? Bone and chill well then serve with a cucumber sauce made by mixing chopped vegetable with mayonnaise and whipped cream and a dash of dill weed.

Orange or grapefruit sections? Let them sit with a bit of mint greens for salad.

Helen's Favorite:
Crab Louis
(4 servings)

2 cans (7½ ounces each) crabmeat
4 cups bite-sized salad greens
1 cup pickled beets, cut julienne-style
3 tomatoes, sliced
4 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
Ripe and green olives
Dressing

Chill ingredients, then arrange on greens as desired. Serve with a dressing made by blending 3/4 cup chili sauce, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, salt and 1/4 teaspoon worcestershire sauce.

Annual Lily Display Opens at Randhurst

The Annual Lily Show of the Wisconsin - Illinois Lily Society will be held this weekend at Randhurst in Mount Prospect.

Several classifications of displays will be on exhibit in the Town Hall section of the shopping center.

Setting up of displays will be done tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday. Judging will take place Saturday, as will the directors' meeting and the business meeting.

THE SHOW will be open to the public Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The show will include commercial, educational, and artistic displays.

The artistic displays are geared toward the month of July and include "Heatwaves," lily designs in yellow and orange; "Rainbows," using pastel lilies; "Campers," with odors of the arranger's choice and foliage; "Walking in the Woods," using lilies and wood.

Other artistic displays are "Beaches," using shells, sand, and lilies; "Old Times," lilies arranged in an antique container; "Meditation," using a religious figure and white lilies; and "Lilies," a design using only one lily in the arrangement.

THERE WILL also be a section of the show for display of corsages made with lilies.

Jan De Graff, well-known lily-grower, is sending lilies from Oregon as part of the commercial display. (Bill

The Mulqueens To Give Show

The Mulqueens, television personalities of WBKB, will present a one-hour Kiddie A Go-Go radio program, from the lobby of the Golf Mill Theatre tomorrow (Friday).

The program, which will begin at 11:30, will star Pandora and also will include the recording stars, "Yesterday's Children," today's top music and interviews with the patrons of the Golf Mill Theatre.

Held over for another week on the Golf Mill screen is "Thunderball," starring Sean Connery as secret agent James Bond. (Bill

Ravinia Concerts Listed

Josef Krips, conductor of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the Tuesday - Thursday - Saturday night series of concerts by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at Ravinia during the fourth festival week.

His soloists will be Roberta Peters, star of the Metropolitan Opera, on July 19 and 21, and Ralph Votapek, gifted young American pianist, on July 23.

Lukas Foss, American composer-conductor and musical director of the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra, will be on the podium for the Sunday afternoon, July 17, "Four O'Clocks" concert, with 'cellist Lynn Harrell as soloist.

SONGSTRESS, Nancy Wilson will be featured in the Wednesday-Friday, July 20 and 22, popular concerts. She will appear with the Henry Brandon Orchestra.

On Saturday morning, July 23, the children's concert will present a hootenanny, featuring Ellen Germann Bruner, and "Dancer's Magic Carpet," with Alta Warsawska, ethnic dancer.

PADDOCK BILLBOARD

MARTY ALLEN and Steve Rossi demonstrate the lethal nature of their umbrella, the seal of office which doubles as a weapon, communicator and propellant, in "The Last of the Secret Agents?" The new comedy starts tomorrow (Friday) at the Oasis Drive In. Appearing with Allen and Rossi are John Williams, Nancy Sinatra and Lou Jacobi.

Junior Miss Offers Cavalcade at Fair

"America's Junior Miss Cavalcade," an hour-long stage show starring Diane Wilkins, America's Junior Miss for 1966, will be a feature attraction at the Heart of Illinois Fair in Peoria, this Saturday through July 23.

Co-sponsored by John H. Breck, Inc., and Chevrolet, two national sponsors of the America's Junior Miss Pageant, the show is designed especially for teen-agers and will be presented twice daily at the Opera House at the Fair. Show times are 1:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m., and admission is free.

Miss Wilkins was chosen America's Junior Miss for 1966 during a recent national telecast from Mobile, Ala. Her "Cavalcade" illustrates the role of the Junior Miss through the ages with a dazzling array of hair styles and fashions representing the authentic attire of Cleopatra, Marie Antoinette, Betsy Ross and other women who influenced history while still in their teens.

Narrated by Ruth Schlueter, Breck's beauty-fashion coordinator, the "Cavalcade" closes with a special teen hair-styling presentation.

"America's Junior Miss Cavalcade" will be presented at leading state fairs and expositions across the nation throughout the summer and fall. (Bill

'Critic's Choice' on Country Club Bill

R. L. Simons will be appearing as "the greatest drama critic in the world" in the comedy, "Critic's Choice," the next attraction at the Country Club Theatre.

The play, written by Ira Levin, author of the popular hit "No Time For Sergeants," will be presented for a four-week run opening Wednesday, July 20, and running through Sunday, Aug. 14.

The story concerns a leading Broadway dramatic reviewer whose wife puts him on a hot spot by writing a play. He knows it's a bad play but feels compelled to write a blasting review of it. He has already lost a first wife, an actress to whom he gave a derogatory review, but his irrepressible urge to be honest traps him again.

LILLIAN EVANS will portray the playwright wife. Jo Xanders will be seen as the actress who wants to make the most of her former husband's predicament, and Norman Rice will play the amorous director.

Will Haas, Country Club Theatre's resident director, will handle the staging. (Bill

BILLBOARD CALENDAR

Mr. Lucky Joins 'Beekman Place'

Television's "Mr. Lucky," John Vivyan, will co-star with Patricia Morrison in "Beekman Place" at Pheasant Run Playhouse July 26 through Aug. 14.

The announcement of his addition to the cast was made recently by Carl Stohn, Jr. (Bill

JERRY LEWIS, as Ringo Raintree, King of the Cowboys, poses with Gila Golan in "Three on a Couch," starting tomorrow (Friday) at the Mount Prospect Cinema. Co-featured is "Last of the Secret Agents?"

Ostrowski Is Named Chairman

Thad Ostrowski has been elected chairman of the board of directors of the St. James Theatre Group of St. James Parish, Arlington Heights.

He takes the place of retiring Roy Quid, who has served as chairman of the board since the group was organized.

OSTROWSKI has already served as a member of the board.

Newly elected to the board at last month's meeting were Darlene Raupp, secretary; Adelaide Fairfield, treasurer; Rosemary Splitt, vice chairman; and Angela Kessinger.

Retiring members of the board, in addition to Quid, were Ralph Elwart, James Kelly, and Marilyn Ostrowski.

Father Robert Strzelecki of St. James Parish is spiritual adviser to the group and a permanent member of the board. Other board members are Charles Willwerth and Roger Alm.

PLAYS TO BE presented in the fall season will be announced soon, Ostrowski said.

Proceeds from the group's productions are turned over to the parish. (Bill

Children's Play

Performances of "Hansel and Gretel" by the Tale Tellers, professional theatre group, will be given at Country Club Theatre the weekend of July 23 and 24.

This children's play will be followed by "Rumpelstiltskin" on Saturday, July 30. Information on tickets and performance times may be obtained by calling 259-5400. (Bill

3 Area Artists to Exhibit in Waukegan

Three area artists will exhibit their work at the Lake County Art League's Festival of Art to be held tomorrow (Friday), Saturday and Sunday at Belvidere Mall Shopping Center in Waukegan.

Among the more than 80 artists from Chicago area communities who will display their work are Mrs. Lucille Anderson of Arlington Heights, Edna Loomis Anderson of Prospect Heights and Hedvic A. Vlasak, also of Prospect Heights.

Mrs. Anderson, who paints under the professional name of Luciandi, has exhibited at Lake County art fairs the past three years. She has had one-man shows at the Thunderbird Bowl and Mount Prospect Bank in Mount Prospect and has a permanent exhibit at the Red Wheel Restaurant in Palatine.

MRS. EDNA Loomis Anderson is a member of the Mount Prospect Art League, the Des Plaines Art Guild and the Northbrook Art League and has exhibited in area art fairs at Maine East High School and Lutheran General Hospital. She has received awards at the Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect Art League critiques.

Mrs. Vlasak, a member of the Northwest Art League, the North Shore Art Guild and the Mount Prospect and Des Plaines art groups, has exhibited annually at the Bismarck and LaSalle Hotels and in other art shows. (Bill

Junior Miss Serving on Teen Board

KATHRYN BENYSH

Kathryn Benysh of Roselle, who won the Paddock Junior Miss competition last October to go on to take the Illinois Junior Miss title and fourth runner-up spot in the national Junior Miss contest, is serving on the teen advisory board for the World Teenage Show July 22-31 at McCormick Place.

Miss Benysh was chosen because of her outstanding high school career. Valedictorian of her class at Lake Park High School in Medinah, she was also a cheerleader, Student Council secretary, a Lance Scholar and voted "senior most likely to succeed."

This summer Kathy is working as a physical therapy technician at St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village. She will enter Northwestern University this fall to major in foreign languages. (Bill

At Millikin

Joseph R. Kelliher, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kelliher, 102 Bradley, Roselle, and Carol Linda Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Caldwell, 2028 Algonquin Road, Mount Prospect, were named on the second semester dean's list of Millikin University in Decatur.

At Bradley

Jeffrey W. Lind, 451 Comfort Lane, Palatine, was named to the dean's list during the second semester of the 1965-66 academic year at Bradley University, Peoria.

In order to qualify for this distinction, he earned a semester grade point average of 7.38 while enrolled for a minimum of 13 semester hours. Only five per cent of the students qualify for the recognition. (10CC

Conservatives To Rally Friday

The editor of Farm and Ranch publications, Tom Anderson, will head a conservative rally at Flick-Reedy Auditorium, Bensenville, at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Friday).

Announcement of the rally was made by William Divis Jr. of Streamwood, area chairman of the Illinois Congress of Conservatives.

Anderson, whose column "Straight Talk" appears in numerous conservative publications, is a member of the recently formed 1976 Committee headed by industrialist William H. Grede of Milwaukee. (A15

NICHOLAS MURRAY, resident member of Shady Lane Playhouse's professional New York company, plays a young bachelor who tries to impress his visting uncle in the current production at the Marengo summer theatre. "Right Bed —Wrong Husband" is the title of the comedy about the bachelor's efforts to wrest a larger allowance from the uncle who controls his estate.

Three Library Systems Established by Powell

Libraries of 14 towns in the area will benefit from the recent approval of three library systems by Secretary of State Paul Powell, acting in his capacity as state librarian.

Local members of the North Suburban Library Service, with headquarters in Evanston, are the Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg Township and Wheeling libraries.

The DuPage County system, which has the Wheaton public library as its headquarters, includes Addison, Bensenville, Itasca, Roselle and Wood Dale.

The third system given approval is the west suburban system, headed by the Oak Park public library.

BOTH THE North Suburban and DuPage County systems will receive one-time establishment grants of $40,000, and will be allocated area and per capita grants on an annual continuing basis. Grants are made by the state through the state library, but aside from qualifying guidelines for approval, all the systems remain self-governing at the local level.

The 22-member NSLS is administered by a board of 12, which includes representatives from the Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights and Schaumburg Township libraries.

THE DuPAGE system lists 11 members in its charter, each of whom is represented on the board. While the system hopes to add many new members, maximum membership on the board will be 15. To become a member of the system, a local library must be of a certain size and be tax-supported.

The library systems plan, approved by the last regular session of the legislature, is similar to those in operation in several other states, notably New York and Pennsylvania. Under the plan, the state is divided into sections, each with its strongest library as headquarters to service member smaller libraries. Through cooperative and coordinated buying, consultant service, interloans by truck and periodic bookmobile visits, the libraries are strengthened, resulting in increased use by local patrons.

"The state library has used every available means to satisfy the growing demand for better library service in Illinois," said Powell. "Our ultimate aim is to extend the systems plan so that good service will be available to every Illinois citizen." (A-15

RICK RICCARDO makes his first appearance at Pheasant Run Playhouse in St. Charles as Betty Hutton's leading man in the comedy, "Here Today," playing through July 24. Operator of the Rush Street restaurant, Riccardo's, the Chicago restaurateur and actor-singer has appeared on stage in Chicago and throughout the Midwest.

Teen Editor at 84: Ken Osbon

NO, IT WON'T COME OFF, shouts 84-year-old Ken Osbon, formerly of Palatine, as he resisted attempts of these pretty employees of Paddock Publications, Diane Johnson and Martha Moser to make those whiskers disappear. "Ozzie" has a world of experience behind him, including selling advertising, but is currently teen editor for a daily newspaper in Arizona. (A-15

"You must be interested in what you're doing, and enjoy it —that's the secret of keeping young."

Thus spoke Ken Osbon, former Palatine resident now living in Arizona. He recently celebrated his 84th birthday by calling on friends in Palatine and Paddock Publications office.

Always a favorite with the girls, "Ozzie" held the hand of every new employe at the newspaper office as he was introduced many times over by former cohorts.

"Ozzie" was a veteran school teacher in the Chicago public school system. He showed up one day at the office of Paddock Publications, perhaps 15 years ago, stating he was a proof reader, could set type, could sell ads, could do whatever was necessary. Stuart Paddock happened to have an opening in the proof reading department, and "Ozzie" sat down, eye shade and all, to work.

NEXT STEP for the spry then 70-year-old was filling in for a vacationing compositor. He stayed out in the shop two years, even making up front pages at times. Then, back to the proof reading table, by the hour or the month.

Suddenly an opening appeared in the ad department. "Ozzie" stepped forward to volunteer. He covered every ad beat for the newspaper chain, and made friends along the way.

HE AND STUART often joked about who was the younger, though the senior editor is still 10 months older than the ever-smiling Osbon. The two of them often went to lunch together, white hair alongside white hair, both of them joking with others.

"Ozzie" never talked about his personal life, except in response to direct questions. It was through such questioning we learned Paul Rankin of Prospect Heights was his son-in-law; that he had had loads of fun teaching all kinds of classes at more than one Chicago High School; that he was proud possessor of a master's degree from Northwestern "granted about the time they invented master's degrees."

WE WERE surprised to learn one day that "Ozzie" often answered hurry-up calls to fill in for missing teachers at one of the local high schools, teaching advanced math, algebra, biology or English, with equal aplomb.

He left for Arizona, though without his favorite Kaiser. And we were not at all surprised recently when Max Rhodes, former local appliance businessman, dropped in to say he had seen "Ozzie" in Scottsdale, Ariz., and that he was teen editor for the local daily newspaper. (A-15

104th Div. To Meet In Chicago

The National Timberwolf Association will meet for its 21st annual convention at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel during the Labor Day weekend.

The association is composed of veterans of the 104th (Timberwolf) Infantry Division, which fought under Maj. Gen. Terry Allen in three vital European campaigns during World War II.

Richard Halabrin of 616 Oriole Lane, Mount Prospect, vice president of the association, said the membership will elect new officers, discuss their scholarship fund, hold a memorial service and conclude with a banquet Sunday evening.

For further information, all former members of the 104th Division are asked to contact Halabrin or the convention chairman, Dr. Joseph J. Lynch at 5140 S. Mozart, Chicago.

Asks Arts Groups For Cooperation

Sen. Harris W. Fawell (R-Naperville) recently urged that representatives of arts councils, art centers and leagues, symphonies, dance companies, groups interested in professional and community theatrical groups and "other organizations engaged in the performing and creative arts" to contact his office.

Fawell explained that the Illinois Arts Council, established by legislation passed in the last session of the Illinois General Assembly, is preparing to conduct an exhaustive state study of Illinois' cultural resources.

"To accomplish this study the Council will visit every Illinois city of 5,000 people or more and speak with civic, community and cultural leaders," Fawell said.

IT WILL survey the resources of our colleges and universities, visit art centers, museums and galleries, theatres and auditoriums, as well as conduct a variety of direct mail surveys, according to Senator Fawell.

Fawell said he had been asked to supply the Illinois Arts Council with the names of groups engaged in the performing and creative arts.

"Since my district encompasses all of DuPage and Will Counties, with a population of 650,000 people, this is a pretty big order," Fawell said. "I am therefore asking all groups who are interested to please contact me." (A-14

Gala Ticket Sales Climb

Ticket sales are nearing the halfway mark for the first annual Gala Benefit for Lutheran General Hospital on July 23. The dinner will be held in the Grand Ballroom of the O'Hare Inn, Mannheim and Higgins Roads.

Sponsoring the benefit are the Service League, medical staff and men's association. Proceeds will be used to aid needy patients. Tickets are $25 a person.

"OUR GOAL is a capacity house of 500 persons. Quite a number of individuals and businesses have indicated they will be purchasing a table of 10," said Mrs. Merrill Main, ticket chairman.

Tickets may be purchased by contacting the Service League office at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

Entertainment and music will be provided by Sam Levenson and the Frank York Strollers.

Physical Director Appointed at YMCA

Arthur R. Michaely has joined Northwest Suburban YMCA as physical director, it was announced this week by Charles McClellan, executive of the 'Y.'

Michaely will assist Cliff Lothery, program coordinator, and Dale Messerle, aquatic director, in rounding out a complete program of fitness for men and boys in the northwest suburban area.

He is a graduate of the University of Illinois with a master's degree in physical education completed in June 1965. While in college he won a letter in track, was elected to the Physical Education Major's Club, made the Dean's List five times and received an honors award.

He studied directly with Dr. Thomas K. Cureton, an outstanding leader in the National Physical Fitness Program.

During the past year, Michaely has served on the staff of Warren Township High School in Gurnee, Ill. He and his wife are expecting their first child in fall. (B10

Suburbs Becoming City's Scapegoat

The destinies of Chicago and its suburbs are irrevocably wed.

There is increased need for cooperation between all levels of government to solve problems common to the entire area. Most of us are dependent upon the city for economic existence, and we have a responsibility for what is happening there. This concern, however, does not mean that suburbanites should become a scapegoat for the city's ills.

The United States Conference of Mayors, meeting last month in Dallas, passed a resolution urging the federal government to force suburban communities to absorb a "reasonable share" of the burden of housing and schooling low-income residents of the central city.

Among other things, the mayors want to compel suburbs to build low-income housing and bus city children to their schools.

Aside from its demonstrated impracticality, this approach is utterly unfair to suburbanites.

It's not as though we avoid sharing the burden of financing the city's efforts at improvement; through rising state and federal taxes, we shoulder a big part of the cost—and this is over and above what we pay to cope with the expensive problems of our own communities.

Much of what is sick in the city stems from a lack of responsible leadership and the corruption of political power.

Years of profligate management by political machines have drained the financial resources of many cities, including Chicago. The exodus of middle income families as well as business and industry to the suburbs has inspired the city to meet its dilemma by pushing taxes even higher. This further accelerates the flight to suburbia.

In addition, cities are seeking and getting all sorts of help from Washington. Millions of dollars are funneled to rebuild slum neighborhoods, improve schools, fight poverty. A large part of the added revenue is siphoned off by bureaucratic waste or to bolster the vested interests of local politicians. Little is left to strengthen the cities financially or to rebuild or replace overcrowded, rundown public facilities.

This is not to say that the suburbs should do absolutely nothing further. We cannot leave the miseries of the city behind when we move to the suburbs, and many problems are truly "metropolitan" in nature.

But draining the dwindling suburban pocketbook is not the answer to the city's ills.

When it comes to handling the city's own troubles, the first requirement is responsible leadership within the city itself.

No one can claim that any comeback by the cities will be easy; the local politicians and special interest groups have pushed them too far down for that. Restoration of two-party democracy in the metropolis and an end to the wasteful corruption of machine politics are long overdue.

The city won't help itself or anything else if it continues to rely mainly on wider distribution of its own distress.

Hope for Migrants

Some progress is being made in Illinois to improve conditions for migratory farm workers:

—Recently, the Northwest Church Council for Migrant Aid received state funds for an agricultural migrant health clinic to serve northwest suburbs. The Migrant Ministry of the Illinois Council of Churches is also working with the Department of Public Health to establish medical programs in 12 other communities.

—The Department of Children and Family Services is cooperating with various church groups to develop day care centers for migrant children.

—In response to mounting public pressure, the state legislature in its last session improved the licensing and regulation of migrant camps.

Other developments certain to improve conditions include an annual work plan to help provide continuity of employment; assurance from the Illinois State Employment Service of adequate housing; termination of the federal law permitting importation of foreign workers; and improved agricultural technology.

While commendable, these achievements are only a beginning. Traditionally, the state's 14,000 migratory farm workers have occupied the cellar of the social order. The grinding poverty of their "stoop labor" can be relieved permanently only by better education for children and adults, job training and placement, and extension of labor legislation to include agricultural workers.

Reducing Jet Noise

Congress has before it a proposal, enjoying substantial bi-partisan support, to create a cabinet-level federal department of transportation. The new agency would amalgamate the functions of most federal agencies concerned with transportation, substituting a coordinated bureaucracy for a splintered one.

Agencies which would be included in the new department are the Federal Aviation Agency, Bureau of Public Roads, Maritime Commission and others. Retaining their current independent status would be the Interstate Commerce Commission and Civil Aeronautics Board.

Both northwest suburban congressmen — Donald Rumsfeld (13th) and John Erlenborn (14th) — support the legislation.

In addition, Rumsfeld has announced he will support an amendment calling for creation of an office of aircraft noise suppression within the new department. Purpose of the office would be to coordinate research into the reduction of aircraft noise. As Rumsfeld has pointed out:

"The major metropolitan centers of this country must have assistance in solving the aircraft noise dilemma. The residential communities surrounding O'Hare International Airport, for example, must have relief. O'Hare is the busiest airport in the nation and is going to get busier. An answer must be found for reducing this serious aggravation."

Noise around airports is a serious problem here and in suburban areas across the country. There has been little information developed about ways and means of reducing aircraft noise, consistent with safety. We hope Congress pays heed to the suggestion of Rumsfeld and other suburban representatives in a positive effort to make air traffic less a hardship on suburban residents.

Critic's Corner

Is Diploma Worth Cost?

by KATHY GOSNELL
Staff Writer

A few weeks ago a column appeared on this page warning parents of the increasingly high costs of a college education for their children.

Now it's time for parents to take a close look at what they're paying for.

Colleges today are turning out graduates like so many pieces of furniture lightly veneered. Henry Ford's assembly line has found its place in the mass education system, and where would we be without it?

IN EVER increasing numbers students are flocking to colleges and universities in search of a degree — not necessarily an education.

And against this increasing tide, degree-mongers are instituting mass education — a procedure which backgrounds a degree with classes of 500 students, one hour a day, three days a week, 18 weeks a semester.

IBM-scored tests and the attendance chart are the basis of the grade — and eventually they determine the student's eligibility for a degree.

IF THE STUDENT is sincere in his search for an education, he may actually read his textbook.

But he knows that in most classes he has a good chance for a passing grade on a minimum of perfect attendance and an occasional class period set aside for actually listening to the prof, instead of drawing pictures in his notebook.

It's as easy as that. It's too easy.

The universities in this country are flooded with just too many students to handle, and instead of trying to meet the growth of student numbers with a growth of learning, universities are becoming satisfied with teaching the rote of labeling — a mass education invention.

THE MOST a student now can hope to learn in four years at most universities is the subtle art of labeling — giving names to ideas, philosophies, theories—without really knowing what lies behind the label.

There is no challenge for the student to learn truth. Just so he knows there is such a thing.

And you can't really blame the student, who is smart enough at any rate to see the easy road to his degree.

He's in college to get a degree, which will in turn get him a job. He's in college because his friends are. He's in college because his parents want him there.

AND MAYBE you can't blame the instructors, who resort to mass education practices, complete with IBM tests and attendance charts, because there's little else they can do to keep 500 kids in line.

And you can't really blame the administrations of the colleges, who have limited resources — like money— and seemingly unlimited work to do.

You can only blame the entire American way of life, if I may be allowed to label something I can't really explain.

Americans refuse to believe they are being cheated by that most holy of holies — education.

THE AMERICAN success dream has become today's "vast wasteland," but we refuse to believe it.

And pretty soon, if not right now, that diploma symbolizing a bachelor's degree is going to be worth exactly as much as the paper it's printed on.

Man in the News

From 'Soup to Nuts'

By ED MURNANE
Staff Writer

The desk in front of Ronald A. Dold was cluttered with maps, aerial photographs, blueprints, and engineering textbooks.

The telephone rang and a woman from Hinsdale wanted to know why the new gravel in front of her house had not been oiled down.

An engineer called in on a two-way radio and wanted an answer to a problem.

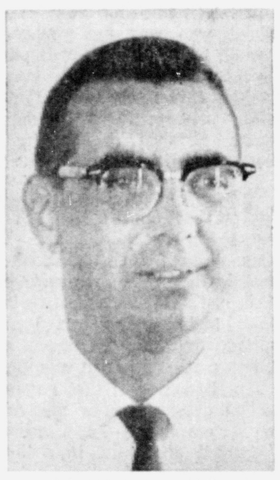
THE MAN is the DuPage County superintendent of highways, and the job is everything from "soup to nuts."

The woman in Hinsdale called the man at the top. She had a problem and he could solve it for her. Until he did, he would think about it, and make sure it was solved soon.

The engineer on the radio has been trained to use his own judgment, but if it was something big, he would ask the boss for a solution.

Dold is responsible for 265,-138 miles of highways in the county. He can tell you that a back road from 55th Street to 63rd Street in Downers Grove is 22 feet wide, and that a hole in the road needs repair.

HE ALSO knows each of the 50 or so employees working for him. He talks with them every morning and won't hesitate to join them out on a job.



RONALD A. DOLD

When Dold leaves the office at night, he takes the job with him. His car is equipped with a two - way radio so he can keep in contact with his men at all times.

He frequently receives phone calls at home, many of them late at night or in the morning hours.

"Ive been tempted to have an unlisted number, but I don't think it would be fair to the taxpayers."

THAT'S THE type of man Dold is. He is trying to work for the taxpayers, but he admits they don't always see it that way.

"During the winter especially, I get calls pretty late from people who want the roads cleared of snow. The first thing they say is, I'm a taxpayer, and I want this done, or that done. . .'.

"People see this vast amount of money in Springfield from the motor fuel tax and they wonder why we don't spend more on highways.

"They don't realize that DuPage is only one of 102 counties and we can't use the money until enough has accumulated to pay for an entire project.

"RIGHT NOW, it would take about $48 million to get all of DuPage's highways up to the state standards."

But that doesn't mean the roads in DuPage County are in poor condition. Dold thinks they're in very good shape, with the exception that some of them aren't wide enough.

The state standards specify a certain width for roads, drainage capacities, and right of way requirements. Some of DuPage's roads don't meet all the requirements, but they are better than average.

"Drainage has been a problem this spring," Dold pointed out, "but the rains were exceptionally heavy. You can't plan ahead for that."

THE AERIAL maps the highway department recently purchased should help out in solving drainage problems. "By looking at the photos, we can see where water collects and we can see the best way for it to drain."

Dold was appointed to the superintendent's post by the county board in 1963. His term of office is six years.

HE SUCCEEDED his father, O. B. Dold, who held the position since 1946. "O.B.," as his father was affectionately called, was a popular man in the county. He started with the highway department in 1924.

"I don't fill dad's chair yet," Dold said, "and I don't think I ever will."

Dold said he tries to carry out his father's policies. "We speak the same language, but I don't speak it as fluently," he said.

DOLD WAS born and raised in the Wheaton area. His training for the job began when he was a boy and his father brought the job home.

He holds a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from New Mexico State University and has worked as both a resident engineer and as chief engineer with the highway department before he became superintendent.

He loves to swim. In fact, he frequently takes his wife Rita and two children for a short swim during his lunch hour and then they return again at night.

After they leave the pool, the family may take a ride down one his highways. "That way, I get a chance to see what needs to be done."

But that's his job. Everything from "soup to nuts."

Woods Takes on County

by DAN BAUMANN
Managing Editor

Cook County had better watch itself; Arlington Heights is fighting mad. And with Arlington Village Pres. John Woods as head of the Northwest Municipal Conference, members of that influential organization probably will be swarming after the county as well.

BAUMANN

The immediate problem is a decision by the county board to override Arlington Heights objections by rezoning a 32 acre parcel for high rise apartments. The parcel is part of an unincorporated area that will come into the village within a few years; it's totally surrounded by municipalities. It's adjacent to some of the finest residential areas.

THE VILLAGE has planned for development of the land in the village—and not in high rise apartments. Owner of the property, apparently does not care about the community's feelings; high density apartment development will yield more in the bank than the community's good will.

The village thought it had a pretty good case for urging the county to restrain itself . . . but it felt the same way in some earlier cases where the county disagreed. The accumulation of several cases in which the county disregarded local opinion was too much for Woods. Normally reserved in his comments, the village president unleashed a torrent of criticism, innuendo and sarcasm at the county.

He said, in effect:

1) The majority of the county board didn't understand and didn't care about suburban problems;

2) The majority of the county board is irresponsible;

3) Some attorneys—a small group—have too-fantastic luck in getting zoning changes in the county.

4) The county should be relieved of the power of zoning within 1½ miles of municipal borders.

THOSE ARE strong words and quite unlike Woods' usual public pronouncements.

Yet the problems he cites, created by the county's action, seem to justify every word:

"The facts with respect to the Gosch property are a particularly flagrant example of the irresponsible attitude of the county board with respect to rezining matters. It is proposed to put 708 apartment units in an area which has no fire protection since it is not included in any fire protection district. Moreover, there is no water supply available to this area. It has not been certificated to any utility company, and the village of Arlington Heights does not extend water service outside its corporate limits.

"Thus, even if there were firemen, which there are not, there would be no water with which these firemen could hope to put out a fire. This development of 708 apartments would lack police protection, except that offered by the county sheriff's police. This department is woefully inadequate in members to handle the present development within the unincorporated areas of Cook County, much less take on the burden of a high density development such as that proposed.

". . .IT BECOMES increasingly apparent that the county board is totally incapable of exercising zoning and planning power within the mile and a half area adjacent to municipal limits.

"(This) is an open invitation for developers who are unable to bludgeon municipal officials into favorable zoning to go to the county and get what they seek through attorneys with solid political connections and a county board which apparently knows little and cares less about the future of the unincorporated areas and the villages of Cook County."

The village's own attempts at planning, Woods noted with candor, are "rendered ineffective and, in fact, an ironic joke when the uninformed and unconcerned county board is able to do what they are attempting to do in this present proceeding affecting the Gosch property."

Teenager Attends Freedom Rally, Learns from Crowd

Last Sunday I attended the Freedom Rally at Soldier Field in Chicago.

Several things about the crowd there impressed me—the number of people, both black and white, who came in spite of the heat, the representation of all age groups from the very young to the very old, and, especially, the atmosphere of quiet determination and dignity.

Although everyone responded enthusiastically to the performers and the speakers—Dr. King in particular—no one lost the sense of responsibility that distinguishes a purposeful assembly from a mob.

THE PEOPLE sat cheering or singing or listening with great attention in the stands from noon or twelve-thirty until the end of the rally at six o'clock Volunteer marshalls — mostly students—directed traffic in the stadium so that everyone found a seat and kept clear of the aisles. At six, after Dr. King's address, the crowds marched according to instructions out the west exits and along the route set off by the police. Along the way to City Hall, a few spectators watched with interest, but the singing and chanting marchers went without incident to LaSalle and Randolf around City Hall, and then dispersed.

The total effect of the afternoon on me was twofold. First, having seen the remarkable order and good will of the tremendous crowd, and having heard the reasonable demands to be made, I could only be more discouraged and puzzled by the intolerance and resistance against them that I continually see in my hometown.

That so many suburbanites who have so much financially, socially, and educationally could begrudge anyone the right to partake of the same advantages is incomprehensible.

AND SECOND, I found that the generally pervasive fear of such demonstrations evidenced by my also - inexperienced friends and their parents was completely unjustified. Among all the the demonstrators—a significant number of them white—was such an attitude or rationality, self - confidence, pride, and dignity that I felt perfectly safe and welcome to share in the joyful occasion. Never have I been exposed to such sincere good-will.

Perhaps what hit me hardest was the contrast of their attitude to that of those in my own social group. That there is prejudice in the older generations I can understand—even as late as my parents' day, prejudice was morally and economically and economically feasible, according to the doubtful yardstick of practicality for the times. But prejudice today is foolish from any point of view.

The plain fact is that there are more members of miniority groups than ever before in ratio to the ever-narrowing majority. If people refuse to listen to the moral pleas of their churchmen, how can they turn a deaf ear to their bankers and brokers? Under these circumstances, why is prejudice deliberately fostered in my generation, which will have to deal with a more-or-less uniformly off-white world? I ask the parents to show me where their prejudice has given them anything but grief: the heartbreak of leaving a familiar neighborhood just because it is "changing," the concurrent financial strain of selling on the run at a needless loss, the feelings of guilt pricking a conscience forced into arbitrary unkindness. Is there any more reason for a bigot to bind his child's mind with his own fears than there is for an alcoholic to wish his sickness on his child?

I LEARNED a lot from the Freedom Rally. It was a thoroughly enjoyable and rewarding experience. To my friends who would have accompanied me were it not for respect for their parents' wishes, I say only: there were probably many who would have been at Runnymede in 1215 but for a family restriction, many at the Boston Tea Party, many at the announcement of the Emancipation Proclamation. For at least awhile you must be content to exercise your tolerance and good will toward your parents, who evidently need it.

Today's world requires that deep thought be shared with well-chosen words, and that words be supported by prudent and meaningful action. Work so that when the time comes that your independent action is legitimate, it may also be approved.

Fireworks Fund Donors Thanked

An open letter to the residents of Rolling Meadows:

We, the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce Fireworks Committee, would like to take this opportunity to thank all of you who donated to the fireworks fund.

In years past, we've always had a difficult time in raising enough money to pay for the fireworks display. As a matter of fact, we've been short several times, as much as $600.

THIS YEAR, however, the idea of contributing to the display seemed to have "caught on." It certainly makes our job easier to do when we know the people want to see a fireworks display and are willing to contribute to it.

Your Chamber of Commerce is a self-sustaining group of businessmen who operate on a budget and the only income it has is the dues from each member. The Chamber is devoted to improving the community in which you live and we feel that a fireworks display on Independence Day is a fine way of showing our patriotism. Also we feel that a day's activities in our home town helps to keep a lot of residents off the highways on such a busy weekend.

Since our budget could not possibly include such an expensive item as the fireworks display, the only place we could turn to is the people themselves, and this year you've certainly shown your appreciation for all the hard work that goes into organizing such a display.

So once again we say, "thank you," for the vote of confidence and when the Fourth of July rolls around again next year, you can be assured that your Chamber of Commerce will feel the people want and are willing to help pay for a fireworks display.

Potholes Pose Hazard to Cars

Sunday night, July 3 about 10:30 p.m., I was driving east on Central, had just passed Wilke Road and was opposite the service station on the corner. Traffic was rather heavy, being a holiday weekend.

A car with bright lights approached from the opposite direction. I drove a little closer to the edge of the road. Then, two loud retorts, my car leaned to the right and metal scrapped the pavement. After stopping on the side of the road, we discovered the two right tires had blown.

UPON INVESTIGATION, we found I had driven into a series of deep holes extending about one foot into the road and perhaps 10 inches deep, with sides straight down. Fortunately, the service station was open. This "accident" necessitates buying two new tires and two new wheel rims.

However, I'm thankful we were not travelling at a high rate of speed, as quite possibly the car would have gone out of control and further damage or injuries would have resulted. I hate to contemplate what would happen if a motorcyclist or unsuspecting youngster on a bicycle were to hit this.

After speaking with several people who regularly travel this road, I learned many tires have been destroyed. Don't you think this condition warrants correction? And soon?

Right-to-Know Editorial Good

Your editorial and cartoon of June 30 were by far the finest commentary I have yet seen on the Freedom of Information bill. As you know, the President signed the bill on July 4. It will begin operating on July 4, 1967.

Would it be possible for you to send me Art Henrikson's cartoon? It is something I'd like to hang in my office for all to see.

Many thanks for your continuing fine treatment of my activities.

Rose Fancier Seeks Snipper

I have had a rather unusual experience lately — someone has been stealing my Christian Dior roses. Really!!

About two weeks ago, six roses were pulled from the bush with as long a stem as possible. Then today, Saturday, July 9, I find three more cut, clipped this time. The person came prepared!

First, I thought it was done by a child, since there were more roses blooming that weren't taken. But a child will usually pull off the roses with very short stems. There were white roses blooming also, which weren't taken, so I guess this person is "taken" by the beautiful red Christian Dior rose, as I am.

APPARENTLY THE person walks by during the day and sneaks into my back yard late at night. I hope they enjoy them. My trust in people has again been shattered.

We have alerted our neighbors to watch with us, and I have an idea who it is. I do hope I'm wrong.

What is happening to people who steal such a small thing? It bothers me very much, and I would like to know what motivates someone to "take" roses. If they do that, I expect they go on to bigger things, too.

Selective Service System Needs to Be Made Equitable

Your July 7 news analysis of Selective Service was an excellent piece of reporting and interpretation. It pointed up many of the inequities, much of the confusion, and some of the problems created by the need for a military draft.

One of the significant inequities not touched upon fully by your reporter, however, is the disparity between local draft boards. I can appreciate the value and necessity of retaining local control and autonomy—for who better knows a local community than its own citizens. But there should, nevertheless, be some kind of nation-wide criteria which all boards must adhere to. Otherwise a young man's chances for deferment or service will vary greatly.

A YOUNG MAN registered at a northwest suburban board, for example, finds it easier to secure a student deferment than does a man registered at some boards in the city, where some neighborhoods are less oriented to college education than in the suburbs where such education is put at a premium.

Generally speaking, it seems less difficult to get a deferment in suburbs than in the city. I am not criticizing suburban boards for giving such deferments; I am sure they are warranted, in most cases. But the young man living in the city should receive the same treatment and consideration as the suburbanite. The law is so vague and so much is left to the discretion and interpretation of the local boards.

If national conscription is to operate fairly for all, some kind of guidelines or standards applied uniformly must be developed. I subscribe completely to the recommendation that a comprehensive effort be exerted by the national Selective Service headquarters to establish firm procedures to be followed by the local boards in order to establish relatively uniform practices in deferment and drafting across the country. I believe our Congressman, Mr. Rumsfeld, has expressed this viewpoint.

Another suggestion that has been made and which is worth considering is drafting men at an earlier age. Rather than defer a high school graduate for college, give him a physical and induct him for two years, permitting him to continue his studies after military service.

REAL HARDSHIP is often created for the man 23 or 24 years old who has married and begun to establish himself in a profession or business career.

Another sensible alternative would be to give all 18-year-olds a physical to determine whether or not they are eligible for service. Then he could continue his education, but with the knowledge he would be called for service immediately following graduation. This would eliminate four years of wondering and worrying about post-graduation plans. It would enable a man to plan for his future accordingly.

I hope some revision in the Selective Service system and procedures is enacted by Congress.

We wish we could state that with a straight face. Of course we can't, but we did think this picture might be worth 10,000 words or so in helping us make a point or two on the subject of jobs.

If you're looking for a job as president, general, first secretary, prime minister, or chancellor, we refer you to our Editorial department. Our staff there is expert at evaluating political personalities and the needs of government.

If, on the other hand, you're looking for almost any other kind of job in or around the Northwest Suburban Area, we refer you to our Classified department. Some of the most successful people in the Northwest Suburbs have found their jobs by placing an ad in the Paddock Publications.

Speaking of jobs . . . here's how we did this one

Our photographer, Frank Pierson, showed the president a copy of our paper. The others became interested immediately, because Madame Tussaud had never shown them a copy of this full coverage newspaper in her wax museum in London before.

Trial Helicopter Patrol on Top of the Scene

by DAVE CRIPPEN
Staff Writer

Pilot Bud Talarico twisted the throttle on the "lift bar" as we strapped ourselves in. The chopper shuddered as if to defy the airborne command of its giant rotors, which I could hear slapping against the hot, humid air.

Suddenly, the ground fell away, and we raced off in a cock-eyed backwards, sideways and upwards direction. The hangars and aircraft of Palwaukee Airport soon were left far below.

The breeze whipping through the open doors of the plexiglass-covered cabin was a welcome relief on such a sultry day. But the helicopter flight last Saturday was more purposeful than merely a means to beat the heat.

CROWDED IN on either side of me, Talarico and Sgt. Walter Zelensky of the Cook County sheriff's police were keeping their eyes peeled for any sign which could indicate trouble. Their mission—to patrol remote areas of the county and to aid local law-enforcement agencies whenever requested.

I was accompanying them to see how effective this weekend helicopter patrol could be. The patrol, initiated on an experimental basis June 25, will be concluded this weekend. Reports on its usefulness then will be submitted to the county board, which will consider the possibility of incorporating the airborne patrol as an integral cog in law-enforcement machinery on a full-time basis.

The helicopter is leased from Chicago Helicopter Service. Talarico, an employe of Chicago Helicopter, is the pilot for the WGN traffic helicopter during weekday rush hours.

JUST BEFORE I had joined them, Zelensky and Talarico had aided Park Ridge police in flushing out a shooting suspect from a wooded area. The helicopter had hovered over the woods while Zelensky, speaking over a special public-address system, urged the suspect to give himself up.

The public-address system is part of an electrical unit that doubles as a siren.

We hovered over a farm field while Zelensky and Talarico discussed where to go.

"Let's check out that location for the suspected car-theft ring," Zelensky shouted above the roar of whirling blades, engine and wind. Talarico nudged the stick, the copter tilted slightly forward and we headed northwest.

Our destination was a remote, unincorporated spot which was suspected of being used as a hideout for stripping stolen autos.

Tire tracks in the field led to several abandoned and burned-out cars partially hidden beneath a grove of trees.

"Ninety per cent of those old wrecks are stolen cars," Zelensky explained. "But it's impossible to check them out once they are in that condition." We circled lower, looking for some signs of life around the battered cars, but found nothing.

IF THERE had been any suspicious activity, we could have spotted it, for we had a clear view of the area. This, Zelensky said, is one of the principal advantages of the helicopter patrol. Unlike an officer in a patrol car, Zelensky is able to get a bird's-eye view of large areas.

"Nothing here," said Zelensky. Talarico, Marine veteran who has flown "eggbeaters" for 11 years, masterfully manipulated the controls, and the chopper raced skyward.

We headed west. Zelensky grabbed the mike on the squawk box and reported to headquarters. A voice responded, but I couldn't make out what was said, except for the familiar, "ten-four" that concluded the brief conversation.

Turning south, Talarico brought the ship over familiar areas — Arlington Heights, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg.

"IF THIS thing goes through," Zelensky explained, "we would carry all types of equipment — shotguns, teargas, grenades, launchers." Such a flying arsenal would enable police to break up a potential mob before it got out of hand, he pointed out.

Currently, the chopper is equipped with only first aid and radio equipment. Zelensky noted the aircraft also could be used for photography and surveillance, as well as a means of detecting fires.

Maj. James McGuire of the Cook County sheriff's police explained in an earlier interview, "This program is ideal for improving our response to public service."

The county sheriff's police are only the third such agency in the country to try out the helicopter patrol. It was first tried in Los Angeles County, Calif., and later in New York. Both programs have been successful.

The copter, able to fly from one end of the county to the other in 35 minutes, obviously can provide quicker response than a ground unit. Police officials are hopeful that if the county board approves the program, another helicopter would be put in service.

COST IS the most prohibitive factor to initiating a full-time program. Initial cost of purchasing one helicopter can easily run more than $50,000. Maintenance and other routine costs can keep the bill high even after the aircraft has been purchased.

Zelensky spotted some tire tracks on a field below and told Talarico to bring the chopper down for a closer look. The tracks led to a car where a young man and woman were standing. The man was changing a tire.

He beckoned to us. Talarico circled and brought the helicopter in for a gentle landing.

Their tire had gone flat while they were searching for a girl who had run off after a quarrel with her boy friend, Zelensky learned. Zelensky agreed to search the area in the helicopter.

"This is probably just a typical case where the girl has already returned," Zelensky said. "But you never know." Our search turned up nothing.

We returned to Palwaukee. After a glass of refreshing iced tea, Zelensky and Talarico climbed back in the chopper to continue the weekend patrol. Their airborne mission, which began at 11 a.m., would last until 9 p.m., when they would return to their base at Midway Airport in Chicago.

THE EXPERIENCED HAND of helicopter pilot Bud Talarico keeps the aircraft hovering over an area south of Palwaukee Airport. Talarico, who pilots for Chicago Helicopter Service, works with Cook County sheriff's police who have initiated a weekend airborne patrol on an experimental basis. (B-10 STOLEN CAR? Chances are it is, according to Sgt. Walter Zelensky of the county sheriff's police. The airborne patrol allows Zelensky to find these autos quickly. Unless there are signs of life around the suspicious vehicle, there is little police can do except report its location. (B-10

We'd like you to meet JACK R. LEININGER our new manager at RANDHURST CENTER comes to our branch office at Randhurst Center from Indianapolis where he has been Assistant Manager of our branch in that City. He succeeds Loren C. Mast who has been appointed manager of our Spokane, Washington Branch. Mr. Leininger has been in the life insurance business since 1954. He went from early success as an underwriter to accept increasing responsibilities in agency management. His ability and performance in this work earned his rapid advancement and eventually led to his appointment as Superintendent of Agencies at his former company's home office.

During the past year he has been a valuable member of the management team of our Indianapolis Branch Office and he has played a key role in extending our services to brokers and to the general public. Jack Leininger reflects both youthful enthusiasm and broad successful experience, a combination that promises to bring rapid growth to our operations in Chicago's Northwestern suburbs.

A Canadian company, Manufacturers Life first began operations in the United States in 1903. Our business in this country has prospered and grown and today it represents 40% of $5.7 billions of life insurance and retirement protection in force with the Company. Important factors in this growth have been our leadership in marketing low-premium life insurance and high-return annuities and our pioneering in many fields of substandard underwriting. Mr. Leininger and his associates will welcome your inquiry.

Dinosaur Contest Winners Posted

by MAGGIE IRWIN

It's been a long time since we've been in touch, and I must admit that I missed visiting with you. I hope the feeling is mutual.

If you happened to drive past Randhurst last week and if you thought what you saw was a mirage, or that someone had used a "time-machine" to transport you back a million or so years, I can assure you that neither was true. The Sinclair Dinosaurs were here and thousands of people enjoyed seeing them. I hope you were one of them.

Also hope that your son or daughter was one of the winners of our Dinosaur Coloring Contest. To find out, stop at the Bazaar Level at Randhurst where you will find the names posted. The 4-foot inflatable Dinosaurs can be picked up at the Randhurst office.

SATURDAY, July 16, the Randhurst mall will be the setting for a display of colorful, fragrant lilies. Plan to take a little time off from shopping to see these lovely flowers.

Beauty, or the acquisition of beauty, is the desire of most of us. We all want to look our best, dress well and have beautifully coiffured hair. We can obtain, to some degree, our own version of beauty, with the help of Clairol. The spectacular Clairol show that was at the New York World's Fair is going to be at Randhurst, Thursday, July 21 through Sunday, July 31. My next column will give you more details. (RH

Mundelein Offers Novel Program

Mother Goes to College

By DIANE SARGOL
Staff Writer

The old adage, "A woman's place is in the home," which has created the stereotype image of the mother as a prisoner of her house, has been disproved by the 135 members of Mundelein College's continuing education class.

The program, which is under the direction of Dr. Norbert J. Hruby, 618 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, vice president of the college, has successfully weathered the complexities of novelty. Begun in October, 1965, at the Chicago campus, 6363 Sheridan Road, the program is open to women wishing to complete or begin work on their bachelor's degrees or to those simply interested in enrolling in college courses.

Geared specifically to the housewife and mother, the charter class includes four area women: Mrs. Jack Gibfried, 516 S. William, Mount Prospect; Mrs. Emanuel Glyman, 127 We-Go Trail, Mount Prospect; Mrs. Edwin Robertson, 212 S. Wheeling, Prospect Heights, and Mrs. Gene Walsworth, 552 E. Merle Lane, Wheeling.

Commenting on the new program, all of the women agree that its excellence lies in its organization. Rosemary Robertson explains that she had inquired at Northwestern and several smaller schools about returning to college, but they all offered primarily night courses. Then Mundelein's program was born and it seemed perfect for her.

The program is geared to the housewife and mother, she said. Her classes last year were scheduled from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., so she left the house after her children in the morning and arrived home before they returned from school.

So that the college might also accommodate the working woman, Dr. Hruby explains that the program will be expanded this fall. For the first time, seminar sessions will be offered in the late afternoon and early evening. But, he emphasized, basically the program is established for the convenience of the woman with school-age children, the mother who can arrange to be on campus only once or twice a week.

During the past year, Mrs. Robertson had classes four days a week and would study between classes and on her free days. Anything not completed in this time, she would study at night with her children. So, for her, homework presented few problems.

Similarly, Caroline Walsworth had little difficulty integrating her academic and home lives. Her four boys were in school, and she was able to complete her homework on the days she was free from classes. For example, for the first two terms last year, she was in class only twice a week. The third term was a bit more difficult for her as she had scheduled classes every day, but, she explains, she made it.

With no previous college experience, Mrs. Walsworth hopes to complete her degree work in about seven years. She will carry only one course in the upcoming fall term, but then hopes to return to two-course terms. She is working toward a B.S. degree as a biology-chemistry major. A registered medical technician, Mrs. Walsworth plans to return to medical technology after graduation.

Mary Glyman has found that homework confronted her with somewhat of a problem as her five children require much of her time and detract from her concentration. Though only in class for one hour a day last year, Mrs. Glyman reported to the college four days a week. Finding it difficult to study with the children, however, Mrs. Glyman worked on her assignments before leaving for school, again in the college library and finally after the children were in bed.

Already holding a bachelor of philosophy from the University of Chicago on a 2-year program, Mrs. Glyman is not concerned with acquiring a degree. Classified as a special student, she wants to achieve 120 hours and to complete her education courses so she may obtain Illinois certification to teach. After this, she may work toward her master's, in which case she hopes to teach sociology.

Though two of the women have found relatively little difficulty in attending college after being away from the academic life for a number of years, Lois Gibfried has found certain aspects troublesome. The most pressing thing for her has been term papers.

"I had never written a term paper in my life," she explains.

While she had 2½ years of Great Books experience and 1½ years of nurse's training, she was never expected to write a term paper. Also difficult to develop was the habit of concentrating, a point on which Mrs. Glyman agreed.

Viewing college life in a somewhat different vein was Mrs. Walsworth, who had no previous college experience but had taken some night school courses and was trained in medical technology. She found college life "very exciting," and liked the "stimulation of getting down to concentrated study" after being away from it for so long.

Like Mrs. Walsworth, Mrs. Robertson, who spent one year at Michigan State University, found her year at Mundelein most enjoyable. She explained that the first couple of weeks were difficult with travel, school and keeping house. But once she had adjusted herself to a schedule, things were much easier.

"It is much much easier to study now than before I was married," she says. "In fact," she adds, "I find myself with spare time."

To further assist these women, the college is now permitting them to petition for "life-experience" credit after they have completed their first year of study. Mrs. Walsworth explains that if a woman has had experience in a field which would be equivalent to a course at Mundelein, she may receive full college credit for it without actually taking the course. However, the continuing education student went on, the student will be required to take any tests or perform any experiments which the professor may deem essential to prove she has adequate knowledge in the field.

Requirements are stringent for such credit, and verbal as well as written tests will be required at the cost of $50 to the student who applies for such credit. The idea, according to Dr. Hruby's secretary, Miss Becker, is to ascertain whether the woman has the same knowledge in the field that a student would have at the termination of the equivalent course.

Another outstanding feature of the program is that the student may budget her own time in selecting the number of courses in which she enrolls. Many take only one course per term though the women in this area have indicated the desire to carry two courses per term in the future.

Also characteristic of the program are the seminar sessions—regular college courses generally offered in the standard academic program such as art, history or drama. Two reasons are given for establishing special sessions in these courses for continuing education students, according to Mrs. Walsworth.

She explained that this is a "way of easing us back into school" and, where the regular courses may meet two or three times a week, seminar meets only once a week. The session runs from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., thus requiring the women to be on campus only one day.

Now, as conscientious students, these women are spending the summer reading, some in anticipation of the work in their fall courses, others just to keep in the studying practice.

But what motivated some of these women to return to school? Mrs. Glyman "enjoys going to school" and plans to continue. Mrs. Gibfried "always wanted to do it (attend college)." For Mrs. Robertson it was the challenge to complete the education she had begun, and Mrs. Walsworth decided to attempt combining college life with home life.

As a whole, these women are very glad that they gave the new continuing education program a chance. And the college is pleased to have them as members of the student body. As Dr. Hruby put it, "They out-work, out-talk and out-think the average college undergraduate by a good margin."

"What makes them all the more remarkable," he continued, "is the fact that many of them were college dropouts 15 or 20 years ago, but now they are very different students from what they were then. Now they are highly motivated and deeply committed. Now they are wives and mothers proving to husbands and children that they have what it takes."

REVIEWING THEIR NOTES in preparation for the rapidly approaching return to fall classes are Mrs. Jack Gibfried, Mrs. E. J. Glyman and Mrs. Edwin Robertson. All of these women are contemplating careers in teaching, Mrs. Gibfried and Mrs. Robertson when they have completed their degree work, and Mrs. Glyman when she is through with her education courses and hour requirements. Mrs. Glyman holds a degree in philosophy from the University of Chicago.

"ALL STUDY AND NO PLAY and already you've forgotten how to hold a tennis racket," thinks 12-year-old Frank as he patiently refreshes his mother's memory on the proper grip of a tennis racket. Mrs. Gene Walsworth, a Wheeling resident, is a member of the charter class of the continuing education program at Mundelein College on Chicago's north side. (Staff photo)

For the Long, Hot Summer

Tips on Keeping Cool

In attempting to keep cool these hot summer days, many of the things we try may actually make us hotter, not cooler.

For example, do you know you'll be more comfortable if you . . .

Keep your shirt on. Lightweight clothing protects you from the direct rays of the sun and heat reflected off objects. Thus, your body absorbs only half as much heat as it would if you wore a bathing suit. It also absorbs perspiration, protecting you from irritating body salts contained in sweat.

Bathe in lukewarm water. Water close to your skin's temperature is best suited to cool off your body. Hot water can give you an oppressive feeling of heat. Cold water, on the other hand, will increase your body's insulation by shrinking your blood vessels. And remember: don't "overbathe." Frequent soaking in water dries out your skin and curbs perspiration — your body's built-in mechanism to keep you cool.

Drink plenty of liquids. On a really hot day, you can lose 15 quarts of water just through perspiration. So, the more you perspire, the more you should drink. But don't overdo it with iced drinks or they'll just make you feel hotter.

Avoid the beach. On very hot days, when the sun beats on the sand, temperatures at ground level can easily soar to 140 degrees. Although a dive in the surf may cool you off temporarily, the hot sun and sand may produce more heat than you can safely handle.

Avoid salt tablets. Taken without medical supervision, salt tablets can lead to serious trouble. Don't worry about salt loss through perspiration. It can easily be restored by an extra sprinkle of the salt shaker at mealtime.

Sleep more. During hot weather, your heart and circulatory system work 50 per cent harder, so extra rest is important. Try to sleep an extra hour during the hot weeks. If you find it difficult to sleep on hot muggy nights, put your mattress on the floor. The hot air will rise, leaving you surrounded by relatively cool air.

Improve air circulation in your home. If you don't have an air conditioner, put a 12-inch fan on the floor during the day and let the breeze bounce off a far wall. At night, set it about three feet from an open window, squarely facing it and blowing out. In this way, the fan will blow hot air out and suck in cooler air through other open windows.

Families on the Move

By BILLIE BACHHUBER

You don't have to live in the suburbs long before you become aware of the mobility of the families around you. It is not mandatory to be a kaffee klatscher, a joiner, a bridge player, a sugar borrower or even a nosey neighber to observe the many "For Sale" signs that regularly appear and disappear.

Many suburban families have found themselves in a common plight, away from parents and life-long friends, so they reach out to each other to compensate. Again and again suburbanites become friendly with their neighbors and form worthwhile relationships only to have them broken up by the "big moving van."

SOME OF THESE people feel that the lack of stability and the feeling of rootlessness of the family-on-the-move are too big a price to pay for "getting ahead." One young Des Plaines apartment dweller, who moved recently from Utah, commented, "The advancement of job and increase in pay does not seem to me to compensate for the loneliness and homesickness that I feel especially now that I am expecting a baby. I am feeling unwell and depressed, but even so I do realize that we haven't been here very long, so we haven't really given it a fair trial."

"No material gain is worth moving away from all your family and friends," declared a woman who moved from California 11 years ago and lived in a Chicago apartment for five years before settling in the northwest suburbs.

"PERHAPS if we had moved to the friendliness of the suburbs in the beginning, I would have been happier. I was miserable in that Chicago apartment as I was alone most of the time. My husband misses the family, too, especially our grandchildren, but a man must accept the challenge when he is offered advancement in his job. If he doesn't, he'll never really feel satisfied. It's not so much the salary as the satisfaction a man derives from his occupation that is important."

In agreement was another Californian, a school teacher, who stated emphatically that "staying put" is the ideal way to raise children.

"My husband was a pro-basketball player for eight years and then went into coaching, and we have moved around a great deal. Constantly changing schools, making and giving up friendships, struggling to carve a place for themselves in school and community is extremely difficult for children.

"THEY MAY meet the challenges effectively but they miss out a great deal in not knowing exactly where they stand in relationship to other young people. It takes several years to build lasting friendships and a real sense of belonging."

When asked how being on-the-move personally affected her, she replied that she accepted it as necessary because of her husband's occupation and although she preferred the stability of a permanent home she was happy to be able to be with her husband. She expressed regret that many wonderful friendships subsequently were terminated by the moving about.

This teacher described residents of the northwest suburbs as among the "most generous, kindest and most concerned people she has met." "I hope to live here a long time," she said.

WILL A BETTER job and higher pay lead to an eventual better home in "the" better neighborhood, to new and varied experiences, a widening circle of friends, and finally to a whole-hearted acceptance of the new way of life? There are those who feel that these are the benefits of being willing to move frequently and that they far outweigh any sacrifice of "stability."

One such Mount Prospect family of six, who left a small town in Michigan two years ago and now is preparing to move to a suburb outside Pittsburgh, Pa., is enthusiastic about mobility.

"The experience of attending different schools and making new friends, and the resultant adjustment to new situations will help our children when they are ready for college," asserted the calm, efficient mother of the family.

SHE DESCRIBED with eager anticipation the area in which they will be living as an established, more conservative region than the informal, sprawling northwest suburbs, and their new home to be larger and far more suitable to their liking and needs. It probably will be newly furnished throughout. Her husband's new job will present him with more challenge, a chance of advancement and a higher salary.

The wife of a former Marine, a resident of Rolling Meadows for the past five years, stated vigorously, "I highly recommend moving about the country to every young married couple. If you haven't had the opportunity to grow up by the time you are married, you quickly attain maturity as you learn to adjust to new people, new customs, and new experiences.

"YOU VERY soon become independent and learn to take care of yourselves. It's a wonderful experience, and if we had to do over again, I'd be willing to do it!."

She added one note of caution. "Once your children are of school age, however, it is definitely better for them to have a permanent home."

Some moves do not invlove job change, but merely the search for a house more suitable to the needs of a growing family. One such family moved several times, each time to a different suburb with equally fine school systems and similar social structures.

"As our family grew in size, it was necessary for us to find a larger home, and it was just coincidental that this involved leaving one suburb for another," explained the mother of five children.

SHE LAUGHED softly as she remembered the first day her children spent at the "new school." "The three younger ones cried bitter tears at lunch time, and I was ready to pack up to go back to the old neighborhood! Luckily, we waited it out as in one week they thought the school and the new kids were okay, and in two weeks they 'guessed' they liked it, and in a month or so you couldn't have paid them to give up their new friends and their big, new home!"

She looked thoughtful as she continued, "I'm glad that this was our last move, though, and that we've really put down our roots here. You have to be in a community long enough to learn its problems and needs to be able to really contribute by participation in its government, educational system and other activities. Otherwise, all you ever do is 'take' and you never get a real chance to contribute."

MOVING DAY is not the most opportune time to ask the woman of the house to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of moving! A brand new resident of Arlington Heights laughed weakly in her exhaustion, "Right now all I can think of are the immediate concerns of the family. How do I find a new doctor for the children? How do I go about finding a good dentist? Where will I go to get my hair done? Will we be lonely, or have we picked a friendly neighborhood in a friendly community?"

The mother of three heaved a large sigh and collapsed into a chair, tears not too far from the surface. "Never again! I hope we never move again!"

Elks Leader Is Loyal to Cubs

by JUDY TREMORE

Going to Washington, D. C., Valley Forge, Gettysburg and Philadelphia will highlight the summer for the Gerald Dittman family of Arlington Hwights. However, the family including four boys ages 6 through 17, enjoys so many of the same things that there will be several family excursions.

The six loyal Cub fans try to get to Wrigley Field at least six times a season where, Mrs. Dittman says, she embarrasses her oldest boy by loudly and enthusiastically yelling for the team. The family also enjoys playing baseball together as well as badminton and croquet. Twice a season they travel to Riverview and often get to Lake Geneva for swimming and picnics.

Mrs. Dittman, who is president of the Ladies Auxiliary of Arlington Heights Elks, thinks that the lodge is a good organization for family and adults. She and her husband devote much of their time to the one organization with the thought that one should give as much as he can to one group and be a really active member.

SHE SERVED as corresponding secretary before her presidency, and her husband is currently chaplain and entertainment chairman. The boys are included in special events such as the Fourth of July picnic, Christmas and Easter celebrations and will be part of the Family Fun Fair planned by the lodge for Sept. 24 and 25.

The auxiliary meets once a month for social programs which include a speaker. Its ways and means functions are to raise money for the lodge, and the auxiliary hopes to provide draperies and carpeting for the big hall this year.

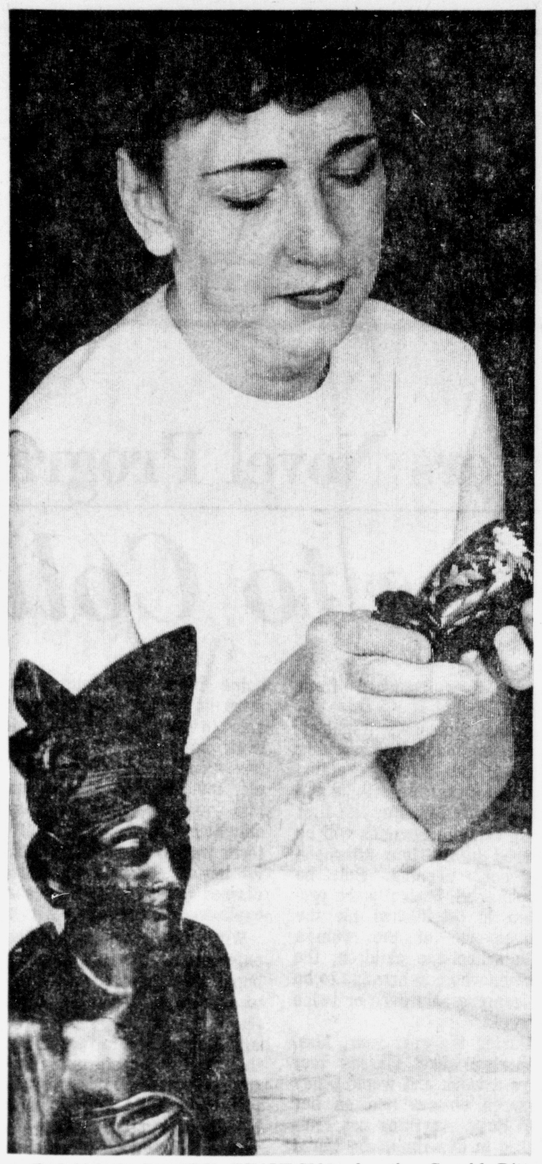
Charity project of the auxiliary is a rummage sale in May with proceeds given to an Elks—sponsored charity. This year the money was donated to Illinois Crippled Children Foundation. At Eastertime the women made baskets for Clearbrook School for Retarded Children.

THE WOMEN will help the lodge at a charity auction in September and is planning a luncheon and fashion show for October at Long Grove Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Dittman spend many of their weekend evenings working together. He has a combo which plays at receptions and dances, and Mrs. Dittman is featured vocalist. The couple met when he played with a USO band, and she was singing for her hometown USO.

The Dittmans moved to Arlington Heights eight years ago from Evanston. Mr. Dittman works out of his home as a salesman for Ludan's Corp. of Redding, Pa.

In her spare time the auxiliary president loves yard work, sewing and cooking. She said she is currently remaking a white organdy formal, adding red lace as an accent. SSD



A FAVORITE FAMILY EXCURSION for the Gerald Dittmans of Arlington Heights is a trip to Wrigley Field to see the Chicago Cubs play ball. Both Mrs. Dittman, currently president of the Elks Lodge Auxiliary, and her husband, chaplain and entertainment chairman for the lodge, like to be active members of any organization to which they belong.

Garden Symposium Is Open to Public

The Concord Motor Inn, Mannheim Road, Des Plaines, has been chosen as the site for the Third Annual Symposium sponsored by the Garden Club of Illinois and the Illinois Council of Nationally Accredited Flower Show Judges.

To be held July 20, 21 and 22, only nationally accredited flower show judges are eligible to take this advanced refresher course for credit. However, the public is invited to attend all lectures, either the full course or individual days.

Wednesday lecturers will include Mrs. William H. Barton, national chairman of symposiums, who will discuss "Philosophy and Ethics of Judging," and Mrs. Zelda Wyatt Schulke who will speak on "Art of Table Setting." A dinner in the Champagne Room of the Inn will top off the first day's activities.

MRS. BARTON will speak again Thursday morning, covering one of the newest expressions of floral art, the Assemblage. Mrs. Earle D. Atwater, student of Japanese design and art will create her own interpretations of Assemblages in "From Cave to Penthouse." Mrs. Abel E. Fagen will speak on "What is Freedom in the Art" and following lunch, Dr. Wesley P. Judkins, the council's chairman of horticulture, will cover the culture, exhibition and judging of "Decorative Stems."

House plants, their selection and care will be the topic Friday afternoon at the Garden Clubs of Illinois Information Center. Speaker will be Clayton Krain, designer of all flower beds in parks on the west side of the city and in the downtown area. The program will begin at 1:30 in the Conference Room of Sears at Golf Mill.

Among judges designing arrangements for the Symposium will be Mrs. Ralph Sandeen and Mrs. Donald Gardner, both of Mount Prospect.

CREAMED COTTAGE CHEESE

STRAWBERRY PRESERVES

Hello Hostess

By MARY KAY ROBBINS

Pink and blue baby showers are charming. But a new baby's birthday is a Red Letter Day — so why not celebrate accordingly?

Save several copies of newspapers published the day and week the baby is born — your local paper, a city daily and the week's big Sunday edition. Make or buy a loose-leaf scrapbook. Then when Papa's sufficiently recovered to babysit for an evening, send out invitations (in a newspaper format) to this Red Letter Shower.

Stick Work Tables with your saved papers, paste and scissors. Give each guest two or three blank scrapbook pages. Make one "Fashion Editor," another "Sports." Assign local, national and international news, finance, entertainment — as many categories as you have guests for editors. Include such extras as horoscopes, best-seller lists and week's top tunes.

Name a "Cover Editor" to paste up the birth announcement details in letters cut from newspaper headlines. And be sure an Advertising Editor mounts some current ads. (Will today's prices seem as low in 1986 as those of 1946 seem today? Maybe. But your finished scrapbook will be a cherished keepsake sure to increase in sentimental value with every passing year!)

BLACK AND WHITE AND RED ALL OVER: That's your color scheme — for flowers, decorations and refreshments. A white cake can double as centerpiece if you pipe on the Red Letter date in frosting. Or "write it" with red gumdrops.

Check your library to find other famous persons who share the baby's birthday. Mount a "Who's Who" gallery of pictures. Or just list names and dates on a "Hall of Fame" scroll — saving the honored place for the brand new "Bawl of Fame."

For conversation-piece placecards or favors, check secretly with families. Then give each guest a small calendar page of the appropriate month — with her own birthday circled in red.

Red Carpet Treatment: Roll out a red runner, and roll in the gifts in a red welcome wagon. For one joint gift, consider a baby book to record future Red Letter Days. Or a candle to burn on 21 birthdays. Whatever your choice, this Red Letter Shower makes a Red Letter Party — for you and all your guests!

PARTY LINE: An outdoor type suggests: "Until we can afford the long patio table I want, it works very well to put three card tables together. I use an extra-long sheet as a table cloth to make the three seem one."

That sheet's a wonderfully practical idea. For even more unity, set adjacent table legs together in tall tin cans so the tables won't slide apart.

R.S.V.P. Won't you share your party ideas? Write "Hello, Hostess," c/o this newspaper.

A Yummy Menu: Step by Step

WHOLE FRESH STRAWBERRIES and mint leaves are used to garnish Mrs. Thomas N. LeFebvre's elegant yet easily-made Strawberry Cake, which she serves following an appealing outdoor meal where everything is cooked on the grill. It is obvious that 5-year-old Billy LeFebvre enjoys his mother's attractive and delicious dessert.

by LOIS SEILER

A complete menu planned around an outdoor meal has been shared with readers by Mrs. Thomas Neal Le Febvre of Mount Prospect. This graduate home economist has this menu so well planned and organized that homemakers only need follow her step-by-step directions to have a delicious meal complete from appetizers to dessert.

Only the chip dip, salad and cake are prepared indoors; the rest of the dinner is cooked over the grill. The meat is cooked on a spit, while the carrots are cooked at the rear of the hot coals, and the potatoes and corn over the coals. Even the rolls are warmed on the grill.

The dip, salad and dessert can be prepared a day ahead, which eliminates any fuss the day of your party.

Mrs. Le Febvre uses a blender to make the dip, which combines cream cheese with onion, horseradish, cream, tabasco and Worcestershire sauce. This dip has a lot of "zip" and Bugles or potato chips can be used for the dipping.

PEG Le FEBVRE also uses a blender for her July Day Salad to mix together cottage cheese, cucumber, mayonnaise, onions and vinegar. This is folded into lime Jello, along with minced celery and chopped almonds.

This tangy salad can be turned into a mold or into cupcake liners placed in muffin tins.

"The salad is nice to serve right in the liner if everything is to be put on one plate," Peg explained, "and the salad won't run even if the other food is hot."

"Or the liners may be removed and the individual molded salads served on lettuce leaves, if desired," she said.

HER BASTING sauce for the Boston rolled beef roast may also be prepared in advance and just heated a little before using. This tasty sauce contains numerous flavorful ingredients which give the beef a delicious flavor, and any leftovers can be spooned onto the meat at the table.

The sweet corn, potatoes and carrots all have their own good flavor from being cooked in tightly-wrapped foil which retains the juices and nutrients of the vegetables.

This good cook acquired both the salad and her favorite Strawberry Cake recipe while living in Atlanta, Ga.

The cake is made by using a packaged white cake mix and blending it with strawberry Jello, salad oil, eggs and frozen strawberries.

Baked in two layers, this moist-textured, luscious cake is iced with a strawberry frosting and garnished with whole, fresh strawberrries and mint leaves. It is a fitting finale for this appealing summer meal.

NOT ONLY IS Mrs. Le Febvre an expert cook, adept at both indoor and outdoor culinary endeavors, but one of her hobbies is foreign cookery. She also is an accomplished seamstress, and enjoys sewing almost more than cooking. These abilities were put to good use when Mrs. Le Febvre did substitute teaching for District 26 and 214, and next year she will teach home economics full time at River Trails School.

The Le Febvres live at 1131 Juniper Lane in Mount Prospect. They have three sons: Marty, 14, who will be a freshman at Wheeling High in fall; Terry, 12, who will be in seventh grade at River Trails, and Billy, 5, who will enter kindergarten.

Mrs. Le Febvre is a member of Delta Zeta Alumnae Club, the PTA and Thunderbird Squaws Bowling League.

MENU

Horseradish Dip
July Day Salad
Barbecued Beef Roast
Baked Potatoes with Sour Cream
Buttered Carrots
Roasted Ears of Corn Rolls
Strawberry Cake

The day before, prepare the dip, salad and cake.

The day of the party, bring roast to room temperature.

Wash potatoes, rub with butter and wrap in foil. Place metal rods right through potatoes and foil.

Peel carrots. Place on piece of heavy foil. Dot with butter; sprinkle with salt and pepper and a dash of sugar. Fold up foil and seal tightly.

Husk corn and wrap in foil with a little bit of butter.

Wrap rolls in foil.

Cook barbecue sauce and cover.

Put roast on spit and wrap until ready to cook.

Place everything on a tray and take outdoors, then all is in readiness for your guests.

Start the fire a half-hour before cooking. Use a meat thermometer and cook approximately 30 minutes per pound for rare or until thermometer registers 140 degrees. Use a Boston roll of beef. A sirloin tip or rib roast may also be used. Baste the meat with barbecue sauce every half hour. Remove from heat 15 minutes before serving.

Place potatoes on coals, allowing one hour for medium-size potatoes.

A half-hour before serving, place rolls in warming oven or at back of coals.

Place carrots to the back of the coals, not on them, or they will burn. Carrots should still be a little crisp after they are cooked, not mushy.

Lay corn down on top of the coals after meat and potatoes have been removed. Takes about 15 minutes to cook while the meat sets for easier carving. Slice meat thin to serve.

HORSERADISH DIP

1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 to 3 tablespoons horseradish
¼ cup cream or more
Dash of tabasco
1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Mix ingredients together in a blender. Use as a dip for potato chips or Bugles.

JULY DAY SALAD

1 large package lime (or lemon) Jello
1 cup boiling water
1 pint creamed cottage cheese
1 large cucumber, peeled
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon instant onion
1 tablespoon vinegar
½ cup minced celery
½ cup chopped blanched almonds

Dissolve Jello in boiling water. Place in refrigerator until it reaches the consistency of egg whites.

Mix together in a blender the cottage cheese, cucumber, salt, mayonnaise, onion and vinegar. Fold this mixture into the Jello. Then fold in the celery and almonds.

Turn into a 1½-quart mold or into muffin tins which have been lined with paper cupcake liners. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Serves 12.

BASTING SAUCE FOR BARBECUED ROAST

½ cup corn oil
½ cup catsup
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup lemon juice
1 medium onion, chopped fine
3 tablespoons brown sugar
1½ teaspoons tabasco
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 clove garlic, chopped
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1½ teaspoons salt
Dash of pepper

Mix ingredients together and bring to a boil. Cover and set aside. Before using, heat the sauce a little. Baste beef roast every half hour. Any leftover sauce can be served at the table.

STRAWBERRY CAKE

1 box white cake mix
1 package strawberry Jello
4 eggs
½ cup water
½ cup liquid shortening
½ cup frozen, thawed strawberries and juice

Mix cake mix and Jello together. Add eggs, which have been beaten for five minutes. Add water and shortening at the same time. Fold in strawberries and juice.

Turn batter into two 9-inch layer cake tins and bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 35 minutes, or whatever time is indicated on the cake mix package. Frost with the following:

STRAWBERRY ICING

1 box powdered sugar
1 stick butter
½ cup frozen, thawed strawberries with a little juice
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat ingredients together with a mixer and spread between layers and on top and sides of cake. Garnish top of cake with whole fresh strawberries and mint leaves.

Week's Best Food Buys

Pork promoters hope for early market break for costs now are on rise again. Center cut pork chops are back to $1.19 a pound and bacon generally is selling at $1.09 for better brands. Lamb is weaker with warm weather buying resistance noted. Beef continues as the best supplied and most competitively priced red meat.

Fryer costs firm even with the more common lower average weight. Hen turkeys are a feature possibility at slightly lower prices, for example Grade A frozen hens at 39 to 45 cents a pound. Butter prices soar with retails averaging an eight-cent a pound advance.

There are few bargains in fresh fruit and vegetable lines either. Even local supply prices are well above the year-ago levels.

RELATIVELY Chicago area food values are as follows:

Meats: round and sirloin steaks, chuck steaks, pot roasts, round and sirloin tip roasts, beef rib roasts; pork picnics.

Poultry: hen turkeys, whole fryers. (SH

Art Busses Mark 50th Anniversary

Their Farm will Sprout Condominiums

by MARIANNE SCOTT
Women's Editor

One day soon, Arthur and Ella Busse will stand on the northwest corner of Oakton and Elmhurst Roads in Mount Prospect, but instead of the 90-acre farm that once was theirs, there'll be 112 families living in each of four huge 3-story condominiums.

The Busses, who observed their golden wedding anniversary June 18, spent the first 47 years of their marriage on this farm.

Three years ago they sold all but 10 acres of the farm and moved from the large 3-story frame family home to a compact, custom-designed ranch home at 690 Bel-Aire Lane in Mount Prospect. On the remaining 10 acres they still raise peonies.

Arthur, one of the three sons of Louis and Louise Busse, was born on the farm property back in 1892 and upon his marriage in 1915, took over operation of the farm when his parents retired and started the Busse Florists in Mount Prospect.

ELLA, TOO, was born on a farm, one of six children of Henry and Wilhelmina Engelking. The Engelking property was just one mile southeast of Arlington Heights and Ella can remember how all the farmers used to get stuck on Foundry Road. "It was the heavy drifts of snow during the winters and the mud in the summers," commented Ella, who recalled that it was often necessary to get out extra teams of horses to help pull the milk wagon on Foundry.

Mrs. Busse also recalls that she and her sister and their four brothers used to ride to St. Peter's Lutheran School in Arlington Heights on the milk wagon, but that they walked home after classes were dismissed. Mr. Busse went to St. John's Lutheran School in Elk Grove and he and his bride of 50 years have been members of St. John's ever since their marriage in that church.

The couple met at the wedding of Art's cousin, Mary Kirchoff, who married one of the Friese boys. Ella was only 14 then, and Art became her first date when he drove her home in his horse and buggy.

After that, the young people saw each other often at the dances held at Schnell's Picnic Grove, then located at State and Higgins Roads, but it wasn't until Ella was 20 that she and Art became engaged. Their betrothal was announced on Art's birthday, April 23, 1915, and they married just one month later.

DURING THE early years of their marriage, the couple engaged in dairy farming, later on, truck gardening and finally, peonies combined with general farming. They reared four children: Marvin H. of Elk Grove Village, who teaches accordion; Wilbur E. of Detroit, a civil and research engineer; Rollin A., who manages a 1500-acre potato farm in Stevenspoint, Wis.; and Carol Jean Busse Metts of Opelika, Ala. who is employed by Pepperell Mills and married to a state trooper.

All of the couple's four children, as well as their 13 grandchildren, were in Mount Prospect to help the Busses celebrate their golden anniversary. The occasion was marked with a brief service at 4 p.m. in St. John's Church, followed by dinner for 400 in the church school and cake and conversation for 150 in the couple's home.

AMONG THE guests were all but one of the Busses' attendants. Matron of honor to Ella was her aunt, Mathilda Clausing Spring of Elgin, while Art's best man was his brother, Fred W. Busse of Mount Prospect. Others in the wedding party were Ella's brother, Edward Engelking of Arlington Heights, Art's cousins, Della Busse Selzer, now of Green Bay, and Louis Meier and his fiancee, Anna Rohlwing, who were married just four days later and are still Mount Prospect residents, and Ella's cousins, Meta Meyer Hagenow of Palatine and Emil Engelking of Elgin. Emil was the only attendant unable to attend the party.

Other guests included Ella's brother, Alex Engelking of Arlington Heights and relatives from Nebraska, Georgia, Wisconsin and Michigan. Ella's brother, Martin Engelking, also of Arlington Heights, was vacationing and unable to attend. A sister and brother of Ella's both died at the ages of 27, and a brother of Art's, Alfred H. is also deceased.

ART REFLECTED that it has been a long time since he and his brothers swam in the creek on their father's farm or played marbles and ball in the old school yard. And farmers no longer use horses and a hand plow to till the fields as he did at the age of 12. But Art wouldn't change a day of it. He's too busy with his hobbies and looking forward to the future.

MR. & MRS. ARTHUR BUSSE

In September Art and Ella will become great-grandparents for the first time, compliments of their granddaughter and her husband, the Ernst Grimms, who operate a 300-acre farm in Marengo.

September also marks the beginning of another bowling season. Both are avid bowlers and maintain averages in the 130's. Art bowls on the senior league and Ella in a ladies' morning league; both bowl in the church's mixed league. Ella's team won first place last year and she now has three bowling trophies.

BESIDES BOWLING, Ella has amassed more than 1500 hours of volunteer service at Lutheran General Hospital. She devotes one day each week to the hospital and last March was presented with a gold pin for her many hours of volunteer work.

Cards are also among the couple's diversions, pinochle and an old German game, Solo, being their favorites. "Once you learn Solo, you don't want to play any other card game," enthused Art.

Traveling is another of the Busses' hobbies. Last year they travelled to Europe, three years ago to Alaska, and two years ago to Hawaii. Both agree that they might like to live in Hawaii, and that Switzerland was "perfectly beautiful," but to these long-time area residents, there's still "no place like home" where they can be near their family and many friends.

Meadows Juniors Show Versatility

July may be vacation time for many people, but next week will be a busy one for members of Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club. They have slated their annual garden walk for Thursday, July 21, followed by a 3-day "Gas Pump Jamboree."

"A Stroll through Old Mexico" is the theme of this year's garden walk. The appetizer course will be served at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Thomas Zimmerman, 3711 Jay Lane, and the main course of chili con carne in Mrs. Raymond Seilig's home, 2403 Dove St.

Further information of the event is available from Mrs. Paul Weinberg, 358-6895, or Mrs. Joseph Godawa, CL 5-7454.

THE JUNIORS' third annual "Gas Pump Jamboree" is set for July 22, 23 and 24 at Rolling Meadows Shell Station, corner of Kirchoff Road and Meadow Drive. Members will man the gas pumps for the three days, and proceeds will go to their philanthropies. Benefiting from the gas sales will be Clearbrook Center, the local library and the club's scholarship fund.

Free Pepi will be given with the purchase of eight gallons or more of gas, and there will be candy for the children. (S

Set Potluck For Palatine Gardeners

Mrs. Thomas Bouffard and Mrs. Alfred Wedow will host a Palanois Park Garden Club potluck supper today (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. John Hayes, 259 Oaksbury Lane, Palatine.

Members and their husbands have been invited to the supper at which Gerald Blanchard will show slides of places he has familiarized himself with on his travels through Illinois. The topic of his program. "Seeing Scenic Illinois," will highlight Galena and other historical sites of the state.

Members of the club are reminded that flowers for arrangements at Plum Grove Nursing Home are to be cut on Wednesdays for the duration of the summer. (S

Juniors' Board in Finale

The newly-installed officers and board members of Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Edward Wegner, first vice president, for their final meeting of the year. New officers in attendance were Mrs. John J. Finnerty, recording secretary; Mrs. James E. Daly, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. L. Hampton, treasurer, and Mrs. Robert G. Petersen, program chairman.

Continuing officers besides Mrs. Wegner were Mrs. Melvin N. Levers, president, and Mrs. Jack Piper, second vice president.

NEWLY appointed committee chairmen who came to learn about their duties for the year were Mrs. Russell VanKampen, philanthropy; Mrs. Joel Axelrad, ways and means; Mrs. Richard Berkshire, hospitality; Mrs. Burney E. Wilken, revisions, and Mrs. Bert Morris, publicity. (S

Poise Is Acquired– Not Inborn

Although many people think poise is an inborn trait, it is actually acquired. It's the ability to be super-confident in any situation—to keep "cool" in moments of stress or whirlwind activity.

A well-groomed appearance is the best insurance for being poised. If you're not as self-assured as you'd like to be, perhaps you need a grooming check-up.

FOR EXAMPLE, investigate your wardrobe to find out why you like wearing certain clothes and dislike others. Chances are it's a matter of fit. Even the liveliest girl can look ill-at-ease in a dress that's too tight or too long.

A bad make-up job can also ruin self-assurance. Practice with new beauty aids in private before you brave them in public. Peruse the fashion magazines and try to emulate their grooming techniques—adapting them to your own personality.

Mastering these fine points of self-assurance will help achieve poise and all that comes with it. After all, if you look your best it's only natural that you'll act that way. (S

RECENTLY MARRIED in Faith Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, were the former Carol Tegtow, daughter of the Ray Tegtows, 2704 Hawk Lane, Rolling Meadows, and Michael L. Young, son of the Lee Youngs, 269 N. Schubert, Palatine. Following a reception for 200 guests at Bill and Hazel's Banquet Hall where the couple cut a 4-tiered wedding cake, the newlyweds spent two weeks in New Orleans. They are now at home at 15 E. Slade, Palatine.

Slate Workshop On Red China

The League of Women Voters serving Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships will sponsor its first workshop July 18 as a part of its 2-year study of Red China and Taiwan. This study topic was adopted by the National League at a spring convention.

Hostess for Monday's workshop will be Mrs. John Muller, 642 W. Central Road, Arlington Heights, Mrs. Muller is chairman of the local league's resource committee on Red China and Taiwan.

AT THE 8 P.M. meeting, 10 books on Red China will be revealed and topics will range from "The Thought Revolution and Communist China in World Politics" to "A Businessman Looks at Red China" and "I Saw Red China."

Members of the resource committee are Mrs. Stephen Caruso, Prospect Heights; Mrs. Dan Pearson and Mrs. John Tremore, Mount Prospect; Mrs. William Trevor, Rolling Meadows; Mrs. Joseph McIntyre, Hoffman Estates; Mrs. Charlene Barron, Mrs. Frederic Marks, Mrs. John F. Klussman, Mrs. George Ireland and Mrs. Hal Cress, all of Arlington Heights. (SF

No Vacation For Nurses' Lending Closet

A summer vacation from school and work is no vacation from sprains and fractures, so the Arlington Heights Nurses Club is keeping its lending closet open.

The club lends sickroom equipment from baby scales to hospital beds to Arlington Heights residents without charge. Mrs. Richard Cowan, 392-3732 may be contacted for crutches and Mrs. Dale Bottom, 392-0676 for any other articles.

Guests Greet Bridal Couple At Country Club Reception

Cocktails, a luncheon and a champagne toast for 160 guests at Itasca Country Club followed the 11 a.m. wedding ceremony of the former Geraldine M. Kuhn, daughter of the Edgar Kuhns, 326 E. Cypress, Arlington Heights, and Lawrence Barrett Sullivan, son of Mrs. and the late Mr. Lawrence J. A. Sullivan of Chicago. The June 4 double ring ceremony took place in Our Lady of the Wayside Church and Rev. Harold O'Hara officiated.

The bride entered the church which was decorated with white mums and yellow carnations, in a silk organza empire gown with elbow length sleeves. The bodice of the gown was an embroidered lace trimmed with seed pearls which climaxed in a sabrina neckline. The front of the A-line skirt was also embroidered with lace and accented with seed pearls and the back of her gown fell into a cathedral train. A triple tiered elbow length illusion veil was held by a double tiered crown of pearls and aurora borealis. For her wedding, the bride carried a round bouquet of lily of the valley, white roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Frances DiBlasi, the bride's sister from McHenry, was matron of honor, and another sister, Mrs. Mary Ann Bergau of Arlington Heights was bridesmaid. For the occasion they donned dresses of green chiffon over yellow taffeta. Yellow daisies encircled the empire waists from which the A-line skirts flowed. Fashioned after the bride's gown, the dresses of her attendants had elbow length sleeves and sabrina necklines. Their bouquets were of yellow roses and white carnations.

The best man was a fraternity brother of the groom, Frank Tyska of Boston, and the usher was Robert Repin of Chicago.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a turquoise satinized shantung sheath suit with a lace bodice. She accented her ensemble with two small yellow orchids. The mother of the groom wore a soft pink chiffon over taffeta sleeveless dress with a beaded bodice and a full skirt. Her corsage was of deep pink roses.

After the reception which terminated with a final dance at 5 o'clock, the newlyweds left on a two week trip to San Francisco, Lake Tahoe and Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan are now at home at 5358 W. Deming Place, Chicago.

The bride, who was graduated from St. Patrick Academy, Des Plaines, and Marquette University, is currently employed by United Air Lines. Her husband, a graduate of DePaul Academy and an honor graduate of DePaul University is a certified Public Accountant with Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery.

Hanover Jrs. Appoint Chairmen for New Year

The board of the Hanover Park Junior Woman's Club has announced the newly appointed chairmen of special projects for the Illinois Federated Woman's Clubs of the Seventh District.

The chairmen are: Mrs. Edwin Padberg, American home; Mrs. Harold Humphreys, community improvements; Mrs. Ernest Oleksy, education; Mrs. Lawrance Winder, Illinois club women magazine; Mrs. Joseph Hernachi, literature; Mrs. Thomas Siesennop, press relations; Mrs. Richard Gross, stamps; Mrs. Alfred Danklesen, veterans service and Mrs. Wallace Martin, mental health.

WORKING WITH the Junior Woman's Club of the Seventh District, are the chairmen for other club interests. They are Mrs. Evert Burhite, ways and means; Mrs. William Richter, nomination; Mrs. Donald Decker, hospitality and Mrs. Leslie Imberg, revisions.

On July 22, 23 and 24 the club members will operate a Volunteer Fire Department Carnival. Members are also reminded to collect cancelled postage stamps with large margins around them. These are to be sold to earn money for charity. The club members also voted to contribute $25 to the Officer Thomas Tinerella Memorial Fund.

Organized and affiliated only this year, president of the group is Mrs. John Jensen, 1501 Indian Hill, Hanover Park.

Woman's Guild Names Officers

Installation of new officers of the Woman's Guild was held June 26 at the 10:50 a.m. service in the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit, Elk Grove Village.

Officers for 1966-67 are Mrs. Gerald O'Connell, president; Mrs. Harold Smith, vice president; Mrs. Gerald Wooley, treasurer; Mrs. David Stewart, secretary.

Chairmen are Mrs. Jack Doyle, cradle roll; Mrs. Bruce Swanson, office assistance; Mrs. Harold Behrendt, altar; Mrs. Charles Eckert, program; Mrs. Raymond Leseth, nursery; Mrs. Girard Russell, newcomers; Mrs. Ervin Morenzin, visiting; Mrs. Ervin Brandt, LWML; Mrs. David Carlson, chaplain, and Mrs. Frank Peterson, interest group. High Diver

Girls can now do tricks on the diving board that used to give boys trouble, and the credit is due a new aluminum diving board, rather than a national physical fitness program.

The new board gives much more thrust than older wooden designs and offers more consistency since it can't get water-logged. (S

PRINCIPIA COLLEGE CLASSMATES Jane Staples Jealous and Algot Talmage Runeman were married June 4 in a quiet ceremony at Wheeling Presbyterian Church, Rev. George Ekstrom officiating. The bride is the daughter of the senior Bradford Jealouses of Wellesley, Mass., while the groom, who attended Prospect High School, is the son of the Algot Runemans of Wheeling. The newlyweds will make their home in the east, matriculating at Boston University after a summer as camp counsellors in Maine. (Jenart)

After the wedding, the couple will reside in Dekalb where Miss Del Giudice will serve as a speech and drama instructor at Dekalb Junior High School while her husband continues at the university.

Blessing from Professors Follows Student Marriage

The Rev. Gilbert Hartke, O.P., the Rev. Brendan Barrett, O.P., the Rev. Charles Auth and the Rev. Robert Paul Mohan, four former professors of the new Mr. and Mrs. James Rosenhauer, joined in a formal blessing of the couple after their June 11 nuptials.

The former Vivian Margarita Garcia-Robiou, daughter of Senora Aida Garcia-Robiou and of the late Dr. Carlos Garcia-Robiou of Havana, Cuba, and James Rosenhauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Rosenhauer, 2290 N. Circle Drive, Palatine, exchanged marriage vows in St. John the Baptist de La Salle Church, Chillum, Md. Monsignor Theodore E. McCarrick, president of the Catholic University of Puerto Rico, officiated at the 10:30 a.m. double ring ceremony. The couple became acquainted with the priest while he was assistant to the rector of the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C., and they were students at the same university.

The bride's brother, Carlos Garcia of New York, escorted her down the aisle and gave his sister in marriage to Mr. Rosenhauer. For the occasion, she wore an ivory peau de soie empire gown with a flowing cathedral train. Her veil was a floor-length handmade heirloom lace mantilla, and she carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies.

Lynn Rosenhauer, a sister of the groom, served as maid of honor, and she wore an ivory linen dress accented with moss green lace. Her bouquet was a small spray of daisies.

In similar gowns were the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Carlos Garcia, the bridesmaid, and another sister of the groom, Joan Rosenhauer, junior bridesmaid.

Joe Meng of New York City, with whom the groom had attended the Catholic University of America, was best man, and the ushers were Bill Fuhrman of Washington, D.C., and Francis Lorson of Rochester, N.Y.

The soloist for the nuptial Mass, Janelle Coppinger of Harrisburg, Pa., was accompanied by William T. Byrd of Lancaster, Pa., at the organ and Anastasia Weilandt of East Northport, Long Island, on the violin.

In a pink crepe jacket dress and a purse corsage of cymbidium orchids the groom's mother welcomed the couple's wedding guests. Joining her in the reception line was Mrs. Sullivan, the bride's aunt, in an embroidered blue linen dress accented with cymbidium orchids.

Following a reception at the Holiday Inn in Washington, D.C., the couple left for a one-week wedding trip to Hawaii. They are spending the summer in Chicago while the groom is employed at a city law firm, and they will move to New Haven, Conn., in the fall where he will enter his final year of law at Yale University. Hairdresser At Seminar

Armand Gentile, 11 S. Patton, Arlington Heights, a member of the Board of Directors and a committee member of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers Association attended an educational seminar sponsored by the Association at Banana's Steak House in Oak Lawn on July 6.

At this time Chicago area hairdressers were shown how to change a dark haired woman into a partial blonde. Also demonstrated at this session were new techniques of permanent waving for the current hair style trend, "Lovebird."

The next educational meeting of the Association will be Aug. 9 at the Ramada Inn in Schiller Park.

Mr. Gentile is also a member of the area-wide Affiliate 47 of the IHCA which meets monthly to review latest techniques and styling. (S

Appliances Now Cure 'Frost Bite'

One out of two refrigerator-freezers bought today is a completely no-frost model — frost never forms in either the refrigerator or freezer compartments.

Besides eliminating the messy chore of defrosting, prevention of frost build-up in both compartments also helps new refrigerator-freezers to operate more efficiently. An accumulation of frost acts as insulation and causes frozen food packages to stick together.

The new no-frost models maintain a constant zero-degree temperature in the freezer compartment and prescribed cold-zone temperatures in the refrigerator compartment. (S

Cocktails, Buffet to Mark Opening of Horseshoe Club

Official opening of the new Horseshoe Club at Arlington Park will take place this weekend as the 100 founder members and a number of special guests gather for cocktails and buffet dinner on Sunday.

Chicago Mayor and Mrs. Richard J. Daley are among the guests expected to attend the affair. Gov. Otto Kerner is invited, but it wasn't known late in the week whether he could be on hand for the official opening of the new club.

Planned as a place where area business people and residents may dine in elegance, the Horseshoe Club was built by Mrs. Webb Everett next to the colorful Carousel Restaurant which she also owns. However, the club will be operated by its members through an eight-member board of directors that includes Mrs. Everett.

NOT ONLY will it provide a gracious place to dine and entertain, but there are facilities for special activities. Besides the dining room and cocktail lounge, there is the Citation Room, large enough to accommodate 350 persons.

Heading the board of directors is Howard Alton of Barrington, vice president of Mount Prospect State Bank and one of the four founders of the club. Vice president of the board is Robert Malcolm of Arlington Heights, president of Fuze-On Products.

Other board members besides Mrs. Everett are R. G. Grigsby and Edward Langell of Barrington, Fred Gloor of Arlington Heights, Edgar Hill of Chicago and Harold Seigel of Elgin.

Other big-name guests at Sunday's official opening include members of the Illinois Racing Board and their wives, the four founder members and their wives and Chicago newspaper columnists Irv Kupcinet, Kay Loring and Maggie Daly.

Members of the Horseshoe Club come mainly from the northwest suburbs but such north shore suburbs as Lake Forest and Winnetka and a number of the far west suburbs also are represented, according to Alton. (S

Jim Conway, Emcee For Fashion Show

Although summer vacations are now the big conversation topic, members of Northwest Community Hospital Auxiliary find that their thoughts are already turning to September and the fashion show sponsored by the women. The largest luncheon show in the area, tickets are already on sale for the Sept. 13 affair.

The committee headed by Mrs. Ralph T. Lidge of Arlington Heights, has just announced that Jim Conway of the WBKB-TV "Morning Show," will be emcee and a special guest of the show, "Running of the Eighth Annual Benefit Luncheon and Fashion Show." The fund-raiser will again be held at Arlington Park, in the new Turfside Room.

JIM CONWAY

CONWAY, a captain in the Naval Reserves and a flying enthusiast, will have a TV camera crew on hand to film highlights of the luncheon. The film will be shown at a later date on his "Morning Show."

Luncheon will be at noon with cocktails served from 11 a.m. Bonwit Teller will provide the fashions and models and music will be by Les Waverly.

"The success of the luncheon and fashion show in previous years presents a challenge for the 1966 committee and we are aiming high for a repeat performance this year," commented Mrs. Lidge. Last year's show netted $12,00, making it possible for the Auxiliary to make a new pledge to the hospital. "Funds from this benefit will be applied to the new pledge of $150,000" stated Mrs. A. J. Daley of Mount Prospect, president of the Auxiliary. (S

Items to be sent to Viet Nam include bars of soap, new or used paperback books and plastic containers of Realemon. Persons interested in contributing any of these articles may contact Mrs. Rossi, 665-1301, or Mrs. William Firmstone, TW 4-5697.

Co-workers Married June 5 In St. Peter Church Rites

Former Pure Oil employes who met while working for that company became man and wife June 5 in St. Peter Lutheran Church. The former Judith M. Greenacre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman Greenacre, 201 S. Evergreen Ave., Arlington Heights, and Charles E. Bradley, son of Mrs. Joseph Stritar of Chicago, exchanged marriage vows before Rev. R. O. Bartz at a 4 o'clock ceremony.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of silk organza over taffeta embroidered with alencon lace. Her fingertip silk illusion veil was held by a pillbox of peau de soie trimmed with swiss lace and pearls. The bride's bouquet was composed of roses, stephanotis and ivy.

THE MAID OF honor, Lois Hetzke of Arlington Heights, donned a yellow faille floor-length gown with a white lace jacket. Her veiled halo headpiece was covered in yellow faille and lace, and she carried a cascade of white daisies, miniature yellow carnations and smilax.

Her escort, the best man, was Ronald Betts of Arlington Heights, and ushers were Allen Magruder of Park Forest and the bride's brother, Thomas Greenacre.

A grade and high school friend, Mrs. Thomas Wade, was soloist for the ceremony, singing selections from the "Song of Ruth" and a "Benediction."

THE BRIDE'S mother wore a pink linen ensemble which she accented with a corsage of sweetheart roses, while the mother of the groom chose yellow crepe with a corsage of small yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted 50 guests at a dinner reception at Ehlen's Green Tree Inn in Bensenville. they then left for a 2-week wedding trip in the Canadian Rockies where they visited Jasper and Banff National Parks.

The couple is now at home at 500 E. 33rd St., Chicago.

The bride, an Arlington High School graduate, was employed by the Austin Engineering Co., Des Plaines. Her husband, who is attending Illinois Institute of Technology, is employed by Montgomery Ward as a computer programmer. (Jenart (S

Local Moms at Internat'l La Leche League Confab

When 700 women agree on any one subject it's big news. The 700 mothers who recently attended the second La Leche League International convention in Indianapolis June 22-24 all agree on the importance of good mothering, especially through breastfeeding.

Mrs. Qentin Ford Jr., of Rolling Meadows and Mrs. Thomas Kientzle and Mrs. Raymond Hornbostel of Arlington Heights were among those represented from throughout the United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico. Also, some 300 babies and their brothers and sisters, plus a number of husbands, accompanied the League mothers to the convention. Among the babies was Mrs. Ford's four-month-old daughter Krista.

THE NAME La Leche is Spanish and means "the milk." The League, a non-sectarian, non-profit organization began in Franklin Park 10 years ago when one mother, who had successfully nursed her baby, helped another who wanted to breastfeed. This is still the basic approach, although the League now has more than 400 groups in 41 states and six foreign countries.

The convention featured films, addresses and panel discussions, with medical experts discussing various aspects of breastfeeding, family-centered maternity care and childbirth.

Unusual features included the donation of cloth diapers and diaper service for the use of the "infant delegates," the loan of nearly 175 cribs and carbeds for a Rock and Rest room at the hotel and borrowing 250 blankets from the Red Cross. (S

Summary of Organization's Work Reveals Impressive Award Listing

AWARD-WINNING STUDENTS from Forest View High School are Mary Bowen, 115 W. Central, Pat Ayres, 1525 S. Arlington Heights Road, and Cheryl Baldassari, 130 W. Golf Road. Given by Arlington Heights Woman's Club, Miss Bowen received the music camp scholarship, Miss Ayres a summer art school scholarship and Miss Baldassari, a college scholarship. (S

Summaries of the various activities of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club for the past year indicate $2,664 was given in philanthropies and 10,046 known hours were given in volunteer service.

A total of 24 awards were won this year in district and state competition.

The club was awarded three Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs first place state awards.

The International Relations Committee, headed by Mrs. Howard Payne, won first place in the Pan-American Diamond Jubilee Contest. This contest was held as 1966 is the Diamond Jubilee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Pan-American Union.

THE INTERNATIONAL Relations Study Group held an intensive study of South America including programs on "Christmas in South America," "A Trip Through South America," and an American Field Service Exchange student program featuring exchange students in the area. The exchange students participating in the program were Lilly Neal of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Malena Gonzales of Paraguay, Naoki Saito of Japan, and Karrina Hacklin of Finland.

The American Citizenship and Legislation Committee received the IFWC first place citizenship award. Mrs. John W. Schaff was chairman of the committee. An Illinois State flag was acquired this year so the club now has three flags including the United States flag and the club flag.

The Education Committee, headed by Mrs. Ralph S. Davis, received the first place state award in education in the Shell Oil Contest. The program for education was accomplished through study group programs, regular club programs and service to the library. schools, YMCA, and Scouting.

EDUCATION objectives fulfilled this year included encouraging youth to become teachers, to sponsor and promote scholarships, to encourage interest in and service to libraries, to promote safety, to interest clubwomen in adult education, and to inform women of advances in public education.

Other awards from the Seventh District were first place in literature, Indian affairs, international affairs division, the daytime sewing contest, and for volunteer hospital hours. Other awards included press book, stamps, literature, and community improvement.

Mrs. Burton Noyes was named the "district jewel" for "her 62 years of outstanding service."

Funds for philanthropic projects were raised from a November benefit card party, a used book sale in January, the annual bridge tournament and club dues.

FOUR COLLEGE scholarships of $200 each were awarded to local public high school students, Pamela Svast, Lynn Nakutny, Robin Mills and Cheryl Baldassari. Scholarships to attend summer music camp were awarded to Mary Bowen, Bill Hazen, Lynn Whiting, Betty White and Beverly Seng. Summer art course awards were received by Pat Ayres and Robert Stluka. Conservation scholarship winner was Christopher Brand.

Other assistance given locally was to American Field Service, Historical Society, Arlington Heights Memorial Library, Elgin State Hospital, United Fund of Arlington Heights, Clearbrook School for Retarded and Northwest Community Hospital.

A new kitchen was installed on the main floor in the Recreation Park Field House as a result of a $1,000 donation from the club.

Aid was given to needy families in the village at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

ALL GENERAL Federation of Women's Clubs state, district and junior club projects were supported.

Volunteer hospital work included hours at Elgin State Hospital, Northwest Community Hospital and Hines Veterans Hospital. Three parties were provided for hospitalized veterans at the Great Lakes Naval Hospital.

A Christmas party was given for the servicemen at the Nike Base, which included decorating the entertainment lounge and providing refreshments for the party.

The club also participated in the Arlington Heights Youth Week program in April. (S

B and PW Outlines Plans On a Sunday Afternoon

The coming season's program of dinner meetings, social and fund-raising events and Federation activities was outlined by officers and committee chairmen of the Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club when they met Sunday afternoon, June 26, at the Rolling Meadows home of Mrs. Helen Macior, president-elect and program chairman. After the business meeting the women were joined by their husbands for a potluck supper.

Plans for the coming year were based on suggestions by Illinois Federation officers and round table discussions with representatives from other B and PW Clubs in the Chicago area at a Workshop Session held earlier this month at the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago. A field trip is among new projects under consideration for this year. Mrs. Ruth Hofmeister, who recently took office as president, discussed the Club's participation in the formation of new B and PW Clubs in other suburban areas.

THE 1966-67 slate of officers for the Mount Prospect B and PW Club includes: Mrs. Bernice Bosma, vice - president; Mrs. Gaile Rankin, recording secretary; Mrs. Charoltte Aslanoff, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ruby Morton, treasurer, and Mrs. Eleanor Peterson, assistant treasurer.

Chairmen of standing committees are: Mrs. Jayne Shutt, membership; Mrs. Enola Watson, finance; Mrs. Hazel Gardner, legislation; Mrs. Alice Platt, personal development; Miss Kathaleen Walters, world affairs; Mrs. Gladys Lodise, civic participation; Miss Marian Heniken, public relations; Mrs. Ruth Avalon, hospitality, and Mrs. Laura Wolf, courtesy.

MRS. GINNI Rayner will direct the club's special fund-raising projects, and Mrs. Hazel Gardner will be in charge of the annual Night at the Races. Mrs. Edna Hoehle will administer the philanthropy fund, and Mrs. Barbara Johnson will direct the club's participation in the Celia M. Howard Fellowship Program of the Illinois Federation. Mrs. Charlotte Shaughnessy will serve as parliamentarian and Mrs. Phyllis Gardner, as historian. Mrs. Marian Phillips will edit the yearbook, and Mrs. Betty Curfman, the news bulletin, "The Torch."

Those attending the recent Workshop Session in Chicago included Mrs. Hofmeister, Mrs. Macior, Mrs. Bosma, Mrs. Avalon, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Lodise, Mrs. Shutt, Mrs. Platt, Mrs. Schaughnessy, Miss Heniken and Miss Margaret Pahr.

Although the club holds no regular meetings during July and August, inquiries regarding membership are welcomed from business and professional women in Mount Prospect and other communities in the northwest suburban area. Inquiries may be telephoned to Mrs. Shutt at 392-1717. (S

Donna Adams Is Bride In June 18 Ceremony

Gowns made by her mother highlighted the wedding of the former Donna June Adams, daughter of the Raymond H. Adamses, 112 W. Sunset Road, Mount Prospect, and William Harris, son of the William Harrises of Hamilton, Ill.

For the 11 o'clock Mass June 18 in St. Raymond Church, Mount Prospect, the bride donned a gown of white peau de soie. The scalloped neckline of the chantilly lace bodice was edged with seed pearls and a large appliqued bow, also edged with seed pearls, held her peau de soie train. The ballerina-length bouffant illusion veil cascaded from a crown of lace and pearl petals, and the bride held a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis as she was married by Rev. Kalas.

MRS. LARRY COLE, the bride's sister from South Bristol, Maine, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Rose Marie Vavra of Berwyn, and Joanne Holker of Oak Lawn. They wore aqua chiffon floor-length gowns with fitted bodices, scooped necklines and small sleeves. As an accent to their dresses, they carried cascades of white and aqua fuji mums.

Escorting the bride's attendants were best man Thomas Harris, the groom's brother, and ushers Joseph Harris, another brother of the groom, Robert Adams, the bride's brother, and Larry Cole, the bride's brother-in-law.

TO GREET the guests at a reception in Old Orchard Country Club, the bride's mother made for herself an aqua lace sheath which she trimmed with a corsage of white roses and aqua carnations. The groom's mother wore a pink silk dress with a corsage of white roses and pink carnations.

Sprays of mums decked the tables for the luncheon, and a band then provided music for dancing. Among the more than 100 guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. LeFrore, who came from Largo, Fla., for the festivities.

After a brief honeymoon, the couple is at home in Bloomington where the groom is employed by General Electric. The bride, who was graduated from Prospect High School and Illinois State University, will teach second grade in Normal this fall. Her husband received his degree from Western Illinois University and taught school in Normal until this summer. (S

Pop-Ups

Cooking breakfast bacon now takes no more effort than making toast, thanks to a new aluminum foil package.

The bacon is pre-cooked and sealed in foil. The housewife (or even the man of the house) pops the packet into the toaster and gets four slices of finished bacon in 60 seconds. (s

At Rainbow Assembly

Wheeling Assembly 81 Order of Rainbow for Girls was honored at the Illinois Grand Assembly session by having a past worthy adviser, Donna Stevenson, named as grand representative of California.

Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stevenson, 168 Center St., Wheeling, and a senior at Wheeling High School.

DONNA STEVENSON

She has been a Rainbow Girl since she was 12 years old and has served the assembly in many stations.

SHE WILL represent Wheeling No. 81 at Rainbow functions such as official visits, receptions, Friends' Nights and "serve-outs." First appearance in her official capacity was at a reception in Oak Lawn July 9 for Miss Nancy Jansen, newly-elected grand worthy adviser of the State of Illinois.

Fashions for the Bride

BRIDAL FASHIONS FOR FALL and winter '66-'67 were displayed in a late June showing held in the Citation Room the new Horseshoe Club at Arlington Park. Fashions were from the Bridal Terrace, Palatine, many featuring kabuchi sleeves, A-line skirts and watteau trains. Most popular length for veils contineus to be elbow length, with headpieces designed to flatter the bride's features. Model at left is Gayle Martini of Elk Grove Village who wears a silk peau de soie gown with re-embroidered alencon lace trim and a pillbox hat of matching peau rosebuds. At right, Nancy Daley of Arlington Heights wears satin ottoman with venice lace accents and a bonnet-type headpiece of beaded lace. Commentator for the showing was Mrs. Elizabeth Yochem of Arlington Heights.

FOR THE FAMILY MANAGER

ITEM: To prevent unnecessary splatters on you and the object you are painting, never overload a brush when you dip it into a paint can.

* * *

ITEM: When buying wild or cultivated blueberries, look for those that are plump, fresh in appearance, fairly uniform in size, clean, dry, free from leaves or stems, and with full color throughout.

* * *

ITEM: Generally, interior walls, whether dry wall, plaster or other materials, are coated with a flat wall paint, either alkyd or latex. Latex is easier to apply and is a little better in color and color retention. The alkyd paint has somewhat better hiding power and particularly on the trim, has somewhat better abrasion resistance.

* * *

ITEM: The actual cost of paint to cover the average house is usually a small fraction of the total cost of labor and materials. It is good economy to buy a quality paint product in order to lengthen the time between repaintings.

Ozark Honeymoon Follows Erickson-Oldenberg Rites

A honeymoon in the Ozarks followed the June 25 wedding of the former Judith Ann Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Erickson, 1546 N. Ridge, Arlington heights, and Gerald J. Oldenburg, son of Mrs. Arthur W. Oldenburg of Mundelein.

Wearing an empire gown of peau de soie with a lace bodice, and an elbow-length veil caught by an open rose headpiece, the bride carried a cascade of white carnations for the double ring ceremony in St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights. Rev. Robert O. Bartz officiated.

IN MULTICOLORED whipped cream empire gowns, the bride's attendants carried pink carnations. The matron of honor was Mrs. Ronald Straley, and bridesmaids were the bride's two sisters, Mrs. Elmer Fritz and Ardith Erickson, and a friend, Marcia Munk. Flower girls, attired like the bridesmaids, were the bride's cousin, Carol Mattson, and the groom's niece, Wendy May.

The best man was James Stemple, and ushers were Harold Greisz, Lawrence Koski and the groom's brother, Lowell Oldenburg.

A RECEPTION at Countryside Fire House, Mundelein, was preceded by a dinner at the church. The couple is now at home at 15 W. Lakeview, Mundelein.

The bride is a graduate of Rich Township High School, Park Forest, and she attended Mt. San Antonio College, Walnut, Calif. The groom was graduated from Schurz High School, Chicago. (S

Storkfeathers

With the numerous fireworks displays in the area this year, the stork probably had some singed tail feathers, but, like the mailman who delivers "through wind and rain," the stork managed to make his July 4 deliveries to the northwest suburbs.

With a sparkle in his eye which, of course, was a replica of the many sparklers he saw en route, came Curtis William Cosper to Northwest Community Hospital. Curtis is the 7-pound son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cosper, 271 Albert Terrace, Wheeling. The baby's four brothers and sisters who eagerly awaited the new member of their clan are Kim, 5, Joyce Anne, 4, Lawrence, 3, and Michael, 2. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cosper of Hayward, Wis., and Mrs. V. Sternberg of Palatine. Great-grandparents living in this area are Mr. and Mrs. A. Douglas of Palatine.

On his way through Arlington Heights, the old stork was caught in an aerial fire-cracker, and Steven Murray Burfeind drifted down on a remnant of a starburst to Northwest Community Hospital and the Murray Burfeinds of 219 N. Yale Ave. Like a third cherry bomb in his family, Steven is the youngest of three boys. His brothers are Philip, 3½ and Andrew, 2. The baby's grandparents are the Anton Schroedls of St. Petersburg, Fla., and the Henry Burfeinds of Red Wing, Minn.

Laura Judith Ramsey is the second daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Philip L. Ramsey, 123 S. Pine, Mount Prospect. The 8 pound 3 ounce baby was born in Lutheran General Hospital June 26. Suburban Living

Especially for Women

Rolling Meadows Pair Is Married

A candlelight ceremony June 18 in the Community Church of Rolling Meadows marked the marriage of the former Jeanette Horn, 2400 Bluebird Lane, Rolling Meadows, and William Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Powell, 3707 Meadow Drive, Rolling Meadows. Rev. William Herman officiated at the 7 p.m. double ring ceremony.

For her wedding the bride chose a candlelight gown of Baroque Venice lace on Irish linen. Her train was of a floral motif and her short veil was caught by a tiny pearled pillbox hat. The bride carried a bouquet of stephanotis and pink tea roses.

THE MATRON of honor, Mrs. Odie Miller of Arlington Heights, wore a flamingo pink organza gown with a lace bodice. Her bouquet was composed of shrimp pink roses interspersed with pink tea roses. Mr. Miller was best man.

For the occasion, the mother of the groom donned a white lame dress which she accented with an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, 100 guests were greeted at "This and That" for a buffet dinner. Don Reynolds' Combo provided music for the occasion.

The bride, who is employed at Michael D Beauty Salon, and her husband, an employe of Reynolds Products, Inc., spent three days at The Abbey in Fontana, Wis. They are now at home at 2400 Bluebird Lane, Rolling Meadows. (Arlington Portrait Studios) (S

Katherine Robbins Among Earliest of June Brides

One week at Lake of the Ozarks was the finale to the June 4 wedding of the former Katherine Marie Robbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Robbins, 811 N. Gibbons, Arlington Heights, and Richard Albert DeMichael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert DeMichael, Chicago.

Rev. Robert Strzelecki celebrated the 11 o'clock Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony in St. James Church, Arlington Heights.

Wearing a peau de soie gown with an alencon lace bodice, the bride carried a bouquet of white orchids for the nuptials. Her gown fell to a train behind her, and she wore an illusion veil held by a tiara crown on her head.

ALL OF THE bride's attendants were dressed similarly in mint green empire gowns of peau de soie, and they carried pale yellow carnations. Maid of honor was Carol Goto, a cousin of the bride from Roselle. Bridesmaids were Kathy O'Neill of Chicago and Alice Frier of Arlington Heights.

Frank Savastano, a Chicago cousin of the groom, served as best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Bill Robbins, and another of the groom's cousins from Chicago, Donald Makeci.

To greet the 200 guests at Petricca's Restaurant, Chicago, the bride's mother wore a pale pink shantung jacket dress and the mother of the groom a pink shantung suit. Both complemented their ensembles with a white orchid corsage.

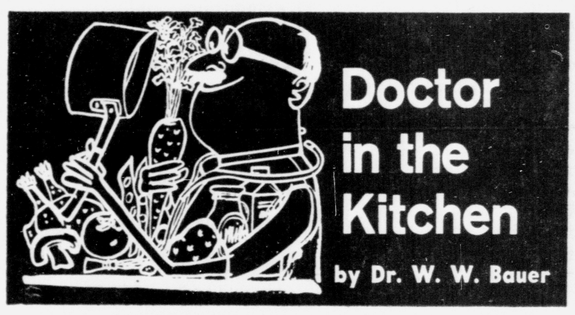
A graduate of Prospect High School and of St. Anne's School of Nursing in Chicago, the bride is employed in a doctor's office. Her husband was graduated from St. Patrick's High School and is currently enrolled at De Paul University. He is employed by Chicago's American. (S

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORDS BY LINDA NORRIS

If You Ain't Lovin' You Ain't Livin' might have been titled The Best of . . . or The Hits of Faron Young . . . The dozen songs in this new LP by Young all played an important part in his rise to stardom . . . Besides the title song, Faron is also heard singing Hey, Good Looking, the Hank Williams tune which he helped make famous; Goin' Steady, one of his biggest single hits; Just Married, Live Fast, Love Hard, Die Young, Love Has Finally Come My Way and six others.

It's been almost 10 years since George van Eps, the originator or the seven-string guitar, recorded an album . . . Since that time the guitarist has spent most of his hours teaching, writing books on music and giving an occasional concert . . . Early this year, A and R producer Dave Dexter convinced Van Eps that another album should be recorded . . . He consented and together with Frank Flynn, the album My Guitar was recorded last March . . . Neither van Eps or Flynn set any arrangements in advance . . . van Eps spent a week familiarizing himself with the tune and, before each was played, he and Flynn talked it over and agreed upon an introduction or coda or meeting place . . . "But what happened between the intro and the coda just happened," van Eps said later.

Hovie Lister and the Statesmen Quartet have an LP in Happy Land . . . Lister first organized his quartet more than 10 years ago and since that time they have gone on to become one of the most popular gospel foursomes in the country . . . During that decade, Lister's group has had close to a score of single record gospel hits . . . Fifteen of those songs are presented here in this, their first Capitol album.



Vacation time, when the children are no longer lunching at school, poses new problems for mothers. Lunch-time seems to come around pretty fast, especially if one is not ready for it.

Actually, the feeding of the ravenous horde at home is not so difficult, if one prepares in advance. This consists mainly in having a good supply of the necessary ingredients for making a nutritious and attractive lunch with a minimum of time and labor.

IT HELPS TO have several kinds of bread — white, rye, whole wheat, raisin — and some rolls, crackers and English muffins for warming or toasting. Milk, of course, is a must for children — whole, skim, buttermilk or chocolate milk, plus cream or half-and-half for cereals. Peanut butter, of course — what would home be without peanut butter!

Cheese, of the variety the children like best. Luncheon meats, wieners and chopped meat are handy to have around. Ice cream in several flavors, plus chocolate, butterscotch and other favorite toppings, also nuts.

Summer is the season for fresh fruits, and it is also a good time for fresh vegetables.

SUMMER LUNCHES are more fun out of doors, and children can help prepare them if a picnic atmosphere is created. The food can be put out on a table, preferably under cover from flies and other insects, and eaten in the yard, patio or porch.

Paper plates, cups and napkins and disposable eating utensils help to take the edge off the work load, and children can and should help to clear away after eating.

The exact menus should be varied, and should reflect the likes and dislikes of the family. A good pattern for a summer mid-day meal is a sandwich with meat or cheese or peanut butter, the latter perhaps combined with jelly or honey, plus cool — not too cold — milk, or a milk shake. Add a raw vegetable such as a carrot or cucumbers, or sliced tomatoes, or celery stuffed with cream cheese, and top it off with ice cream or fresh fruit, and you have a balanced meal with a minimum of fuss, and everybody has fun.

IN BERRY SEASON, cereal with berries and half-and-half or cream, make a fine basis for lunch. Children love hot dogs, hamburgers or toasted cheese sandwiches. Crisp bacon and tomato sandwiches, too, are well accepted. Any fresh fruit in season may be served as it comes from the store, but care should be taken to wash all fruits except those that are peeled before eating.

In-between snacks should emphasize fruits and vegetables or dairy products in preference to candy and other sweets. Soft drinks should not crowd out the necessary milk, but they need not be banned, either. (SSD

SUNDAY'S SERMON

EXAMPLE

Just as one picture is worth a thousand words, there is no substitute for parental example in the proper business of "bringing up" children.

Parents who often complain their children do nothing but "fuss and fight" overlook the fact that their own bickering sets the family pattern.

The children in a family must have respect for their parents before they are likely to have respect for one another. If parents are disagreeable, they create an unpleasant environment within the home.

Parents who do not maintain a certain amount of parental dignity suffer a loss of respect. Parents who are inconsistent, in their attitude towards one another, and towards their children, will find their children becoming more quick to question their authority and the wisdom of their decisions.

Parents should evidence mutual respect and trust. Setting an example is accomplished through a course of action and there is no merit in saying, "Don't do as I do; do as I say do."

ALL DIRECT SALESMEN

Do you feel that your experience, time and energy are worth paying well for? Our company—a 198-year-old international concern—has the BEST product in today's FASTEST growing field. Prospects are contacted through voluntary inquiries, appointments, continuous national advertising (Look, Life, Playboy and TV specials, etc.) And there is no canvassing. Commissions, bonuses and insurance benefits are recognized as the most liberal in our industry. Most importantly, we have a product our salesmen are proud to represent. Since it is bought rather than sold, we are not looking specifically for those who can sell refrigerators to Eskimos. We also need honest, personable individuals who are willing to take a proven company sales presentation, work 40 hours a week, and provide themselves with a weekly income ranging from $200 to $500 week after week . . . If this sounds too good to be true, call BR 9-4331 for an interview appointment at our Elmhurst office. This could be the job you've been looking for.

In Appreciation

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Boyd would like to thank the Wheeling Fire and Police Department for their prompt and efficient service in the emergency of July 3rd.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From Mrs. M. A. Taylor, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.: Iremember when Memorial Day was very important. Some 200 young people, from five years to 16 years, were gathered at a small town in Iowa, each carrying a small flag. A drum corps led the way from the town limits to the cemetery . . . many old people who were pioneer settlers in Iowa, and many graves of the Civil War period.

A soldier with a bugle led the procession of 200. "Tramp, tramp, the boys are marching" and many other Civil War and Revolutionary songs were sung. At the cemetery, a youth was stationed at each soldier's grave.

Then, a long period of silence. "1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10" was shouted, guns were fired, flags planted, hats off, flags saluted — then the Star Spangled Banner sung by all.

A lecture was given by some proper official, after which everyone left for a designated eating place.

On one of these days, an electric storm came up at the farm. A white calf, a pet, was killed by lightning. This was 80 years ago and it was a sad day for me.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

HAPPINESS

Ask fifty individuals what it would take to make them happy and probably more than half of them would suggest to you that a certain amount of money would certainly do the job.

This, of course, is not true. Money cannot buy happiness, as the line from many a song points out. Money can solve some problems — the financial kind. Money can bring pleasure, in the form of things that the heart desires.

Money won't buy good health. No amount of money can be used to guarantee a long life. Money cannot buy friendship. Money attracts people. People work for money. With money, you can hire a guitar player or a symphony orchestra. With money you can surround yourself with interesting, witty personalities. But, when the money is gone, so are they.

You can't buy happiness. You have to search it out. And, with the proper perspective, you can find a measure of happiness, even if you still have a problem or two. If you have faith, in yourself, in the goodness of God, you'll meet your problems with determination and confidence.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED USERS

Before you call an ad-visor to place your

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS AD

consider this:

You are about to invest money for an ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results:

1. DON'T OMIT THE ADDRESS

Many out-of-town readers will write you, but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. DON'T OMIT THE PHONE NUMBER

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. DON'T USE BLIND BOX NUMBERS

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. DON'T CONCEAL THE PRICE DESIRED

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. DON'T LEAVE HOME ON THE DAYS YOU ADVERTISE

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. DON'T OMIT IMPORTANT WORDS TO SAVE MONEY

Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and amount to much less in the long run.

7. DON'T OVERLOOK OUR LOWER RATE FOR CONSECUTIVE INSERTIONS

You'll get the biggest parade of readers at the lowest price. Your Needs Satisfied thru Paddock Publications Classified.

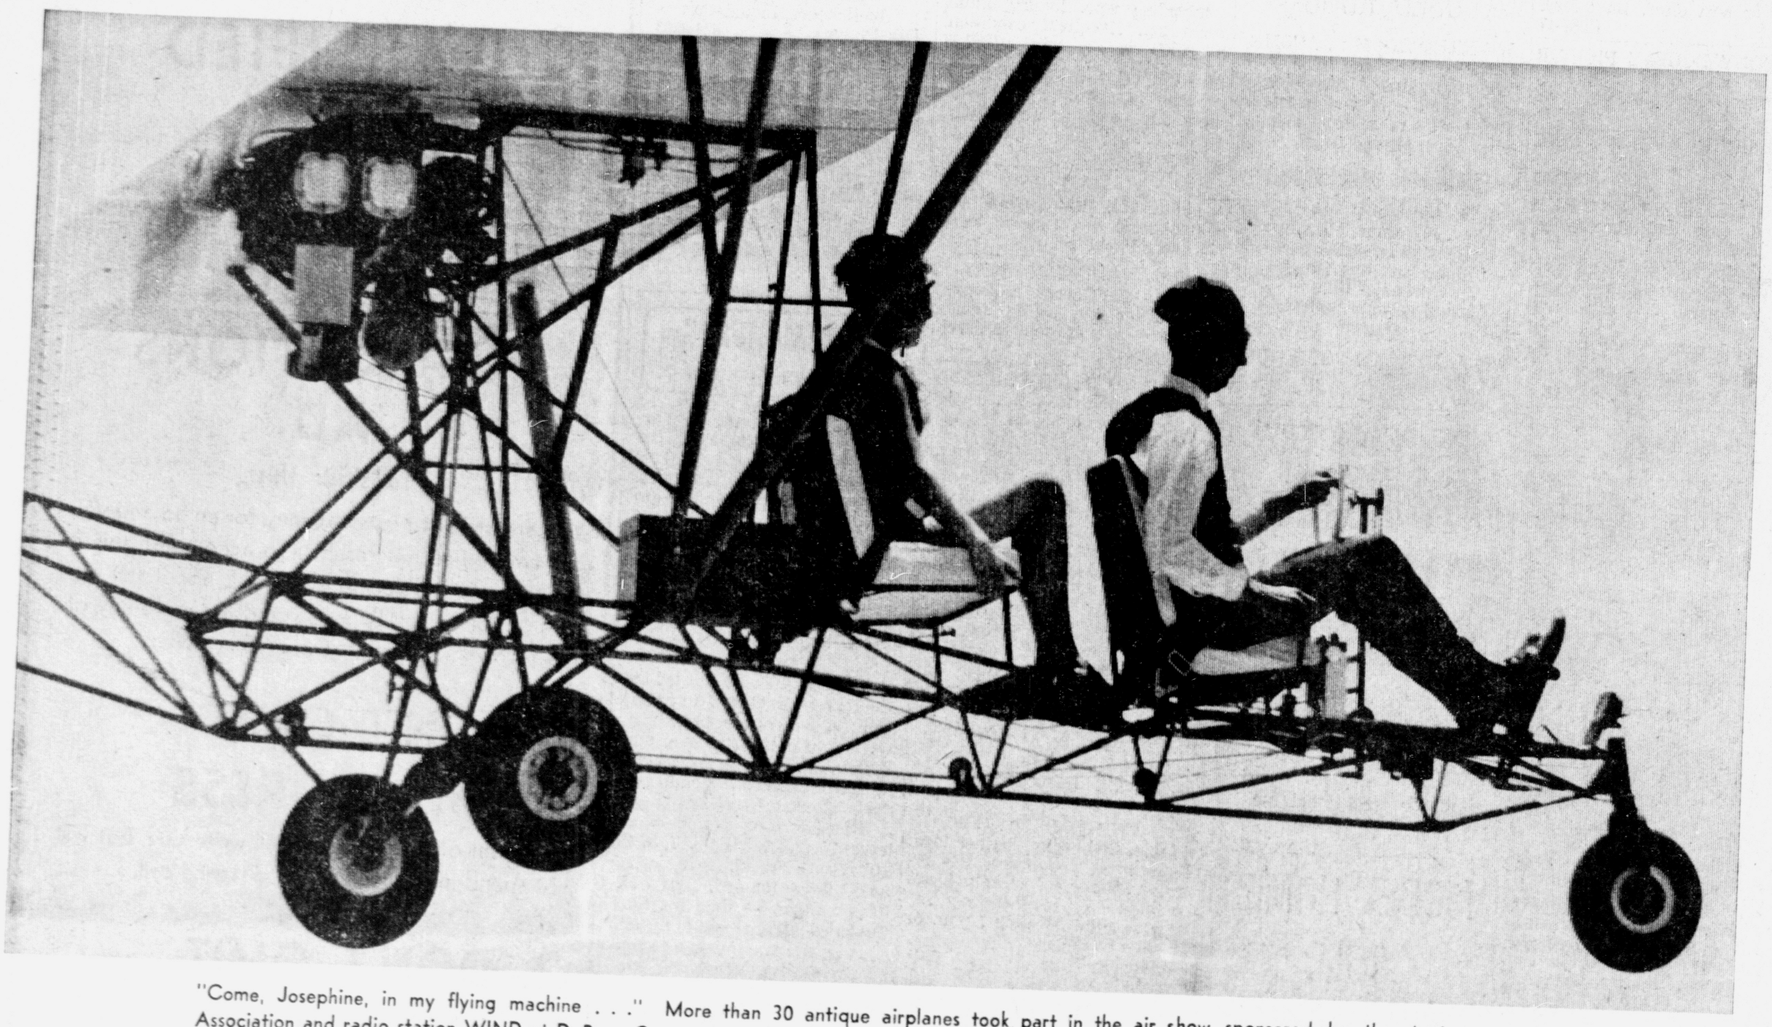
. . . And Away We'll Go!



"Come, Josephine, in my flying machine . . ." More than 30 antique airplanes took part in the air show sponsored by the Antique Aircraft Association and radio station WIND at DuPage County Airport Saturday and Sunday. In spite of the heat, some 75,000 persons turned out to watch.
